

WEATHER

Partly cloudy today without much change in temperature. Yesterday's high,
73; yesterday's low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

BACKED

The Daily Tar Heel is supported again in its anti-big-time sports campaign.
Today it's the News & Observer. See p. 2.

VOLUME LXII NUMBER 54

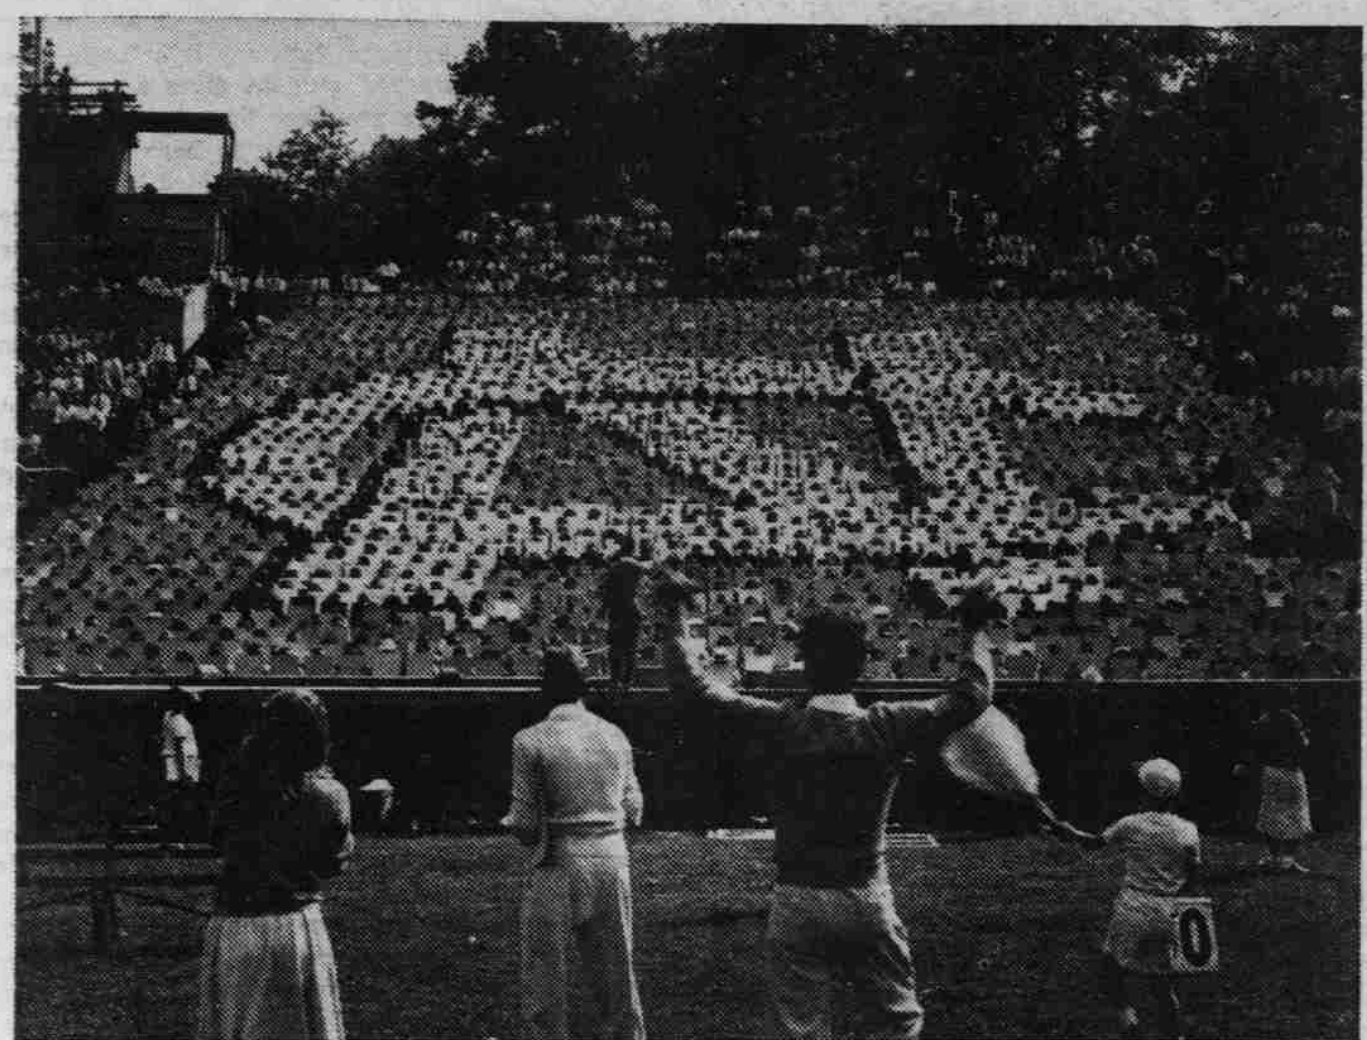

Complete AP Photo and Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1953

Complete AP Photo and Wire Service

FOUR PAGES TODAY

ONE OF CAROLINA'S FAMOUS CARD STUNTS

For Tennessee: 3-D

Artists, Planners, Nose Jones Make For Smooth Card Stunts

By Jennie Lynn

Nose shouts "Ready? Number three!" The students lift red or yellow cards, and cheers resound from the opposite side of the stadium.

Half-time of last week's game featured a three-flip card trick. The leaves of a green tree changed gradually to red and gold, then fell, leaving the branches bare.

"We received overwhelming compliments on it," said Bob Skillen, Card Board president. "Even Duke students called in to tell us that the trick was great," he added.

The smooth-running show at football games is the outcome of active participation from 2,500 people and 252 hours of preparation.

"By the time a week's stunts are done," continued Bob, "planners, artists, ushers, and thousands of flippers have helped."

The board staff's home is the basement of Smith Dorm. Here, everyday and sometimes at night, rulers layout each card in a stunt and the smell of poster paint fills the air.

A student develops an idea for per. Each block on the paper per. Each block on the paper designates a seat in the card section of the stadium. From one to ten colors can be used to draw the picture, symbol, or letters.

From the graph paper, the artist transfers the stunt to a large poster board, sectioned off with the same number of blocks. Each block is numbered in correspondence to each row and seat in the section of the stadium.

From these numbers, and colors are made individual instruction cards. The instructions are placed with the colored cards at every place in the Card Section before the games.

Nose Jones, a third year law student and former head cheerleader, directs the calling of the stunts.

