SP Committee Members Blasted By Bill Brown

By Richard Creed
Independent Bill Brown, chairman of President Bob Gorham's Orientation study committee, yesterday censured the Student Party members on his committee who refused to sign his report last week.

Explaining why he thought SP opposition to his report arose, Brown said, "The SP feels it necessary to appear to be the savior of dorm men. Even though the party is filled with high-ranking fraternity men, and even though they haven't run a non-fraternity man on their big slate but once in three years, they still must appear to be the dorm man's friend."

"I thought the SP was interested in keeping Orientation from being dragged through the mud. Instead they pounce on an insignificant paragraph of a report concerning it," said Brown.

Joel Fleishman and Don Geiger, SP members of the UP-SP committee, refused to sign Brown's report because it stated, "As regards fraternity loading on the (Orientation) committee and among the counselors, the committee has no findings. That is to say, I think, that neither the committee nor the counselors were purposely selected because of their extra-curricular participation. Although this area of work has not been explored very thoroughly, I think this is a safe assumption to make."

Fleishman and Geiger objected to the paragraph since the committee had not discussed whether Gorham had shown partiality toward fraternity men in selecting the Orientation counselors this year, as Student Party Chairman Gene Cook had charged previously.

Cook, also a member of the study committee, signed the report but said that Fleishman and Geiger were "right" in objecting to the paragraph.

Accusing the SP of using the committee for political purposes, Brown said, "Obviously someone has an eye on the ensuing (fall) elections."

The committee was set up by Gorham as a "non-partisan group to study and evaluate the Orientation program."

"They (the SP) fail to point out that they agree with the greater majority of the report concerning Orientation," said Brown. Actually, Fleishman agreed to sign the report two weeks ago if the paragraph to which he objected were taken out. And Brown agreed to take it out, actually striking it off a copy of the report at which he and Brown were looking. But Gorham refused to accept the report if the passage were deleted. Brown put the paragraph back in, and Geiger joined Fleishman in refusing to sign the report.

"They fail to point out that they helped draw up the constitutional amendment now before Legislature," said Cook. The amendment, introduced to Legislature by Brown last week as a result of the study by the committee, provides that the chairman of the Orientation Committee be appointed by the outgoing president before February 15. Previously the incoming president appointed the chairman, who would serve during his administration.

It provides also that the Orientation Committee members be selected by a committee composed of the chairmen of the IDC, the IFC, the Phi, and the Orientation Committee. Previously the president has appointed the committee.

The bill calling for the amendment will be considered in Legislature Thursday. If passed it will be voted on by the student body in fall elections.

"Those attacking that small paragraph in my report knew full well they would have an opportunity to take the question up again in the committee. Instead they preferred to make their accusations to the press," said Brown.

"Well, we're going to meet this week and get the question settled once and for all. I hope none of the committee will be absent from the meeting," said Brown.

these meetings. I don't want any question rising out of my next report.

"This should indicate that I have no intention of resigning as committee chairman. If Bob Gorham, who appointed me, wants to resign me, that's his prerogative, although I have heard of no discontent from him."

Scout Dinner Is Tomorrow In Lenoir Hall

The annual dinner of the Orange County District, Boy Scouts of America, will be held at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow in the North Room of Lenoir Hall. Students are invited to attend. There is no charge except for dinner.

At 7:30 there will be a review of the National Jamboree held last summer in California. R. A. Fetzer will speak, and new scouting officers for the coming year will be installed.

Roy Armstrong, director of admissions at the University and president of the 12-county Occaneechee Council, will be toastmaster.

Dr. Lee M. Brooks of Chapel Hill is chairman of the Orange District, and Bill Roth of Sanford is District Scout executive.

UNC To Send 10 To Florida History Meet

Dr. Fletcher M. Green, chairman of the Department of History, and a delegation of nine other members of the department will attend the Southern Historical Association meeting at Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday through Saturday.

Dr. Green will read a paper on "The Spirit of '76," at the meeting. Also participating in the program of the Association's three-day session will be Dr. Carl H. Pegg and Dr. Carlyle Sitterson of UNC.

