Consolidation Jam Resignation Cause

Carolina's Jim Adams Leaves CUSC Post; Horton Stands Behind Reasons For Quitting

Carolina's head man in the Consolidated University Student Council, Jim Adams, resigned yesterday saying that the group has "served only as a gag for student opinion."

Adams declared in his resignation to President Ham Horton, "I can no longer carry out the duties of such an office when I feel that this feature (the CUSC) of the program of consolidation has accomplished little, if anything at all. On the contrary, it has, in my opinion, served only as a gag for the expression of student opinion, especially on this campus."

Bulletin

MOSCOW, March 5—Josef Stalin died yesterday afternoon and the Russian Sickle became a question mark.

The 73-year old premier died at 1:50 p.m. (E.S.T.). The death was announced by Radio Moscow at 8 o'clock last night. No successor was named, but the man marked as likely to step in as premier are Georgi Malenkov or V. M. Molotov, both deputy prime ministers. Former MVD chief L. P. Beria also was mentioned as a possible successor.

President Eisenhower sent "condolences from the people of the United States to the people of the U.S.S.R."

Jewish Appeal Speaker Here Tonight At 7:30

Mordecai Hacothen, former director of personnel and administration of the Israel Ministry for Foreign Affairs, will speak at Hille House today at 7:30 p.m. in behalf of the Jewish Appeal.

The United Jewish Appeal, of which the Chapel Hill Appeal is a part, is the largest voluntary American agency for support of immigration, settlement, welfare and rehabilitation programs in Israel, Europe, North Africa, the Middle East and the United States.

Established in 1939, it has saved and helped a total of 2,240,000 victims of war, oppression, and destitution. The UJA's 1953 drive is its 15th successive nation-wide drive.

Hacothen has appeared on radio and television programs throughout the United States. He recently completed a survey of 36 states in the United States and Canada under the auspices of the Technical Assistance Administration of the United Nations.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL — Allied warplanes unleashed an orgy of fiery destruction over North Korea yesterday. It concluded a record 1,000-mile round trip fighter-bomber smash within 50 miles of Russia's Siberian border. Sabre jets tangled five times with Communist MIG-15's, but pilots made no claims of damaging any Red aircraft.

WASHINGTON — Gen. James A. Van Fleet declared yesterday that the U. S. must win a military victory in Korea to maintain the "prestige, honor, and influence" of this nation in world affairs. Van Fleet favors extension of the present draft period to 30 or 36 months because "the boys would be better prepared and would have a better chance of coming back alive from combat." But he added that the extra time would be spent in training and not on the front lines. However, President Eisenhower is not in favor of Van Fleet's proposal.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said yesterday that if the investigations led by Sen. McCarthy get into the fields which might cause damage or misunderstanding, it would be up to the president to try to improve the situation. But Eisenhower told his news conference he will try to avoid a situation in which he might have to express his views.

Student As Trustee Is Ken's Plea

The Student Party presidential hopeful yesterday said he would like to see students represented with a seat on the university's 100-man Board of Trustees.

Ken Penegar said he favored this "in order that student opinion might be consulted before board decisions are made."

Penegar also answered a challenge of opponent Bob Gorham (UP) "to debate the issues of the campaign." Penegar's complete statement:

"Well, as I said two weeks ago in a statement to The Daily Tar Heel, I want to discuss every problem common to all of us as students with the students themselves and my opponents. Rather than a formal debate in which the by-standing student has no part, I am re-challenging my opponents to a discussion of current problems in every University-owned living unit on campus and to any other house where we are invited.

"In such discussions I think the candidates should put forth their ideas on how best to meet current problems, so that the students might have some basis for comparison of the candidates, then if a student's point of view is not represented by either candidate, he could advance his own ideas.

"While we should listen to such suggestions, a candidate in my opinion should start out with some ideas of his own tempered with majority will after all, that is why we have our representative democracy.

"Two weeks ago I made three specific proposals on matters of importance to all of us (these dealt with a civil service system for appointments, a bond issue for a new student activities center and a proposal for a removal from politics of Student Council nominations — a proposal supported by my party in the Legislature).

"I think it is interesting to note that we have yet to hear from the opposition on these matters.

"Today I should like to add a fourth proposal—that student government attempt to secure a seat on the University Board of Trustees for students in order that student opinion might be consulted before board decisions are made.

Again I am suggesting that a positive type campaign based on problems of legitimate concern to students and our self-government would be best for the campus. Perhaps I am mistaken, but I believe the students want and certainly deserve a mature campaign.

