Admission Free Tennis Ball Set Friday On Courts

Chinese lanterns and soft music will provide the atmosphere for the University's first Tennis Ball on Friday night from 9 till 12.

The Graham Memorial Combo, featured on weekends in the Rendezvous Room, will play for the dance. The affair is being sponsored jointly by the Interdormitory Council and the Women's Residence Council.

What happens in case of rain? "Don't mention it—don't even think about it!" said Manning Muntzing, chairman of the Tennis Ball Committee. The dance will be held outside, on the intramural tennis courts beside the varsity courts. Admission is free.

"We're hoping the whole campus will turn out," continued Muntzing, adding that many coeds had already signed up for blind dates. He expects a large crowd for the function.

Dress is informal—"come dressed appropriately," Muntzing said.

Ex-UNC Men Being Trained With Military

Six former University students now in the Navy and Marines recently finished their present phases of training, and have been re-assigned.

LT. (jg) Harry L. Fremd of Canal Point, Fla., has reported for jet fighter pilot training in Kingsville, Tex.

Malcolm V. Sites of Fairfield, N. C., Barry Rizzo of Short Beach, Conn., and Lew Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn., who have all completed a five-month Marine officers' basic training course, will be stationed in Camp Lejeune.

Ensigns Gerald W. Dorn of Ninety-Six, S. C., and Cadet Charles Sapp of Concord have qualified for carrier pilot service and will continue their training in Pensacola, Fla.

Jobs Are Open In Orientation

Interviews for Orientation counselors will begin Thursday night and applicants will be notified through campus mail as to time and date of meeting.

Applications are still open for counselors and many more people are needed to fill these positions.

"Orientation is by far one of the most important campus activities and it can only be successful if the students cooperate," said Chairman Rollie Tillman.

Marilyn Habel Awarded Grant For Advanced Study In Geneva

Miss Marilyn Habel, a senior at the University, has just been awarded a Rotary Foundation Fellowship for advanced study abroad during the 1954-55 scholastic year.

These one-year grants range in value from $1,800 to $3,400 each and provide for all essential expenses of the recipient during the year abroad.

Miss Habel will take graduate work in the field of political science at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and at the Institute of International Affairs with which the University is connected.

Announcement of the award was made by Rotary International, world-wide service club organization, at its Chicago headquarters. Miss Habel was sponsored by the Chapel Hill Rotary Club.

She is the daughter of Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the Chapel Hill Baptist Church, and Mrs. Habel. She was born in Amelia, Va. and was graduated from the

UNC Students 'Trophy Hunt' At Fla. College

One of the three Carolina students who over the holidays went on a midnight trophy hunt at Florida Southern College yesterday said assessed damages were $200, but "looked like" only $50.

Dean J. M. Peel, reached by the Associated Press yesterday at Lakeland, Fla., said the boys' payment of $200 "winds it up." He was quoted earlier by the AP as having told the Rotary Club in Lakeland that damage amounted to $1,000. Peel, however, denied this.

No charges were filed against the three who, according to police, admitted breaking several doors and windows in campus buildings Thursday night. They also said they threw two 500-pound sandstone elephants from the college's Garden of Meditation into a pool.

The students, Richard Kocornick, Orange, N. J.; William H. Beebe, Lewis, Ill., and John W. McAllister, Winnetka, Ill., said they agreed to pay all damages. According to McAllister, they paid a total of $200 for all the damage.

Florida detectives quoted the trio as saying they had not intended any damage but were "just looking for trophies to take back to school."

According to the detectives, the three Carolina students told them that they planned to take the elephants back but when they found they were so heavy they threw them into the pool and began searching the administration building for foreign flags they had heard were kept there.

As a first step in restitution, the UNC trio waded into the pool and removed the two elephants.

Park, Miller Program Slated For GM Sunday

John Park, a graduate student in music and a well-known tenor, along with Henry Miller, an instructor in the Department of Mathematics and pianist, will give a concert in Graham Memorial Sunday evening.

Kuralt Picks Neill Managing Editor

Appoints Hussey, Kraar, Hauser, Shortt, Yoder & Reece To Daily Tar Heel Jobs

Rolf Neill was named managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel yesterday as newly-elected editor Charles Kuralt announced his staff appointments.

Neill is a senior in history from Columbus, Ga., and Chapel Hill. He has served as editor of the newspaper since last spring.

This is Editor Charles Kuralt's first issue since he won the job in the spring elections. It also is the first paper since suspension last Wednesday for Easter holidays.

and previously served for a year and a half as managing editor under editors Roy Parker Jr. and Barry Farber.

Named associate editors by Kuralt were Chuck Hauser, Louis Kraar, and Ed Yoder. Hauser, from Fayetteville, and Yoder, from Mebane, held similar posts under Neill. Kraar was the staff's senior reporter. He is from Charlotte.

Al Shortt, Winston-Salem, was appointed to the job of business manager, the same position he has occupied for the past year. Serving with him as advertising manager will be Jack Stillwell from Charleston, S. C. This also was a reappointment for Stillwell.

