

WEATHER
Considerable cloudiness with possibility of scattered showers. Expected high, 80s.

The Daily Tar Heel

HALO

The editor talks about Sen. Ervin of P. 2.

VOL. LVII, No. 2

Complete Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1954

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES TODAY

Informal Talks With University Officials At Camp

Freshmen got to know their University chief at Freshmen Camp. Students Bill Durham, Winston-Salem; Lionel Martin, Durham, and Counselor Billy talking with Dean of Student

Aiken of Raleigh are shown. Affairs Fred Weaver, Central Records Director Edwin Lanier and Assistant Controller Claude Teague, Durham and

Martin are freshmen. Aiken is a sophomore. The story of of Freshman Camp, as seen through a freshman's eyes, is told below.

Freshman Camp 'Broke Ice' For First-Year Tar Heels

By ED CRUTCHFIELD

A group, some 180 strong, began assembling in front of the University YMCA shortly after noon last Sept. 6 to take on a venture established by the Y as Freshman Camp. The four-day session was held at Camp New Hope, eight miles north of Chapel Hill, with rising junior Jim Turner as Director.

The atmosphere of the stay at New Hope quickly dispelled the initial feeling of being lost as every camper shook hands and made friends with each passing minute. The singing of our national anthem, "Dixie," even brought smiles to our Yankee friends who have finally admitted that there is nothing like the South, especially Chapel Hill.

Some of the things which proved to be invaluable at camp were sportsmanship, friendship, group discussions and the overall picture of the opportunities before us at Carolina. Under the leadership of Larry Ford, a keen spirit of competition between cabins was aroused in all sports, ranging from volleyball to swimming. As in every group nicknames are found and the ones which stood out most were Itchy, Chuck, Tank and Red. Many members of the faculty visited camp along with student BMOC. In the group discussions topics discussed varied, with the most outstanding ones being on fraternities, studies, Uncle Sam and co-eds. Among the now present "Carolina Gentlemen" were upperclassmen who served as counselors, each being most helpful whenever needed.

Many amusing incidents occurred but the one most suited for print concerned Manning Muntzing, chief of the Inter-Dormitory Council. It seems that Manning went to his cabin rather early on Thursday morning (3 a. m. to be exact) only to find all of his belongings strung in all parts of the cabin and elsewhere. Camper Hoke Huss drew acclaim with his variation of the "dirty shag."

An impressive part of camp came music-wise as Scotty Hester strengthened the spirit of fellowship, leading a group that had never been together in singing many of Carolina's favorite songs, including the "Dook" song.

Carolina Quarterly

Anyone interested in working for the Carolina Quarterly should come to the staff office in Graham Memorial today at 3 p. m. for a staff meeting. Experience in magazine work is not necessary; anyone may apply. Present members of the staff are also requested to attend the meeting.

Freshman Camp is a great help in breaking the ice before coming on campus for the rush of Orientation Week. Appreciation should be expressed to those counselors and others who came back early to give of their time and experience.

SUAB Becomes GMAB

SUAB—the Student Union Activities Board—is no longer SUAB. It's GMAB.

GMAB, standing for Graham Memorial Activities Board, is pronounced with slightly more difficulty than SUAB, but the new name, feels Chairman Gordon Forester, is more appropriate. GMAB programs, said Forester, will be sponsored by Graham Memorial.

GMAB activities for tomorrow will include Polgar, world-famous hypnotist, at 8 p. m. in Memorial Hall; Graham Memorial Day, all day tomorrow, with GM offices holding open house, and distribution of campus calendars.

Tickets to the GMAB Film Series will go on sale Monday. GMAB-sponsored free dance instructions will start Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Forester said yesterday that places on the GM Activities Board are still open to interested students. The nine divisions of the Board are recreation, dance, polls, calendar, office, receptions, films, forum and publicity.

Drama Group To Meet

The Community Drama Group will meet again at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Bowers, 714 East Franklin Street. Mrs. Ralph Casey will direct the reading of Paul Green's play with music, "Johnny Johnson." She would like all those who wish to participate in this reading to contact her in advance, at 9-1221.

For the benefit of newcomers, Mrs. Casey explained that the Community Drama Group is a group of people who meet every two weeks to read plays together. There are no membership requirements. The "group" consists of those present at each meeting. The plays to be read are selected from the best drama of the theater. There are serious plays, comedies and fantasies.