Carolina's Card Board originated four years ago. It has become the largest Card Section in the Eastern part of the country.

"All stunts haven't been full of school spirit," the staff explained. "We have been trying to get national recognition that UCLA and other schools receive because they are older or have more money."

Community and seasonal interest stunts have mingled with those of college spirit. Political, Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas stunts were among those displayed this year.

The staff has tried to develop an effective away game system. The ushers thumbtack all cards and directions under the seats of Carolina student sections.

Even 3-D tricks were initiated this fall at the Tennessee game. The Jack-O-Lantern stunt displayed a three dimensional effect by having some of those holding cards stand while others remained seated.

Scores are run at half time. UNC is the first school to announce half-time scores through flexible card tricks, for games that are in progress.

Heads of the staff, besides Skillen, are Tom Lindley, chairman of the artists, and head usher Bob Bell.

UNC RACKS VIRGINIA, 33-7

Educators Study University

UNC Needs More Work In Research

Carolina may have to increase its efforts in the research field, a committee of Carolina faculty, Ford Foundation representatives and authorities from four other universities pointed out this week.

Upping research work may be essential, the group said, in order to anticipate the needs of North Carolina communities in coping with their social problems.

"The members of the visiting committee," said Wallace Carroll, executive news editor of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, and chairman of the committee, "were deeply impressed with the services which the University of North Carolina performs for the people of this state. It is their feeling that no other university in the country is closer to the people from whom it draws its support."

The educators met to map out a long-range program for the University in the field of human behavior.

The committee of UNC, which has been working on the program, was joined by the Ford Foundation and Harvard, Chicago, Michigan and Stanford universities. These schools have received grants from Ford for surveys of their work on the "behavioral sciences."

