Model UN Assembly Notes:

Soviet Says Agreement Reached With Iranians

The Soviet delegation to the United Nations Model Assembly announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached with Iran over the distribution of Iranian oil.

Fred Crawford, chairman of the Russian delegation, said that Russia will buy 40 per cent of the annual Iranian oil output, supply technicians for the development of oil resources, and support the government.

At the suggestion of Ray Long, the Iranian representative, the caviar supply from the Caspian Sea will continue to be controlled under the present arrangement.

An unnamed, but unimpeachable source, close to the Iranian tinsmith situation, said the success of this agreement depends on the repeal of the present UN plan. The plan, which has Great Britain in control of the oil with a third party arbitrating, "will be fought bitterly," Crawford told reporters yesterday.

He attacked the West by saying, "We are absolutely pledged to break the western capitalist countries economic domination of the eastern countries."

"Great Britain has tried to subjugate the people of Iran," he added. "Russia is interested only in the oil. It is only by their unfavorable balance of power that the western countries have been able to impose such measures on the people of the East."

The Russian delegation also charged that the United States and Great Britain had set up the program and schedule without conferring with the Soviet. It was further disclosed that the Russian delegation was displeased with the operation of the Mock Assembly, and had almost withdrawn for this reason.

The recognition of nations not already in the UN is expected to cause a heated discussion when the Model Assembly convenes tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Hill Hall. Russia has hinted recently that they may attempt to get a seat for Red China in the UN.

Shaw Students Will Visit Here

Approximately 40 students from Shaw University, the Negro College at Raleigh, will be guests of the Carolina Baptist Student Union at the group's regular Sunday night Supper Forum Sunday.

Supper will be served at 6:30 instead of the usual 6 o'clock hour, Bill Cash, Supper Forum Chairman said yesterday.

Following the meal, a panel discussion centering around the question "Is Christianity Practical" will be held. The panel will be made up of four students, two from Shaw and two from UNC. Representing Carolina on the panel will be Ed Ramseur, graduate student from Lenoirville, and Bob Hughes, undergraduate from Asheville.

The audience will also get a chance to take part in the discussion, with a twenty-minute period being set aside for open discussion after talks by those on the panel.

After the open discussion, a play featuring four Carolina students will be presented. The name of this play has not yet been announced.

A social hour will conclude the evening's program.

GM Director

Deadline for applications for the position of director of Graham Memorial is near, Ken Penegar, chairman of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors said yesterday.

Applications are still being received at the Dean of Students office, South Building. The position was vacated last week when Bill Roth, present director, resigned to accept a position in professional Scouting.

Penegar was reelected as chairman at the board meeting. The Board will meet with its personal committee next Wednesday, 7 p.m. in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial.

Gorham Takes Oath For Top Campus Post

Bob Gorham took office last night with a pledge and some policy principles.

"I have some pretty definite ideas about campus politics here at Carolina," said the UP president to the student government banquet at Lenoir Hall. "I realize that they must exist as a means of promoting good student government, but student government must also exist as a means of promoting good campus politics."

Gorham said the "solution to our problem" is that we "must use common sense in all our dealings."

The student government banquet marked the beginning of terms for many and the end of terms for others. Vice-president Jim McLeod received the traditional gavel before yielding his seat to new vice-president Baxter Miller.

"We must take stock of what our plans and ideas are," declared Gorham. "Concerning a certain matter, it is wise to be non-partisan, we must recognize this fact and act accordingly. In cases where there is room and reason for partisanship, we should proceed along such lines." He added that by doing this "we can maintain a high level in student government and politics."

Following the banquet the new legislators held their first session in Phi Hall, during which they were sworn in and elected officers.

Ted Frankel, Student Council chairman, administered the oath of office to members of the Women's Honor Council, Men's Honor Council, the vice-president and president.

The DTH Gets New Odor Along With A New Editor

The Daily Tar Heel not only changed editors this week, it also took on a new air. The paper is now being printed with perfumed ink, Cashmere Bouquet variety.

