DR. TRUEBLOOD speaks tonight

Dr. Trueblood To Give Talk Here Tonight

"Our Heritage of Freedom" has been chosen by Dr. D. Elton Trueblood as the topic for his address here this evening at 7:30 in Hill Hall.

Dr. Trueblood, author of religious books and professor of philosophy at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., was recently named to the newly-created post of Chief of Religious Policy in the U. S. Information Agency.

The YWCA and the YMCA, through their joint committee on University Sermons, are sponsoring Dr. Trueblood's two-day visit on the campus.

Jodie Desmond and Roy Taylor, chairmen of the committees, have released the completed program, which includes a series of talks to various campus groups, a reception, a luncheon and a dinner. Dr. Trueblood will be welcomed to the campus this evening at a dinner attended by representatives from the YMCA, YWCA, faculty and administration.

Tonight Dr. Trueblood will address students, faculty and townspeople. The Student Nurses' Choir, directed by Miss Betty Ray, will sing a group of spirituals before the address.

Following Dr. Trueblood's talk, the speaker will be honored at a reception in Graham Memorial sponsored by the local Society of Friends.

Tomorrow Dr. Trueblood will appear before several student seminar groups, to be followed by a luncheon for all students in LeNoir Hall. Dr. Trueblood will speak at that time on "The Religious Bases of Education."

Mrs. Trueblood and Mrs. Bernard Boyd will lead a discussion this afternoon in the faculty lounge on "The Spiritual Value of Marriage." The discussion is the first in a series sponsored by the YMCA on marriage.

Tarnation Staff Meets This Afternoon In GM

The Tarnation staff will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the basement of Graham Memorial. The meeting is also open for students who are interested in writing or working on the staff.

Tomorrow Campus Chest Leaders Seek Student Funds

The Campus Chest Drive starts tomorrow and chairman Lew Sherman has asked that "all students get behind the drive and push as hard as they can to make it a success."

Proceeds from the Campus Chest Drive are to be donated to the Cancer, Muscular Dystrophy and Cerebral Palsy Funds.

Chairman Sherman and Campus Chest Show Director Bo Bernardin have issued a special plea for student support; they were delegated to conduct the drive on short notice, they say, and they have been unable to publicize it to any great length.

"The drive is a most worthy one," said Sherman, "and we are counting on the students for their full support." Bill Calvert is in charge of the solicitations and pledges will be accepted by members of the committee as they visit dorms, sororities and fraternities.

Revised Board Chooses Neill For Top Post

The newly-revised Publications Board met yesterday and elected Daily Tar Heel editor Rolfe Neill as chairman.

Other officers named were Treasurer George McKinney and Secretary Lib Moore. McKinney is one of two Legislature representatives on the board and Miss Moore is editor of the Yackety-Yack. The other Legislature member is Bob Young.

In its only action of the day the board voted to hire a Daily Tar Heel proofreader for the remainder of the year. Presently, the proofreading job is handled by the night editor along with his other duties. The proofreader is to be paid 70 cents an hour.

Panhell's Fashion Show Tonight At 8:30 O'clock

"Around the Clock," the first Panhellenic Fashion Show, will be presented tonight at 8:30 in the Chapel Hill High School auditorium.

Jean's Clothing Store of Raleigh will furnish the latest fashions for coeds and Milton's Clothing Cupboard of Chapel Hill will lend the men's attire.

Tickets for the show will be sold by the models today until 1 p.m. in the Y Court for 50 cents. The entire proceeds from the show will be turned over to the Community Chest of Chapel Hill by the Panhellenic Council, sponsor of the affair.

Twenty-one models, chosen from their sororities and fraternities on the campus, will exhibit the fashions.

Valkyries Tap Five Coed Leaders In Sunrise Ceremony This Morning

CHARLOTTE DAVIS

ELEANOR ADDISON

CAROLYN JOHNSON

SARAH ROSE

BETTY OTTO ANDERSON

The Valkyries, highest coed honor society on campus, initiated five new members this morning in a sunrise ceremony.