The surveys will enable the universities to draw up their programs for research, training and teaching.

The visiting committee will return to Chapel Hill in January and again in April and June. During the summer the two committees will prepare and submit their reports to the Ford Foundation.

The home committee is composed of Dr. Daniel O. Price and Profs. Harold A. Bierck, Jr., Norman E. Eliason, John Honigsmann, James C. Ingram, John W. Thibaut and Frederic N. Cleaveland. Ex-officio members are Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell, Director, Institute for Research in Social Science; Dean Clifford P. Lyons, College of Arts and Sciences, and Assistant Dean A. K. King of the Graduate School.

Members of the visiting committee are Chairman Carroll and Theodore Newcomb, University of Michigan; John Spiegel, Harvard University; David Truman, Columbia University; John Whiting, Harvard University, and Robin Williams, Cornell University.

In addition to members of the visiting committee, representatives of the Ford Foundation attending were Allen Wallis and Preston Cutler, currently on leave from the University of Chicago.

United Nations Visitors Plan Talk Tomorrow

Delegates to the UN Seminar last week will report on the various phases of UN action they saw at a supper forum tomorrow night at 5:30 in the south dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Ned Harbin will preside over the forum, and will introduce students who will give 5-minute talks on aspects of the UN.

Lester Milbrath will report on the U. S. Mission; Pete Schroeder, the Political Committee; Joyce Adams and Bob Castevens, the Israeli - Syrian controversy; and Bob Sneed, UNESCO. Bob Hyatt will give a short resume on "How We Can Relate Our Experiences to the Campus Program."

The supper is being sponsored by the YMCA, the YWCA and the Cosmopolitan Club. All organizations on campus have been invited with special invitations being issued to Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael, and Dean of Men Fred Weaver.

On December 8 a second supper forum will be held on Egypt with a panel of Egyptians discussing and answering questions on the social, economic and political characteristics of that country.

The supper forums will be held every second Tuesday, with a different country being interviewed each time.

Clothing Drive

The drive for old books, magazines and clothes ends Tuesday. Collection boxes for the girls are in the girls' dorms and sorority houses, and boys may bring donations to the YMCA.

Finale

There will be a "grand finale" pep rally Tuesday night — a combination of all the rallies of the year, Head Cheerleader Jim Fountain announced yesterday.

It will start with a car parade leaving the Gym at 9 o'clock, wind through the campus, and end in the middle of Franklin Street at a temporary band stand.

Team and students will be on hand with the cheerleaders and the band.

Avowed purpose of the demonstration, according to Fountain: "To help the team beat Duke!"

Tar Heels See Charlottesville; Eure On Hand

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 21 — The Albemarle Hotel, quasi-official headquarters for Carolina rooters, is a relic of Robert E. Lee's time, steeped in tradition. Dignified, white-haired old Negroes shuffle through the coffee shops, waiting on customers at the dilapidated tables. One young fellow of some 60-odd years has the jump on the rest of them.

The checking desk is really a general store, with magazines, peanuts, handkerchiefs, and notions on sale. The old man behind the desk resents the ringing of the phone as a modern intrusion in his complacent world.

The elevator is the clincher. Completely wooden, and without a door, coal fumes from the basement drift up the shaft and into the little cubicle. On the ascent it bounces back and forth between the four wooden walls of the shaft. If you want the third floor, you must get off at the second and walk up for some unexplained reason.

Secretary of State Thad Eure once more brought the Tar Heels home by waving a large state flag (See BASS, page 3)

Selection Board To Pick Candidates For Council

The Honor Council Selection Board will meet tomorrow and Tuesday night at 7 to choose candidates for four seats each on the Men's and Women's Honor Councils. The meeting will be held in the Council Room on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

The bipartisan selection body urges all interested parties to attend the meeting and to try for positions on the councils.

Third Line Backs Roll In Victory

By John Hussey
Assistant Sports Editor

SCOTT STADIUM, Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 21 — With a powerful second half surge, Carolina returned to the win column with a 33-7 conquest over Virginia's hapless Cavaliers on a rain-soaked field here today.

