

Tar Heels Go Marching Through Georgia Today

The Daily Tar Heel

This Air Edition By

Southern Airways

WEATHER
Athens: Mostly sunny and slightly warmer. Chapel Hill: Clear and warm.

VOLUME LXII NUMBER 30 ATHENS BUREAU: HOLMAN HOTEL CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1953 COMPLETE AP PHOTO AND WIRE SERVICE FOUR PAGES TODAY

CAROLINA, BULLDOGS CLASH IN ATHENS TODAY

'Spirit Is High' Fans Plan Athens Rally

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 23—The football team and approximately 300 Carolina students will meet in front of the Holman Hotel here about noon Saturday morning for a pep rally in preparation for the clash between Coach George Barclay's Tar Heels and Coach Wally Butts' Bulldogs in Sanford Stadium Saturday afternoon.

"Spirit for the game is running high," said Jim Fountain, Tar Heel head cheerleader. "The defeat last week didn't seem to lessen the spirit a bit in either the team or the students," he said.

The approximately 300 Carolina students who will attend the game today left Chapel Hill for Athens late yesterday and early this morning by car, bus, and train.

Although there was no organized caravan, Fountain said, "We should have a good cheering section today."

Commenting on the "fine spirit" shown by students so far this season Fountain said, "The cheerleaders will be there today, and we and the students will stick together with the team until the end of the game."

The last year Tar Heel fans staged such a rally was in 1950 when more than 1,000 students traveled to the East Georgia town to cheer the team on to a 0-0 tie.

At an earlier rally, in 1948, the Carolina fans were beset by a wave of Georgia vandalism which resulted in torn-off aerials and smashed car windows. The reception at the '50 contest was a big improvement, although observers at the time said the Georgia hospitality left "much to be desired."

At the 1950 rally cheerleaders required all freshmen to attend and snake-dance through the Athens streets, but this year compulsion is out and sponsors are counting on the school spirit demonstrated in the four contests already past, to provide the stimulant for cheering.

GEORGE BARCLAY

NROTC Team Off To Athens By Air Today

"We are going down to Athens and snow them with the drill team," said Capt. G. F. Good III, USMC yesterday.

The NROTC drill team will leave Raleigh-Durham airport this morning at 9. They will arrive in Athens, Ga. at 12:30 to perform at the Carolina-Georgia game.

Capt. Good is in charge of the unit and he is assisted by T/Sgt. J. A. Quinn.

The drill team will take with them the 2,000 special issues of Daily Tar Heel which have been prepared to hand out at today's game.

Bullock At Helm For Tar Heels

Georgia Is Favored By 7 Points; Key To Game Is Passing

By Tom Peacock
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 23 — Carolina's Tar Heels, with their fourth "first string" quarterback in as many weeks, will try to march through Georgia here tomorrow at 2 p.m. in an inter-sectional game.

Sophomore Leonard (Teedee) Bullock will direct the Tar Heel split-T attack tomorrow as Coach George Barclay continues to

Position	Carolina
Left End	Yarborough
Left Tackle	McCreedy
Left Guard	Neville
Center	Kirkman
Right Guard	Patterson
Right Tackle	Eure
Right End	Adler
QB	Bullock
LHB	Keller
RHB	Gravitt
Fullback	Lackey

file his key position in an attempt to find the right man Bullock won the nod with his excellent show against Maryland late in the game last week.

Coach Wally Butts of Georgia, a Southeastern Conference school, has no quarterback problem. The nation's number one pass thrower, Zeke Bratkowski, leads the Bulldog split-T, and the key to Carolina success is to stop the passing of this gentleman.

The Tar Heels have worked on defense against Bratkowski's passing all week, but the effectiveness of Bill Edwards' scouting and Steve Belichick's coaching won't be known until after this closely-rated ball game is over. Georgia now holds a slight seven-point edge over Carolina.

Captain Ken Yarborough, Tar Heel left end, returns to the lineup tomorrow after missing a week, and number one center Bill Kirkman will be ready for the first time this season after breaking his arm in practice. Only center Junior Seawell, suffering from a sprained ankle, will be out of the lineup, though right end Will Frye won't be able to play at full speed.

