VOLUME LXI NUMBER 145

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1953

FOUR PAGES TODAY

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, speaking through a team of top government officials, has asked Congress to appropriate approximately $5,800,000 for the foreign aid program during fiscal 1954.

Gorham Says Positions Open

"As I said when I began my campaign, there is a place for everyone in student government."

Gorham said that in making the appointments he wants to get people who are most interested.

"Student government is not a closed corporation of people who spend all their time in Graham Memorial and nowhere else,"

Gorham said that there are openings to be filled on all committees and that those positions are wide open.

He re-emphasized the fact that he wants students regardless of party affiliation to come by his office any afternoon in the week from 2 to 5 o'clock.

JACKIE BROOKS

Jackie Brooks Is New Editor Of Tarnation

The appointment of Jackie Brooks as editor of next year's Tarnation was made last week.

Miss Brooks, who served as managing editor this year, said there is a need for writers and artists for the publication and a meeting would be announced in the near future for all interested persons.

Rollie Tillman, defeated UP candidate for Yack editor, will be managing editor. Art Einstein, Stan Smith and Jerry McMahon will serve as associate editors.

"The Tarnation made strides this year," Miss Brooks said, "and, despite all rumors to the contrary, made a small profit on the financial end of things. We are looking forward to a better Tarnation next year, but that cannot be realized unless we get the support from the student body."

Dr. Henderson Talks Before Phi Eta Sigma

Dr. Archibald Henderson, retired Professor of Mathematics of the University, eminent traveler and educator, and official biographer of George Bernard Shaw, was the featured speaker at the annual tri-chapter banquet of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honor fraternity.

Dr. Henderson spoke upon the topic of scholarship. To it, he related personal associations with the world's elite of the literary, dramatic and educational world.

Dr. Henderson tied in "success" with the general theme of scholarship. He pointed out that success is often due to a combination of two factors, mentioning truth and beauty, science and the arts, and education and religion.

Seniors May Get Invitations

Senior invitations have arrived and can be picked up today and tomorrow.

A Grail representative will be in the APO room in the upstairs of the YMCA from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. tomorrow to distribute them.

Installation Of Officers

Features Dr. Boyd, Music

Installation of the new YWCA officers and cabinet will take place during a candlelight service tonight in Gerrard Hall at 7 o'clock.

Following the installation by Anna Beason, former Y president, Dr. Bernard Boyd will give an inspirational talk. The music program includes "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Charlie Kim, Guion's "Prayer" by Nancy Murray.

Faculty Group To Pick 1953 Alumnus, Alumna

Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna—1953 style—will grace the stage of Memorial Hall for the first time in Carolina history on Monday night, May 18 at the intermission of the Tex Beneke concert.

Chosen for their outstanding contributions to student life and campus welfare, Mr. Alumnus and Miss Alumna will be picked from the Senior Class, Steve Perrow, Social Chairman said yesterday. The Mr. and Miss selections are the latest addition to an ambitious Senior Week program which starts next Monday.

Joint Glee Club Concert Will Be Sunday At 8:30

The annual spring concert of the University Glee Clubs will take place Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Prof. Joel Carter of the Music Department will conduct and there will be a number of student soloists and accompanists. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

The program will feature a considerable variety of works. For the first half the Women's Glee Club will give a selection of numbers from the Pergolesi "Stabat Mater," followed by the Faure "Requiem" in its entirety by the combined choruses.

A number of shorter works by the separate Glee Clubs as well as the combined groups will feature the second half, and will include sacred, folk and patriotic songs.

Included are "The Testament of Freedom" by Randall Thompson setting words of Thomas Jefferson, "The Twenty-Third Psalm" in a setting by Herbert Fromm, and such folk favorites as "Short-nin' Bread," "Were You There?" and "The Foggy Foggy Dew."

The program concludes with a Bach Chorale, "Rejoice ye Christians Loudly," and the Leising-Glarum "God of All Nations."

Several soloists will be featured in the various selections. Nora Jane Rumph and William J. Chance, both junior music majors, will be heard in the solo parts of the Faure "Requiem." Martha Heygel, Jane Reese, Katherine Jente, William Whitesides and Wade Williams will also have solos in other numbers.

Accompanists for the concert are Patricia Aydtlett, Hunter Tillman, Thomas Sibley and George Thomas, pianists, and Dowd Davis, organist.