Dr. Pegg will preside over a session devoted to "Europe in the Twentieth Century." Dr. Sitterson will serve as a member of the Association's executive committee.

Other members of the History Department faculty who plan to attend the meeting are Dr. C. O. Cathey, Dr. H. A. Bierck, Jr., Dr. W. M. Geer, Dr. James L. Godfrey, Dr. Cecil Johnson, Dr. F. W. Klingberg and Dr. H. T. Lefler.

Miller Band, Contest Highlight Saturday Dance; Kids Benefit

The United States Air Force Glen Miller Dance Band from Pope Field will play for the Saturday night Dance in Wollen Gymnasium this week.

Tickets for the dance sponsored by the Order of the Grail and the local Chamber of Commerce go on sale this morning on campus.

Proceeds from the sale of an anticipated 5,000 tickets at $1 a piece will go to "Operation Christmas," a program begun three years ago at Pope Field that has grown to such proportions that over $100,000 worth of gifts were delivered to orphans last year.

Distribution of the gifts to 4,300 orphans in 32 orphanages over the state was by helicopter last year.

Men's dorms and fraternities will compete for a floor lamp and table for a social room in their respective divisions by obtaining the highest number of sales among its members. Rules for the contest are as follows:

1. Every men's dormitory and fraternity shall be issued one ticket per resident or member.
2. The dormitory and fraternity selling the highest percentage of their tickets will be declared winners.
3. Tickets sales will be reported Friday morning from 9-12 o'clock at the Grail booth in the Y lobby.

All money and all unsold tickets must be turned in by noon Friday. "Coffee postponed until Wednesday, Nov. 18 from 8 to 10 p.m. Hope to see you then."

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled professional baseball is still only a sport and hence is not subject to Federal antitrust laws. The court's decision was given on three appeals attacking the much-discussed player "reserve clause," keystone of organized baseball.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (AP) — President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard University said yesterday that "Harvard is unalterably opposed to communism" and that he was unaware that any member of the faculty was a Communist.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Republicans and Democrats, their forces split by two candidates on each ticket, wound up their campaigns yesterday in the 24th District, where the year's final congressional contest will command national attention tomorrow. To the Republicans the race may mean a crowning triumph for recent victories east of the Mississippi. There are now 218 Republicans and 215 Democrats in the House of Representatives.

PANMUNJOM — (AP) — American staff advisors, after an hour and 45 minutes of "serious discussion" with Communists, said yesterday they were hopeful agreement can be reached on Korean peace conference arrangements.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Former President Harry Truman said yesterday he didn't "think anybody ever took advantage of me" to foist a disloyal individual on his administration. "If they did," Truman said, "I didn't know it."

Archeologist To Talk Here

Dr. Rhys Carpenter, professor of archaeology at Bryn Mawr College since 1918 and former director of the American Schools at Athens and Rome, will speak on "Some Archaeological Misapprehensions" in Carroll Hall auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The illustrated lecture is being sponsored by the UNC chapter of the Archaeological Institute of America, headed by Dr. J. P. Harland of the University faculty, who will preside.

Red Faces

"With red faces we report that the Yack Beauty Contest practice has taken all our pledges," Delta Delta Delta said last night.

The Writing Business . . .

Prestige, But No Money Says Magazine Editor

By Ann Pooley
Miss Leslie Felker of Mademoiselle Magazine spoke yesterday afternoon at a tea given by the YWCA in her honor. Miss Felker, who holds the position of Assistant College Editor on the magazine, is visiting several schools in order to arouse interest in Mademoiselle's annual College Board contest.

Miss Felker's busy day at Carolina included attending a creative writing class, talking with several professors, and dropping in on a rehearsal of the Playmakers' next production, "In Borrowed Time."

A native of New York City, Miss Felker graduated from the University of Arizona in 1951 after attending Duke University for a year and the University of Zurich Switzerland, Columbia, and the Sorbonne in Paris. She was an English Literature major.