A specially-prepared perfume transfers the fragrant odors onto the paper via printing press ink rollers at The News, Inc. printing plant in Hillsboro.

DR. BENJAMIN F. SWALIN, distinguished conductor of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, will bring his nationally-known, 65 piece orchestra here next Wednesday. The musicians will play a free, children's program at 2 o'clock that afternoon, followed by an adult, evening concert at Memorial Hall at 8:15.

Charlotte Couple Responsible For Matrimonied Student Idea

By Jerry Cassidy Married students used to be a great curiosity at Carolina.

However, for Mr. and Mrs. Graham Lawrence of Glen Lennox, being married at the University in 1928 was so much fun, even though unique, that they are back in Chapel Hill again while Mr. Lawrence takes refresher and review courses as a special student in the School of Pharmacy. The owner of the Myers Park Pharmacy in Charlotte, he has three registered pharmacists working for him.

Enjoying their return to campus life immensely, the Lawrences felt fully initiated as students when they recently received a church letter starting "Dear Collegians:

NEWS IN BRIEF

PANMUNJOM — The Allies warned the Communists yesterday they might take a short cut through the snarled prisoner exchange problem by simply releasing 32,000 North Koreans who don't want to go home. This would follow a pattern created by the Reds themselves. The Allies also told the Communists to nominate a non-Asian country as neutral caretaker for 48,000 Communist prisoners who don't want to go home, and made it clear the Allies would discuss little else until that's done.

TOKYO — American war prisoners refusing to make Communist broadcasts were put in three-foot-high wire cages where they had to crowd like animals, a liberated soldier said yesterday. Some of the soldiers gained release from the torture and humiliation by saying they had seen the error of their ways. One man is reported to have spent six months in one of the cages. The prisoners were only allowed to lie down at night.

SEOUL — American Sabre jets destroyed or damaged five Communist MIG-15's yesterday while hundreds of UN warplanes bombed North Korean military targets from the battlefield to the Yalu River.

Expulsion From School May Be Rioters' Fate

Possible suspension may face several students whose names were turned over to the Men's Council for participating in a riot early yesterday morning.

Student government leaders indicated that action would be taken immediately against the offenders. Also they worked out plans to prevent such incidents from happening again.

As student government clamped down on the affair, Cobb Dormitory, origin of the riot, viewed the damages incurred during the fracas. Several students' rooms were soaked as a result of a water battle there, and halls were covered with water.

The riot, called a "panty raid" by some or "just a lot of guys raising cane" by others, brought out the entire Chapel Hill police force. Police said yesterday, however, that no arrests were made.

"We don't want trouble if we can help it. But this sort of nonsense must stop," one officer said.

The mob attempted to overturn one police car after officers grabbed a student, Gene Cook, Bill Acker and student body vice-president Baxter Miller stood beside the car trying to keep students from turning it over.

Close to a thousand yelling students came to the girls' dormitories shortly before midnight. The incident started with a water battle involving only a few students, Cobb residents said yesterday.

Considerable soaking took place after the riot when students returned to the dorm at about one in the morning, it was learned also yesterday.

The crowd, obviously composed of as many onlookers as rioters, came up from Cobb to Melver. After yelling outside that dormitory for a half hour, the group headed to Carr, then to Smith.

A number of the mob yelled, "We want panties." However, the girls stayed away from the windows and kept their lights off. Student leaders credited the girls' action for keeping the noisy group under control.

The crowd broke up about 1:30 in front of Smith.

Back at Cobb after the rhubarb, students threw water into two or three rooms from the windows. Books, linens and other belongings were damaged.

President Bob Gorham said yesterday that he "could well understand the feeling" of the students in the riot. He pointed out the harm of such riots saying, "Here at Carolina we have more freedom than any other college in the country. We are completely free to do and act as we wish."

"Our regulations and rules are few," continued Gorham. "And yet, here we are taking advantage of this situation by participating in riots of this type."

"I can not condemn anyone for his actions last night. All I want to do is ask everyone to please consider the unfavorable publicity we will receive and to think of Carolina as a place that we all believe in and want to serve to our best."

