TAR HEELS TRIUMPH IN FINAL QUARTER, 18-13

Cornerstone Rites To Mark Birthday

The 160th anniversary of the founding of the University will be celebrated with traditional exercises here tomorrow, beginning at 10:50 a.m.

The program will be part of the Orange County Bicentennial celebration which will continue through Tuesday, when Carrboro-Chapel Hill Day will be observed. Tomorrow's program will be University Day, highlighted by the cornerstone laying of Old East and the fifth performance of "The Road to Orange," on Fetzer Field at 8 p.m.

The date of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East Building, oldest state university dormitory in the country, was October 12, 1793.

Pageantry, re-enacting in pantomime the cornerstone laying, will feature the program for which classes and administrative offices will be closed from 10:50 to 1 p.m. Formal ceremonies will be cancelled in case of rain.

Arrangements for the pageant are under the direction of Julianne Hale, Jefferson City, Tenn., graduate student in the Dramatic Art Department. Special music will be furnished by the University Band under the direction of Prof. Earl Slocom.

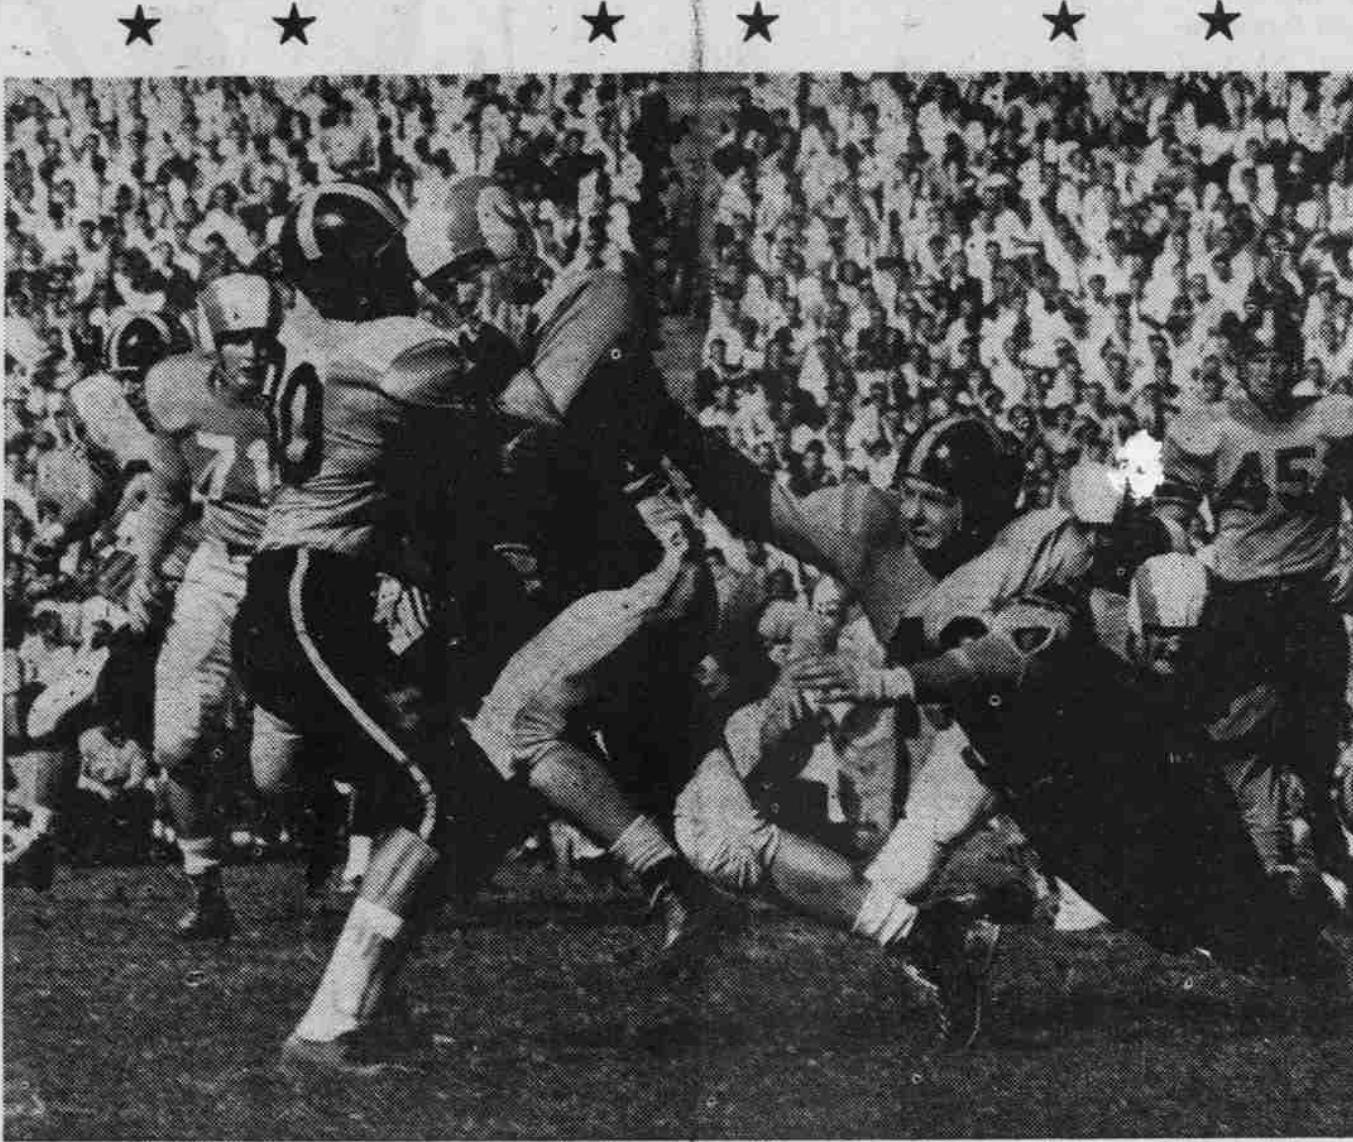

Preceded by a color guard of cadets in the Navy and Air Force ROTC units, President Gordon Gray, Chancellor R. B. House, student body President Bob Gorham, Rocky Mount, and members of the Carolina Playmakers in Colonial costumes will proceed from South Building to temporary platforms in the south court.

The services will open with the "Star Spangled Banner" followed by invocation by Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The audience will join in singing the University Hymn.