The Mademoiselle College Board Contest is open to all girls under 26 who are attending accredited colleges. To enter, each girl must write a criticism approximately 1500 words in length, on one of the Fall issues of the magazine.

"This 'try-out' is not too important for the contestants, but it is valuable to the magazine, as we get a cross-country criticism of Mademoiselle this way," Miss Felker said.

About 80 per cent of the girls who try out are asked to write three assignments during the first months of the year. Each assignment consists of writing on two questions which are chosen from a list published in the magazine. One prize of $50 and nine $10 awards are made for each assignment period.

From the girls who write assignments, 20 "guest editors" are chosen in the spring. They spend the month of June working in New York on the August issue of Mademoiselle. Their transportation to and from New York is paid, as is part of their hotel rent. They also receive a salary.

The month in New York is not all work, for the guest editors are treated to movie previews, plays, fashion shows, tours, parties, and meetings with celebrities.

Miss Felker said that the contest is valuable experience for anyone interested in going into the publications field. Mademoiselle keeps files on girls who try out, and sends information on 50 runners-up to several publications. She said, "Salaries are pretty low in publications. We get the glory and prestige, not the money."

She also discussed a fiction contest which is held in the Spring. Two North Carolina girls won top honors in it last year, and she feels that this is definitely "significant."

Miss Felker's first full time job was with the Women's Wear Daily in New York. She had worked on college newspapers before her graduation.

She said that there are always jobs open at Mademoiselle because "the staff is largely made up of young people who stop working to get married or have a family."

AFROTC To Award Badges To Carolina's Honor Students

The Air Force ROTC will award distinguished military students of the AFROTC Wing here with badges of appointment at noon today on Navy Field.

The awards will be presented by Colonel George J. Smith, professor of air science.

UNC Students Going To UN This Weekend

Sixteen Carolina students will be packing their bags and heading for New York tomorrow to attend the United Nations Student Seminar, slated for this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The purpose of the Seminar is to afford the students an opportunity to study the workings of the UN in action. They will visit the UN General Assembly, the Secretariat, the U. S. Mission to the UN, and delegations to the UN from other countries.

India, Yugoslavia, Israel, Egypt, and Syria are the countries whose delegations the students will visit. They have been chosen particularly because of the important international situations in which they are involved, said Mrs. Kirstun Milbrath of the Y. Students from Carolina will divide their representatives up so they will be able to cover all of them.

Frank P. Graham, former president of the University, who is now the UN representative for India and Pakistan, will be one of the principal speakers.

"Many campus organizations are unofficially represented by the students who are going," said Mrs. Milbrath. "These include the Cosmopolitan Club, the Press Club, the YMCA and the YWCA, the Independent Coeds, and several sororities and fraternities. We hope they will be able to bring back to their fellow students a real experience of the UN in action."

Students who are going to the Seminar include: Joyce Adams, Purabi Bose, Mary Jane Bumpous, Bob Casstevens, Stella D'Aleo, Ann Folger, Robert Hyatt, Ned Harbin, Clint Lindley, Lester W. Milbrath, Gloria Resch, Peter Schroeder, David Setzer, Robert Sneed, Herbert Theiling, and Diana Whittinghill.

Also to be recognized are members of the Drill Squadron and Squadron C, last year's honor squadron.

Distinguished military students are those students who have an accumulative academic standing among the upper one-third of students in the same major and scheduled to graduate in the same school year, or an accumulative average of B or better, possess "high moral character and definite aptitude for service in the Air Force, and have distinguished themselves by demonstrating leadership, particularly by participation in recognized extracurricular activities, and while in attendance at summer camps."

The Drill Squadron, in recognition of achievement and performance of duty during the school year 1952-53, will be awarded White and Orange Ribbons of Distinction.

Squadron C, last year's Honor Squadron, will be awarded the Gold Ribbon of Honor.

The coed sponsors of the Wing will be on hand to meet their units and to take the review.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies.

