From Student To Administrator Easy Journey For Roy Holsten

By Louis Kraar

There's a friendly guy in South Building who likes to talk with students on everything from golf to girl friends—Roy Holsten, assistant dean of students.

The affable adviser was a Carolina student himself just three years ago. And he still remembers sitting on the students' side of the desk in the dean of students office, as regulars on South Building steps will tell you.

"I enjoy having students come up just to smoke a cigarette and talk. They don't necessarily have to have a problem," Roy remarked the other day. (Assistant Dean Holsten is known simply as "Roy" to most students after a couple of visits.)

Talking with and helping Carolina students is nothing new for the assistant dean, but rather a carryover from an active student career. Roy served on the Student Council, headed the Men's Council, worked as a Daily Tar Heel sports staffer and lived an active academic and fraternity life.

Roy Holsten originally came from Ridgewood, New Jersey, but is a truly transplanted Tar Heel. After a year and a half stint in the Navy, he decided on a college education in the state of North Carolina, without definitely picking the school.

He seems to enjoy talking about how he finally decided on Carolina on that day in 1946 shortly after his discharge from service. "I was over at Duke," explained Roy, "Where I had just about decided to go to school. It was my first time in the state. I went to see the admissions director there, but he wasn't in." After waiting around awhile, he decided to visit Chapel Hill.

Duke was ruled out that very day. "When I came over that day, everyone was so friendly and helpful that I could tell that this was the place for me."

Still an ardent sports fan, Roy remembers working on the sports staff of the paper. His love for sports is another carry over into administrative Carolina life. "I go to just about all of Carolina's games—when I have time," said the counselor who rarely has much spare time.

Roy received his A.B. in English in 1950. "I majored in English because it was suggested by several prospective employers." Shortly afterwards, he married a Carolina coed, Liddybet Myatt.

He met her one weekend "on a blind date to one of the German dances." Roy, a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, was president of the German Club that year, and his date and future wife Liddybet, was Pi Phi.

After graduation, the Holstens went to Greensboro. Roy took the position of assistant employment manager at the Vick Chemical Company. A year later, he was employment manager and editor of the company newspaper.

A phone call from Chapel Hill one day brought him back to talk about a permanent place at Carolina. "We always talked of coming back to Carolina some day, but I never realized we would be able to so soon," said Roy.

As assistant dean of students, he works closely with Fred Weaver, dean of students. He acts as adviser to all student activities, counsels students on individual problems and works with faculty groups on basic student problems.

Roy spends his little spare time with his family and two hobbies, music and sports. He's got two children, two-year-old Roy, and Bruce, four months old.

Jazz music is one of his many musical interests. "I had about 3,500 records at one time. Just the other day, little Roy broke about a hundred of them though. You never know what to expect from him next," Roy said with a smile.

From the appearance of this tall adviser's active schedule, it seems that he is back at Carolina even nearer the heart of the University—and the students.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — The United States yesterday ordered a Romanian diplomat kicked out for trying to blackmail an American who risked the lives of his two sons by refusing to spy for the Communists. The State Department told the Romanian legation to arrange "immediate departure" for Christache Zambeti, first secretary of the legation.

SEOUL, Korea—President Syngman Rhee indicated yesterday the South Korean government might complicate the snarled truce talks by boycotting the Panmunjom sessions indefinitely. Rhee called his cabinet to an extraordinary three-hour and 45-minute session to discuss "certain measures" in connection with the recessed negotiations.

LONDON — The royal standard flew from Buckingham Palace yesterday, announcing Queen Elizabeth was back in a London which has been transformed into a Mardi Gras city. With the coronation exactly one week away, the excitement mounted as Elizabeth made another visit to Westminster Abbey and elegant little pages practiced carrying coronets.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey predicted today that public interest whipped up by the long "tideland" fight will help put across a measure to give the nation's schools the revenue from off-shore oil lands retained by the federal government. The Minnesota Democrat said he is optimistic about the chances for Senate approval of the "oil for education" proposal on the second try.

Band Chooses Officers For Coming Year

The University Band elected officers for the coming year at its annual business meeting last week. Elected were president Jim Headlee, Asheville, vice-president, Ken Pruitt, Winston-Salem, secretary-treasurer Lewis Mack, Mooresville, publicity manager Rollie Tillman, Lake Wales, Fla., business manager Lloyd Farro, Clemson, S.C., assistant business manager Lee Bostian, Raleigh.

Librarians Otto Henry, Asheville, and Dan Swaim, Winston-Salem, Band Notes editor Peggy Needham, New Bern, University Club representative Ken Pruitt, Winston-Salem.

In recognition of three years of service in the University marching and concert bands, gold band keys were presented to Lee Bostian, Raleigh, Lloyd Bostian, Raleigh, Charles Cronham, East Orange, N.J., Bob Curtiss, Marlan, David Gaddy, Albemarle, Don Hamilton, Fairfield, Conn., Jim Headlee, Asheville.

Lewis Mack, Mooresville, Gilbert Marsh, Thomasville, Martha Snow, Charlottesville, Va., Wesley Thompson, Winston-Salem, Joel Watkins, Warren, Ark., Sue Wilkins, Sanford, Joseph Wood, Chapel Hill.

As many students as possible are needed for this scene, CBS television representatives said yesterday.

