

A LIFEBOAT FROM THE SUNKEN IRON ORE FREIGHTER Henry Steinbrenner lies alongside the Coast Guard rescue vessel William Sykes on Lake Superior as rescuers prepared to pull its two occupants aboard. Bernard Oberski was saved, but Frank Tomszek, hanging over the stern of the boat, was dead. At least 13 of the Steinbrenner's 31-man crew drowned after the ship struck rocks in the lake and sank.—NEA Telephoto.

Chancellor House Tells New YMCA Officers To Continue Marching Under Jesus' Banner

Officers and Commission Chairmen for the 1953-1954 year were installed at the YMCA's annual Installation Banquet held Tuesday night in the Blue Room of Lenoir

Hall, marking its 93rd year at this University.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Chancellor Robert B. House, who hit a serious note by encouraging the new officers and members of the YMCA to continue their forward march, through association together, under the name of Jesus Christ on this campus.

"I hope you won't rest until you have gotten as many members of the University as possible under the banner, and then as an organization follow the spirit of Christ," Chancellor House said, adding that he would like to see the YMCA expound personal energy in getting as many new members as possible.

"There is something immensely encouraging in young men's association together," Chancellor

House continued, "I would like to see YMCA members on the football fields, and football players in the YMCA."

New officers installed were: Ned Harbin, president; Robert Hyatt, vice-president; Susan Fink, secretary, and Stuart Jones, treasurer.

Commission chairmen are: Harold White, Baxter McIntyre, Alice Chapman and Clinton Lindley, with W. J. Graham and A. C. Shearer the new advisory board members.

Other speakers at the banquet were: Dean Cecil Johnson, toastmaster; Gilbert Marsh and YMCA General Secretary Claude C. Shotts.

50 Midshipmen Take Field Trip To Charleston

A group of about 50 Naval ROTC midshipmen have returned from a field trip to the Charleston, S. C., Naval Base and a weekend cruise on the Destroyer Escort Earl K. Olsen.

The midshipmen were accompanied by Lt. L. R. White, Jr., assistant professor of naval science.

Before going on the cruise the students toured the ship, visited historic points in Charleston, and some toured a submarine tied up near the Olsen.

On board the Olsen the midshipmen were assigned to special sea details, battle stations and the various watches. They participated in drills, fired the 20 and 40 millimeter guns, observed the Sonar demonstration for the detection and destruction of enemy submarines, and conducted man overboard drills.

According to the ship's officers the performance of the midshipmen was very good and in the eyes of the midshipmen the weekend was highly successful.