Chancellor House will lead in responsive reading of lines from the Apocrypha, after which there will be one minute of silence in memory of alumni who have died during the past year.

The Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. Joel Carter, will sing "Integer Vitae," and the combined Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will sing "Creation" by William Billings.

Taking the part of General William R. Davie, often called the "father of the University," Donald Treat, of Chapel Hill, will lead members of the Playmakers in re-enacting the Masonic cornerstone

University's 1,000-Foot Educational TV Tower

To Be Highest Man-Made Structure In State

The highest man-made structure in North Carolina will be constructed soon in the form of WUNC-TV's 1,000 foot transmitting tower to be located in nearby

Pittsboro.

The tower, very close to the geographical center of the state, will send over a maximum 100 kilowatt beam with a 100-mile radius covering most of North Carolina.

In addition to studios at Woman's College, State and UNC, will be a mobile unit which will produce 'on-the-spot' telecasts from experimental farms, legislative halls, sports fields, special events spots and other educational resource areas of the state.

Approximately 2,250,000 people will receive effective pictures, according to engineer estimates. Other thousands will see many of the programs over local stations by film recording and rebroadcasting.

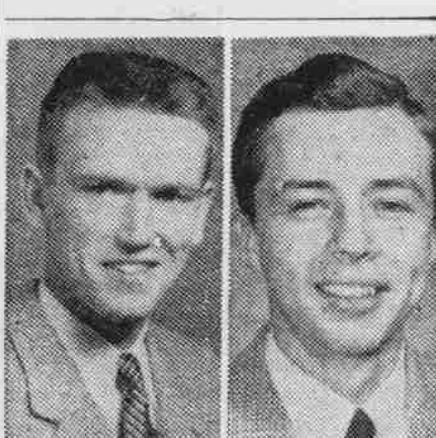

Commercial stations will be free to retelevise any program rejuvenated in the University's kinescope or film recording facilities and complete film-processing laboratory.

