Drinking Rule Action Proceeds; No Plan Yet Ready For Both Sides

By Louis Kraar

Work on a possible revision of the coed visiting agreement moved a step nearer completion yesterday as President Bob Gorham set up a new agency—the only one on campus for fraternities and coeds to officially exchange ideas.

The new group, called the Executive Council, is a "forum for discussing campus wide problems," Gorham said. The problem of a revised visiting agreement is the first to be considered.

YMCA Marks Anniversary, Installs Today

Annual installation banquet for officers of the Carolina YMCA will be held this afternoon at 5:45 in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall.

This installation marks the 94th anniversary of the founding of the Carolina YMCA, and is on approximately the same day that James Kelly of Monroe County was installed as the first president in May, 1860.

Officers to be installed: President Ned Harbin, Winston-Salem; Vice-President Bob Hyatt, Cherokee; Secretary Susan Fink, Chapel Hill; and Treasurer Stuart Jones, Winston-Salem.

Commission chairmen to be installed are Christian Faith and Heritage, Harold White, Fruit-hurst, Ala.; Campus and Personal Life, Baxter McIntyre, Ellerbe; Social Responsibility, Alice Chapman, Welch, W. Va.; World Relatedness, Clinton Lindley, Chapel Hill; Membership, Bob Hyatt; Finance, Stuart Jones; and Publications, Manning Muntzing, Moorefield, W. Va.

Dr. Cecil Johnson will be master of ceremonies and Chancellor R. B. House will be the main speaker. Dr. E. William Noland, Chairman of the YMCA Advisory Board, will install the new officers and commission chairmen. Gil Marsh will speak on behalf of the old officers and Neb Harbin on behalf of the new ones.

The cost of the banquet is $1.25 a person. Reservations may be made by calling the YMCA, 6761.

Council Portrait Goes To School Of Pharmacy

On behalf of friends of C. T. Council of Durham, President Gordon Gray at a small luncheon given by the University in the Morehead Building here presented a handsome portrait of Council to the School of Pharmacy of which Council is a graduate.

The portrait, painted by Edmund Strudwick of Hillsboro, was accepted by Dean E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy.

W. D. Carmichael Jr., vice-president and controller, presided at the luncheon, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Council, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Council Jr., Germain Bernard of Durham, close business associates of Council and University officials.

Summer, Fall Pre-Registration Ends Friday In Most Schools

Pre-registration for Summer and Fall in the various schools is now underway and will continue through Friday.

The general procedure to observe in pre-registration is to contact the departmental adviser, secure a green form and take it to Archer House for final processing and further instructions.

General College and Business Administration require that a student have an appointment before being permitted to pre-register.

Arts and Sciences makes a special mention for pre-law, pre-med, pre-dental, and special students to see the adviser in the dean's office for information on pre-registration.

The Pharmacy School is holding pre-registration today for second year students and tomorrow for third year and graduate students.

Public Health students should check the bulletin board on the ground floor of the Medical Building for pre-registration dates and details.

Nursing students will be advised in class of dates and details for pre-registration.

Social Work students should report to 113 Alumni Building for pre-registration.

Law, Library Science, Medicine and Dentistry students pre-registration will be in accordance with details announced through the deans.

The registration office in Archer House will be open from 8:30 to 12:45 and 1:45 to 4:30 p.m. through May 15.

Educational TV Plans Near Reality

Trustees Approve Carmichael Suggestion To Obtain License

Educational television for the three branches of the Consolidated University is all but certain now, with Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr.'s recommendation yesterday that the University submit an application for license immediately to the Federal Communications Commission.

Carmichael told the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees at Raleigh yesterday, "Money is currently being raised from friends of the Consolidated University and it is the belief of the University that ample funds will be in hand or pledged by June 1."

Carmichael said, "Engineering surveys and construction of the transmitter would require at least a year, so that actual transmission of programs could not be expected to begin before the fall of 1954."