Teedee Bullock, Albert Long and Marshall Newman masterminded the Tar Heel attack in a game which was marked by long runs and plenty of surprises. Especially noticeable was the running of a couple of heretofore third line backs, Nick Marcopulos and Billy Hawks. These two were

UNC	First Downs	Va.
19	212	10
301	212	0
91	0	0
12	6	0
7	0	0
1	2	0
4	6	0
36.3	31	0
1	1	0
50	45	0

responsible for setting up the first Carolina touchdown as Marcopulos on a 43-yard jaunt and Hawks bulled his way to the Virginia 16 moved it from there to the one yard stripe on a twisting journey through the Cavalier secondary. Bullock's plunge over center provided the necessary yardage for the first Carolina score.

The Tar Heel aerial attack was especially effective as the three quarterbacks hit their receivers seven out of twelve times for a total of 81 yards.

The mud on the gridiron proved to be a stalemate for both squads in the first period, as neither team was able to produce any scoring. With a fresh team playing in the second quarter, the Tar Heels were able to take a seven point lead on the drive spearheaded by Bullock, Marcopulos, and Hawks.

After the intermission, Carolina received the Cavalier kickoff and within two and a half minutes and six plays their point total had reached 13. With fourth down and a yard to go on the Virginia 44, fullback Billy Williams took a Newman handoff and reached the 34-yard line before being shoved off the playing surface. Ken Keller took the ball around his own right end, outran three would-be tacklers and raced to the U. Va. two yard line. Wasting no time, Keller received the ball again and (See HOSTS, page 3)

Dr. Hugh Lefler Co-Authors New History Book For Adults

The first one-volume history of North Carolina for adults in 100 years will be published this winter by the University Press. Doctor Hugh Talmage Lefler and the late Albert Ray Newsome, both members of the History Department, are the authors. And the title will be "North Carolina—The History of a Southern State."

Lambert Davis, director of the Press, points out that this book will also be the only one-volume history of the State for adults that has ever been written by professional historians. Professors Lefler and Newsome were the joint authors of "The Growth of North Carolina," a book adopted by the North Carolina Textbook Commission for use in the public schools.

Dr. Lefler was formerly head of the Department of History and Government at State College in Raleigh but has taught popular courses in American and North Carolina history at Chapel Hill since 1934.

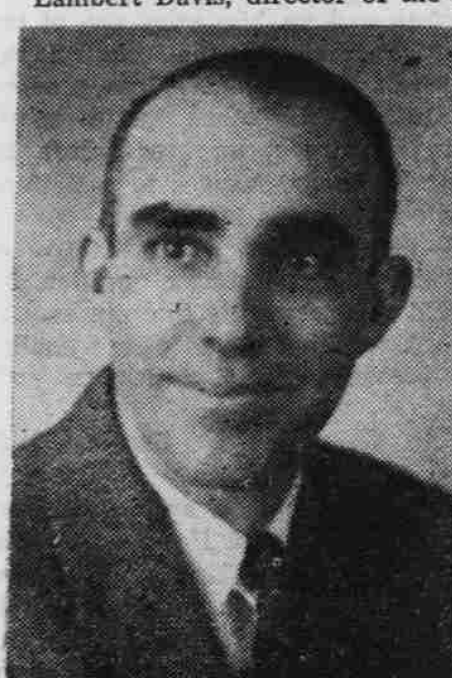

The late Professor Newsome served as secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission and editor of the North Carolina Historical Review. He was head of the History Department at the University from 1935 until his death in 1951.

The 675-page volume was designed "to meet the requirements of the general reader who desires a comprehensive view of the state's history within a reasonable compass," Professor Lefler points out in his introduction. It is also expected to serve as a text for college courses in North Carolina history.

Authors Lefler and Newsome attempted to write a balanced history that would not unduly emphasize the political aspects of the state's development. "A modern, scholarly, up-to-date history of North Carolina," says Professor Lefler, "must include developments in agriculture, industry, transportation, trade, education, religion, literature, and social life as well as the state's political and military history. Above all else we have tried to show how the millions of North Carolinians have lived and made a living during the course of three centuries."

Six years of work by the authors went into this new history. Under the general supervision of Kai Jurgensen of the Playmakers staff, the plays will be presented Dec. 10 and 11.