John Hussey was appointed sports editor to replace Tom Peacock, defeated by Kuralt for the editorship. Peacock, Kuralt said, "has been granted a leave of absence at his own request. He will return to the staff in the fall." Hussey's hometown is Shreveport, La. His assistant sports editor will be Dick Barkley.

Jerry Reece was chosen news editor. He is from Andrews.

Other appointments were Eleanor Saunders, society editor; Tom Witty, subscription manager; Don Hogg, circulation manager; Tom Shores, assistant business manager, and Eugene Polk, assistant subscription manager.

All appointees to paid positions must be approved by the Publications Board, generally only a formality.

Louise Hardeman Coed Wins Quarterly $50 Prize

Louise Hardeman, a senior from Chapel Hill, has been named the winner of the Carolina Quarterly fiction contest, the Quarterly announced yesterday.

Her poetic story of childhood, "The Lost Beach," unanimously was selected by the two judges, James Street and Paul Green.

An English major, Miss Hardeman wrote her winning story for Dr. Hugh Holman's creative writing class. She has received a $50 prize and "The Lost Beach" will appear in the spring issue of the Quarterly, which is scheduled to appear on the stands May 15.

Two other stories which received favorable mention in the contest also will be published in the spring issue of the Quarterly. "A Quantity Unknown," by J. A. C. Duun, is a psychological study of a teacher in a boys' prep school, and "Operation Ah-Choo," by Vincent Cassidy, is a fanciful satire on international diplomacy.

The Carolina Quarterly fiction award is sponsored annually, and is open to any student enrolled in the Consolidated University.

Sen. Alton Lennon Will Speak Tonight

SEN. ALTON LENNON seeks votes here

Senatorial Candidate Will Discuss Views In Carroll Hall At 8

United States Senator Alton Lennon will discuss his position on domestic and international issues in an address tonight in Carroll Hall at 8 o'clock.

Lennon's appearance in Chapel Hill is part of his campaign to seek the Democratic nomination for senator from North Carolina and is another in a "Meet the Candidate" series sponsored by the Orange County YDC groups.

Senator Lennon, from Wilmington, is a graduate of Wake Forest College where he obtained his law degree. He served as judge of New Hanover Recorder's Court for eight years and was elected to the state senate in 1947 and 1951.

Lennon went to the United States Senate in 1953 when he was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of the late Senator Willis Smith.

Lennon has pledged to be "a Jeffersonian Democrat of the old school who believes that simple honesty is still the very foundation of human character." In his campaign literature he describes himself as taking a "middle-of-the-road policy" with a desire "to work to weld the people together, not divide them."

In Lennon's stand on major issues, he has sworn to support all legislation to protect our free way of life from the threat of communism and fascism. These and other stands will be discussed by the senator tonight.

Lennon will arrive at the Carolina Inn at 6 p.m. and will be honored at a dinner at the Pines at 6:30. The dinner is open to the public and reservations may be made by calling Leroy Merritt at the Pines, Bryant Hare, Clyde Carter, or Al House at the Law School.

Nobel Winner Harold Urey To Talk Here

Harold C. Urey, Distinguished Service Professor at the Institute for Nuclear Studies of the University of Chicago, will lecture in Carroll Hall here at 8 p.m. May 3.

His subject will be "Chemical Evidence Relative to the Evolution of the Solar System." This lecture is sponsored by the North Carolina Chapter of the Society of the Sigma Xi, and it is open to the public.

Prof. Urey was awarded the Nobel Prize in Chemistry in 1934 for his discovery of deuterium, an isotope of hydrogen. He has a distinguished record of research in the fields of the thermodynamics of gases, atomic structure, absorption spectra and structure of molecules, and the properties and separation of isotopes.

For several years his research efforts have been directed toward obtaining chemical evidence for the sequence of events in the evolution of the solar system, the subject of the lecture which he will present in Chapel Hill.

Prof. Urey has held positions on the faculties of the University of Montana, the Johns Hopkins University, and Columbia University. He obtained the Ph.D. degree in chemistry at the University of California and has received honorary degrees from six universities. In addition to the Nobel Prize, he has received the Willard Gibbs Medal of the American Chemical Society (1934), the Davy medal of the Royal Society of London (1940), and the Franklin medal of the Franklin Institute (1943). He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and of numerous other professional and honorary societies.

Tickets Ready For Two Plays

Tickets are now on sale for the combined Glee Club production of Menotti's "The Telephone" and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury" to be given April 30 and May 1 at Hill Hall.

A special office has been set up at Hill Hall where tickets will be available to the public. Tickets are $1 each.

The bill of two short operas will be given as the annual Glee Club spring concert. A full production, including costumes and appropriate sets, is planned for both operas.

Cast in "The Telephone" are Jan Saxon and Joel Carter; playing the leads of "Trial by Jury" will be William Trotman, William Whitesides, Nora Jane Rumph, and Harvey Whetstone.

House To Hold Confab With Campus Reporters

Chancellor Robert B. House will hold a press conference tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock with The Daily Tar Heel and Weimar Jones' newswriting class of the Journalism School.

Crown Will Go To Sigma Chi's Favorite Coed

The Sigma Chi Sweetheart Ball will be held Saturday at the Burlington Country Club.

