Military Honorary Chooses 30 Men

Scabbard And Blade Society Adds Names Of Cadets, Midshipmen To Roll Of Outstanding ROTC Students

In a secret, formal ceremony held last night in the Naval armory, L Company, 8th Regiment of Scabbard and Blade, national military honor society, added the names of 30 cadet and midshipman officers to its roll from outstanding AFROTC and NROTC students.

The initiates from the Air Force were: seniors, Charles Hunter, Ken Creuser, Kemp Clendenen, John Boushall, Roger Ackerman, Rowland Burnstan, Bruce Holt, Neil Satterfield, Bill Carr, Lew Cody, Walt Gurley, Fred Mewhinney.

Four juniors were tapped—Don Geiger, Connie Gravitte, Herman Husband, and Jim Winston.

From the Navy unit Payne Jackson, Jim Schenck, Jack Stillwell, Webb Sherrill, Buck Barkley, Bob Skidmore, Jim Warren, Don Harley, Pat Thomas, Harry Arnold, and Tom Medlin were chosen from the senior candidates.

Steve Tremble, Tom Hoover and Joe Burrell were selected as outstanding juniors.

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade, founded in 1905 at Madison, Wisconsin, is at present composed of over 120 companies at colleges and universities across the nation and lists more than 60,000 members.

Officer candidates from Army, Navy and Air Force units are eligible for active membership, for which merit is the sole basis.

Associate or honorary members may be chosen at the discretion of local companies from qualified officers or citizens.

Scabbard and Blade came to the Carolina campus in 1949 when the local unit was granted a charter by the national organization.

Among the functions the Society has performed on the UNC campus are: providing honor or color guards for special events or celebrities, providing ushers for military speakers on campus, sponsoring awards for military excellence in the local units, and co-sponsoring the joint military ball.

Serving as officers for the current school year are: Captain, Harvey Bradshaw; First Lieutenant, Jim Whitton; Second Lieutenant, Mike Davis; and First Sergeant, Ed Gross.

Yale Philosopher Will Speak Here Tomorrow

Professor Brand Blanshard, head of the Philosophy Department of Yale University, will speak on "The Emotive Theory of Ethics" tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Faculty Lounge of Morehead Planetarium.

Professor Blanshard is noted for a number of writings and is author of the book, "The Nature of Thought," an outstanding statement of the idealist or neo-Hegelean position.

He was appointed to give the Gifford Lectures at the University of Edinburgh in 1951-52 and was again honored with the appointment in 1952-53.

Gorham In Tiff With SP Over Faculty Rating

By Richard Creed

With fall elections one week away the Student Party yesterday promised that it would set up a student-evaluation-of-faculty program if it were given a majority in Legislature.

At the same time President Bob Gorham announced that he had been working on such a program for "quite a while now."

Both parties indicated that they "don't care who gets credit" for setting up a faculty evaluation program so long as it is done.

Gorham would not say whether he would veto an SP-sponsored bill now before Legislature, calling for the setting up of a student faculty rating system. He did, however, call it "superfluous legislation." The Legislature will act upon the bill tomorrow night.

Manning Muntzing (SP), who introduced the bill, said yesterday, "He (Gorham) has done nothing about it to date. I'm not disturbed over who does it so long as it gets done. If he's going to get on the ball and does it, fine. If not, I want to see the Legislature do it."

Earlier this year Gorham vetoed an SP-sponsored bill "to increase student participation in student government," because he had "previously appointed a committee" to do the same thing.

Ed McCurry, chairman of Gorham's committee to set up a faculty evaluation program said yesterday that plans were under way and that "something definite" would be released to the students soon.

The program, if established, would allow students to voice opinions on their instructors by means of question sheets passed out by student government. Their criticisms would be passed on to department heads as suggestions and would have no real power.

Another plank in the SP's fall election platform promises "files of old quizzes in the library to help you study." The Legislature last year investigated the possibility of setting up such files, but the attempt was finally abandoned without action.

The SP promises also to establish a liaison group of students, faculty, and administration to air the complaints of students about campus affairs. "Successive UP student body presidents have let this die," says the platform.

Luxon Begins Duty As Dean

Dr. Norval Neil Luxon, late of Columbus, Ohio, and Ohio State University, moved into his new Bynum Hall office yesterday to take over as Dean of the University's School of Journalism.

Dr. Luxon, who has been in Chapel Hill since Sunday, will live on Hamilton Road in Glen Lennox. His wife will join him here later this month.

The new dean was assistant to the president and professor of journalism at Ohio State. He was a member of the Ohio State staff for 25 years. He is a one-time president of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

Dr. Luxon succeeds O. J. (Skipper) Coffin in the journalism dean's chair. Dean Coffin resigned in September.