Those appointed distinguished military students are: Roger W. Ackerman, John H. Boushall, Charles R. Carroll, Louis H. Coody, Kenton B. Creuser, Fred H. Deaton, Jr., George D. Ebert, Walter D. Gurley, George B. Harris, Charles C. Hunter, Jr., Larry T. Justus, Lee E. Knott, James W. Maynard, Robert B. Moorhead, Kenneth M. Myers, Daniel D. Olsen, Harry Pawlik, Lewis A. Phillips, Aubrey W. Redmon, Richard L. Taylor, and James R. Younts.

Seniors, Law Students To Check Proofs Today

Seniors and law students should come by the Rendezvous Room immediately to check their proofs, the Yack requested yesterday. The hours are from 12 to 7 o'clock in the afternoon.

26 Pieces Of Furniture Lost In One Year; IDC Prexy Ponders Locking Of Social Rooms

By Fred Powledge
Twenty-six pieces of furniture have been stolen from dormitory social rooms since the beginning of school last year, the Office of Operations announced yesterday. "It might be best if we do lock the rooms up," said Walt Gurley.

Erickson Says Sports 'Sound, Healthy' Here

Athletic Director Chuck Erickson called the University's intercollegiate athletic program "sound and healthy" yesterday, in a statement to the Associated Press.

Erickson's comments were prompted by a Daily Tar Heel editorial which called for Carolina's withdrawal from the "big money arena" of college sports.

Erickson said, "I am sorry the editor of The Daily Tar Heel feels as he does about intercollegiate athletics.

"We are fortunate in having a free student press at Chapel Hill, and the editor is entitled to express his opinions.

"We feel that we have a sound and healthy intercollegiate athletic program at the university."

Di Will Debate On 1-Vote Veto Of UN Tonight

A bill abolishing the single-veto in the Security Council of the United Nations will be debated by the Dialectic Senate tonight in New West at 8 o'clock.

The bill, to be introduced by Senator James L. McElroy, calls for the U.N. Charter to be amended in 1955 "so as to require the affirmative votes of any four of the great powers on the Security Council for a decision of that body to be valid."

Since a U.N. Charter revisional conference will be held in 1955, recommendations for changes should now be discussed, the organization's leaders say. The various delegations can, in that way, determine public opinion on proposed changes before the meeting and decide their nation's stands.

Proponents of the bill to be debated tonight by the Di say that the veto power has been misused by the delegation of the Soviet Union and that possibilities of united action against aggression have been lessened by it. In July, 1950, when the UN came to the aid of the Republic of South Korea, the Russian delegates were absent from the international organization and this alone, it is believed, prevented their use of the veto to stop intervention.

Opponents of the proposal argue that the veto power of a nation can prevent measures which would harm its sovereignty. They say the United States has much to lose if the other nations on the Council "gang up" on her. They also argue that doing away with this power is a step toward world government.

New Honor For Beauty

"Miss B," the young high school girl who skyrocketed to fame here the weekend of the Carolina-Maryland football game, has one more star to add to her crown.

By unanimous vote, she has been selected the "Sweetheart of Old West Dormitory."

"Miss B," who is Miss Lynda Pope, a junior at Belmont High School in Belmont, accepted the honor in a letter to Raymond Taylor, secretary of the dormitory, yesterday.

In the letter, Lynda said she accepted the position with great honor. Lynda, sixteen years old, has been with the Belmont High School band for three years. She is a majorette. She says that her plans for the future are incomplete at this time, but that she will probably major in music following her completion of high school. A large picture of "Miss B" will be hung in the social room of the dormitory.

Yack Beauties Will Rehearse

Rehearsals for the Yackety Yack Beauty Contest will be tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow night at 8:30 in Memorial Hall.

All entries must be present, anyone who is absent is automatically disqualified from the contest unless she is excused, Yack officials said.

Please be on time and wear high heels, requested Reen Morris, co-chairman of the show.

Senior Rings To Be Sold In Lobby Of Y Thursday

Seniors may buy class rings from 2 until 5 p.m. Thursday, Walt Gurley, chairman of the ring committee of the Order of the Grail, said. They will be sold in the lobby of the Y.

Gurley said prices of rings have been reduced this year. Different stones will be available, with the new Carolina blue making its first appearance.