The annual dinner dance will be highlighted by the crowning of the Sigma Chi Sweetheart and presentation of her court. Thirty-two Carolina coeds make up the list out of which the sweetheart and the 12 members of her court are to be chosen.

The coeds are Peggy Hartman, Joy Smith, Gewy Snider, Dorothy Herring, Pat Gibson, Sue Upchurch, Diane Newton, Martha Hemstreet, Ann Pooley, Ann Tew, Louise Coffey, Petey Gunner.

Weil Lectures To Be Printed

The Weil Lectures delivered by Senator Galo Plaza here recently will be published by the University Press early next year.

A statement issued by Lambert Davis, director of the Press, yesterday said that the University Press Board of Governors has formally accepted the lectures for printing.

Davis said that at this time it is not certain that the McNair Lectures given here three weeks ago by Dr. John Coulson will be published. He brought out, however, that if past practice is followed, the University Press will also publish these lectures.

No Negro Influx In Schools Even If Segregation Goes, Says Monroe

By Louis Kraar

The U. S. Supreme Court wants to decide "for once and for all" whether segregation violates the 14th Amendment, Dr. David G.

Monroe told the Faculty Club yesterday.

Speaking on "The Schools and the Courts," the political science professor outlined the development of government policy on segregation. However, Dr. Monroe said what the Supreme Court will decide in the school segregation cases "is anybody's guess."

In answer to further questions about the pending decision, Dr. Monroe said, "I hope to run to Washington soon to see what I can hear via the grapevine."

Dr. Monroe said that "strangely enough, until the last 15 or 20 years, it was considered (by Federal courts) that education was the prerogative of the states."

Outlining the pattern of policy towards segregation, he pointed out that there were court decisions on the problem "even before the Civil War." In all the early cases, he said, the states retained the power to segregate races in public schools.

"Education was not even mentioned in the Constitution. The principle developed that principles and enumeration of education were derived by the states," Dr. Monroe said.

Pointing to more modern cases, he said, "In terms of higher education, by 1950 it was clear that the 'equal protection' clause would require intermingling of the races."

Dr. Monroe said that if the Supreme Court does rule against segregation in the schools, there is still the question of when it should end. "It may be done at once or on a long-term basis," he said.

"Most people, I believe, don't think there will be a great influx of Negro students to white schools, even if segregation is abolished," he added.

The Supreme Court's decision on segregation is due sometime next month, according to Monroe.

DR. ROBERT A. PRATT ... a word on Chaucer

DR. B. L. ULLMAN ... a word on Catullus

3 Profs Help In New Book

Three members of the faculty were among the specialists who prepared material for the New Century Cyclopaedia of Names, a three-volume work just published.

They were Dr. Richmond P. Bond, responsible for the article on Joseph Addison; Dr. Robert A. Pratt, who wrote on Geoffrey Chaucer, and Dr. B. L. Ullman, who wrote on Catullus. Profs. Bond and Pratt are in the English Department and Prof. Ullman is chairman of the Classics Department.

Mrs. J. R. Skretting Newcomers Choose President

Mrs. J. R. Skretting was elected president of the University Newcomers Club at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Skretting succeeds Mrs. Marvin R. Evans.

The organization is composed of wives of new members of the faculty.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ernest Craig, vice president; Mrs. D. G. Tarbet, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. H. Sprunt, social chairman; Mrs. Peter Phialas, publicity chairman; Mrs. Norval Neil Luxon, program chairman; Mrs. J. F. Bunnell, bridge chairman; Mrs. J. W. Gallagher, golf chairman; and Mrs. R. J. M. Hobbs, sponsor.

The club now has 240 members.

The feature of the meeting was a style show in which members of the club modeled spring and summer styles. Serving as models were Mrs. Mark Orr, Mrs. F. Douglas Lawrason, Mrs. C. H. Burnett, Mrs. W. H. Sprunt, Mrs. Walter Hall and Mrs. J. W. Woods Jr.

Mrs. Joe Greer was moderator for the style show. She introduced the models and described their costumes.

Special guests included Mrs. Harris Purks, Mrs. William D. Carmichael Jr., Mrs. Robert B. House, Mrs. Claude E. Teague and Mrs. Robert H. Wettach, president of the University Women's Club.

44 Plays Set For Production As N.C. Dramatists Open Meet

The Carolina Dramatic Association will open its 31st annual spring drama festival today at the Playmakers Theatre with 44 one-act plays scheduled for presentation during the four-day event.

High school, college, and community groups throughout the state will present the plays, which are divided into morning, afternoon, and evening sessions of three or four plays each.

These sessions are also classified into city high schools, county high schools, private schools, little theatres, senior colleges, junior colleges, and children's theatres.

Today's program opens at 9:30 with productions by high school dramatic groups from Graham, Garland, Wake Forest, and Bessemer City. The afternoon session at 2 p.m. will include The Drama Club of Chapel Hill High School, presenting "Fumed Oak," by Noel Coward. Other schools appearing will be Claremont Central of Hickory, Seagrave, and East Mecklenburg.

Four plays by city high schools are slated for the evening program. (See PLAY FESTIVAL, page 4)