This means that there are parts for men and women and children, depending on the requirements of the script. Parts are sometimes assigned at the meeting by the director for the evening. Re-casting for each act, even for each scene, where feasible, usually makes it possible to have full audience participation.

Dr. Adkins Head Of Psychological Group

Dr. Dorothy C. Adkins, Professor of Psychology at Carolina, has been named vice-president of the Southeastern Psychological Association, a newly formed organization.

The association, formed at the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association held recently in New York, is open to qualified psychologists in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Puerto Rico.

Campus Carousel

Spotlight Will Be On Carolina Miss Tonight At Annual Ball

By ELEANOR SAUNDERS
The social spotlight will be, and has been, focused this week on the new coed, as another year in the annals of Carolina society gets underway. Old faces and friends will temporarily be neglected, while Carolina gentlemen introduce their new classmates to everybody's friend George, to the delights of slurping Y-Court coffee and to the well-worn path between the Library and the Pine Room.

The grand finale to orientation week, and the real presentation of the new coed to Carolina society, will be the Coed Ball, to be held tonight from 9 until midnight, in Woolen Gymnasium. "Autumn Leaves" is to be the theme of the dance, and Johnny Johnson and his orchestra will provide the music. If past years are any indication of a successful debut at the Coed Ball, the new girls will be gloriously honored and appropriately launched into two years of whirlwind activities. Dress for the dance is semi-formal, and admission is free. Advisees are asked to contact their student advisors if they would like to have dates arranged for them.

The first of the welcoming festivities was held during the immediately preceding orientation week. New coeds and their advisors, as well as freshmen and transfer males with their advisors, gathered Thursday night in

Freshman, overheard talking to advisor: "Just what the heck is this Arboretum, anyway?"

At least a dozen hives of bees buzzing around trash cans in Y-Court.

Parrot perched atop Caldwell Hall rooftop.

Local Student Goes To Paris For Jr. Year

Miss Emilie Patton of Carolina and Chapel Hill landed on French soil last week, along with 77 other students from 38 American colleges taking part in the "Junior Year in France" program.

Miss Patton, who lives at 614 E. Franklin St. here, will spend six weeks in Paris, provincial capital in the chateau country. Late in October the students in the group will enter the University of Paris for the regular winter term. They will live with French families both in Tours and in Paris.

On arrival in France the group was met by Dr. Joseph E. Barker, Sweet Briar College, director of the Junior Year in France, and Dr. Artine Artinian, Bard College, professor-in-charge for 1954-55. Accompanying the students on the trip was Dr. Marianna Jenkins, Duke University, assistant professor-in-charge.

Picture Rental Again Offered

Person Hall Art Gallery is again offering its picture rental service to all interested Chapel Hill residents. In order that the patrons may see the pictures in entirety, the collection is now on exhibit in Person Hall and will continue through September 28. On September 28 at 9, renters may sign for their choices and on September 30 may take the pictures home with them.

Designed to offer the opportunity to enjoy many different kinds of painting at leisure and at home, the collection was begun in 1941 by the Friends of Person Hall.

The rental collection totals 275 reproductions, renting for 25c a month and for a deposit of one dollar, which is refunded if the pictures are returned on time. Any number may be rented from one to three months at the end of which time renters may exchange for others.

Rental service can be given only to Chapel Hill residents because of time and transportation factors. The biggest single renter every year is the Chapel Hill Elementary School, but many dormitories, fraternities, sororities and townspeople use this service.

Close To 6,000 Students Expected To Enroll; Housing Situation 'Good'

State's Union To Be Opened

RALEIGH, Sept. 16 (AP)—North Carolina State College's $1,115,000 college union building will be formally dedicated tomorrow.

Funds for constructing the four-story building, which will be a center of student and college community services, were made by the 1949 General Assembly.

Bob Windsor Seeking Office

Bob Windsor, Winston-Salem, president of the University Young Democrats and second year law student, today announced his candidacy for the office of vice-president of the State Young Democrats for the Middle District.

Windsor has been active in the YDC for several years and was vice president of the group on the University campus before his election to the presidency.

