Transportation, Traffic Course In BA School

The University School of Business Administration here has opened up a new major area to be known as "Transportation and Traffic."

The new major takes its place beside the already established areas of accounting, finance, insurance, marketing, personnel, production and combined business administration-law.

Plans for this new area were developed over the past year under the leadership of Prof. C. H. Gregory (then chairman of the curriculum committee), and Associate Prof. J. C. D. Blaine with the active support of the North Carolina Traffic League and groups representing the various types of transportation in the State.

A. H. Lathrop, General Traffic Manager of American Enka Corporation, served as chairman of a cooperating committee of the League, representing the League, the railroads, the motor carriers and the airlines.

The student entering this program will follow the required pattern for the University, spending the first two years in the General College to receive a foundation in such areas as natural science, mathematics, the humanities and social science. Included here are geography, English, government and basic economics and business administration.

In his third year, upon transferring to the School of Business Administration, he will be required to complete courses designated to provide the necessary broad foundation for business administration, including the areas of economics, business law, marketing, finance, accounting personnel and production.

He will also be provided with four comprehensive courses especially directed to the professional aspects of the field, including transportation regulation and rates, industrial traffic management, the analysis of practical problems in industrial traffic management and in carrier traffic operations.

NC Symphony Sets Concert

Noted Violinist To Play Here With Orchestra

By Tom Neal Jr.
It's a new approach to music when a brilliant concert violinist can truthfully say "the role of the musician is that of an interpreter; he should carry out what the composer feels and put himself in the background."

But these are the words of an internationally-known violinist, Beatrice Griffin, who is concertmistress here with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra in its local concert at Memorial Hall next Wednesday night at 8:30.

"Charlotte Cushman, who was a cousin of mine, has set an example for my life," Miss Griffin continued. "She was a great artist, and a great woman as well." The nationally-known cousin of Miss Griffin was a nineteenth century operatic star and tragic actress whose greatest successes were in Shakespearean dramas, and whose best-loved role was Lady Macbeth.

Miss Griffin, American in ancestry and education, has studied violin under the guidance of such eminent teachers as Emanuel and Karl Ondricek, Richard Burgin, Ilya Scholnik and Leopold Auer.

Following her travel, study and concert appearances in Europe and Cuba, Miss Griffin concertized extensively throughout this country. When she returned to European engagements, Miss Griffin settled in Scandinavia where she gave concerts in the music capitals of Sweden, Norway, Finland and Denmark.

She also appeared in concerts at the Royal Castle and Rosendahl Castle in Stockholm before King Gustav of Sweden and the Royal Family. During World War II, she was presented decorations by Swedish royalty and the Finnish Government for her efforts on behalf of wounded soldiers, for whom she played innumerable concerts.

"Those soldiers... those helpless war victims... were such an appreciative lot," Miss Griffin said. "They must have felt the spirit of the music—its real spiritual value—because the doctors in Helsinki's hospital commented to me that music to those soldiers had certainly proved a healing agent."

Miss Griffin is one of those rare musicians who are characterized by a warmth that penetrates her audiences. Music-goers to the North Carolina Symphony concerts have repeatedly said that Miss Griffin radiates her feelings in such a manner that her listeners immediately feel an intense liking for her. This is her fourth season with the Tar Heel orchestra.

An example of how Miss Griffin affects her listeners was shown through an experience with the late Henry Ford. Although Mr. Ford had never been a music enthusiast, when he heard Miss Griffin, it is reported that he became more interested in concert music, and even lent Miss Griffin an excellent violin that the Ford family owned.

In addition to her solo work with the State Symphony, Miss Griffin has had extensive engagements with such symphonies in this country as the St. Louis, Detroit, and Philadelphia orchestras; and with many Scandinavian orchestras.

During the summer, Miss Griffin spends her time in Vermont, vacationing and playing concerts there and in Boston. Her home is in Chapel Hill.

The North Carolina Symphony, in its eighth annual tour throughout the Tar Heel State from January 21-May 14. With a total of 140 annual concerts, the orchestra plays half of its programs—free—to Tar Heel school youngsters. Last year more than 125,000 school children heard the symphony.

A Bond in the hand... means more money for you!

New law says: Defense Bonds can earn interest for 10 more years—at 3%!

Do you own U. S. Series E Defense Bonds that are maturing now? Then here's wonderful news: You can hold those bonds for ten more years, while they continue to earn interest at a rate of 3% compounded semi-annually!

Think what this means: The bond you invested in at $18.75 can now pay you back $33.67... a $37.50 bond can pay you back $67.34... and so on.

Yes, the new Bond Law makes it possible for you to get this extra profit (as much as 80% on your original investment!), with no extra effort on your part. Just hold your bonds.

The ten-year extra earning privilege applies to all bonds. What's more, every bond you get now starts earning interest sooner and matures earlier—at 3%. Of course, you may still cash any Series E Bond two months after purchase. But you'll be smart to hold your bonds—let them keep earning interest for you!

Strengthen your own future and the future of your country. Join the Payroll Savings Plan!

If you're not already among the wise Americans who are investing in a secure future, why not start now? Invest in Defense Bonds regularly... through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Seven million Americans have found it's one sure way to save, because it saves something out of every paycheck before you're tempted to spend it! Join the Payroll Savings Plan today.

3 new money-making opportunities for you! New Series H, J, and K Defense Bonds pay 2.76% to 3%!

If you want to get the interest on your bonds in the form of current income, or if you want to invest more than the annual limit for E Bonds, ask at your bank for descriptive folders about these new bonds:

SERIES H. A new current income bond, available in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Sold at par. Matures in 9 years 8 months and pays an average 3% interest per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semi-annually by Treasury check. Annual limit, $20,000 maturity value.

SERIES J. A new 12-year appreciation bond, available in denominations of $25 to $100,000. Sold at 72% of par value. Pays 2.76% compounded semi-annually if held to maturity. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series K Bonds.

SERIES K. A new 12-year current-income bond in denominations of $500 to $100,000. Pays interest semi-annually by Treasury check at the rate of 2.76% per annum. Sold at par. Annual limit, $200,000 issue price jointly with Series J Bonds.

Now even better! Invest more in Defense Bonds!
