Carolina Nine At State In Big Four Opener

Tennis Team To Open Season; Linksters Vs. Ohio Wesleyan

Ford To Lead Golf Team In Quest For 2nd Win

By John Hussey
The Carolina golf team will go into action for the second time this season when they face the invaders from Ohio Wesleyan at Finley Course in a match scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Billy Ford, the sophomore sharpshooter from Charleston, S. C., will lead the Tar Heel attack. Ford was on the way to tying the course record in the opening match of the season, but ran into trouble on the last two holes and "blew up" to a two-under-par 70. Going into the seventeenth hole he was seven under par for sixteen holes.

Two other lettermen from last year's squad, George Mountcastle and John Frazier, will follow Ford in the Carolina lineup. Ford, Frazier and Mountcastle are the only returning members of last year's squad which won the Southern Conference title and placed second in the National Intercollegiate meet which was held during the summer vacation.

One of the most welcome members to the golf team this year, Larry Parker, has not yet hit his stride in competition. Parker had been participating in spring football practice during the past two years and was unable to play for Coach Chuck Erickson's golf team. However, the footballers practiced early this year and Parker was declared eligible for the links team. He led the Tar Heels with a 75 in the opening round of the Azalea Tournament, but folded in the succeeding rounds.

Milo Abercrombie, Jim Sykes, and Joe Correll will vie for the fifth and sixth spots. Abercrombie and Sykes were the early season favorites for the positions, but Correll played in the match against Boston University at Finley last week and equalled Ford's two-below-par effort to tie for medalist honors.

As yet the Tar Heels have not lost a single match in dual meet competition. They will be highly favored in the meet today.

The Carolina linksmen will open their ACC competition Saturday in a contest against N. C. State, which will also be held in Chapel Hill.

Theta Chi, KA, Lamb Chi, SPE Win In Softball

Intramural softball competition entered its second day of play with a couple of one sided shut-outs and two close contests in the Fraternity Division.

KA scored five runs in the first inning and went on to turn back Sigma Chi, 8-5. The losers scored four runs in the first frame.

With Pope homering and Neville hitting a triple and double, SPE turned back Phi Gam-1, 7-5.

Lamb Chi, with McCoogan on the mound, shut out SAE-2, 7-0. Bill Beck pitched Theta Chi-1 to a 15-0 win over Phi Gam-2. The winners scored three markers in the first inning and pounded away at the Phi Gam hurlers for 12 more before the end of the contest.

Monogram Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Monogram Club tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. Plans will be discussed for the beach party and the orphans' Easter party. All members eligible for the beach trip are asked to attend.

Michigan To Provide Netters' Opposition

By Larry Saunders
Carolina's varsity tennis team opens a 26-game schedule this afternoon against Michigan State on the Varsity Courts. The Tar Heels will be after their 34th straight victory in this afternoon's match, which begins at 3 o'clock.

Coach John Kenfield has named Captain Herb Browne to start in the number one position. Browne finished the recent inter-squad round-robin undefeated. Don Thompson will be in the number two spot, Tom Bradford number three, and Bobby Payne will hold down the fourth position.

Kenfield admits that any one of his top four players could beat each other on a good day. Pete Green and Ronnie Kerdasha round out the singles line-up.

Kerdasha is the only starter who was not in the top six last season. The loss of Del Sylvia, last season's top netman, creates the opening for Kerdasha.

Southern Conference doubles champions Bradford and Thompson will play first doubles, while Browne and Payne are expected to be the number two combination. Kerdasha and either Sam Hande or Bruce Gustafson will round out the doubles pairings.

The entire line-up is composed of sophomores and juniors.

Coach Kenfield doesn't expect too much trouble from the Michigan State netters. "Stan Drobac, the Big Ten champion last year, has graduated," Kenfield stated, "and I think his loss will hurt them. They can't be too strong."

Kenfield will not predict another unbeaten season for his ace netmen. "We expect at least five tough matches, and any one of them could go either way," he said. The veteran coach expects Princeton, Rollins, Presbyterian, Duke and Harvard to cause the most trouble.