Stilwell, Hanes Will Steer UP

The University Party elected new officers for the remainder of 1953 at its regular meeting Tuesday night. Those elected were Jack Stilwell, chairman; John Hanes, vice-chairman; Ann Bell, secretary; Bob Farrell, treasurer and Bob Grimes, publicity chairman.

Walt McFall, outgoing chairman, was given a standing round of applause for his excellent work in that office. He then proposed a motion to establish a bi-partisan committee to work with the elections board to revise the election laws into a more workable form. This committee would include representatives from both political parties. The motion was carried unanimously.

Graduation Plans Listed By Chancellor

Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, will deliver the principal address at the 159th Commencement here Monday night, June 8, in Kenan Stadium.

The commencement program will get under way Saturday, June 6, and continue through Sunday and Monday. Alumni headquarters will be at the Carolina Inn.

The Rev. Robert Dwight Ware, pastor of Asheville Methodist Church, will preach the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, June 7, at 11 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Opening event of commencement will be a Dutch luncheon for seniors and their guests at 1 o'clock Saturday. Shows will be presented at the Morehead Planetarium at 3, 4, and 8:30 o'clock. At 7 o'clock the class of the years '28, '36, '37, '38, '39 and '52 will hold reunions followed by a reception at Kessing Pool at 9 o'clock.

Sunday's program will include, in addition to the baccalaureate sermon, the annual dinner meeting of the Old Students Club at 1 o'clock, a meeting of the pharmacy class of '28 at 1 o'clock; Planetarium shows at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 o'clock; University Band concert at 4:30; student art exhibit at 5:30; a joint reunion dinner for the classes of '17, '18, '19 and '20, and the Silver Anniversary Reunion of the class of '28, both at 6:30; and a concert by the Chapel Hill Choral Club in Hill Hall at 8:30.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock the class of '53 will hold its last meeting, a reception for commencement guests will follow at 11 o'clock and the annual Alumni Luncheon will be held at 1 o'clock.

R. Arthur Spangh Jr., Winston-Salem, president of General Alumni Association, will be toastmaster. "Golden Anniversary Certificates" will be presented to members of the class of '03 and other members of the Old Students Club. New officers will be installed and a report on the Alumni Annual Giving will be made.

The Carolina Playmakers will present a bill of new plays at 2:30 and 4 o'clock; Air Force and Navy ROTC commissions will be awarded at 3 o'clock, and the University Band will give a concert at 6:30 in Kenan Stadium, preceding graduation exercises which are to begin at 7 o'clock.

Chancellor Robert B. House will preside over the graduation exercises. On the program in addition to Dr. Gaines, the principal speaker, will be Governor William B. Umstead, President Gordon Gray and Dan Perry of Kinston, president of the senior class.

Square Dance Tonight Offers Band, Singers

Music, refreshments and round and square dancing will be included in a free square dance in the Y-Court at 8 o'clock tonight.

Bob Cole and his band will play for the dance, which is sponsored by the YMCA. Cole's group features Al Wright, a ballad singer from Weaver. A male quartet will also sing between dances.

Carl Gregory and Cy Herzog will call the dances. Dates are not required.

BA Preregistration

Students in the School of Business Administration will have from Monday through Thursday of next week to sign the preregistration books in the foyer of Carroll Hall. Preregistration for the Summer and Fall sessions will begin Monday, May 11, and run through Friday, May 15. Students should sign the book now to avoid any delay.

Beach Weather

Tar Heels headed for the beach this weekend can expect little help from the weather man. At least that's the indication given by the Raleigh Weather Bureau yesterday when they forecast "partly cloudy and warm weather for Friday and Saturday."

And for this afternoon, the weather man said there would be "typically warm late April weather with widely scattered afternoon showers."

Coaxial Haunts At Glen Lennox

A woman from Glen Lennox called The Daily Tar Heel office yesterday and the conversation went something like this:

"You had any calls about TV sets?" the woman inquired.

"No, can't say that we have," a reporter answered.

"Well," the caller said, "ours went off during the storm. It came back on after the storm and I tried to cut it off but the picture won't go away. It's haunting me."