For the last year he has been working on an educational and service group within the framework of the State YDC called the Intercollegiate Council of Young Democrats. The Council plans to organize a party library and give instruction annually for all interested young Democrats in party principles and party organizations.

Many Democratic Party leaders throughout the State have shown interest in the organization," Windsor said, adding that Democratic leaders and workers from some 25 states have indicated that they favor the project. A national meeting is planned this year.

"If elected," Windsor said, "in addition to carrying out to the best of my ability the duties of the vice president, I will work actively toward the organization of the Service Group within the Young Democrats for the Democratic Party."

While serving as Deputy Clerk of Superior Court for Forsyth County, Windsor organized and headed both the Forsyth County Employee Credit Union and the Association of Deputy and Assistant Clerks of Superior Court of North Carolina.

South Carolina Will Get Complete Basketball Five

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16 (AP)—All five first string sophomores on the Pikeville Junior College basketball team which won state and regional championships last year will enter the University of South Carolina this week.

The five, who were graduated from Pikeville last June, have been awarded Atlantic Coast Conference grants-in-aid to the Columbia, S. C. school.

They are Sam Smith and Solomon Richardson, both of Carr Creek; Woodrow Preston and Russell Porter, both of Pikeville, and Benny Fannin of Betsy Layne.

UNC Asks $440,310 For TV

RALEIGH Sept. 16 (AP)—An appropriation of $440,310 is needed for the 1955-57 biennium to operate WUNC-TV, North Carolina's first educational television station, the Advisory Budget Commission was told yesterday.

The budget was presented by the North Carolina Radio and Television Commission. Irving Carlyle of Winston-Salem commission chairman, requested $220,650 for each year of the biennium.

The funds would be spent at the three units of the Consolidated University of North Carolina each year as follows: $58,300 UNC and $79,550 at North Carolina State College. In addition, $3- was asked to help foot the bill for operating the transmitter, located in Chatham County.

Work on the tower was to be completed today. It will be 1,549 feet above sea level. The channel four station will operate with 100,000 Watts and serve some 2 1/2 million people living within a 100-mile radius. A TV building is 85 per cent complete at State College, the Budget Commission was told, and facilities at Woman's College and the University of North Carolina are being converted into TV studios.

Carlyle expressed the opinion that the agricultural programs alone would "more than pay for all that North Carolina invests in the program."

He said the TV station is a "far-reaching, forward looking step which means more than any of us know in the future of our state."

The station expects to begin operations in late October or early in November.

Playmakers Set Tryouts

Tryouts for the opening Playmaker production, "The Crucible," by Arthur Miller, will be held at the Playmakers Theatre Monday, at 4 and 7 p. m.

The play, a stirring drama of witchcraft in Old Salem, Mass., with the timely theme of a community run mad with fear and persecution, requires a cast of 21 actors. Several of the parts call for mature actors and members of the community as well as students are urged to attend tryouts.

Performances of the play, which won Broadway success in 1953, are scheduled for Wednesday through Sunday, Oct. 13-17. Scripts are available for reading purposes in the Reserve Room of the Library.

Wake Forest Starts Classes

WAKE FOREST, Sept. 16 (AP)—Wake Forest College formally opened its 121st academic year yesterday.

Dr. Coy C. Carpenter, dean of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of the college, made the principal address at a morning convocation. He told over 1,500 students and faculty members that the college's move to Winston-Salem will be one of the greatest things to happen to the school.

Doctor Welt Gives Lecture

Caution against overemphasis of the so-called "practical" philosophy in general medical training was sounded by Dr. Louis G. Welt, who delivered the annual fall Whitehead Society Lecture this week to medical students here.

Dr. Welt, who is associate professor of Medicine, UNC Medical School, presented an address on "The Student's Contribution to Education."

"The philosophy of practicality takes the view that training of a physician should be limited to those items which can be clearly characterized as having immediate values in the management of the ill," Dr. Welt said.

Overemphasis on "facts" and techniques, and underemphasis on broad general principles, he continued, "is an anti-intellectual attitude and can hardly serve to foster a spirit of scholarship."

"With the 'practical' approach, there is the inherent danger that the student will consider the basic sciences as a hurdle in his path to the bedside, rather than as the very important sub-strata upon which his clinical experience must be imposed, if the latter is to have any lasting significance."