This morning, black-gowned figures with tolling gongs invaded dormitories and sorority houses to tap Carolyn Johnson, Betty Otto Anderson, Sarah Rose, Charlotte Davis and Eleanor Addison.

Admission into the Valkyries is the highest honor bestowed on a Carolina coed and the society taps on the basis of outstanding character, effective leadership, scholarship, unselfish service and sound judgment.

Carolyn Johnson, a senior from Norfolk, Va., is majoring in physical education. She is president of the W. A. A., president of Smith Dormitory and a member of the Leadership Training Committee. She has served on the Women's Honor Council and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

A senior from Port St. Joe, Florida, Betty Otto Anderson is a sociology major.

As chairman of the Women's Resident Council she took charge of revising the Constitution for Women's Government. She was also a member of the Orientation Committee, and is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority.

Two Chapel Hill girls, Sarah Rose and Charlotte Davis, were honored.

Sarah Rose is rush chairman of Pi Beta Phi and vice-president of the YWCA. She served on the Women's Honor Council and acted as chairman of the Y's Faith and Heritage Commission. Sarah is a senior majoring in English.

Phi Beta Kappa Vice-President Charlotte Davis was the first woman to hold the title of Speaker of the Dialectic Senate. She is editor of the Carolina Quarterly and recipient of a Playmaker's Award. She is preparing honors work in French.

Eleanor Addison, senior in elementary education from Norfolk,

Va., is president of Carr Dormitory. She was a student orientation advisor and is chairman of the YWCA Koffee Klatch.

Peacock, Kuralt Agree On Sports; Sports Editor Attacks Editor Neill

By Louis Kraar
Charles Kuralt and Tom Peacock, DTH editorial candidates, last night disagreed on many issues, but both candidates endorsed the present UNC sports program.

Speaking at a Monogram Club meeting, Peacock assailed present Editor Rolfe Neill for his stand on big-time athletics. The "real" issue in the campaign, according to Peacock, is "whether or not this clique, who've had The Daily Tar Heel for so long and whose views have constantly opposed those of the Monogram Club, stays in."

Kuralt, speaking after Peacock, pointed out, "I'd like to make it clear that Rolfe Neill isn't running for editor of The Daily Tar Heel." Neill, Kuralt said, "has a right to say what he wants." He went on to explain that he didn't agree "unequivocally" with the present editor's stand. (Earlier Peacock charged that Kuralt had endorsed Neill's editorial policy "unequivocally.")

In answer to a question from the audience of about 15 students, Peacock said that although Neill hadn't censored his writing on big-time athletics, the editor had exerted "subtle pressure, though nothing that could be called outright censorship."

Answering another question Kuralt declared, "I am a great deal more satisfied with the Carolina sports situation than the present editor."

Peacock replied to a question concerning alumni giving money to athletes saying: "I'm against the University giving money to players. But if some of the alumni give privately to subsidize athletics, I would consider it 'their right.'" Kuralt said he opposed this practice.

Track coach Dale Ranson, in a lengthy talk, strongly criticized present DTH editor Neill for "disrespect" to the chancellor and president of the University. He charged that Neill had given a letter written by Dr. A. W. Hobbs "unfair" treatment in an editorial.

The letter was run and an editorial comment followed the next day.

"I think it's just about time," Ranson said, "that students, when elected editors of publications, don't have the privilege to say anything they want. A due respect to the University is necessary, and the paper hasn't lived up to it this year."

Ranson charged that instead of learning about the University, student editors are "trying to set up good jobs for themselves as big newspaper men when they get out of school."

Ranson said he wasn't endorsing either Peacock or Kuralt, but was merely "interested in the policy" of the student paper.

Both candidates agreed that the editor of the paper should have the right to say what he wished. However, Peacock said present editor Neill "embarrassed the administration and made fools of the University before the whole world." Kuralt repeated that he was running for editor, "not Neill." Kuralt said he "would be fair both in news and editorial pages."

