NSA Delegates Meet In Greensboro Friday

GREENSBORO, Feb. 9.—The Virginia-Carolina Region of the National Student Association will convene its annual conference at Woman's College Friday and Saturday. The workshop session is planned to exchange student government ideas and discuss mutual problems of the colleges in Virginia and the Carolinas.

Schley Unsure Of Delegation To NSA Meet

Chal Schley, campus NSA chairman, said yesterday he "wasn't too sure" just who was going to represent Carolina at the regional conference of the group Friday and Saturday.

Schley said he couldn't decide on representatives until the student Legislature made an appropriation for $25 in expenses, and the Legislature doesn't meet until Thursday.

Members of the committee from which Schley will choose are Ken Penegar, Bev Webb, Joel Fleishman and Virginia Whiteman.

Interviews For Coed Post Set

Girls interested in being chairman of leadership training may go to the Women's Council room in Graham Memorial, today.

After looking over the material from past years, candidates may formulate a program using their own ideas.

An application should be filed Wednesday at the main office of Graham Memorial, and at this time candidates can sign for an interview.

Interviews will be Thursday afternoon from 4:15 to 5:30, at which time the Women's Residence Council will question the applicants on their plans for leadership training, and appoint the chairman.

Service Group Representative Is Here Today

Dr. A. Burns Chalmers, educational secretary of the World University Service, will be on campus today to help Carolina get started in the World University Service program.

At 1 o'clock he will meet in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall with Bill Wible's committee on University affiliations of the student government, which is trying to complete plans for exchange students between Carolina and Goettingen University in Germany.

Last year there were five students and one faculty member from that university who were here to study our student government. Goettingen University has reported that they are now ready to pay the expenses of a Carolina student to study for one year on their campus. Arrangements must now be made for selection and transportation of the student.

It is the hope of this committee that Carolina can develop a steady program of exchange students with Goettingen University.

CPU To Raise Membership

The Carolina Political Union, in an effort to raise its membership, has announced an intensive drive to attract students to its forums.

Although a few years ago there were as many as 100 students waiting to belong to the group, membership is limited to 25 to insure lively and unrestricted discussions of issues of vital importance.

"Founded in the 1930's, the CPU has continued to serve the campus by providing a forum where students of all political opinions could freely put forth their ideas on any topic," Chairman Joel Fleishman said yesterday, "and it is only right that, in this time when so much is at stake in the world and the nation and everyone is defending the inalienable rights to free opinion and free discussion, students here should rally to support an organization which is a concrete example of free discussion on the campus."

"Our treatment of those soldiers who turned to communism and remained and those who returned to this country," will be the issue discussed at this Sunday's 8 p.m. meeting in the Grail Room. All interested students are urged to attend.

Galo Plaza To Deliver Weil Talks

Ex-Ecuadoran Prexy To Present Lectures

Former President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, South America, a native of New York, will deliver the annual series of Weil Lectures here March 11, 12 and 13, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Alexander Heard, chairman of the committee on the lecture series.

Regarded as one of Latin America's more democratic leaders, the former Ecuadoran president, during his four-year term ending in 1952, guided his country to a degree of economic and social stability.

In the matter of foreign policy he stands with the United States and the principles enumerated in the charter of the United Nations, of which he was one of the signers in 1944, while serving as Ecuadoran ambassador to Washington.

Mr. Plaza is a firm believer in the Roosevelt-Hull "Good Neighbor" policy. An achievement in which he takes great pride is the founding of the non-sectarian educational American School of Quinto.

The Weil lectures were established 40 years ago by the families of Sol and Henry Weil of Goldsboro. The first lecturer was the late President William Howard Taft.

Galo Plaza is the eldest of the seven children of General Leonidas Plaza Gutierrez, twice president of Ecuador, and Dona Avelina Lasso Plaza, a direct descendant of the Conquistador San doval. He was born February 17, 1906, in New York City during his father's year of service as his country's minister to the United States.

After graduating from high school in Ecuador, he entered the University of California, Berkeley, while his family sought refuge in the United States following the outbreak of a revolution in their country.

In 1926 he transferred to the University of Maryland and left three years later without taking a degree in order to move into the position of civil attaché in the Ecuadoran legation at Washington and to enroll for diplomatic studies at the Georgetown School of Foreign Service.

