CAMPUS GREEKS MEET THE FIRE ESCAPE REGULATION

Phi Kappa Sigma's Escape Is Up, Sign Down

Fraternity, Sorority Houses
Build Approved Fire Exits

By Joyce Adams

At last all fraternities and sororities on campus will be able to say to prospective pledges as well as Building Inspector Burch, "Our house has approved fire escapes."

A year ago this would not have been possible because a check on the Greek letter houses revealed that, with the exception of the recently remodeled Chi Psi Lodge, none of them had a second exit from the upper floors as required by law.

This check resulted in condemnation signs being tacked on the front doors of 35 fraternities and sororities last January, pending construction of adequate fire escape and fire protection measures.

Building Inspector P. L. Burch said yesterday, "We feel that they have made pretty good progress since they got the contracts. All the steel escapes are up except in five houses and those should be completed by next Wednesday."

He said it had taken a little time to get the escape plans drawn up for each house. These had to be approved and contractors were asked to bid for them. But since the initial phases of the work were completed he feels that things have been going along pretty well.

In addition to erection of metal fire escapes certain changes in structure of the house, such as cutting extra doors and windows, space in this years Yackety Yack, is also necessary for all the escapes to have cement bases and exit signs put up at strategic locations.

Inspections on the houses for these things will have to be made before the city can give its final approval. To date only seven houses have been finally inspected and approved. These are the Delta Delta Delta and Alpha Delta Pi sorority houses and the Delta Psi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Chi, Phi Delta Chi and Delta Kappa Epsilon fra-

Graduate Student Jordan
Is Fraternity Counselor

L. R. Jordan, graduate student in business administration in the University from Smithfield, has been appointed Southern Division Counselor of the Mid-East District of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business administration fraternity.

The announcement was made by Ray Woolver, Minneapolis, Minn., National Grand President, and Dr. B. O. Miller, Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Mid East district is composed of West Virginia, Virginia and North and South Carolina. Jordan will work closely with chapters in the two Carolinas.

A past president of Alpha Tau chapter of the fraternity at Chapel Hill, Jordan holds this year the Abernathy Fellowship for Research in Southern Industry.

Jewish Associations

Welcome New Students

The Jewish women's association of Chapel Hill and B'nai B'rith Foundations at UNC will co-sponsor a reception for all Jewish students tonight.

The reception will follow the usual Friday night worship services which begin at 7:15 p.m.

Fire Escapes Not Pushed In City Dwellings

Building Inspector P. L. Burch said yesterday that while most of the rooming houses in town have been checked for preliminary fire escape hazards, there was to be no special pushing from the city to make them conform to the standards set up for the fraternity and sorority houses.

Buildings with wooden fire escapes will not have to have them replaced with metal ones until the wooden ones become "unsound."

Two rooming houses in town have complied with the state laws regarding fire escapes. The Brockwell building has put up a new metal escape and the Hill House is in the process of constructing one.

Although students live in many houses which may have inadequate fire escapes, these are not covered in the state law (Chapter 69, section 8) which exempts private dwellings from compulsory fire escape protection.

The problem in classifying a home which takes in a few students as a private dwelling or a rooming house has, in effect, resulted in a different standard of fire protection for students living in fraternity houses from those living in private homes.

Yack Space

All organizations including fraternities and clubs desiring to have space in this years Yackety Yack should send a representative as soon as possible to the Yack office between 2 and 3 o'clock Monday through Friday to sign contracts.

ternity houses.

The tacking up of the condemnation signs created a furor among the Greek letter societies, who asked "Why?" after they had lived in the house many years without anything being said.

Mayor Ed Lanier explained at that time that the town should have made fire inspections of the houses a long time ago, and aimed as he saw it, "to make the houses reasonably safe and in compliance with the spirit of the State's laws for safety."

Average cost of the fire escapes ranged from about $1,000 to $1,100.

Carroll Named To Chairmanship
Of Ford Foundation Committee

Wallace Carroll, executive news editor of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, has been named chairman of a visiting committee on a Ford Foundation grant of $50,000 to the University for a "self-survey of its training and research programs for the scientific study of human behavior" during the academic year 1953-54.

The grant, announced early in the summer, was made to the University and four other institutions, the University of Chicago, Harvard, the University of Michigan, and Stanford University.

The institutions will use the funds made available under the grants to inquire into the status, problems, needs and desirable development of the behavioral sciences, and to suggest ways in which these resources can be utilized more fully.

The inquiry will be made by a faculty committee at each university, assisted by a visiting committee including scholars from other institutions and laymen.

At the University of North Carolina Dr. Gordon Blackwell, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science, will serve as director of the project, which the Institute will administer, and Dr. James Thompson of the Institute staff will serve as executive secretary.

In addition to Carroll, the visit-

CPU To Meet
In Grail Room

The Carolina Political Union will discuss "Have the Republicans Kept Their Campaign Promises?" at the organization's first meeting of the year in the Grail Room at Graham Memorial Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The question will be discussed by Senators Long and Ferguson on the "American Forum of the Air" Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Students interested in joining the group will meet with them.