The Trustees approved a recommendation that the University apply to the FCC prior to June 2, for a license to operate a Consolidated University television station utilizing Channel Four (VHF), with studios on the three campuses of the University. The costs of all construction and the first two years' operations are to be financed by private gifts. The recommendation makes it understood that control of the character and content of all programs televised from the studios is the sole responsibility of the administration and the Board of Trustees.

Carmichael said the proposed transmitter tower will be approximately 750 feet above the ground, located in a high position assuring a good picture not only in the areas of the three campuses, but over a large part of Eastern North Carolina and well into the Piedmont west of Greensboro.

All live programs originating at the three schools, in addition to being on Channel Four, will be available to commercial stations wishing to pick them up simultaneously. Kinescopes, or films of the programs, will be available of commercial stations in the state for use at their convenience.

No commercial sponsorship of programs produced by the University will be permitted. Channel Four is the only one of the eight allotted to North Carolina for educational telecasting which is of the "very high frequency" type. The others are "ultra high frequency" and not readily suitable to most TV sets. For this reason, Channel Four has been considered a ripe plum for commercial interests in the event the University failed to act before the June deadline.

One of the many features of holiday and summer travel is the all-inclusive week in Miami for $19.00 by Eastern Airlines. For further information come by the Travel Agency in Graham Memorial on the south mezzanine.

Students should make their reservations for end-of-school travel early this year, according to the Travel Agency. Train, boat, and plane reservations can be arranged by calling 91882 between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The service is free to all students and faculty members as well as to townspeople. Persons desiring to make weekend trips are asked to make their reservations early due to the crowded conditions on planes and trains on weekends.

Indian Finds Students Studious, Free, Ignorant Of Other People

By Joyce Adams

S. Hamid Hasan Naquavi has come from Karachi, Pakistan, to do graduate work in the geography department here at Chapel Hill—that's half-way around the world.

Born and educated in India, Naquavi attended the Moslem University in Aligarh, where he received his master's degree in 1947. For five years he taught geography at the University of Karachi, and is currently on a Ford Foundation scholarship in this country to continue his graduate work.

Naquavi had two reasons for wanting to come to the United States. First, he said the quality of education is higher here and when he returns to Pakistan he will command a better salary as a result of his foreign study. Secondly, he wanted very much to see the people of the United States, their land, cities, and industry. "The world looks to the United States as the leader of nations, and I wanted to see this country for myself."

Naquavi was most impressed with the informality of life here. "It is so easy to get to know people," he said. "At home we are very reserved, because of the British influence."

Especially strange to him was the freedom with which the sexes mingle. In Karachi, under the Moslem tradition, the girls are very shy. "That never speak to boys. Even though we have co-education the girls and boys never mix. If a boy and girl are seen talking together except in a very public place they both may be punished." Another difference Naquavi pointed out between his home university and Carolina is the social life. Since dating is forbidden, according to Moslem custom, the social life there centers around the dormitories. They hold debates, poetry contests, musical and dramatic activities. "Here," he says, "the dormitories are little more than a place to sleep."

This will come as a shock to Carolina students, but Naquavi is very impressed with how hard they study. But he thinks all the pretty coeds down at the library have a lot to do with it.

The students here do more work in proportion to the professor. In Karachi, he states, the professor does all the work and lectures to

Gray Says Conference Must Comply With Set Of Conditions

By John Jamison

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees yesterday told President Gray the matter of Carolina's entrance into the new seven-school athletic conference is entirely up to him.

Gray, in turn, assured the Trustees that certain conditions will have to be met by the new conference before this University can consider becoming an active member.

A Merry-Go-Round

Splash Club's Water Ballet Shows Tonight

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" is the theme of the annual water ballet to be presented by the Splash Club tonight at 8 o'clock in Bowman Gray Pool.

Included in the pageant will be such numbers as "We've Got Manhattan," "Park Avenue Fantasy" and "On a Visit to Chinatown."

