

WEATHER
Cloudy, windy and mild with chance of showers tonight.

The Daily Tar Heel

MORE
The student union has only half of what it needs the editor says, but there's a way to get more. See p.2

VOLUME LXII NUMBER 102 Complete AP Photo and Wire Service CHAPEL HILL, N. C. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1954 Offices in Graham Memorial SIX PAGES TODAY

Engstrom Humanities Talk Slated

Dr. Alfred G. Engstrom will trace the appeal of the flight of birds to the imaginative mind of man in the winter Humanities Lecture Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

The public is invited to this lecture, to be held under the sponsorship of the Humanities Division of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Engstrom, a professor of French in the University, calls his lecture "The Symbol of the Bird in Flight."

Few things in nature have so caught man's attention as flying birds; and from primitive times until the present the sense of wonder and mystery of flight has contributed to all the arts, Dr. Engstrom will say.

A native of Illinois, Dr. Engstrom received his bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees at Chapel Hill and has been a member of the University faculty since 1936.

He is author of numerous articles and in 1950 was co-editor with Dr. U. T. Holmes and Dr. S. E. Leavitt of "Romance Studies Presented to William Morton Dey," a volume honoring Dr. Dey at the time of his retirement from teaching. Dr. Engstrom is one of the editorial collaborators in the "University of North Carolina Studies in Comparative Literature," a series of books attracting national attention.

Announcement of the lecture was made yesterday by Dr. J. P. Harland, chairman of the committee in charge of the lectures.

String Concert Slated For Hill Tuesday Night

Edgar Alden, Jean Heard, Dorothy Alden and Mary Gray Clarke, members of the University String Quartet, will present a program of Brahms, Haydn and Shostakovich in Hill Hall Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

The quartet's violins, viola and violoncello will be accompanied by pianist Melvin Bernstein. Shostakovich's piano Quintet which had its premier performance in Moscow in 1940, Quartet in B Flat by Brahms, and Haydn's Quartet in G, op. 76, will be among the compositions on the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden are known to Chapel Hillians for their performance in the Quartet and the Alden String Trio. Mr. Alden, head of the string department at the University, appeared last semester on the Tuesday evening series with Dr. William Newman in a recital of music for violin and piano.

Miss Heard is a member of the University Symphony Orchestra, and graduated from the Juilliard School of Music.

Miss Clarke has been a graduate assistant and instructor in the String Department at UNC since 1932. While in Germany she toured as soloist throughout the American zone of occupation.

Pianist Bernstein studied with Irwin Freundlich in New York before coming to Chapel Hill as a graduate assistant and instructor in piano.

WUNC Slates Playback Of Dr. Sockman's Talk

The talk made by Dr. Ralph Sockman last Wednesday evening will be heard over station WUNC Wednesday night.

There has been a number of requests concerning the time of the program, which is scheduled for 9 p.m. Wednesday night, the first available spot on the station schedule.

B. S. U. Supper Forum

The B. S. U. will have as its guest speaker tomorrow night Rev. Charles Jones, pastor of the Chapel Hill Community Church. Jones will begin a series to answer the question "Is Christianity Practical?"

PROF. LASSWELL

Yale Authority On Poly Sci To Speak Here

Dr. Harold D. Lasswell, professor of law and political science at Yale University, will lecture on "communication and the social sciences" Monday night at 8:30 in Carroll Hall auditorium.

Dr. Lasswell is a recognized world authority in the fields of political science, propaganda and communications.

In addition to his Monday evening lecture, Dr. Lasswell will speak to the Faculty Club on Tuesday. He will be here through Wednesday conferring with faculty members in the fields of communications and the social sciences and will be advising with committees and individual faculty members in the general area of communication research and instruction.

Dr. Lasswell has served on several national boards, including the Research Advisory Board, Committee for Economic Development and the Committee on Freedom of the Press.

Among his works are "Labor Attitudes and Problems," "Propaganda Technique in the World War," "World Politics and Personal Insecurity," "World Revolution, Communication and Public Opinion," "Political Faces Economics," "The Analysis of Political Behavior."

Coeds To Vote Monday For Campus May Queen

Carolina's May Day Queen will be selected Monday night.

Voting will take place Monday night, Feb. 22, in all women's dormitories and sorority houses. Ballots will list all senior coeds and twenty are to be voted for on the first ballot.

A final ballot will be voted on Wednesday night, Feb. 24, at which time eleven out of the first twenty will be chosen.

Town women will vote in the Y Monday and Wednesday.

As Two Day Get Together Ends

State Of University Meeting Sets Forth Recommendations

By Dick Creed

After taking off the wraps and looking at the Consolidated University for two days, the State of the University Conference last night said what it thought was wrong and what could be done to make it right.

The conference dealt with three groups of students — those through the sophomore year, those above the sophomore year, and those in graduate or extension study.

Group Hears Provost Purks Express Views

Dr. James Harris Purks, newly appointed provost of the Consolidated University, said yesterday that higher education needs "an imaginative leap of genius."

