

NY School Red Purge Is Begun

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—A special committee of New Yorkers will soon investigate 1,900 members of city college staffs and others to uncover subversive activities in the city's colleges.

The Board of Higher Education set up the committee just after 11 members of the city school system were ordered to go on trial October 26 to answer charges of insubordination and unbecoming conduct.

Trial dates were postponed four weeks after 10 of the instructors pleaded innocent to the charge resulting from their refusal to answer questions about Communist party membership.

According to a statement issued by the Higher Education Board, the action of setting up the new committee was an outgrowth of the action of the State Board of Regents in listing the state and national Communist organizations as subversive.

Under the Feinberg Law of 1949 the Regents' listing made membership in these parties apparent evidence of disqualification for employment in New York schools.

The committee, headed by Gustave G. Rosenberg, a trial lawyer, is already examining procedure used in Albany and Washington investigations before beginning questioning in the four city colleges, Hunter, Queens, Brooklyn, and City.

The Board threatened "disciplinary action" against anyone failing to "cooperate fully" and gave the committee power to require all witnesses to produce "such relevant records and papers as may be necessary."

SUAB Council To Hold First Meeting Today

The first meeting of The Student Union Activities Board's Campus Coordination Council will be held in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial today at 4:00 p. m.

All major campus organizations have been invited to send representatives to the meeting.

The purposes of the council will be:

1. To assure an adequate and continuous program of entertainment for the student body.
2. To prevent conflicts in the scheduling of major campuswide events.
3. To provide a medium through which member organizations can aid each other in publicizing major events.

Yankees Win Opening Game Of Series, 9-5

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The New York Yankees got off to a good start in the quest of their fifth consecutive world championship here today by taking a 9-5 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both teams had 12 hits.

The Yanks started off with a bang by getting three runs in the first inning and sending Carl Erskine, highly rated moundsman for the Bums, to the showers. The runs were collected on three free passes and two triples. Billy Martin's three-bagger came when the bases were full.

Johnny Sain received the credit for the win while Clem Labine took the loss. Neither of the two started the game. Martin of the Yankees and Gil Hodges of the Dodgers took batting honors with three safeties apiece. Martin had two singles and a triple and Hodges had two singles and a home run.

Both teams showed their big guns as each picked up a total of (See SAIN, page 3)

Band Try-Outs Are Still Open

Students interested in playing in the University Marching and Concert Bands may still try out, director Earl Slocum announced today. Try-outs will be held in Mr. Slocum's office in Hill Hall this week.

The band, in addition to playing for all home games and pep rallies, makes several trips to out of town games each season. After football season the members begin rehearsals for the concert season which begins in January and continues until commencement.

Band rehearsals are Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 4:30 during football season.

Health Records Confab Starts Here Monday

A working conference on training of public health records personnel will be held at the School of Public Health Monday through Thursday, October 5-8.

Miss Alpha K. Kenny, of the Department of Field Training, School of Public Health, will direct the conference which will be held in the Experimental Medicine Building at the University. The Department of Field Training is conducting the conference with assistance from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Purpose of the conference is to offer those who are directly concerned with records and records training an opportunity to define the area of knowledge involved; to describe the kinds of personnel needed; and to recommend the types of training that should be provided.

Speakers at the first day's session will include Herbert H. Hasson, associate director, W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich.; E. S. Tisdale, chief, training branch, Communicable Disease Center Public Health Center, Atlanta; Prof. William P. Richardson; Prof. Gilbert Kelso, Pro. Ruth W. Hay, Prof. John J. Wright, Prof. B. G. Greenberg, Prof. Rogert W. Howell, and Prof. Lucy S. Morgan, all of UNC.

Chancellor Robert B. House will address the dinner session Wednesday night, October 6.

Only Two Days

Senior, Law Pictures

It's today, tomorrow, or not at all for Seniors and law students to be photographed for the Yack; the staff says that it can not extend the deadline.

Photographers will be on hand between 1 and 8 p.m., in the basement of Graham Memorial. Because of the poor response up till now, there may be a large last-minute crowd, so hurry up and beat the lines!

Men are requested to wear coats and ties; girls may dress as they please, since they will be draped for the pictures.

There's no charge, but time is running out. If you want to appear in the yearbook, get over to Graham Memorial.

Phi Fires Up On Standing Of College Sports

By John Bijur

Last night the Phi Assembly debated a bill which would enable athletes to not only compete in sports, but obtain an education as well.