Carolina takes its best record in four years into the game, a 3-1 season slate that is marred only by last week's 26-0 loss to mighty Maryland. Maryland blasted the Bulldogs, 40-13, the previous week for the only basis of comparison of the two teams. Jim Tatum, Terp coach, said, "If Carolina only had a quarterback, it would be a great team," and "Zeke Bratkowski is one of the finest passers I have ever seen." That sums up tomorrow's contest.

The Bulldogs are given the edge on the strength of "The Brat," who has pulled many a game out of the fire including the 1951 contest in Chapel Hill when he completed nine out of 17 passes for 215 yards and a 28-16 win. The two teams didn't meet last year because of the polio ban at Carolina.

Besides the addition of Bullock to the starting backfield, fullback Dick Lackey has firmly established himself on the first string with his hard running and excellent punting against Maryland. Lackey got off quick kicks of 60 and 80 yards that rolled into the Terp end zone for touchdowns. He leads the Atlantic Coast Conference in that department with a 42.8-yard average for 16 punts.

Halfback Ken Keller will lead Carolina's running attack tomorrow, with able assistance from right half Connie Gravitt and replacement Larry Parker who is having his best season. Keller averaged 3.2 yards last week. Parker (See CLASII, page 3)

WALLACE BUTTS

SPECIAL

As the Tar Heels invade Athens, Georgia today, so does the Daily Tar Heel.

2,000 copies of this edition will be flown to the Athens Bureau in the Holman Hotel.

Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neil and Sports Editor Tom Peacock are on hand to cover the day's events and man the Georgia Bureau.

Special art work for this paper was done by Put Davis, senior man Greenwich, Conn. who is a Tarnation staffer at the Tomorrow's edition of The Daily Tar Heel will carry Editor Neil and Sports Editor Tom Peacock's stories.

Post-Season Bowl Tilts Individual Choice: Gray

By Charles Kur...
University President Gordon Gray said yesterday participation in post-season football bowl games of Atlantic Coast Conference teams is "still a choice to be made by individual schools" in the Conference.

Should a bowl bid come to Carolina or to State College—and Gray admitted with a smile it's not likely this year—the decision of whether or not to accept will be a joint faculty-administration problem, he said.

President Gray made his statement in response to faculty in the faculty of the University at Chapel Hill voted several years ago not to allow participation of Carolina teams in bowl games. Gray made it clear yesterday that the recently signed contract between the Atlantic Coast Conference, of which Carolina is a member, and the Big Seven conference does not contravene that faculty decision.

"It would be made clear," Gray said, "that the Atlantic Coast Conference cannot require a team to go to a bowl. Should Carolina be invited, the decision of whether to accept would be up to the faculty and the administration."

"However," he said, "it is, I feel, not up to us to tell other schools in the Conference whether they can accept bowl invitations."

The Atlantic Coast Conference and the Big Seven last weekend signed a contract which will send a team from each conference to the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day. Carolina faculty inquiry as to what this means for Carolina and State College teams prompted Gray's remarks.

President Gray has gone on record in the past as personally opposing bowl participation for University of North Carolina football teams. Three years ago, he was one of those who helped write in the Southern Conference rule prohibiting post-season games for conference members.

Last year, he changed his mind about the best method of regulating bowl games. He said then he felt "institutional conscience" should be the guide, rather than conference rule. He said he was still opposed to post-season games for either State or Carolina.

Last Spring, Gray outlined five conditions under which he would be willing for State and Carolina to enter the Atlantic Coast Conference. Four of the conditions (See POST-SEASON, page 4)

University Will Dedicate New Venable Today

The two-day dedication program for enlarged Venable Hall, which more than doubles the physical facilities of the Chemistry Department got under way last night for the public.

Guided tours of the labor structure were conducted throughout the evening.

The visitors included a large number of chemistry alumni, representatives from chemistry departments of other universities and colleges, and representatives of many chemical companies.

Albert Coates, director of the University's Institute of Government will represent Governor William B. Umstead in presenting the building to the University. President Gordon Gray will accept it on behalf of the university.