"I long to see someone — whether currently obscure or currently well-known — make an imaginative leap of genius and provide for higher education a simple, orderly basis around which its forces may be consolidated, its purposes clearly stated, and its plan of future service projected," said Dr. Purks.

He was addressing a luncheon session of the State of the University Conference which ended its two-day meet here yesterday.

Dr. Purks suggested that "perhaps within our own faculty there is a possibility for the imaginative leap of genius. If such phenomenon should appear, the state of North Carolina will be a direct beneficiary, and the nation will be debtor to our institution and to the state which created and supported it."

"The healthiest and most effective dissatisfaction is that which relates to our own efforts. It prevents us from becoming smug. It calls not only for searching self-appraisal, but it also calls for a self-delivered directive to move forward with reference to an absolute scale of greatness."

Commenting on Carolina's recommendation in other regions of the country, Purks stated, "In over a quarter century of work in higher education I have heard good things about the University, and have observed them myself. But when it was learned that I had made the very easy decision to come here after President Gray accorded me the honor, people whom I would never have expected to have knowledge of state universities spoke of their high regard for our institution."

Purks took up his duties as Provost here January 1, succeeding Logan Janney, who is now president of the University of Texas.

Tomorrow in a roundup of the State of the University Conference, The Daily Tar Heel will present a comprehensive picture of the meetings' reports and recommendations for the University

Coeds Will Be Hostesses To Lady Trustees

Carolina coeds will have the women Trustees of the Consolidated University as their guests for a two-day conference Monday and Tuesday.

"The purpose of the meeting here is to provide an opportunity for the women students to get acquainted with the 10 women members of the Board of Trustees, and for the trustees to meet the girls and become familiar with their activities," explained dean of women Katherine Carmichael.

Highlighting the Monday schedule will be a dinner at 6:15 p.m. honoring the guests. Several representatives of the University administration and other guests will be present.

To acquaint the trustees with the activities of the students, brief meetings of the various coed organizations will be held during the evening. The participating groups will include: Women's Residence Council, Women's Honor Council, YWCA, Panhellenic Council, and the Independent Coed Board.

Dr. Hall's report, dealing with students above the sophomore year, stated that "there appears to have been . . . unanimity of opinion on the desirability of developing higher academic standards, especially at the undergraduate level. It deal also with research, and organizational, procedural, and administrative "problems" bearing upon instruction and research."

Dr. Mayo's report on graduate and extension study hit "overlapping, duplication, waste of time, effort, and taxpayers' money" in the graduate and extensions programs. It recommended a committee to study the situation.

It called also for a "master plan of educational objectives," a "council on extended services," and stated that "quality of service should always be the watchword."

stated present admissions practice is not "adequately selective for the best interests of students, state, or University. A more selective admissions practice, based on sounder criteria and a broader philosophy of service, is feasible and necessary," it contended. It also recommended "more consistent and intensive consideration of the ways in which the individual faculty member and the administration can remedy" certain "adverse" conditions.

Dr. Hall's report, dealing with students above the sophomore year, stated that "there appears to have been . . . unanimity of opinion on the desirability of developing higher academic standards, especially at the undergraduate level. It deal also with research, and organizational, procedural, and administrative "problems" bearing upon instruction and research."

Dr. Mayo's report on graduate and extension study hit "overlapping, duplication, waste of time, effort, and taxpayers' money" in the graduate and extensions programs. It recommended a committee to study the situation.

It called also for a "master plan of educational objectives," a "council on extended services," and stated that "quality of service should always be the watchword."

Girl whose car stalls in front of police station pushing the auto up the street amid wild traffic.

Student asking Latin literature instructor if it's necessary to remember minor characters of a play. The teacher's reply: "You just have to know them for the quiz; then you can forget them."

Guy behind the counter in Y Court serving attractive coed who comes up as waiting males wait longer to be helped.

Coeds Will Be Hostesses To Lady Trustees

Carolina coeds will have the women Trustees of the Consolidated University as their guests for a two-day conference Monday and Tuesday.

"The purpose of the meeting here is to provide an opportunity for the women students to get acquainted with the 10 women members of the Board of Trustees, and for the trustees to meet the girls and become familiar with their activities," explained dean of women Katherine Carmichael.

Highlighting the Monday schedule will be a dinner at 6:15 p.m. honoring the guests. Several representatives of the University administration and other guests will be present.

To acquaint the trustees with the activities of the students, brief meetings of the various coed organizations will be held during the evening. The participating groups will include: Women's Residence Council, Women's Honor Council, YWCA, Panhellenic Council, and the Independent Coed Board.

Crowded Campus Corner

Pine Room: Hoagys, Music, Conversation

By Jennie Lynn

Where Library enthusiasts congregate for coffee, "Heart Of My Heart" pours from the juke box, and 200 "Hoagys" a day are consumed, the Pine Room stands, a crowded Carolina corner.

