Venerable Dedication Is Scheduled For Saturday

Completion of the $1,700,000 addition to Venable Hall, which is to be formally dedicated this Saturday, gives the University the largest, best equipped and most modern college chemistry building in the Southeast and one of the best in the country.

The addition, which more than doubles the size and facilities of the old portion of Venable Hall, is 195 by 220 feet and contains 1,253,000 cubic feet. The old section, finished in 1925, is 195 by 195 feet.

The cost includes $400,000 for equipment. The General Assemblies of 1949 and 1951 appropriated the funds.

The dedication program, which is expected to draw a large number of chemistry alumni, gets underway Friday night when the building will be open for inspection and an informal reception will be held.

A full schedule has been arranged for Saturday. A symposium on the chemistry of metal complex compounds will be held that morning with Dr. Henry Taube, University of Chicago, and Dr. F. P. Dwyer, University of Sydney, Australia, as speakers. A luncheon for alumni of the Department will follow at 12:30 in the Morehead Building.

A brief dedicatory ceremony will be held in the auditorium of the new section at 2:15.

The afternoon program will also include a symposium on polymer chemistry with Dr. C. S. Marvel, University of Illinois, and Dr. W. E. Hanford, vice-president, M. W. Kellogg Company, New York, as speakers.

A banquet will be held in the Carolina Inn at 7 o'clock after which Dean Joel H. Hildebrand, University of California will speak in Venable Hall.

The enlarged building will enable the University to provide better instruction not only for chemistry majors, but for pre-medical, pre-dental, nursing and pharmacy students, and will greatly increase research facilities for both graduates and undergraduates.

The main entrance of Venable Hall has been changed now that addition is completed. Formerly on the East side of the building facing the Library, it now faces North towards the Buildings and Grounds Department. This entrance opens onto the second floor of the addition where departmental offices, a conference room, seminar room, faculty offices and laboratories, classrooms and student research laboratories are located.

"THAT'S THE CAP of a full commander. I'm gonna wear that cap some day and you're going to help me!" Cmdr. F. L. Edwards, Executive Officer of the NROTC unit here, as the Captain and Donald Treat as Roberts reach a critical moment in the Carolina Playmakers' production of "Mr. Roberts". This popular comedy about Navy life will be given in the Playmakers Theater tomorrow at 8:30.

'Mr. Roberts' Makes History

Playmakers Extend Run

For the first time in the history of the organization, the Carolina Playmakers are adding two additional performances to a scheduled run of a play in order to take care of advance reservations.

Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan's popular comedy, "Mister Roberts" will play through Tuesday, October 27, instead of through Sunday, Oct. 25 as originally planned, John W. Parker, business manager for the Playmakers announced yesterday.

The production opens Wednesday night. All performances begin at 8:30.

Parker said that the holdover was made necessary because of an almost complete sell-out two days after tickets went on sale to the general public last week. Saturday morning only a few of the limited issue of 1,000 season tickets for Playmakers productions remained.

Thomas M. Patterson, director of "Mister Roberts," said he was "delighted with the holdover."

Tickets for the Monday and Tuesday performances are now available at the Playmakers Business Office in Swain Hall, and at Ledbetter - Pickard in downtown Chapel Hill. Thirty-five standing room tickets will be on sale at the Playmakers Theatre box office each night.

Other productions scheduled include "On Borrowed Time," which will go on tour after playing in Chapel Hill, and "Kiss Me Kate."

Foreign Student Party Will Be Held Tomorrow

The Student-Faculty committee of the Student Union Activities Board will give a reception for foreign students tomorrow at 4:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The reception, planned in observance of United Nations Week, will also honor the Department of Romance Languages.

Director of the Inter-American Institute, and William Russell, advisor of the Cosmopolitan Club.

Students interested in meeting the foreign students and the faculty of the Romance Language Department are invited to attend the reception.

Trustees Visit Here Tomorrow

Eighteen University Trustees take a look-see into Carolina student life tomorrow.