U. S. Is Failing In Leadership, States Hodges

"America has had world leadership thrust upon her and is failing because, unfortunately, the new administration in Washington has created more confusion and suspicion throughout the world," Lt.-Gov. Luther Hodges said here last night.

Addressing a public meeting sponsored jointly by the Young Democrats Club and the Law School Association, the Lieutenant-Governor said the "confusion and suspicion" he referred to "hasn't been intentional but it has been allowed to happen through an uncurbed McCarthy and his associates.

"People are confused and concerned about their government and its leaders," the speaker said. "They hardly know what or whom to believe. America is on the spot. 'McCarthy and company have not only stolen the headlines world-wide,' Hodges said, 'they have almost succeeded in sabotaging our international friendship by bipartisan foreign policy and by hard-working foreign staffs dedicated to world peace and understanding.'"

Dog Catcher Tells George To Dig Up Tag

By Chuck Hauser

George, the Campus Collie, has been given an ultimatum. R. Hume Claytor, Orange County Dog Warden, says that George will be on his way to the pound in Hillsboro on Monday if he doesn't dig up a new rabies inoculation tag to replace the one he lost.

Claytor, as a matter of fact, made a special exception in George's case. He is already picking up other Chapel Hill dogs who are not wearing the rabies tags.

Mrs. A. M. Jordan, of the Chapel Hill Humane Society, requested that The Daily Tar Heel inform all local dog-owners that if their mutts show up missing—why, Claytor's probably got them. The thing to do is go to Hillsboro between 8 and 12 o'clock on Saturday morning (See GEORGE, page 4)

Mass Meeting Called Tonight By Local BSU

By Jerry Reece

The UNC Baptist Student Union will hold a mass meeting tonight in Gerrard Hall from 6:30 to 7:30, according to an announcement made by the new BSU president, Tom Mauldin, yesterday.

The local BSU officers will ask the meeting tonight for a vote of confidence for the Rev. James Ray of Raleigh, the state secretary of the BSU, and J. C. Herrin, the UNC BSU student secretary.

State BSU president Ann Tunstall has requested that every campus express its opinion or sentiments in the matter, and tonight's meeting will give the local students a chance to comply with this request.

The Rev. Warren Carr of the Watts Street Baptist Church, Durham, will be present to explain the issues arising from the recent BSU investigations conducted by the state Baptist investigating committee.

The Rev. Carr will attempt to answer all questions students might have concerning the investigations. Ray and Herrin have also been invited to the meeting.

All Baptist students are invited to the meeting whether they belong to the local BSU or not. Mauldin said that the meeting would adjourn in time for students to hear Dr. Trueblood's address at 7:30 in Hill Hall.

Spring, When A Politico's Fancy Turns . . .
President Bob Gorham served notice this week that things will be active around his office. He has issued the frequent, and heretofore ineffective, complaint that the Book Ex makes too much money on used books.

If he can help get the prices down, fine. But what makes us wonder about the whole thing is that he waited until spring to register his complaint. We always thought that spring was the time to be lazy.

Get Your Issues While They're Hot
Another Gorham move was to go on record as opposing delayed fraternity rushing for freshmen. From the looks of things, this sounds like an ideal campaign issue.

The rival Student Party has already said it favored some sort of revised rushing. And Gorham, as University Party spokesman, now opposes it.

The SP took its revised rushing stand last January. And Gorham's stand, accompanied by a UP student Legislature bill backing the president, is the first outspoken opposition to the SP stand.

'Thou Shalt Not . . .'
When a campaigner "lies," and one has been accused of doing just that, it would seem that an Honor Council case would be in order.

Hyperboles are as frequent in politics here as campaign posters. Lies, we like to think, are infrequent.
If one accuses another of a lie, why doesn't he press his suit in a student court? If this were the rule or a general practice, we think you'd hear fewer politicians shouting, "Liar."