Negotiator Says Talks Have Made No Progress

PANMUNJOM—A U.N. truce negotiator yesterday said "zero" progress had been made toward a Korean armistice after the Reds rejected a proposal to free 32,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse to go home after a truce is signed.

The Reds again ignored the Allied nomination of Pakistan as neutral custodian of 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

Child's 'Smearing' Started New Venture

Founder Of Finger-Painting Opens Exhibit In Morehead

By George D. Boozer

Probably one of the most interesting art exhibits ever featured at the Morehead Building opened this week when the works of Ruth Faison Shaw were put on display.

Miss Shaw, who is called the founder of finger-painting, has placed at the University about 25 of her most noted paintings.

A native of Duplin County and the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, Miss Shaw first began experimenting with finger painting at her American and English School for Children in Rome in 1929.

"It all began, in the most natural way in the world, with a little boy at the school who smeared the bathroom wall with iodine," Miss Shaw explained. "All the children seemed to like to 'smear' with their hands in a way of having fun and learning, so I went about the task of compounding a suitable medium with which they could smear to Perrow said Dean of Awards Ernest L. Mackie will head a faculty committee partly consisting of representatives from the undergraduate schools, including Dean Clifford P. Lyons, Arts and Sciences; Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism; Dean E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy; Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration; Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education; Dean of Students Fred H. Weaver, and Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael. Particularly significant is the award to the outstanding coed to be dubbed Miss Alumna, Perrow pointed out. The awardees will be given special certificates by the General Alumni Association.

The awards will be made in conjunction with a campaign for seniors to join the General Alumni Association. Booths will be set up in the Y starting next week.

Marine Society Installs Officers Tonight At 7:30

Dr. Bernard Boyd, professor of religion, will deliver the inaugural address to an open meeting of the Semper Fidelis Society tonight at 7:30 in the Naval Armory in a program featuring the installation of next year's officers.

Major Frank C. Caldwell, Marine Officer-Instructor for the NROTC unit here, will administer the oath of office.

The Society, whose eligible members include all Marine officer candidates, reservists, and veterans, was formed last fall, the first of what may become a national organization. Already similar groups exist at Duke, Illinois, Southern California, and possibly Georgia Tech.

Marilyn Habel, Sandra Wright, Mary Frances Allsbrook, Sue Ambler, Jane Goslyn, Virginia White-man, Gray Bullock, Celia Brown, Jan Winders, and Peg Hall.

Blossom The 'Possum's Visit To Dentist Delights Small Fry

Blossom, the 'possum went to the dentist the other day. And the excitement he created in the University's new School of Dentistry would have put Mary's Little Lamb to shame.

Just as Mary's Little Lamb did not go to school for an education, so Blossom didn't go to the dentist to have dental work done. He merely followed (or, more aptly, was carried) by his young master, Richard Anderson, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Anderson of Chapel Hill.

Young Richard was having some work done—or was about to—when Blossom started squirming around in his shirt front. About that time Henry Lineberger Jr., third-year dental student from Raleigh, decided to see what was going on under the apron (or bib) he had just placed around his patient's neck.

To his surprise and to the delight of the other children in the clinic, out jumped Blossom, a furry bundle of life.

Blossom quickly took over the entire school, toured the building, visited the dean and was scampering over the clinic at the last report, amusing himself while young Richard got his teeth filled.

Where did Blossom come from? Last week as Richard was going home following a dental appointment he found the baby 'possum near Whitehead dormitory. Richard took possession and Blossom has been his steady companion ever since—at home, at school, and even at the dentist.

'Treasure Of Sierra Madre' Shows Gold's Effect On Men

"Treasure of the Sierra Madre," a movie of three men and the gold they mine, is the "taking off of layer after layer of what we protect ourselves with," Sociologist Reuben Hill said Tuesday night.

And "with the gradual unfolding, we see all the crass, raw material human beings are made of," Dr. Hill continued.

Dr. Hill was the discussion leader for the last of the YMCA-Hill Foundation film forums to be held this quarter. The series is expected to begin again next fall. Shown free, the movies are of the psychological type which permit analysis and discussion by the group and its leader.

More than 300 filled downstairs Gerrard Hall and overflowed into the balcony for Tuesday's film but only 43 remained for the discussion afterwards.

Dr. Hill pointed out "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" has interdependent themes of man and Nature, "people living close to their environment."