They are taking part in a program of Consolidated University orientation, which will find them in Greensboro at the Woman's College today, Chapel Hill tomorrow, and State College in Raleigh on Thursday.

The visitors here will get a picture of student government and activity on the three campuses from members of the faculty and student leaders.

This morning at 10:30 in Greensboro, the Trustees will hear addresses from Consolidated University President Gordon Gray and Woman's College Chancellor E. K. Graham.

Tentative plans for tomorrow call for a meeting with UNC student leaders at 3:35 p.m. in the Library auditorium. Student Body President Bob Gorham will lead off an informal discussion of student life in Chapel Hill. Over 30 Carolina students, representatives from most student organizations, have been invited to be present at that meeting.

The Trustees will also get a chance to see the Hospital and Infirmary, the chemistry building, Venable Hall, and the University Press. They will view the locally produced film, "In The Name of Freedom," the story of the University.

They will attend a meeting with Carolina deans in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Planetarium tomorrow morning, and a faculty dinner at 7:15 tomorrow night.

Quaker Talks At Methodist Church Today

Ray Wilson, Executive Secretary of the Friends' Committee on National Legislation, will speak concerning present legislative problems in Congress at a Methodist Church luncheon at 1 o'clock today. The price of the luncheon is 75 cents.

Wilson has been a lobbyist in Washington and opposed the Universal Military Training bill which Congress defeated in 1952. He has been a member of the Friends' Committee since it was founded ten years ago, and at present heads a six member staff of full time workers on legislative problems of Congress and administrative problems of government.

The committee conducts a research program to provide facts about legislative problems. It keeps churches and Friends' Meetings informed on pertinent legislation and keeps congressmen informed on the position and attitudes of the church.

Di, Phi Joint Debate Is UN Week's First Event

Debate Topic Is Bill Calling For Admission Of Red China Into Ranks Of United Nations

The Philanthropic Assembly and the Dialectic Senate will meet in joint session tonight at 8 o'clock in Di Hall, third floor New West to open United Nations Week.

The topic for debate is "A bill calling for the admission of Communist China into the United Nations." The Phi and Di Societies are cooperating with the national observance of UN Week, which continues through Saturday.

The debate will be rebroadcast over the University radio station WUNC at 8 p. m. Wednesday. This is the first time that either society has broadcast a debate.

Senator James Turner of Winston-Salem will introduce a bill calling for the replacement of Nationalist China by Communist China in all United Nations functions. The admission would be contingent upon the successful completion of the Korean peace conference, according to the bill.

Opponents of the bill say that Communist China is an aggressor to the UN and should not be allowed to sit in the council on nations. Proponents say that the Communist government is the true political force in China and should represent that country in the UN.

They also maintain that the Communist government holds the reins in China, and not Chiang-Kai-Shek and his Formosan regime. The admission of Mao-Tse-Tung's government into the United Nations would give that government full recognition as the real sovereign political power of China. Without world recognition it remains technically a second-rate power, proponents contend.

Visitors are invited to participate in the debate. Besides the joint Di-Phi debate tonight the week's activities include a sorority joint meeting, an information campaign, an international dinner and dance, a pageant and a flag-raising ceremony.

Sororities will hold their weekly chapter meetings jointly in Carroll Hall tomorrow in order to hear Dean Henry Brandis speak on the UN and to see films on the subject. Susan Fink will direct a UN information booth Thursday through Saturday from 9 o'clock to noon in Y Court. Pamphlets and other printed materials will be distributed there in order to familiarize students with the UN.

A sponsor an international dinner in Lenoir Hall, to be followed by a dance in the Pine Room. These activities will be held in cooperation with the Cosmopolitan Club. The highlight of the week's program will be a pageant written by John Clayton and directed by Mrs. Efraim Rosensweig to be presented in Hill Hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

President Eisenhower has proclaimed Saturday United Nations Day. In making the proclamation Eisenhower said, "The expression of our faith in and support of the United Nations will encourage and bring hope to the peoples of other nations who are also working toward a true peace with freedom and justice for all."

