UP Announces Platform With Fifteen Points

The University Party came forth yesterday with a Spring election platform of 15 planks, some with an unusual twist.

One point the UP said it will work for if given governmental power by the voters is to have dormitory beds made up daily by janitors. They will seek to reorganize

The UP has challenged the SP to a debate tonight in Alderman Dorm at 8:15 p.m. A second challenge has been issued for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Cobb.

the Consolidated University Student Council, believing it has "a definite place in our system of government."

The UP platform deals mainly with issues much discussed currently and in the past. It agrees, in fact, with four of these which were included the Student Party's platform released last week.

UP and SP planks in agreement are: cigaret and candy machines in dormitories, a new student union building, visiting privileges for women in men's dorms, and improvements in the advisor system.

The UP platform carries the statement, "You have made these suggestions; we pledge to carry them out!" And listed beneath are the 15 planks.

The rest of the platform makes these promises:

"Carolina first! . . . to do every thing within our power to uphold Carolina's fine reputation and to further this in every way."

"Continuation of the Tarnation. UP brought Tarnation back to Carolina . . . we further our pledge."

"A revitalized program of social activities for the weekends."

"Fewer restrictions on student nurses . . . all coeds should be equal in their privileges."

"Closer relationship between the IDC and the IFC."

"The president be allowed to attend faculty meetings."

"President of the YMCA as a member of the student government cabinet."

Bop To Bach Offered Free

From Carolina folk songs to Carnegie Hall long hair stuff, the Graham Memorial record library has it.

And it's yours to use free. Some 310 albums of classics, semiclassicals, popular, hillbilly and band marches are available at the student union office. Upon presentation of his ID card, a student may check the albums out for four days at a time.

The records have been classified by the Student Union Activities Board Music Committee for easy selection.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — Flabbergasted State Department officials in Washington yesterday took an opposite view from that reflected in the happy headlines that Korean prisoner of war repatriation had been effected. A high source said "There is absolutely no basis for the optimism at present." Correspondents had reported an agreement had been reached to exchange all prisoners including sick and wounded, but diplomats said official secret dispatches reaching them from the UN truce negotiators were at wide variance with these reports. "Nothing of any consequence has been reached," a spokesman added. No one could explain the mixup.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Officers grappled with a serious problem of vandalism yesterday in this resort city swarming with about 15,000 college students on spring vacation. Coconuts have been hurled through hotel lobby and automobile windows. Dead fish, including a six foot hammerhead shark, have been tossed into swimming pools. A group of teen-agers stole a city bus and abandoned it after a drive. A city water tower was smeared with paint. Glass cases on the beach displayed large mounted fish have been smashed and the fish thrown into the streets. Police Chief Roland R. Kelley warned yesterday that unless the students quickly learn the difference between good-natured pranks and vandalism, "some of them are going back to school with criminal records."

SALISBURY — Rowan County men began brushing up their beards yesterday in preparation for a visit here by President Eisenhower April 16 in celebration of the county's 200th birthday. The White House announced Mr. Eisenhower will fly here April 16 for an off-the-cuff speech in the 2,000 seat high school stadium, giving local residents a chance to see him in something besides his pajamas.

3 One-Act Plays Set Openings

Three new one-act plays by student playwrights will be on view tonight and tomorrow at the Playmakers Theatre, with curtains at 7:30.

Entirely student produced, the plays are under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons of the Playmakers staff. There is no admission charge.

"Hi, Sir," by James Leonard of Trappe, Md., is a bright and slightly sarcastic comedy of the feud between regular army and reservists in Korea. Its cast includes Hal England of Kings Mountain, James Fouts of Lexington, Billy Barnes of Wilson, Donald Treat of Chapel Hill and George Belk of Williamsburg, Va. It is directed by Cyril Lang of East Orange, N. J.

Lang's drama, "The Mute," an unusual study of the last hours of a condemned murderer, features Tommy Rezzuto of Asheville, William Trotman of Winston-Salem, Neta Whitley of New Bern, John Miller of Signal Mt., Tenn., James Leonard, Dan Reid of Raleigh, Donald Treat and Carl Williams of Charlotte. Student director is Anne Edwards of New Bern.