Students in the scene will be excused from the first five minutes of class, the Dean of Students office said.

French Play Opens Tonight In GM Lounge

Graham Memorial's main lounge will take on a continental glow tonight at 8:30 with the presentation of "Les Precieuses Ridicules," a French comedy.

The play is being presented by Le Petit Theatre Francais. It is a Moliere farce, which was the comedian's first Parisian success. It will be given arena style with bright colored costuming and informal staging. It will also be presented tomorrow night.

Henriette Rhyne and Noma Flint will play in the leading roles. Miss Rhyne is a native of Dijon, France. Miss Flint studied French at the Middlebury School of Languages in Vermont.

Charles Hadley, Statesville, will play the male lead. Hadley is a dramatic art major and has studied in France.

The Play is a long one-act satirizing an over-refined kind of spoken and literary French that was in vogue during the first half of the seventeenth century. Under the guise of a reform movement, this high society language was known as "preciosity."

For anyone having any understanding of French, the language of the play will probably provide many amusing twists of dialogue.

Although no admission will be charged, a collection will be taken up during the evening to help cover expenses.

Frosh Might Have To Live In Basements

Next year's increased enrollment may mean that a number of freshmen, particularly those who enroll late, will have to live in dormitory basements.

"Cobb is the one we will probably use," Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth said yesterday.

Last fall a number of freshman students had to live in dormitory basements for the first part of the quarter.

Wadsworth said, "There will be no three-man rooms. More students would be inconvenienced than helped by setting up three-man rooms."

You're Invited To Be On TV!

Carolina students have a chance this morning to appear on the television show being filmed here by appearing on South Building steps at 8:45.

Visit Agreement Is In Final Round

Student leaders put the revised coed visiting agreement before the administration yesterday afternoon and were told that a yes or no would be given in the next few days.

The agreement, in effect, removes some contradictions from the catalog and Woman's Handbook rules concerning coed visiting and drinking in fraternity houses.

Yesterday's meeting was the first formal presentation of a unified student approved plan. The administration talked the question over with the student representatives and said they would make the decision in a few days.

A report from the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities is expected shortly. With the recommendations of this group, the rest of the administration will consider the problem.

The agreement submitted yesterday was the revised one passed by the Inter-Fraternity Council and other student groups. It includes several administration-suggested changes.

The new proposal is the result of student work over the last few years. It emphasizes self-restraint by men and women in respect to fraternity drinking.

The new agreement, if adopted by the University, would tend to maintain similar visiting rules for coeds and imports and establish advisory boards for fraternity houses. The IFC Court would enforce visiting rules, and individual violators would be tried by the appropriate campus court.

If passed, the agreement would put the following rules in effect:

1. Each fraternity shall have available for assistance and counseling regarding the entertainment of women and other house matrons a visiting committee comprised of not less than three adult non-student women. It shall be the responsibility of the members of the committee to visit the fraternity regularly and to be available for advising and serving as hostesses at fraternity functions.

2. There shall be a special committee called the Visiting Advisory Committee composed of seven members representing fraternity interested areas of the University community. This committee will meet regularly to discuss fraternity social activities and shall be available for counseling and assistance to fraternities, their advisers and the visiting committees. They will approve all members of the visiting committee.

3. Women will not be permitted to visit in fraternity houses before 11 a.m. and after the following hours: 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 1 a.m. on Friday; 2 a.m. on Saturday and 12 p.m. on Sunday. The IFC may extend visiting hours one hour on four weekends per year. These dates are to be recorded at the beginning of each year in the office of the dean of students and will apply to all fraternities.

4. The IFC Court will consider all violations of this agreement involving fraternities as a group, and the Men's Council will consider individual violations.

5. Each fraternity is required to post a $50 bond prior to becoming eligible for the visiting of women in the house.

6. This agreement is in effect on the first day of each semester through the last day of classes.

7. Chapters desiring to entertain women during the Summer sessions must file a request with the IFC during the Spring term immediately preceding the Summer session.

8. The IFC is charged with the responsibility for the administration and the renegotiation of this agreement.

End In Sight

Friday morning's Daily Tar Heel will be the last for Spring Quarter. Publication will be resumed Fall Semester.

Copy for Friday's paper must observe the usual deadlines: news by 3 p.m. Thursday and editorial by 3 p.m. today.

There will be a Summer Tar Heel published on Tuesday and Friday each week during the first session.

THIS IS THE ARMY'S new 280 mm cannon as it fired a test round in Frenchman's Flat, Nev., and later fired the real McCoy, the first atomic artillery shell ever to be fired. The shell exploded with a violence equal to that of 15-thousand tons of TNT. It was recalled that the first atomic bombs dropped on Japan were not much more powerful than this shell. About 31-hundred officers and men watched the test from trenches about five-thousand yards from the target area.—NEA Telephoto.

Student Survey

Some 130 students who still have not turned in their forms in connection with an educational survey being taken for the federal government by the University, are requested to do so.

The forms should be turned in to Charlie Bernard at the Admissions Office, second floor South Building.

Kear Requests Bill Clearing

All outstanding bills and accounts should be cleared before summer vacation, Harry Kear, Student Activities Fund auditor advised campus organization treasurers yesterday.

Bills and accounts must be brought up to date so that Kear's office can close out the year's work and prepare the academic year's financial statement for student organizations.