Mars Program At Planetarium

Martian monsters and mysterious man-made canals are currently under investigation at the Morehead Planetarium.

The Planetarium is presenting "Fiction or Fact," a completely new approach to the universal question, "Is there life on Mars?"

In one hour, a complete drama including narration, history, science, and fabulous fiction is introduced with interesting effectiveness. The program includes illustrative material to clarify the popular "Moon Hoax of 1835" and the natural humor that invariably emerges from erroneous interpretation, intended by the author in some cases, of stories concerning the universe.

The program is designed to reach an understanding of man's past concepts of other life in the planetary system and encourages closer scrutiny of all unconfirmed stories and reports. The "Martians" and "canals" of H. G. Wells' interpretation of life on Mars will also be examined.

The program is being presented every night at 8:30 in the Planetarium. Showings of this program will be given through March 1. Matinees are on Saturday at 3 and Sunday at 3 and 4 p.m.

Westminster Fellowship
Westminster Fellowship will have as its speaker tomorrow night Dr. Lee Brooks of the Sociology Department. Subject of Dr. Brooks' talk will be "What's Wrong With Drinking."

Sen. Long Of Louisiana Scheduled To Lecture Next Friday In Hill Hall

Carolina Forum Brings Young Senator To UNC

Senator Russell B. Long, Democrat from Louisiana, will speak here Friday night.

The 36-year-old congressman, youngest senator to be elected into the lawmaking body in the nation's history will speak at 8 o'clock in Hill Hall. He is sponsored by the Carolina Forum.

Long, son of the late Huey Long, former governor of Louisiana, was president of his student body when he attended Louisiana State University, and was graduated in his class at LUS law school. He served over three years in the U. S. Navy before practicing law at Baton Rouge, La.

He was executive counsel to the governor of Louisiana before being elected to the Senate.

Long has served on several committees, including the Senate Finance Interior and Insular Affairs and Small Business, Post Office and Civil Service committees. He co-authored the Classification Bill of 1949, which fixes pay wages for all classified employees of the Federal Government and fixes the qualifications and requirements of positions in the government.

Forum Chairman Fleishman announced yesterday plans for speeches by two other governmental personalities.

Attorney-General Brownell is scheduled to speak here April 2, and Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, on April 9.

Medical Fraternity Meeting

There will be a meeting of Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-medical fraternity, Monday night at 7:30 in 207 Venable Hall. Feature of the meeting will be a film entitled "Cancer Problems."

SEN. LONG

Talk: Political, Cultural, Et Al

Carolina students who were recently reported as "starved" for speakers—cultural, political, and all that — will have the chance to get an earful next week. Here's how:

In addition to Senator Long's speech on Friday night, tomorrow night at 8 Prof. James E. King of the History Department and Jimmy Wallace, director of Graham Memorial and graduate student in history, will be guests of the Carolina Political Union for a discussion of the necessities of modern warfare and peace as compared with warfare and peace prior to the Korean war, in the Grail Room.

On Monday night Dr. Harold D. Lasswell, professor of law and political science at Yale University, will talk on "Communication and the Social Sciences" at 8:30 in Carroll Hall auditorium.

A humanities lecture, "The Symbol of the Bird in Flight," will be delivered by Dr. A. G. Engstrom Tuesday night at 8 in Gerrard Hall.

Thad Eure, secretary of state of North Carolina, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday night in the Town Hall.

Also coming up Wednesday night at 8 is "Six Ways To Get A Job," by Paul W. Boynton, employment supervisor for the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Gerrard Hall.

Bible Address By Dr. Steele Today, Sunday

Dr. Francis R. Steele, Bible scholar and archaeologist, will be the main speaker at the annual Midwinter Conference sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship at Camp New Hope today and tomorrow.

Dr. Steele is well known in both archaeological and Christian circles. He has made several trips to the Near East doing research for the University of Pennsylvania, where he was Director of the Archaeological Museum.

The theme of the conference is "Modern Man Looks At The Bible."

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is an international organization of Christian college students. The Inter-Varsity chapter on this campus is the Carolina Christian Fellowship. Students from the chapters at Duke, State, W.C., Greensboro College, and Carolina will be coming to this conference for the North Carolina area.

Any persons who are interested are invited to come out to Camp New Hope at any time throughout the conference, which begins today at 2 p.m. and ends Sunday at 4 p.m. Those desiring transportation should be at Graham Memorial today at 1 p.m. or contact George Norris in 407 Grimes.

HAIL (HOS GELDINIZ) TO THE CHIEF!

President Celal Bayar of Turkey (right) reviews the honor guard of Naval ROTC students in front of the Morehead Planetarium Thursday afternoon. At left is part of the crowd of students which gathered on Franklin Street to greet the visiting head of state. Above the heads of the crowd can be seen the large Turkish flag which was hanging on the ATO fraternity house. (Photos by Hauser, Kuralt.)