Dr. Welt advised the new students to "listen and read attentively, not to mistake authority for truth and not to submit to authority in lieu of a more rational explanation of conflicting data."

A reception followed the address with medical students, faculty and other friends attending.

The Whitehead Lecture was the final event in a two-day orientation program for the School of Medicine's incoming students. First-year students were welcomed Tuesday by Dean W. Reece Berryhill at an assembly.

Wednesday morning was devoted to tours of various departments and groups meetings.

A combined staff conference was held during the afternoon, with a discussion of "Hyperparathyroidism" by Dr. Charles Burnett, professor of medicine, and Dr. Colin Thomas, assistant professor of surgery.

The University of North Carolina officially began its 161st year yesterday morning at 10 minutes of eight o'clock when the first class bell rang.

Total enrollment figures haven't been compiled yet, but close to 6,000 students were expected to register. This would not be a new attendance record, however, 7,600 students enrolled in 1948 to set the high record.

About 220 upperclassmen and coeds returned to the campus early to assist in counseling new students as they were introduced to college life.

After several days of testing, physical examinations and assemblies, approximately 1,100 freshmen were registered Monday for their first semester's work.

Registration continued Tuesday and Wednesday for transfer students and others not pre-registered. Classwork in all departments got underway yesterday morning.

HOUSING

University Housing Officer, James Wadsworth, said yesterday that the campus housing situation this year is "good."

"All the dorms are full," he said, "nine of them have three men to the room, but there are only about 40 men living temporarily in the basement of Cobb."

Wadsworth said that the men in Cobb basement seemed pleased with their temporary quarters which the University gives them free of charge. Most of them are old students who failed to reserve a room before leaving school last year, he said.

"The only problem we have had so far," he continued, "is one of a few students' changing their dorm room without being authorized by the Housing Office."

He reminded dorm residents that this is an infraction of the University's housing rules and could result in a student's being moved out of a dorm.

Wadsworth also said there are several rooms for students listed in his office in private Chapel Hill homes. A student wanting a room in a private home can check with the Housing Office in those available, he said.

FRESH NURSES

Sixty-nine young women, 56 of them North Carolinians, entered the freshmen class of the University's School of Nursing this week.

Now in its fourth year, the school, under the direction of Dean Elizabeth Kemble, has 152 students, including seven graduate nurses who are completing their work for a B. S. Degree in Nursing.

Entering students from North Carolina are:

Asheville: Cloydia Grace Carstarphen and Ruth Jeanette Reese. Charlotte: Sylvia Marie Arnold, Carolyn Jane Lyverly, Carolyn Sue McGee, Gayle Irene Miller, Frances Irene Plyler. Greensboro: Lois Elizabeth Rankenamp, Billie Ann Williams, Mary Ben Williams. High Point: Carolyn Frances Roberts, Patricia Ann Russell, Nancy Jane Stockwell, Henrianna Teague. Winston-Salem: Gwendolyn Ann Bayne, Margaret Alleen Hurlocker, Eugenia Anne Melvin, Alice Diane Roane.

Kathryn Albea Groves, Albenmarle; Velna Elizabeth Sumner, Asheboro; Reba Ellen Gouge, Black Mountain; Dorothy McKee Kizer, Brevard; Deane Moulton Coates Elizabeth Joan Morris Concord; Sandra Joan Norwood, Marilyn Carol Watson, Chapel Hill; Barbara Anne Graham, Dunn; Barbara West Leary, Edenton; Nancy Anne Noble, Garner; Sara Elizabeth White, Guilford College; Sara Jean Allison, Hickory; Patricia Ann Whitman, Jamestown.

Carol Jean Suther, Kannapolis; Marjorie Sue Dawson, LaGrange; Rosemary Minor Lemmond, and Sallie Salter Robeson, Laurinburg; Phyllis A. Hedrick, Lenoir; Mary Linda Carriss, Margaretsville; Carol Ann Mullis, Midland; Galdine York, Mocksville; Jerry Elizabeth Hardin, Monroe; Ann Alexander Bobbitt, Norlina; Janie Lee Proctor, Pine-top; Mary Jane Clement, Betty still here!

As a final note, here is another of the many welcomes to the new coed, a special welcome to Carolina's social swirl. And old coeds, take heart. Won't be long before they remember that we're still here!

(See Enrollment, P. 4)