Stilwell Appointed By Gorham; Replaces Rejected Wolfsheimer

By Richard Creed
After more than a week of indecision President Bob Gorham yesterday announced his appointment of Jack Stilwell as attorney general to replace Lou Wolfsheimer, who was rejected by the Student Legislature last week.

Gorham's decision resulted from the contesting of the validity of the Legislature's action by Phin Horton, past attorney general.

Commenting on the appointment of Stilwell, Horton said, Stilwell is qualified to fill the post of attorney general; and Wolfsheimer is qualified to fill the post of attorney general. The president should be allowed to pick his right hand man."

The appointment of Stilwell will come up for approval by the Legislature this Thursday night. Stilwell, if accepted, will resign as University Party floor leader in Legislature and as chairman of the UP.

Gorham indicated that he has been waiting before making another appointment to see what Horton would do. Horton contested the Legislature's rejection of Wolfsheimer by a vote of 20 to 15 on the grounds that nine members of the Legislature abstained, and that their abstentions should not have been considered as negative votes, "which, in effect they were."

Horton said yesterday that he "just wanted to clear the matter up" both for the benefit of the Legislature and the students.

The by-laws of the student Legislature state that "all appointments to Executive and Judicial offices made by the President of the Student Body shall be ratified by a majority of the Legislators present."

Clark Accepts Post As Prexy At The Citadel

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 23—(AP)—Gen Mark W. Clark, retiring from the U.S. Army Oct. 31, will be the next president of The Citadel, the South Carolina military college at Charleston.

He will succeed Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former U.S. Army chief of staff who retired last June after 22 years as president of the 111-year-old institution. The office pays $12,000 a year.

Clark, now visiting at Charlotte, N. C., today notified Gov. James F. Byrnes that he will accept the recent offer of The Citadel board of visitors. Byrnes is an ex-officio member of the board.

Clark said, however, that he cannot take over the post before next March 1.

A distinguished World War II figure, Clark was supreme Allied commander in the Far East until Oct. 1. Before that, he was chief of the Army ground forces.

Clark rocketed into prominence early in the war when he went secretly by submarine to North Africa to see Admiral Darlan, in command of the French forces there after the fall of France. His conference with Darlan played an important part in the subsequent conquest of North Africa by the Allied forces.

Later, Clark commanded the Fifth Army that drove the Germans out of Italy and knocked that country out of the war. After that, he was commander-in-chief of the U. S. occupation forces in Austria and the United States member of the Allied Commission for that country.

In 1947, he became a deputy secretary of state and sat in at council of foreign ministers meetings in London and Moscow.

Byrnes, a former secretary of state, said Clark proved himself a "statesman and diplomat as well as a soldier." He added that he often conferred with him about other European matters as well as about Austria.

Eure Follows Son To Athens To Plant Flag

RALEIGH, Oct. 23 (AP)—North Carolina's irrepressible Secretary of State Thad Eure, 53, will be at the North Carolina-Georgia game in Athens, Ga., Saturday waving a Tar Heel flag—and what a flag.

It is eight feet long and five feet high and it'll be mounted on a 10-foot staff. Eure borrowed it, especially for his Athens trip, from State Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds George Cherry.

"When the game is over," promised Eure, who has a son playing in the Carolina line this year, "I'm going to plant this flag right in the center of the University of Georgia field. It will be the most important flag raising since Iwo Jima."

"But what," inquired a skeptic, "if Carolina loses?"

"The flag," promised Eure, "will be unfurled just as proudly as if we lose."

"But not as happily," put in State Treasurer Edwin Gill, who was standing nearby.

Negro Leader Urges Greater Initiative Towards Civil Rights

ROCKEY MOUNT, N. C., Oct. 23—(AP)—A North Carolina Negro leader warned his people tonight that they could still lose their "civil rights battle" because of "our inertia, our smugness, and our false security."

He urged them to demand leaders with more initiative and boldness. He said such leaders must be responsible and "keep abreast or ahead" of new situations.