A converter will not be necessary to receive the station's beam since the channel allocated to WUNC-TV in VHF Channel 4.

More than $1,000,000 has been donated to the Consolidated University for construction and maintenance of the station.

The station is an outgrowth of a conference of 150 deans and directors of the three faculties that recommended the appointment of an All-University Advisory Council.

GERALD PARKER (left), Silverdale, and Wade Matthews, Winston-Salem, head the debating societies on the Carolina campus this year. Parker is speaker of the Dialectic Senate and Matthews heads the Philanthropic Assembly.

College Demos Told To Unite To Save World

RALEIGH, Oct. 9—"Let us unite the party for our common ideal, that of saving the nation in a world gone bad." Lt. Governor Luther Hodges said in his keynote address to the Young Democratic Clubs Convention here.

Hodges lauded the spirit, energy and courage of the young leaders of the nation, and urged young Democrats to stay in the party and iron out its difficulties.

"The Republican dilemma is symbolized by Arthur Murray's new dance step, 'the presidential waltz,' one step forward, two steps backward, one to the side and one on hesitation," Hodges said.

Carolina delegate Al House is in the race for secretary of the North Carolina YDC.

Other delegates from UNC are John Sanders, Bob Pace, Gene Cook, Ken Penegar, Al Adams and Lindsay Tate.

Gravitte Stars In Carolina Conquest

GROVES STADIUM, WAKE FOREST, N. C., Oct. 10—Carolina came from behind to score two touchdowns in the fourth quarter and defeat Wake Forest 18-13 for the first time in four years. Halfbacks Ken Keller and Connie Gravitte along with fullback Dick Lackey stole the show for the Tar Heels with their broken field running.

Lackey and Gravitte, neither of whom had played first string ball this year, were welcome surprises to the Tar Heel offensive. After the Deacs had taken a seven point lead in the first quarter, coach Barclay sentries promptly took the Wake Forest kickoff on their own twenty-five yard line and, after the whistle had ended the first period, put on a seventy-five yard march which ended with Larry Parker bucking over what looked like the whole Deacon line for the score. Keller's conversion attempt failed and the Tar Heels were one big point behind.

The weather was hot and the team was hotter in that last round.

"Nose" Jones didn't seem too aware of the heat as he showed up wearing a fur coat.

The little pig followed the airplane all the way to Groves Stadium.

The pig wasn't the only one who followed the Tar Heels to Baptist Hollow. Was that George or a Deacon first cousin trotting around on the field?

* Perspiration and Deacon tears have furnished enough moisture for an old fashioned baptizing.

Reluctant Carolina rooters were seen to buy sun shades with the word "Deacons" on them, turned the word side down and same-facedly put them on to protect their eyes from the burning sun.

Fall colors on the trees furnished an appropriate backdrop for the game.

During the ride from Chapel Hill a spot check revealed hitch-hikers dotting the road like flies. At 12:45 p.m. almost a dozen lined the Pittsboro Road in the 100-yard stretch from Raleigh Rd. to the hospital entrance.

It was the first Saturday at The Hill without the magnetic influence of a home football game. The "exodus" appeared almost as great as a regular Friday afternoon last year.

Game latecomers were held up by long lines of slow moving traffic. It took as long as 20 minutes to cover the last half mile into overcrowded parking lots.

Between-Class Crowd Cheers

Tar Heel supporters, a small but vocal band of students and instructors, assembled between 10 and 11 o'clock classes yesterday at the Y Court for ten minutes of "Beat the Deacs" yells.