Carolina, State
Receive Grant

Carolina and N. C. State is participating in the $50,000 American Viscose Corporation scholarship and fellowship program this year.

Sixteen fellowships and 18 scholarships are being offered by the corporation for study in 22 universities including both State and Carolina.

Six of the fellowships are in chemistry, six in textiles and one each in dyeing, agriculture, forestry and accounting.

Scholarships are in chemistry, chemical engineering, physics, business administration, textiles and accounting.

Company officials said that the program was designed to encourage young scientists, engineers, and business administrators and assist the corporation's general recruiting effort for college trained men.

Coed And Grail
Dances Are Big
Social Doings

Honoring the new coeds and highlighting the first weekend of the school year, the annual Coed Ball will be held from 9 until 12 o'clock tonight in Woollen Gymnasium.

Music for this grand finale to the Orientation program will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors. Refreshments will be contributed by the Dr. Pepper Company. Tickets are on sale at the Y-court today.

To complete the weekend of festivities will be the Consolidated University Day Dance Saturday night, sponsored by the Grail. Dancing to the music of the Carolina Cavaliers, a band composed of Carolina students, will continue from 8:30 until 12 in Woollen Gymnasium.

Girls imported from WC have been invited to the Grail dance, so stags are encouraged to attend.

Tickets for this dance may be purchased at the Y-court any time this week or at the door of the Gymnasium, will be $1.00 per stag, 75c per couple. Proceeds from the dance will go toward the Grail Scholarship Fund, which provides for scholarships to be awarded annually to deserving students.

The order of dress will be informal for girls, and coat and tie for men.

Pictures For Seniors, Law

Yackety Yack photos of seniors and law students are being taken today in the basement of Graham Memorial from 1 to 8 p.m.

Deadline for the Yack pictures is Friday of next week. Pictures will be made each day, Monday through Friday.

Boys will wear a dark coat and a tie. The distaff side may wear whatever they please as they will be draped for their pictures.

Students, Jazz Trumpet Switch
Riot Into Informal Pep Session

A Negro trumpet player called Junior and the cheerleaders last night turned what might have been a virtual student riot into an impromptu pep rally in Emerson Stadium.

Here's how it happened: Almost 30 of the boys from lower quad were whooping it up in front of Carr Dorm at about 9:30. They gradually drifted down to lower quad and stood in the streets still yelling.

Finally, some quick-thinking student leaders decided to recruit

New Standards
In Student Aid

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 24—The scholarship policy of Wesleyan University has been modified so that scholarship holders no longer must maintain the 83.3 average of old, it was announced by the Wesleyan Board of Trustees today.

Although honor roll averages are still expected, greater discretionary powers have been given to the scholarship committee. The committee can now award or renew scholarships to an undergraduate with less than the required average if there are extenuating circumstances.

Special consideration now will be given to freshmen and sophomores on the theory that the strain on maintaining an honors average may be too rough during the period of adjustment to college.

The revised policy states in part: Financial need, figured on a variety of factors, is still a must. Honor roll achievement is expected of all scholarship holders. All awards, regardless of academic average, are subject to the discretion of the faculty committee and revision by the committee.

Dean of Faculty John W. Spaeth, Jr., stood in favor of the "greater flexibility" of the new policy.

House, Barclay
Guests Tonight
At Pep Rally

Harmonica-playing Chancellors House, the new football team, new coach George Barclay, the Card Board and the UNC Band will be featured in the first pep rally of the season at 7 o'clock tonight at Emerson Stadium in preparation for the State-UNC football game tomorrow.

The rally will be held at 7 tonight at Emerson Stadium with personal appearances of the new team, coach, Cardboard, and UNC band in preparation for the State-UNC football game Saturday.

This joint pep rally with State at the Coliseum in Raleigh was promoted through the efforts of the Consolidated University Student Council and will be broadcast over WPTF Raleigh and tape recorded over "Our Best to You."

The rally will go on the air at 7:15 p.m. with UNC having the first seven minutes and State the next seven minutes, alternating twice. State's rally will be heard over a loud speaker in Emerson Stadium.

As a preliminary step to the big Consolidated University week-end, the Carolina pep rally is being sponsored by the cheerleaders, headed by Jim Fountain and the University Club, headed by Jim Calvert.

In his first appearance before the student body as head coach, George Barclay will make a short talk on the condition of the players and the chances of winning the game.

Captain Ken Yarborough will say a few words and introduce the team as a whole.

Over 4,000 students are expected to attend this competitive rally as there will be classes on Saturday and the Coed Ball doesn't begin until an hour after the rally.

In case of inclement weather, the rally will be held in Memorial Hall.

Methodist Church

The Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church will hold its first bi-weekly meeting of the fall Tuesday, September 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley Lounge. The general theme for discussion will be "The Revelation of the Bible for Modern Living."