Kelly M. Alexander of Charlotte, in an address prepared for the 10th annual convention of the North Carolina Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, added that he felt NAACP's program of "making American Democracy a living reality for Americans, Negro as well as white," is succeeding.

Marion Downs, Popular Singer Of Spirituals, To Give Concert

Marion Downs, noted singer of spirituals, will give a concert on October 28 in Hill Hall under the auspices of the Inter-Faith Council. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

The soprano has an extensive repertoire which includes German leader and French art songs, oratorio and opera arias, early Italian songs and airs, and folk songs of many lands.

Mrs. Downs is a graduate of the Julliard School of Music and under a Fulbright Fellowship from the U. S. State Department, she studied for two years in Italy under the famed maestro, Gian-Franco Bucchi.

"From the very start one was fascinated by the warm feeling in her exquisite rendering and extraordinary control of her voice," was the opinion of the critics who heard her sing in Stockholm, Sweden.

Since returning from abroad, Mrs. Downs has toured and given concerts throughout the nation.

GM Shakes Up Former Office Arrangement

There was a general shake-up of office arrangements in Graham Memorial yesterday.

"The changes were made with mutual consent of all concerned," said Jim Wallace, GM director yesterday. "The changes were for the sake of convenience," he said.

So as to be near the information office on the first floor, Wallace moved from his second floor office to the office previously occupied by Student Body President Bob Gorham. Gorham moved into Vice-President Baxter Miller's old office. This arrangement gives the President waiting room space.

Miller moved into the old SUAB office, and SUAB took Wallace's old office. This gives SUAB a private telephone, which they had not had previously.

Christian Fellowship

Carolina Christian Fellowship will meet Sunday at 2:00 p.m. at the home of Lois Nelson at 405 Ransom Street.

Play Auditions Are Scheduled

"Mister Roberts" is still packing 'em in at the Playmakers Theater, but the Carolina Playmakers are already looking forward to their next production.

It was announced yesterday that open auditions for "On Borrowed Time" will be held next Wednesday in the Playmakers Theater at 4 and 7 p. m.

Marion Downs, Popular Singer Of Spirituals, To Give Concert

Marion Downs, noted singer of spirituals, will give a concert on October 28 in Hill Hall under the auspices of the Inter-Faith Council. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

The soprano has an extensive repertoire which includes German leader and French art songs, oratorio and opera arias, early Italian songs and airs, and folk songs of many lands.

Mrs. Downs is a graduate of the Julliard School of Music and under a Fulbright Fellowship from the U. S. State Department, she studied for two years in Italy under the famed maestro, Gian-Franco Bucchi.

"From the very start one was fascinated by the warm feeling in her exquisite rendering and extraordinary control of her voice," was the opinion of the critics who heard her sing in Stockholm, Sweden.

Since returning from abroad, Mrs. Downs has toured and given concerts throughout the nation.

GM Shakes Up Former Office Arrangement

There was a general shake-up of office arrangements in Graham Memorial yesterday.

"The changes were made with mutual consent of all concerned," said Jim Wallace, GM director yesterday. "The changes were for the sake of convenience," he said.

So as to be near the information office on the first floor, Wallace moved from his second floor office to the office previously occupied by Student Body President Bob Gorham. Gorham moved into Vice-President Baxter Miller's old office. This arrangement gives the President waiting room space.

Miller moved into the old SUAB office, and SUAB took Wallace's old office. This gives SUAB a private telephone, which they had not had previously.

Christian Fellowship

Carolina Christian Fellowship will meet Sunday at 2:00 p.m. at the home of Lois Nelson at 405 Ransom Street.

MISS R. BELLADONNA VILLINES poses in the lawyers' lounge in the Supreme Court building in Washington after shattering an old Supreme Court tradition that no one even remotely resembling a "sweater girl" must ever divert the attention of the justices from their ponderings. Miss Villines did it by going before the Court in her tight-gitting knit dress to be admitted to Supreme Court practice. Miss Villines—that's her professional name—is a lawyer who practiced in Chicago until recently. Now she's a resident of Arlington, Va., with her husband, Donald Coenen, a magazine editor.—AP Wirephoto.