Plaza returned to his homeland in 1933 to take over the eight Plaza haciendas which had been slowly becoming less profitable during his father's seven years in exile. Several years later he was elected to the municipal council of Quinto, becoming president of that body, and a year later he was elected mayor of the Ecuadoran capital. Toward the close of 1938 he was appointed Minister of National Defense and in 1944 he was named as Ecuador's ambassador to Washington.

He returned to Ecuador in 1946 and occupied himself once again with farming and business interests. His election as president came in 1947 after he had served as Senator from the Pichincha province in which Quinto is located. The Plazas have five daughters and one son.

Scott's Campaign Kick Off Set In Chapel Hill Tonight

W. KERR SCOTT
Haw River Squire off on Senate race

Will Dine With YDC, Talk At High School

W. Kerr Scott, he of the slow drawl and the political ambition, kicks off his campaign for the U. S. Senate here tonight.

Scott, who announced last Saturday he's after Alton A. Lennon's Senate seat, will come to town this afternoon, break bread at supper with UNC and Orange County Young Democrats, and then make his first campaign speech in the Chapel Hill High School auditorium at 8 o'clock.

It is expected the speech will be similar to the earthy, pointed orations which helped elect Scott governor six years ago. Though tonight's talk is the official lid-lifter in the Haw River farmer's campaign, Scott said upon announcing for the post he'd already visited 68 of the state's 100 counties.

It is considered fairly certain that Scott's opponent, Alton A. Lennon, is in for some political barbs tonight. Lennon, who was appointed by Gov. William B. Umstead to fill the Senate vacancy left by the death of Sen. Willis Smith, hasn't filed for the race officially. But he has announced he will run.

Scott will undoubtedly point to his gubernatorial record in the talk tonight—a record starred with progressive measures. And he'll be talking in friendly territory. Scott carried Orange County in both primary races for Governor in 1948, and later appointed then University President Frank P. Graham to the United States Senate.

Another Chapel Hill resident, state Legislator John W. Umstead, Jr., was considered one of the leaders of Scott's backers in the Legislature.

Coeds To Entertain Women

Trustee Visit Planned

The 10 women Trustees of the Consolidated University have been invited to come to Chapel Hill Monday and Tuesday, February 22 and 23, as guests of the women students, according to an announcement yesterday by Miss Katherine Carmichael, dean of women.

The purpose of the meeting here is to provide an opportunity for the women students to get acquainted with the women members of the Board of Trustees and for the Trustees to meet the girls and become familiar with their activities.

The board members will arrive Monday afternoon at 5:30 and be given rooms in the women's dormitories. Each Trustee will have a group of student hostesses who will accompany and direct her to the various events planned.

At 6:15 p. m., a dinner honoring the guests will be held in Spencer Hall. Several members of the University administration and other guests will be present. Following the dinner, brief meetings of the Women's Residence Council, Women's Honor Council and the YWCA will be held in Graham Memorial in order to acquaint the visitors with the programs of these organizations.

The guests will go to the Alpha Gamma Delta House at 9 p.m. for a short meeting of the Panhellenic Council after which they will attend a short meeting of the Independent Coed Board at Alderman Hall. Later in the evening, residents of each women's dormitory will have a "study break" and light refreshments will be served. First event on the second day's program will be a breakfast with student hostesses, to be followed by a tour of the Nurses' Residence at 10 a.m.

The Trustees will meet with women of the faculty and graduate students for a coffee hour in Kenan Hall following the tour. Luncheon with women students in Lenoir Hall will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Final event on the day's program will be University Women's Club Tea in Carroll Hall at 3:30 Tuesday with hostesses from the School of Business.

Women on the Board of Trustees are Mrs. Ed M. Anderson, West Jefferson; Mrs. R. S. Ferguson, Taylorsville; Mrs. Albert Lathrop, Asheville; Mrs. Grace Taylor Rodenbough, Walnut Cove; Mrs. Charles Tillet, Charlotte; Mrs. J. W. Copeland, Murfreesboro; Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Sr., Greenville; Mrs. B. C. Parker, Albemarle; Mrs. Charles Stanford, Chapel Hill; and Mrs. May Tomlinson, High Point.

Alleged Slayer Confronted By Davidson Boys

DECATUR, Ga., Feb. 9 (AP)—The alleged slayer of Patrolman J. L. (Jimmy) Mize was confronted by two Davidson College students today in connection with recent dormitory thefts at that school.

Held at DeKalb County Jail without bond, Jennings Fields, 30, is also accused of wounding another patrolman, J. R. (Jake) Davis.

Fields allegedly shot the patrolman after they were sent to arrest him. He is reported to have grabbed Mize's service pistol and shot him in the right chest.