Men's Council Suspends Two In Fall Action

The Men's Honor Council has suspended two students so far this year, one for cheating on a quiz and one for stealing, the Council's clerk, Herbert Browne, announced yesterday.

Of 16 other students who appeared before the Council, five were dismissed because of lack of evidence and two students were issued official reprimands.

The Council approved four applications for readmission to the University and removed three, students from probation.

Browne issued this statement on behalf of the Council:

"We should like to thank and congratulate the students of Carolina for their cooperation in supporting the principles and regulations on which our honor system is founded.

"For it is only through the personal responsibility of every individual student that this important and basic feature of a self-governing student body can continue to function successfully."

IDC Plans For Coeds

Cobb Dorm To Get Big Room For Recreation

By Fred Powledge

"The architect has the plans for a new social room planned for the East basement of Cobb Dormitory," Director of Operations J. S. Bennett said yesterday.

The projected addition to the four-floor dormitory will contain a television room, a space for ping pong and an assembly room. The assembly room will seat from 150 to 200 people, and will be used for studying, card-playing and small dances.

"If the fellows in Cobb have any plans for their social room they should advance them right away through the IDC," added Bennett, "because the plans are being drawn up right now."

Assistant to the Dean of Students Ray Jefferies said, "If the architect's plans meet with the approval of the administration and the Interdormitory Council, they will go into effect, provided the cost meets with the University's approval."

Charlie Hyatt, president of Cobb Dorm, remarked, "Such a social room has been a necessity for a long time because there are 430 students in this dorm and no more than 75 can get in the present room at one time. We feel that as long as students stay here over the weekend they should be provided with individual dorm parties. A new social room would fulfill that need."

Student Affairs Committee Is From Faculty

Creation of a faculty committee to help formulate student welfare policies and advise the dean of students in administrative matters was announced at South Building yesterday.

The committee — six faculty members appointed by Chancellor Robert B. House with Dean of Students Fred Weaver as chairman — will meet monthly. It will give the faculty a direct voice in student affairs.

Known officially as the "Administrative Board of Student Affairs," the new group is composed of Dr. Fred N. Cleaveland, Dr. Preston Epps, Miss Harriet Herling, Dr. Claiborne S. Jones, Dr. Loren C. MacKinney, and Thomas M. Stanback, Jr.

Term of office for the members of the board is five years.

Free Lance Forum

The Free Lance Forum will meet tonight at 7:00 in Roland Parker Lounge 1. The discussion will be "Should a Course in Communism Be Offered at UNC?" Visitors are invited to participate.

Gurley Points Way To Visits In Dormitories

Interdormitory Council President Walt Gurley yesterday announced a seven-point approach to the problem of unchaperoned coed visiting in men's dormitories.

"At present it seems that the best and most realistic approach to the ultimate institution of unchaperoned coed visiting in the men's dorms is one of education and evolution," said Gurley. "Much progress has been made in the way of greater social-mindedness in the dorms, but there is yet needed more utilization of existing social privileges if the need for freer visiting is to be impressed on the University administration.

"Presently we have certain limitations placed upon us by the administration in reference to the problem at hand. We have not expanded our limits, and therefore cannot rightly expect to be granted additional privileges until we show that our present social room facilities and visiting arrangements are inadequate."

Gurley's seven-point approach is as follows:

1. A study of the weaknesses and strengths of the present Connor Dorm plan will be made.
2. Weekly, chaperoned visiting nights will be set up.
3. The possibility of isolating social rooms physically will be pushed. A recommendation to this effect has been submitted by Gurley and is being studied as a possible way to use some of the $186,000 now available for dorm improvements.
4. A committee is attempting to solicit aid of faculty members in chaperoning dorm parties.
5. The Women's Residence Council has been contacted and is cooperating in ascertaining the feeling of the girls towards the proposed program. A coordinating committee between the IDC and WRC has been appointed to assist with plans. Another committee is working on the idea of reciprocal parties among men's and women's dormitories.
6. The IDC has embarked upon a program of stimulating and encouraging social activities in the dorms.
7. The IDC recognizes the part played by The Daily Tar Heel by giving publicity to the dorms and their activities, and anticipates that the newspaper will continue to assist in the future.

Projects Committee

The Projects Committee of the YWCA will have a discussion today at 4 o'clock in the Cabinet Room.

Yack Proofs Should Be Selected Right Away

All students who have not selected their Yack proofs should do so immediately.

Failure of all students to do this at once may cause the publication date of the yearbook to be late.

Students may select their proofs in the Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial next to the Yack Office from 1:30 until 6:00 each afternoon.