"Little Wonder," a light-hearted spoof on the susceptibility of housewives to salesmen, is directed by Mary Virginia Morgan of Byhalia, Miss., and was written by Donald Deagon of Chapel Hill. The players are Mary Helen Crain of Durham, Charles Billings of Dudley, Ken Oliver of Chatham, Va., Edgar Daniels, Raleigh, John Stockard, Greensboro, James Gillikin, Atlantic and Carl Williams.

Carolina Lags Far Behind In Blood Drive

Only 224 donors showed up at Graham Memorial yesterday to boost the two-day total pints of blood given to 400, far short of the 1,009-pint goal.

Today is the final day in the current UNC drive. There was hope that UNC would beat Duke University in the number of pints given, but a drive official said yesterday it would be impossible unless more students turn out today.

The blood donations are being taken in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. It is described as a painless process that requires only about 30 minutes.

Appointments may be made by calling 9-1881 or 5611. The lounge will be open at 11 o'clock this morning and close at 5 p.m.

Tomorrow afternoon, a field day will be held at Navy Field. An award will be presented the winner of this event. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night the pledges will take part in Stunt Night at Memorial Hall.

On Friday afternoon at 1:30, pledges will go to the new Methodist Church on the outskirts of Chapel Hill where they will clear the land around the church building.

Jobs For Graduating Seniors Plentiful With Record Salaries

Starting salaries for much-sought June graduates is estimated about $25, or five to 10 percent better than last year or any year previous. According to one placement director, "very few seniors will have to hunt for jobs—the jobs are coming to them."

Placement officers of some 50 colleges and universities across the country estimated starting salaries for June graduates will average well over $300 a month, and some specially trained students are considering "bids" as high as $600.

There are plenty opportunities for non-specialized liberal arts graduates, although engineers, accountants, sales personnel and teachers appear to head the list for job opportunities.

Although it is estimated that 50 to 85 percent of the male class of 1953 will be working for Uncle Sam before the year is out, the University of Tennessee reported 95 percent of business and industry recruiters are willing to hire young men for whatever training period is possible before their draft numbers come up, counting on their return to the job after discharge.

Estimates on the demand for engineering graduates ranged from a conservative two jobs for every graduate at Carnegie Institute of Technology to a frantic report from Kansas State College where 80 firms are battling for 24 June graduates in mechanical engineering.

At Buffalo State Teachers College there are five jobs offered for every graduate. Only five colleges reported that demand was less than last year for graduates in specific fields, and in each case the opposite was true at one or more other colleges.

Entries Open To Ugliest Man At University

Once again, Theta Chi fraternity, in connection with the annual University Club carnival, is sponsoring its "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest.

The winner in the election, which is a penny-a-vote contest, will be presented at the carnival on April 17.

The deadline for entering contestants will be Saturday and a picture of each aspirant must be turned in to Bob Skillen at the Theta Chi house before that date.

No make-up may be used in the pictures; only natural photographs and natural distortions of the face will be acceptable. ID cards may be used.

Voting will take place in the 'Y' court the week of April 13 to 17.

It is expected that each fraternity, sorority and dormitory on campus will sponsor a candidate. However, independent candidates are welcome, according to Chairman Skillen.

The winners will be given various prizes donated by Chapel Hill merchants, and in addition, a date with Sigma Chi's "Miss Modern Venus of 1953."

Proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society.

Lowet Plan Is Protect Courts From Politics

Henry Lowet, non-partisan selection board endorsed candidate for student council, yesterday released a pre-election statement.

"I feel," said Lowet, "that a candidate for the highest student court should have had a variety of experiences as well as good contact with individual students in order to understand their problems."

Lowet listed the following experience and qualifications: UN Committee chairman, dormitory manager, student legislature, State student legislature, Di Senate, Arnold Air Society and Orientation Counsellor.