Swimming in the ballet are Barbara Braxton, Grace Doar, Ann McClamroch, Pepper Stetson, Cho Gordon, Jackie Anderson, Gay Hogan, Jean Williamson, Virginia Whiteman, Jane Allen, Janet Cornell, Connie Lassiter, Lib Moore, Pat Turnbull, Mase Chapin, Nat Salter, Sally Smith, Betty Davis and Barbara Tinkhan.

President Nan Reese said admission is free and the public is invited.

Pharmacy Gets 100% To Join Alumni Group

The School of Pharmacy has jumped ahead in the campaign for membership in the Alumni Association with 100 per cent joining the association.

Steve Perrow, senior class social chairman, solicited 46 pharmacy seniors who are now members of the association. A campus-wide campaign was launched yesterday morning with a booth in the Y operating from 9 till 1 p.m. Membership Chairman Heywood Washburn announced that solicitors from his committee will canvass the campus. Efforts to secure help from the Interdormitory and Interfraternity councils already have been made.

The General Alumni Association, with more than 9,000 members, is an organization of former students of Carolina. Members get the Alumni Review, a monthly newsletter magazine giving news items, arranged by classes, and telling alumni what goes on at Chapel Hill. Dues-paying members are mailed ballots to vote in the annual election of officers of the association. On the board of directors are alumni representing local alumni groups and alumni classes.

A special senior rate of $1 is offered to students leaving in June. The usual amount for membership is $3.

The Senior Alumni Committee includes, besides Washburn:

Jayne Adams, Kenneth Barton, Anna Beeson, Sara Lyn Bonowitz, Mary Lilla Browne, C. Frederick Coker, Ralph Craver, Sally Bett Cunningham, Walt Dear, Theodore Frankel, Virginia Hall, James Edward (Buddy) Heins, Clemuel Johnson, Gilbert Marsh, Margaret M. Matthews, James McLeod, Robert Lewis Neill, Hubert Olive, Julius Rousseau, Dot Smith, R. Arthur Spough Jr., Pepper Stetson, Ben Tison, Sara Wood and Tom Wooten.

The Executive Committee also heard Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr. report on the progress of educational television in the Consolidated University. They approved his recommendation that UNC apply immediately to the Federal Communications Commission for a license to operate on Channel Four with studios in Greensboro, Raleigh and Chapel Hill. The station will be operated on private donations for its first two years of broadcasting.

The Trustees approved a four-year course at Chapel Hill leading to a B.S. in medical technology. The course would be open to women, and thus allow them to matriculate here as freshmen.

Gray's report on the new athletic conference came on the heels of the Southern Conference meeting in Greensboro last Friday in which UNC, State, Wake Forest, Duke, Maryland, Clemson and South Carolina agreed to pull out of the oversized Southern and form one which will suit their needs better.

Gray listed five conditions to be met by the new league to render it agreeable to North Carolina and N. C. State. They were:

1. As early as it is practicable, members of the conference should schedule contests with every other member. (In the past, with two "divisions" in the conference, a comparatively weak team has been able to win the conference championship by virtue of a good record against the lower division members.)

2. No freshmen should be allowed to participate in varsity athletics.

3. Adequate standards should be established in all member schools with scholarship requirements looking toward a degree.

4. Insofar as possible the conference should encourage participation in all sports by member schools and avoid sole emphasis on the major sports.

5. If the majority of members wish to permit bowl participation, the conference will allow such, with profits going to the conference fund and participants making expenses only.

The Executive Committee gave Gray the go-ahead with a motion to leave entrance into the new conference up to the administration.

The new conference (yet unnamed) meets in Raleigh June 14 to name itself and draw up final plans. The 10 remaining members of the Southern Conference meet June 26-27 at Roanoke, Va., to discuss the future of that conference.

The new conference will begin effective operation this Fall when it names a football champion. Next Spring it will hold a basketball tournament in March and contests in all Spring sports.

Churchill Favors Meeting

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said yesterday he is in favor of a high level conference of the leading powers without any great delay.

Late Permission

Senior women may have late leave to attend the movie at the Carolina Theater tonight, according to the Women's Residence Council and office of the Dean of Women. Girls are expected to return at once to their dormitories when the movie is over.