The three plays are "Motion Opposed," a comedy of pigeons and statues, by William Waddell, Galax, Va., to be directed by Joanne San Antonio, Brewer, Me.; "Give Us Our Bread," a drama about German immigrants by Josefa Selden, Pittsford, N. Y., to be directed by William Waddell; and "The Other Side of the Mountain," a story of war heroism by John Clayton, Chapel Hill, directed by Claude Garren, Caroleen.

PROF. HUGH T. LEFLER

Auditions Set Tomorrow For Student Plays

Auditions for three student-written and student-produced one-act plays will be held in the Playmakers Theatre tomorrow at 4:00 o'clock.

Under the general supervision of Kai Jurgensen of the Playmakers staff, the plays will be presented Dec. 10 and 11.

The three plays are "Motion Opposed," a comedy of pigeons and statues, by William Waddell, Galax, Va., to be directed by Joanne San Antonio, Brewer, Me.; "Give Us Our Bread," a drama about German immigrants by Josefa Selden, Pittsford, N. Y., to be directed by William Waddell; and "The Other Side of the Mountain," a story of war heroism by John Clayton, Chapel Hill, directed by Claude Garren, Caroleen.

SSL Session Ends; Truman, Scott Praised

By Richard Creed
Daily Tar Heel Staffer

RALEIGH, Nov. 21 — The State Student Legislature meeting in the state capitol here wound up its three day session today.

The highlight of today's meeting was a resolution in the House by Carolina's Gene Cook to extend to ex-governor Kerr Scott "greetings and respect and to wish him well in whatever future endeavor he may undertake." (It has been recently indicated that Scott may run for the U. S. Senate in 1954.)

Carolina's Bob Pace spoke for the resolution. "We saw for four years this man go to bat for the people of North Carolina, providing them with more schools, more roads, and more telephones," he said.

Cook wanted to know whether Chairman Ken Penegar (UNC) knew "whether the speaker (Pace) had a road paved by Scott."

Pace answered that he lived "on an unpaved country road." "I hope to see Kerr Scott in the Senate race in 1956," he said.

Cook asked if the chair knew "whether the speaker (Pace) has received any political appointment from the former governor." Pace, who is North Carolina's youngest (See RESOLUTION, page 4)

Mrs. Doris Betts Gets Fiction Award

Mrs. Doris Betts, wife of a Law School student and an alumna of Woman's College has been awarded the first annual $2,000 fiction prize offered by Putnam's Sons Publishers through the University.

Mrs. Betts' collection of short stories, "Gentle Insurrection," will be published by Putnam's in April.

Judges for the first contest this year were James Street, Chapel Hill novelist; Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, author of "The Sojourner," and Pearl Buck, Nobel prize winner.

The award was presented Mrs. Betts by Chancellor Robert B. House at a ceremony in his office this week. Attending were Dr. Dougald MacMillan, chairman of the English Department, and Miss Jessie Rehder, also of the English Department staff, who was in charge of the contest for the New York publishers.

The prize is to be offered each year for the best manuscript, either fiction or non-fiction, by a student at the University here, at N. C. State College or at Woman's College.

Mother of a four-months-old daughter, Mrs. Betts will take courses in the University here next semester to complete her work towards her A.B. degree. Her husband, Lowry M. Betts, formerly of Columbia, S. C., and graduate of the University of South Carolina, is a first-year law student here.

This is Mrs. Betts' second cash prize for her writings. The first, $500, was the collegiate fiction award from Mademoiselle Magazine for a short story, "Mr. Shawn and Father Scott," which appeared in the August issue.

Freshman Cabinet

Bob Young will preside at the Freshman Cabinet which meets tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the YMCA office.

SPRING MAY BE THE thing here at Carolina, but galoshes and head scarves are a must for Denver, Colorado schoolgirls. The first major storm deposited five inches of snow on the northern city. Meantime Chapel Hill enjoyed almost spring weather. These book-laden girls are, from front to back, Jeanne Peterson, Rebecca Kushnir, Mary McCabe and Barbara Preuitt.—AP Wirephoto.