"The best thing that has ever happened to the student courts was to take them out of politics," said Lowet. "I believe they should be protected from political mis-handling in the future."

Students Lose If Move Made, Erickson Says

The athletic department sawed part of the Student Party's platform out from under it yesterday with an explanation on athletic fees.

"That is the most ridiculous suggestion I have ever heard of," commented Director of Athletics C. P. (Chuck) Erickson on one of the leading campaign promises.

The controversial issue was a pledge by the SP to abolish payment of fees to the Athletic Association. The campus political party wants abolition of both the $10 gym fee and the $3.33 Carolina Athletic Association fee which all students pay each quarter.

On the $3.33 fee Erickson said, "The students alone would lose by such a move." Then he went on to explain the uses of the Athletic Association fee.

The fee entitles the student, in part, to admission to UNC athletic events, use of outdoor facilities, provides for the upkeep of facilities, salaries of coaches, pays for athletic equipment and makes up the loss incurred by every Carolina sport, except football.

As for the $10 gym fee, the athletic director said, "The fee was instituted by the students themselves, and the Athletic Association has never raised it. The fee is $10 and gives each student at least $90 a year in benefits."

The $10 fee pays for all gym expenses, including janitorial service and approximately $12,000 yearly to pay the bond issue originally floated to build the gym.

Student Party politicians have been particularly keen on this platform idea, and have stressed it throughout the campaign as one of their leading issues. Gordon Forrester, SP treasurer candidate, has deplored the fact that students who don't participate in the athletic program have to pay the fee.

Vernon Crook, Athletic Association business manager, recently finished a report to Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University. It deals with the fees, along with other matters. The report also touches on the history of the fee.

In 1876 the students banded together and taxed themselves to support the physical education program, which includes all athletics, according to Crook's report.

In 1913 a petition, signed by 551 of approximately 800 students enrolled in the University, requested that the Board of Trustees originate a fee not less than $2.50 nor more than $3 per quarter. It is still rather ambiguous just how the fee went up the extra 33 cents, according to the report.

Student fees comprise about one-eighth of the athletic fund. In the fall quarter, a student may see over $18 worth of football games as a member of the Athletic Association.

"The Athletic Association would make more money without the student fund plan, but we have never tampered with it because the students provided for it," Erickson said.

"We are in favor of the fee plan because it gives each student a part in Carolina Athletics. If a student is a member, he will be more prone to participate. The teams need support from the student body, and a student body with spirit is a great asset to the University as a whole. If the students didn't pay the fee, fewer would participate," Erickson added.

Students now have a voice in the Athletic Association through three student members on the Athletic Council. The student members of the Council are the president of the student body, Monogram Club president and Carolina Athletic Association president.

Big Doings This Saturday In Greensboro

Students from UNC, NC State, and WC will meet at Women's College in Greensboro Saturday to observe Consolidated University Day.

Betty Otto Anderson, Port St. Joe, Fla., and Manning Muntzing, Moorfield, W. Va., are co-chairmen of UNC's portion of the annual celebration.

Activities for the weekend will begin Saturday afternoon with pool, skating, bowling, ping-pong and other games in the gymnasium at WC. Dinner will be served cafeteria style from 5 to 6.

Linc Smith and his orchestra will furnish music for Saturday night's dance in the new student union ballroom from 8:30 until 12. Also on the agenda for Saturday night are a talent show from 7:30 to 8:30. Talent from all three branches of the university will take part in the show.

A different branch of the Consolidated University plays host to the program each year. UNC was the site of the celebration last year.

SUAB Meeting Today At 4:30

The Student Union Activities Board will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 for all committee chairmen, committee members and anyone interested in student activities and entertainment.

Purpose of the meeting, which will be held in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2, is to acquaint the students with the various SUAB committees and their functions.

Highlights of committee programs for the Spring Quarter will be given by the chairmen of the following committees: dance, publicity, tournaments, music, display, forum, office, student-faculty, film, outings, receptions, polls, special services and calendar.

Independent Coed Board
The Independent Coed Board will hold open house in the main lounge of Graham Memorial tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m.