Third Night Of Rush Tonight

Fraternity rushing continued last night, with hundreds of unattached men students circulating among the campus' 25 social fraternities.

Assistant to the Dean of Students, Ray Jefferies, yesterday estimated the number of rushees at 1,000. Invitations were issued to more than 1,100, an increase of "about a hundred" over last year's invitation list.

Rushing continues tonight with a new time schedule, 7 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. It will end on Thursday night.

Visitors are invited to participate in the debate.

Without world recognition it remains technically a second-rate power, proponents contend.

Dancing Classes Held In GM Tuesday Afternoons

Miss Margaret Taylor will hold dancing classes Tuesday afternoons from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial for students interested in learning new dance steps.

SUAB is sponsoring the weekly classes and instructions ranging from the South American tango to American waltzes and jitterbug will be given.

Anyone interested in assisting Miss Taylor is urged to come. There is a definite need for women instructors.

R. B. House Jr. Dies In Hospital Here; Was 33

Robert Burton House Jr., son of Chancellor and Mrs. R. B. House, died last night at Memorial Hospital here. He was 33.

Mr. House entered the hospital Aug. 31 and was there until the middle of September. He returned October 8 and became seriously ill within the last few days. He died at 8:15 last night.

Funeral arrangements are not yet complete.

Besides his parents he is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. S. Stewart, of Chapel Hill.

Mr. House graduated with a degree in chemistry from the University in 1941. He was a member of the chemical fraternity here and Phi Delta Theta social fraternity. Following research work with the National Defense Research Council, Mr. House was commissioned in the Navy and served in the Pacific on combat duty.

After the war he studied law and received the LL.B. degree at Yale in 1949. He practiced in Washington and had done legal work with the State Department.

Rings On Sale This Thursday

Carolina senior class rings will be sold in the Y lobby this Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, according to Chairman Walt Gurley of the senior ring committee.

Featured this year is a ring with the new Carolina blue stone. Orders placed now will be filled before Christmas.

Gurley will take orders for rings twice a month after Thursday for the rest of the collegiate year.

Juniors will be permitted to purchase rings after Christmas.

The Order of the Grail is the official agent for class rings.

School Spirit Not Riot, Says Chief Of Friday Night Rallying

By Jerry Reece
"No, I don't think it was a riot. I sent 11 officers to the pep rally to control traffic and not to break it up."

So spoke Chief W. T. Sloan of the Chapel Hill Police Dept. yesterday. He was referring to the Carolina-Maryland pep rally which ended up on Franklin St. late Friday night. Several state papers referred to the rally as a "riot," but Chief Sloan killed this idea when he said that it was just "school spirit and it should be expected and appreciated."

Fifteen students were booked by the Chapel Hill Police Dept. over the weekend for a variety of charges. Five of the students were from Maryland the other 10 were Carolina men.

Three Carolina men were booked Friday. Gaither Waiser was charged with a traffic lane violation. James B. Armstrong and John H. Helton were charged with discharging fireworks.

Seven Maryland students were booked on Saturday, five were charged with illegal possession of fireworks and the other two were charged with disorderly conduct.

Five Carolina students were booked on Saturday. John Howard was charged with disorderly conduct. Bob Kindig and Allen Jones were charged with public drunkenness. R. C. Heymann was charged with driving drunk and T. C. Steele, Jr., was charged with speeding 90 m.p.h.

The pep rally was planned for Carolina students Friday night. It was to start at the Y Court, wind down Franklin street, and end up on Intra-Mural field with a bonfire.

By the time the rally reached the bonfire stage it had acquired some Maryland students, so when the rally began to break up the majority of the crowd (Maryland and UNC) began to work its way back up town still cheering.

When the remnants of the rally reached Franklin street they discovered that the body of the Maryland supporters complete with band had begun to arrive by bus.