The film is the story of Humphrey Bogart of Tim Holt, two drifters, and the late Walter Huston, a veteran prospector. The trio unites in Tampico, Mexico and then the story unravels to show the effect of gold on each personality.

Dr. Hill's mother, Mrs. Mary Theresa Hill who is visiting him, spent her childhood in Mexico. She made several comments on the setting of the movie. Dr. Hill agreed with a student who suggested "the vagaries of the script writer" caused the picture not "to run true to human character all the time."

One observer wanted to know the background of the author, Bruno Traven. Dr. Hill called on Dr. Sturgis Leavitt, Kénan professor of Spanish, to help him out. Dr. Leavitt said Traven was a pseudonym for Borick Traven Tarsvan Tarsvan, a Chicago-born American who had lived in Mexico since 1913. Few, not even his publishers, have ever seen Traven, according to Dr. Leavitt.

An account in Newsweek magazine last Spring said that during the filming of "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" a man approached director John Huston and identified himself as Trevan's secretary. The man made several "wild suggestions" about filming the book, and Huston believed him to be Traven concealing his identity because "in contact with people (he) disintegrates and becomes ridiculous."

Student Party Names Fall Semester Officers

The Student Party elected new officers for the fall semester at its meeting Monday night. They are: Gene Cook, chairman; Don Geiger, vice-chairman; Jane Bolmeier, clerk; Jim Turner, treasurer; Charles Katzenstein, sergeant-at-arms; and Charlie Wolf, program chairman.

The four members of the advisory board will be Walt Gurley, Lew Southern, Manning Muntzing and Gordon Forester.

Budget Bill Up Tonight For Solons

Student lawmakers meet tonight in Phi Hall to provide The Daily Tar Heel with its appropriation and give their stamp of approval to President Gorham's Orientation Committee.

The budget was passed for the coming year last week, without the newspaper appropriation. Legislators said they wanted to investigate the situation before approving the grant.

Since then a committee of legislators met with the Publications Board and was briefed on policies. The appropriation, in the form of a bill, is identical to the one provided for in the budget.

President Bob Gorham's newly appointed Orientation Committee hasn't been announced yet. However, the list of ten men and five women will be up for legislative approval tonight.

Gorham announced yesterday that Tom Creasy is new Orientation Chairman.

The switch to semester system prompted introduction of a bill last week which would revise elections laws to meet the new system. This bill will probably be acted upon tonight also.

Another reason for revisions, according to the bill, is that "there are many modifications and improvements that should be made."

Indications yesterday were that chronic absentees in the Legislature would be ousted in the near future. Legislators can't miss more than one meeting without an excuse.

Tonight's meeting will be the second for 26 legislators, 13 from each party. Apparently, the Student Party still has a working majority.

Pawlik Chosen Candidate For Arnold Award

Harry Pawlik, an outstanding member of the Air Force ROTC, is one of three students at institutions in the South being considered for the Arnold Memorial Scholarship.

The scholarship, a grant from the Arnold Air Society, national military honor fraternity, is awarded to one student in the area that embraces states from Virginia to Louisiana.

Pawlik, who has maintained a good record here, scholastically, athletically, and in extra-curricular activities, spent the early days of his life in concentration camps in Austria, Czechoslovakia, and Germany.

He was liberated when he was 14 by Polish soldiers of the Third Army, who took him along as their mascot. He volunteered, and served with the 11th Division, as it moved through the closing campaigns of the war in Europe. He performed duties as an interpreter of Polish, German and English, during his period of duty with the U. S. Army.

After the war, in 1947, Cadet Pawlik came to the United States as the ward of Lt. Raymond C. Carpenter of Albemarle. Despite the fact that he had no previous formal education, Pawlik entered high school, made an outstanding record, and was graduated in 1950.

At Carolina he has been an outstanding self-help student; a good athlete; he has been president of the Monogram Club, co-captain of the soccer team, and a varsity wrestler for three years.

Others considered for the same scholarship are Tilden R. Schofield of the University of Miami, and Donovan L. Pontiff of Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Wake Forest Students Elect New Officers

Gene Boyce of Raleigh has been elected president of the Wake Forest College student body for 1953-54, defeating Ken Bridges of Shelby.

John Blackwell of Fayetteville was named vice president, Pat Alphin of Raleigh was named secretary, and Jim Greene of Asheville was elected treasurer.