"In the realm of the student entertainment series, I don't believe that the student is getting his money's worth there. Less than half of our student body is able to attend the presentations at a time. The students would have the final say of course, but one solution would be a partial subscription system something like the Community Concert series. I wonder if Mr. Gorham would commit himself on this issue.

"In a mature campaign there is no room for self-pitying sympathy (See PENEGAR, page 2)

Valkyries Honor Four

CARMAN NAHM

PEPPER STETSON

MARY ANNA GLOD

DOT SMITH

Smith, Nahm, Stetson, Glod Given Honor

The resonant gong of the Valkyries sounded early this morning and it meant initiation for four coeds into the campus' highest women's honorary society.

Tapped were Mary Anna Glod, Carman Nahm, Dot Smith and Pepper Stetson. For the quartet it meant recognition of qualities based on service, scholarship, leadership and character.

Miss Glod is a senior from Castle Hayne, N. C. She has served as president of Smith Dormitory, been active in the Women's Glee Club, Women's Residence Council and the Inter-Faith Council. She also is president of the Newman Club and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority. Miss Glod is an education major.

Miss Nahm is a political science major from DeLand, Fla. Chairman of the Women's Honor Council, Miss Nahm also took part in coed orientation and the University Club. She has had high scholastic marks. The Florida miss also has served on the Pan-Hellenic Council, been a member of the Splash Club and last Spring was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. She is a Pi Beta Phi.

From Spencer, W. Va., Miss Smith has worked in varied fields at the University. She has been a member of the Student Legislature, secretary of the University Party and the Senior Class. As an art major she has done work for the Yackety Yack and the coed handbook. She is on the Pan-Hellenic Council, Carboard and the YWCA Art and Publicity Committee. Miss Smith is a Delta Delta Delta. Last Spring she was awarded a scholarship honor.

Miss Stetson is president of Delta Delta Delta. This Spring she will head the Leadership Training Program for coed officers for the next school year. She is on the Women's Honor Council, the Pan-Hellenic Council and a member of the Splash and Hockey Clubs. She also is a sponsor for the AF ROTC. A senior from West Chester, Pa., she is majoring in recreation. Miss Stetson makes high grades.

The coeds will wear ribbons today to denote their initiation into the Valkyries.

10-State Theatre Meet Convenes Here Today

Theater workers from 10 Southeastern states convene on campus today and tomorrow for the fourth annual meeting of the Southeastern Theater Conference, with the Carolina Playmakers as host organization and headquarters in their theater.

Registration will begin at 9:30 this morning at the theater. A luncheon session at Hille House will feature John Gassner, noted

New York drama critic and author, as keynote speaker for the conference. Gassner will speak on "Concepts of National Theater."

This afternoon at 2:30 a panel on "The Expanding Theater" will feature Nicholas C. Read, president of Potomac Film Productions, Washington, Norman Corson, director of the North Carolina Music Program, Graydon Ausmus of the University of Alabama Radio Department, and Earl Wynn, director of the Communication Center, as speakers. Delegates will be guests of the Playmakers at tonight's performance of "A Ballad for Jeannie," at 8:30.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, Emmett Robinson of the Charleston, S. C. Footlight Art Department, and Kermit Hunter, Chapel Hill playwright, will participate in a panel entitled "New Horizons."

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, tryouts will be held in the Forest Theater for actors and technicians for seven summer companies: "The Lost Colony," Mantea, "Unto These Hills," Cherokee, "Horn in the West," Boone, and (See THEATRE, page 4)

Carolina Dance Groups To Visit Greensboro, Durham

The University Square Dance Club will give a demonstration tomorrow night in Greensboro at the N. C. Square Dance Festival.

Those participating will be Marion Smith, Joyce Gouge, Angus McCormick, Roberta Jones, Tom Greer, Dot Aeschleman, Annie Nicholson and Tommy Hopkins.

The modern dance group will present some original dances at the Workshop in Durham tomorrow. Members of that group will be Janet Green, Marion Smith, Claire Frank, Barbara Munnaw and Joan Mathos.

Objection Sustained

Razors And Ink Censor 'Fun' From Gopher Humor Magazine

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 5—(Special) — The University of Minnesota's recent issue of Technology, campus humor magazine, came out yesterday, but not in one piece.

The "objectionable" humor was sliced out with razor blades or covered over with penetrating ink. Altogether, four pages had sections cut out and one page had two jokes obliterated with ink. Editor Bob Bevenssee and several staff members decided to "voluntarily" cut out the offending humor.