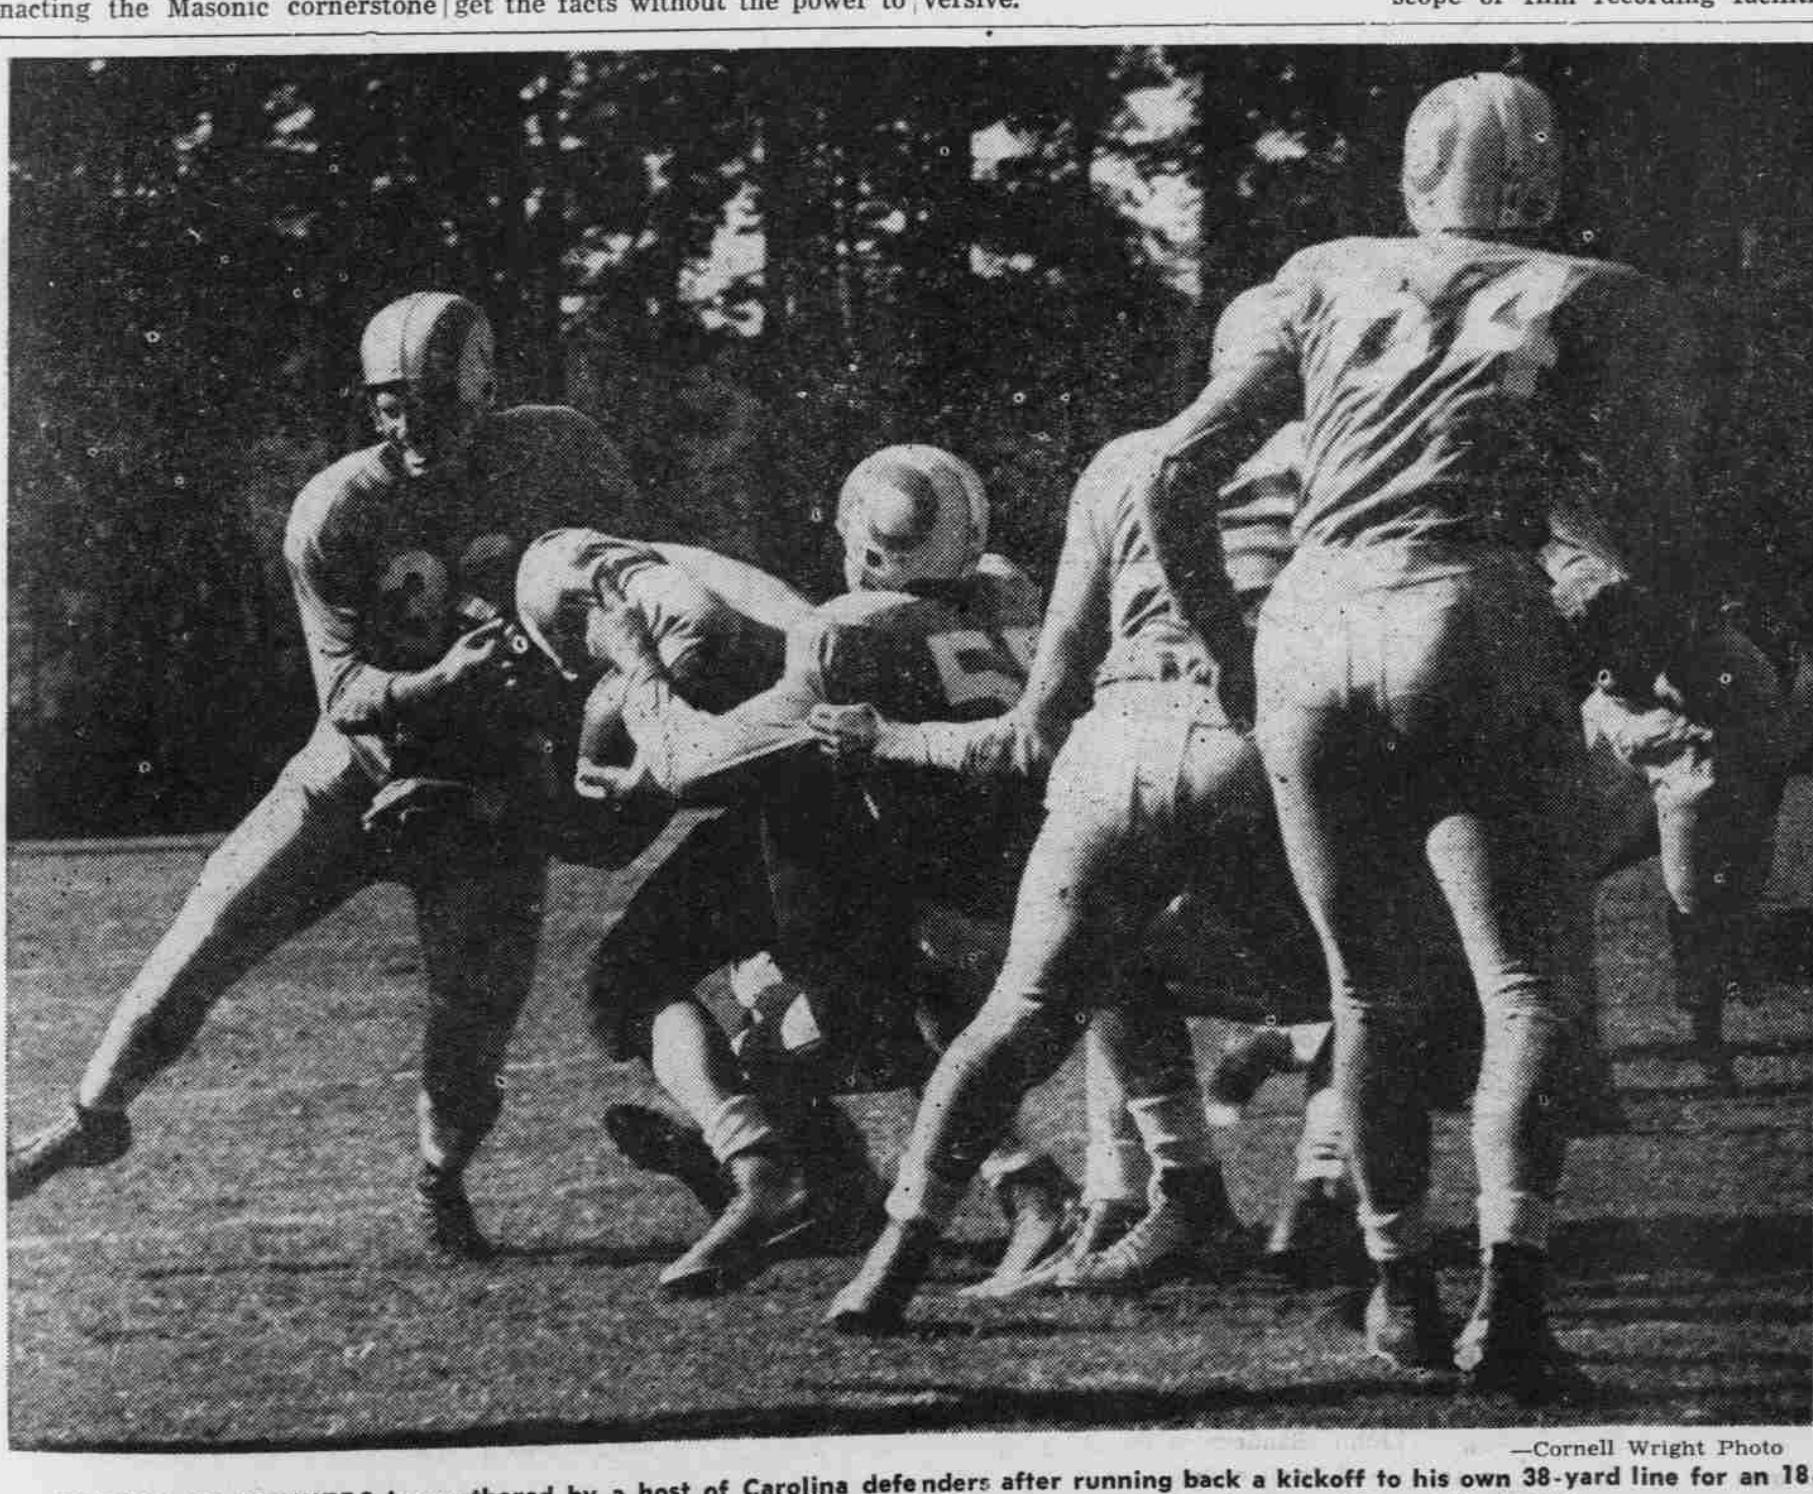

Head cheerleader Jim Fountain and his coterie led two hundred Court passers-by through Carolina cheers and "Hark, the Sound," from the steps of South Building.

Administration officials, Assistant Dean of Admissions Charles Bernard and Associate General College Dean Cecil Johnson among them, hollered enthusiastically from the windows above.