Barristers Lead Intramural Standings With 677 Points

The young law student approached the judge who was to try his practice case later that afternoon and said: "Your honor, could we postpone my case this afternoon? I have a softball game at 4 o'clock."

To a judge who has had no experience with Carolina law students, this would sound quite odd, but it could happen often since nearly a fourth of the future lawyers participate in Carolina's Intramural program.

Intramural Manager Jerry Nall is quite proud of his fellow law students this year, who at the present time are making a run-away of the Dormitory Over-All Sports Championships with 677 points thus far this year. "We have 188 boys in the (Law) school," Nall commented, "and over a fourth participate on our intramural teams. A lot of our students participate on their fraternity teams too and we often compete against them for the Campus Championships."

"We have all kinds of men on the teams," Jerry Roth, one of the school's all-around athletes revealed. "We have married men and a few old flabby men." Mike McCloud, who helped the future lawyers win the Dorm Table Tennis

Championship, is considered the "grandpappy" of the team. McCloud is pushing his mid-thirties. Don Erb is one of the best athletes in the Law School, although he is handicapped by the loss of one arm. Erb plays football, basketball, handball, and table tennis.

George Green, the only colored law student at the University, is also an active participant in the intramural program. He has participated in football, volleyball and basketball. The Lawyer's have two Yankees on their teams too; Erb is from Massachusetts and Roth hales from New York.

This year the future lawyers have claimed the Campus tag football and handball championships; the Dormitory volleyball and table tennis titles; and have been runner-ups in basketball and soccer. They also teamed with the ADP's to win the Sports Carnival for the second straight year. "In fact," Nall said, "the only sport we haven't done well in is wrestling. I guess we're too old for that."

This isn't the first year the Law School has done so well in intramural play. Last year the school won the Over-All Point Trophy and Rod Nichols, the intramural manager, was awarded the Outstanding Manager Award.

ACC Clash Set For 3:30 P.M.

Marbry Or Aycock Will Start For UNC

By Dick Barkley

The Carolina Tar Heels travel to Raleigh today to meet the State College Wolfpack in the initial Big Four baseball contest of the season. The game will be the first ACC activity for State while Carolina has played one game in the loop, that being a 2-0 win over Virginia.

UNC Coach Walter Rabb will probably start either Don Marbry or Charlie Aycock on the mound. Marbry, who set down Amherst with one run earlier in the year, has given up seven hits in nine innings. Aycock, who has split two decisions, has allowed only nine hits and one run in 18 innings. That one run sent him down to defeat in the season's opening game with Rollins.

The Tar Heels have steadily improved their run-producing mechanism since that loss, and if the pitching holds up the way it has been, the Carolina boys should be right at the top on closing day of conference competition.

Joe Morgan, a miniature south-paw who has won both of his starts so far will most likely be saved for Saturday's game with Wake Forest which will be played here at Emerson Field.

The Wolfpack opened its season yesterday afternoon against Michigan State, whom the Tar Heels whipped Monday, 6-2. Coach Vic Sorrell will probably start big Jack Yvars on the mound. The

Soccer Practice

Spring soccer practice will be held this afternoon at 3 p.m. Anyone wishing to try for the team, report to coach Marvin Allen on Intramural Field at that time. The practice will continue throughout April.

Wolfpack hurling was its weakest point last year, but with three or four good freshman flingers moving up to the varsity ranks, the State boys could be hard to handle this year. Johnny Yvars, brother of pitcher Jack, is the leading State hitter and plays great defensively at his shortstop position. The rest of the lineup is also filled with promising batsmen who can break open a game any time.

Ed Hooks, the Tar Heels' leading hitter, will open behind the plate. Will Frye, Harry Lloyd, Fred Dale, and either Bobby Williams or Bruce Holt will hold the infield slots for Carolina while Connie Mack Gravitte, Al Long, and Ken Keller will roam the outfield.
