Baha'i Religion
 In Discussion
 Tonight In GM

"Baha'i Peace Program, Its Principles, and the Story of Baha'i World Faith," will be the topic of a talk tonight by James F. Ginnat at 7:30 in Graham Memorial's Roland Parker lounge.
 "Baha'i is an independent, international religion," explained Walter R. Wooten, campus Baha'i Faith leader and sophomore here.
 "The speaker will tell the dramatic story and principles of the Baha'i Faith, and will correlate these principles with current, world-shaping events."
 Among topics to be discussed specifically are the "birth of Baha'i Faith," and "the Baha'i Program for a World Federal System of Government." Theme of the discussion is "Baha'i Principles for World Civilization."
 Slides will be shown in connection with the talk. Students attending the meeting will be able to ask the speaker questions on the Baha'i faith following the address.

Nursing School Gets $133,493 Aid Grant

The UNC School of Nursing has received a training grant of $133,493, Elizabeth L. Kemble, dean of the school, announced recently. Covering a four-year period beginning next July 1, the grant is made by the United States Public Health Service, with the approval of the U. S. Surgeon General.
 The grant will be used to establish a project "to study the problems and methods involved in incorporating needed aspects of social and psychiatric science into the program of undergraduate nursing education."
 Announcement will be made later of appointments to the staff of the project, including a full time social scientist as director, a psychiatrist, a psychiatric nurse, and a public health nurse.

Providing better nursing care for patients is the ultimate objective of the project, the announcement stated.
 Experience gained from this study, it said, should result "in the development of a new pattern for collegiate basic nursing which will provide improved integration of mental health aspects of care in the students' experience and training."

Among those who have agreed to serve in an advisory capacity during the study period are Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science; Ruth M. Boyles, professor of nursing; Mary V. Cheek, assistant professor of nursing.

Also Dr. William L. Fleming, professor of medicine; Dr. O. David Garvin, local district health officer; Alice J. Gifford, professor of nursing; Dr. J. Minor Gwynn, professor of education; Dr. George Ham, head of the Department of Psychiatry; Dean Kemble.
 Dr. F. Douglas Lawrason, assistant dean of the School of Medicine; Dr. Edward G. McGavran, dean of the School of Public Health; Dr. W. W. Pierson, dean of the Graduate School; and Dr. Harvey L. Smith, associate professor in the Division of Health Affairs.

30 Students
 See 'Saucer'
 At Kure Beach

The Daily Tar Heel learned of another weekend 'saucer incident' yesterday afternoon. One near Durham was reported earlier this week.
 Phil Scott, a junior pre-dental student from Hillsboro, reported seeing an "amazing astronomical phenomenon" while on a Westminster Fellowship retreat at Kure Beach last Saturday night.

Scott reports that there were about 30 persons on the trip who saw what he describes as a "saucer-like object."
 "It looked like a comet," he said, "except that it was too short-lived. It was well defined—not misty, and was definitely not a shooting star."
 "It lasted longer and traveled slower, was a brilliant yellowish color, and had a head and tail. We watched it until it seemed to break into two pieces and die out."

The April Tarnation, with one small picture of Pinup Lilly Christine, will be out today, according to Editor Rueben Leonard.
 The humor magazine, which was scheduled to appear yesterday but couldn't because of wet ink, features a page of what is titled "The Beer," and another of Jack Weaver's two-page comic strips, this one tagged "Puperman."
 An added attraction this issue is a book review section. Tarnation reviews such books as "The Pic-