Police declined to say whether Davidson students Ralph E. Petree and John A. McGee, both of Charlotte, had identified Fields as the robber who took $317 from Davidson students in an early morning theft last Thursday.

Two Clemson College students, Tom Dree and Tom Bookhart, have said they are reasonably sure Fields is the man who stole $18 from them.

The itinerant airplane mechanic, reportedly a native of Darlington, S. C., was captured after one of the largest posse hunts in recent Georgia history.

Meanwhile, at Charlotte, N. C., Detective W. A. McCall said police there are studying the possibility of a connection between the dormitory thefts and a series of thefts made at a Charlotte rooming house in which $277 was stolen.

Door-To-Door Invitation Plan For Long Talk

A dozen student leaders—interested in interesting more students in University opportunities—evolved a plan yesterday on how to help do it.

They decided to use a door-to-door campaign on the night of Sen. Russell Long's speech here Feb. 26, personally to invite students to attend. The theory behind the leaders' idea is that many students, once they discover what they've been missing, will begin to participate.

The group represented every major campus organization and had at its meeting Dean of Students Fred Weaver and his assistant, Roy Holsten. It was the first of occasional such "dutch lunches" at which campus leaders and student affairs people will discuss Carolina problems.

The persons present at yesterday's meeting each agreed to contact five friends. The night of the Long speech the groups of six will visit residence halls and invite students to attend.

Tuesday, March 2 will be the next meeting date of the leaders.

Eight Get Fines In Court Here

Eight Carolina students appeared in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court yesterday before Judge W. S. Stewart.

C. H. Teague, E. D. Pardington, and C. S. Coval were all charged with using an expired state license plate. Each was fined court costs.

Roger Herbert, R. S. Sapp, G. D. Smith, and E. D. Bray were all charged with speeding. Herbert was fined $15 and court costs, Smith was fined $10 and costs, Bray was fined $5 and costs, and Sapp was fined court costs.

Jackie Brooks, the only Carolina coed to be called yesterday, was fined court costs for parking in front of a fire hydrant.

At Annual World Affairs Meet Here

Eichelberger To Open U.N. Series Tonight

A program of speeches and discussions on the United Nations begins tonight at 8 o'clock in Carroll Hall with a speech by Dr. Clark M. Eichelberger, executive director of the American Association for the United Nations.

Dr. Eichelberger will open the Fourth Annual Conference on World Affairs with his speech on "Evolution of the United Nations and Its Implications For Charter Revision." All programs of the conference are open to the public.

At 10:30 a.m. tomorrow Herbert C. Hunsaker, Dean of Cleveland College, will talk on "Adult Education and the United Nations."

At 11 a.m. a speech, "Should the United Nations Charter Be Revised?" will be given by Ernest W. Lefever, a minister with the for National Council of Churches in Christ. Dr. Lefever will also give a talk on "The Christian Student and International Relations," at 3 p.m. in the Y Cabinet room.

Dr. Amry Vandebosch will speak on "World Peace Through the San Francisco Charter," at 11:45 a.m. Dr. Vandebosch, visiting Burton Craig professor of Jurisprudence in the UNC Political Science Department, was advisor at the 1945 San Francisco Conference on the United Nations and is now teaching a course on the UN in the University.

The afternoon session of the conference will be highlighted by the Playmakers' presentation of "To Live In Faith," a play written by the National Commission

UNESCO. Lester F. Zerfoss of the Enka Corporation will then discuss issues and policies.

Short talks will be given on "World Peace Through Changes Within the Present Charter," by Dr. Lenoir Wright, professor of history and political science at WCUNC; "World Peace Through Multilateral Pacts Under the Charter," by Dr. J. R. Skretting, assistant professor of education at UNC; and "World Peace Through Charter Revision," by Dr. Henry P. Brandis, Jr., Dean of the Law School, UNC.

There will be general discussions after each speech, and then smaller buzz sessions. The conference is being sponsored by about 17 women's organizations of both lay and professional groups.

5 IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson announced yesterday that no American pilots will be sent to aid the French in Indo-China. Wilson also told a news conference a military victory over the Communists without direct American intervention is "both possible and probable." He did say, however, that Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, commander of U. S. Army forces in the Pacific, "might be sent" to Indo-China.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators reported yesterday that no shortage is seen in present coffee supplies. Chairman J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) of a special banking subcommittee studying recent spectacular price increases, said the high cost cannot be attributed to a shortage in Brazil, source of most of the American supply.