The bill had four articles. The first was that all athletes be allowed to receive monetary aid from their college. Secondly, that they be allowed to spend five years in college. Thirdly, that they take fewer courses during their active seasons; and finally all such athletes be under the strict control of a commission set up by the NCAA.

The proponents of the bill asserted the world is entering into a new society in which specialization plays an important part. Football players should be considered as a law student—a specialist in his own field.

The opponents declared that the university's first objective is the improvement of the mind and then that of the body. Athletics should thus form man's mind, not his body.

Politicians Return To Work; Student Legislature Begins

TV Construction Permit Is Approved For UNC

The Consolidated University received the official okay yesterday for construction of an educational TV station—the first such station in North Carolina.

The official grant came in the form of a construction permit from the Federal Communications Commission for building a non-commercial educational station on channel 4, very high frequency.

Slightly over a million dollars in private funds has been raised to finance equipment purchases, studio and transmitter construction and the first two years of telecasting.

Studios will be operated at State, Woman's College and here.

Actual operation of the station should begin in the Fall of 1954, according to a recent Trustee Executive Committee report by Controller W. D. Carmichael.

Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University, announced yesterday that Robert F. Schenckan of Chapel Hill has received appointment as director of television for the Consolidated University. Allan McIntyre of State College was appointed chief engineer.

Shenckan, a graduate of the University of Virginia and holder of a Master's Degree from the University of North Carolina, has been associate professor in the Department of Radio and Associate Director of the Communication Center at Chapel Hill. McIntyre, a graduate of State College in Electrical Engineering and holder of a Master's degree from the State College School of Engineering, has been a Research Associate at the College for several years.

Carmichael has said that the proposed transmitter tower will be approximately 750 feet above the ground, located in a high position assuring a good picture not only in the areas of the three schools, but over a large part of Eastern North Carolina and well into the Piedmont west of Greensboro.

All live programs originating at the three schools, in addition to being on Channel Four, will be available to commercial stations wishing to pick them up simultaneously. Kinescope, or films of the programs, will be available to commercial stations in the state for use at their convenience.

No advertising may be sold by the University station, under FCC rules.

Channel four is the only one of the eight allocated North Carolina for educational broadcasting which is the "very high frequency" type. The others are ultra high frequency and not readily suitable to most TV sets.

Student politicians swing back into action tonight as Student Legislature begins the year at 7:30 in Phi Hall of New East.

Requests for money and organization reports head the list of business for the session.

Several organizations are expected to make requests for money. An increase in enrollment does not mean that there is going to be a big surplus in unappropriated funds. The budget was estimated for an enrollment of 5,200 and about 5,900 are enrolled.

Every organization gets a percentage of the budget which comes from students' block fees. The increase in funds does not go into the unappropriated balance.

The Carolina Quarterly will ask for money to help them get their publication off to a good start.

A bill to provide $2,000 for Graham Memorial is expected to be introduced.

Student Party has a majority of seats in the legislature. They have 26 seats to University Party's 24. There are seats to be filled, but the party which has lost a man gets to appoint someone else from their party—actually the party recommends a man to President Bob Gorham and he automatically approves according to custom.

National Student Association Representative Ken Penegar will report on the national convention.

Carolina Forum will report on its expected program for the coming year. Joel Fleishman will give the report.

Professor Is Fired Because Of Testimony

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 29—An assistant professor who refused to tell a Congressional committee whether he had been affiliated with a Communist student group at Yale University was fired today from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. Arthur L. Levy was found "unfit and" to have forfeited his right to continue as an assistant professor upon the faculty" by the Board of Trustees of RPI, President Livingston L. Levy said.

Claiming possible self-incrimination, Dr. Levy invoked the fifth Amendment in declining to say whether he was in the subversive group, when he appeared before the House Un-American Activities Committee April 23.

According to the Fifth Amendment, a witness does not have to give information that might tend to incriminate himself.

Two Students Receive Fines For Speeding

Two Carolina students appeared in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court Tuesday before Judge W. S. Stewart to answer speeding charges.

Paul P. Payne, Jr. a sophomore, from Beckley, W. Va., was fined $5 and court costs for speeding. James S. Brown, also listed as a student, was fined $5 and court costs for speeding.

Chief W. T. Sloan of the Chapel Hill Police Dept. said that more North Carolina students were cited for speeding than any other single offense. "However," the Chief said, "they rarely give us any trouble, and all in all they are a good bunch of boys."