Bevenssee told the local student senate committee on student affairs yesterday afternoon that "since the decision to remove certain objectionable material from the February issue would eventually be made by someone," he and the Technology board decided they should do it themselves. In deleting the "objectionable" humor, Bevenssee said the recommendations of the senate committee on student affairs sub-committee were followed.

The actual cutting of the 2,400 magazines was done Saturday and Monday afternoons by the Technology staff, board and several coeds. Bevenssee said future issues this spring will be reviewed before publication by the editor and a Technology board committee.

Dean of Students E. G. Williamson said, "I'm very glad students have taken action although I'm sure the action was not wholly satisfactory to all the students." Williamson also added, "The editor's effort to correct the situation is generally commendable."

Most Mest Hostess

'Awful Lot' Of Walking At Hospital

By Sally Schindel

This is another in a series of periodic articles on the Medical Center and its personnel.

"I walk at least three miles every day."

But Mrs. Barbara Walsler, hostess of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, has a job which includes many other duties besides an "awful lot of walking."

According to this pert, blue-eyed graduate of Carolina, the primary work of the hostess is to acquaint the people of the state with the facilities of the hospital so they will know how the taxpayer's money is spent and also to help the average person overcome his fears and misgivings about hospitals in general.

These duties include such things as acting as guide to various clubs and interested groups which come to see the hospital. Doctors from throughout the state come to acquaint themselves with the facilities so they can send their local patients here for special treatment if necessary. These groups may vary in number from two to two hundred persons in one day.

An even more fascinating aspect of the hospital tours, reports the hostess, is the foreign public health officials and doctors who "want to know everything about the hospital inside and out." These professional men come from all over the world.

In connection with the tours, the hostess is in charge of training volunteer guides and of charting the routes for large tours so each of five groups could leave a given spot 10 minutes apart and not bump into each other—a pretty difficult undertaking unless well acquainted with the plan of the hospital.

When not busy with tours, Mrs. Walsler "flits around doing different jobs kind of like a jack of all trades." This might entail helping in the administrative office with secretarial work, organizing schedules for reserving conference space in the hospital, keeping track of all movie equipment, blackboards, and other visual aid equipment or any other odd job that may arise as a result of her being number one on the "stand by" list for anything special that may come up.

Mrs. Walsler began work on her public relations type job on July 1 although the hospital was then not quite completed. In order to learn about the setup of the building and the placement of the various departments she had to "poke around" with a flashlight in every cluttered nook and cranny. At that time names weren't even on doors and other identifying factors were just not there.

In spite of her early orientation period and thorough knowledge of the various departments, she still feels like "Miss Wide Eyed" because, "being unfamiliar with hospitals before coming here, I am still amazed at this tremendous new medical center."

In summarizing her job, the hostess says, "it's wonderful to know how many individuals are interested in the hospital and at the same time satisfying to feel you are helping them to know and understand their hospital."

Mrs. Walsler is the former Barbara Merrill, Tri Delt and member of the class of '52; she was also a cheerleader and sorority house president.

YMCA Nominating Committee

The YMCA Nominating Committee will meet at noon tomorrow in the Y office.

Parent's Day

Parent's Day at the University will be held Sunday, May 3, Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity announced yesterday.

The sponsors of the annual event plan an open house at Morehead Planetarium, guided campus tours and a picnic among the events.

Variety Show Being Readied For Sunday

The Variety Show of the Campus Chest, previously scheduled for this past Wednesday, will be presented in Memorial Hall Sunday night at 8:30, concluding the international phase of the Campus Chest drive.

John Taylor, chairman of the production, has assembled the cast for the show using many Playmaker stars for leading parts. Costumes, stage setting and direction has also been done in connection with the Playmakers.

The show will include songs, dances, and straight comedy numbers with most of the material used coming from Broadway successes.

Among the lineup of numbers will be a beauty contest, a "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" dance, a take-off on the First Drama Quartette, "Love Is a Simple Thing" and "He Takes Me Off His Income Tax" from "New Faces of 1952."

"Bushel and a Pack" from "Guys and Dolls," "Make a Miracle," from "Where's Charlie?," a parody on foreign films and other attractions will be featured.

Ann Miller, Betty Vickery, Edgar Daniels and Billy Barnes along with Taylor are doing the planning and direction of the show. As set up, the Variety Show will be a musical comedy revue spotlighting, for the most part, girls.

Students and faculty members having contributed to the Campus Chest will be admitted free. Anyone missed by the campaign solicitors, who conclude their rounds tonight, will be able to contribute at the door at that time.
