UNC Picks Its 3 CU Day Finalists

The three finalists in the Consolidated University Day Queen contest for UNC were chosen yesterday at the preliminary round held in Gerrard Hall.

The UNC finalists are Misses Bobbie Lee Moretz, junior from Carr Dormitory; Martha Crowell, senior from Delta Delta Delta sorority, and Barbara Stone, a senior from Alpha Delta Pi.

The girls will be among the nine contestants from the Consolidated University competing for the crown of Miss CU Queen.

During the State-Carolina football game Saturday afternoon the nine contestants will be seated on a special row. At half-time the CU Day Queen will be announced. Judges making the final decision will be Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kyser and N. C. Secretary of State Thad Eure, who will announce the winner.

Woman's College of Greensboro has chosen five of 18 finalists to represent them here, while State College of Raleigh has a presidential appointee for the final judging.

WC's contestants, chosen late yesterday afternoon, are Misses Jo Anne Beasley, Nancy Childress, Carol Epstein, Vesla Johannessen and Clarajo Lovette.

As of last night, State College's appointee was not known.

Burt Veazey, junior from Raleigh, will serve as chairman of CU Day. Veazey said yesterday that a complete schedule of the CU Day festivities will be announced later.

Chapel Hill Concert Series Sets Programs

The Chapel Hill Concert Series will sponsor four programs for the 1954-55 season which will be presented in Memorial Hall during the year.

Appearing this year will be the American Chamber Orchestra (formerly the Vienna Mozart Orchestra) under the direction of Robert Scholz on Oct. 20; the Salzburg Marionette Theatre, Feb. 15; Walter Gieseking, pianist, March 21, and Jan Peerce, tenor, April 15.

Tickets may be obtained by mail from Chapel Hill Concert Series, Box 30, Chapel Hill.

The cost of a regular season ticket is $6. The cost of student tickets, which will go on sale today in Y-Court, is $5 for students of UNC only.

Because of the limited seating capacity of Memorial Hall, only 1,800 tickets will be sold. There will be no reserved seats.

Support for the series is especially needed this year as it is the first year of the concert series. To enable the series to become an annual event, it will be necessary for the entire community to give its wholehearted support, said promoters of the series.

DTH Reporters Barred From IFC Meeting

SP Jumps On Anti-Secrecy Bandwagon

President Tom Creasy told the Inter-Fraternity Council last night that the administration's recently offered plan was "the best we can do" toward reestablishing an agreement for coed visiting in fraternity houses, according to a report given The Daily Tar Heel by an IFC representative last night.

According to the report, Creasy said that fraternities should accept the three-point plan and "do our best to uphold it." He said that fraternities could go to the Board of Trustees in an attempt to get an agreement more suitable to fraternities but that such a move would be "foolish."

The administration's plan sets up three requisites for establishing coed visiting:

1. Specific hours are set up during which fraternities may receive women visitors.
2. No alcoholic beverages can be consumed within or on the premises of a fraternity house while women visitors are present.
3. Fraternities and individual students must accept the responsibility for upholding the conditions of the agreement "in letter and in spirit."

Phi To Name Vice-Speaker, Make Plans

The Phi Assembly, campus debating society, will start off a new year tonight at 8 o'clock in New East.

Old members were requested to make a special effort to be present for inauguration plans, report from the renovations committee and election for the office of speaker pro-tem, which is now vacant.

Lewis Brumfield of Yadkinville was elected last spring speaker of the assembly for the fall semester. Other officers elected in the spring were Dick Iobst, citic; Lawrence Matthews, Parliamentarian; Harry Whitlock, clerk; Frank Warren, sgt-at-arms; Jim Duvall, treasurer, and Bill Porterfield, representative to the Carolina Forum.

Di Senators To Start Year Tonight At 8

The Dialectic Senate will begin its 160th year of existence tonight at 8 o'clock, third floor, New West. Sen. Larry McElroy will introduce the bill of the evening.

McElroy's bill provides that "Those portions of Germany now occupied by France, Britain and the United States be granted full, unrestricted sovereignty, with no restrictions or rearmament." Guests are invited to attend and to participate in the debate.

The Senate was the first student organization formed on campus, having been organized as a literary society in 1795. From it have grown practically all of the student organizations on campus. Its portrait collection includes such distinguished former members as President James Knox Polk and Dr. Archibald Henderson.

In addition to a portrait of William E. Davie, founder and first president of the University, plans have been completed for a portrait of Dr. Frank Graham. The year just past also saw the renovation of Dialectic Hall, including the installation of 50 new desks and a complete repainting and refinishing.

Officers for the fall semester are Joel Fleishman, president; Lynn Chandler, president pro tem; Virginia Agnew, clerk; David Reed, critic; Clyde Smith, treasurer; and Larry McElroy, sgt. at arms.

Three Men Room Situation 'Serious'

Approximately one out of every five men students enrolled this fall in the University is living in a three-man room, according to the University Housing Officer, James Wadsworth.

Nine hundred and eighteen Carolina men are living in the three-man rooms in the three-man East, Old West, Steele, Alexander, Whitehead, Grimes, Manley, Mangum and Ruffin.

Describing the situation as "serious," Wadsworth stated that assigning three men to a room was the only solution to this year's increased enrollment. Placing men in the three-man rooms has reduced the number of students living in Cobb basement.

The number of basement dwellers is now estimated at about 50, as compared to hundreds who had basement addresses last fall. Wadsworth expressed hope of moving the basement residents out by the end of the fall fraternity rushing.

The three-man rooms will have to be continued, Wadsworth said, until some other means to alleviate the problem is found. "Especially urgent, and embarrassing," he said, "is the necessity of having to put medical, law and dental students, many of them graduates, in three-man dorms."

Wadsworth expressed hope that the State Legislature would soon appropriate the funds necessary to provide "the dormitory space so urgently needed. In the meantime," he said, "I would like to thank all those who are living in three-man rooms for their patience and cooperation."

The Student Party last night jumped on the no-executive-sessionbandwagon started by The Daily Tar Heel—less than an hour after a reporter was kept out of an Interfraternity Council meeting.

SP legislative floorleader Jim Turner, a few minutes after hearing that the reporter, Dick Creed, was barred from the IFC meet, proposed to a full meeting of his party that the SP "negotiate with the University Party to draw up a Legislaure bill forbidding executive sessions of any student government organization." Turner pointed out that honor courts were an exception to this rule.

Post Accepts Dunn Fiction

The editor of the Carolina Quarterly, Jun Dunn has received word that a short story of his, "Caroline's Army," will be published in The Saturday Evening Post in the near future.

Dunn, 21, junior from Charleston, S. C., was named editor of the campus magazine last spring. The story the Post accepted will be his first work outside of campus writing, that he has published.

"Caroline's Army," said Dunn, yesterday, "is about people our age." He said the story has "a college background," though readers will probably have some difficulty identifying any scenes from Chapel Hill.

The English major said he wrote the story during the past summer.

Rushing Underway

Sorority rush week got underway rapidly with the tea at Graham Memorial Thursday, according to Rachel Brooks, chairman of the Panhellenic Rush Committee.

In order to avoid unfair rushing, the Panhellenic Council has established a "silence" period making this the first opportunity for the rushees and sororities to meet each other.

On Saturday and Sunday the girls visited the six houses to become better acquainted.

Monday and Tuesday evening will serve to help the girls narrow down their choice. Wednesday will be a day of rest. Then on Thursday and Friday the girls will continue to narrow down their choice.

On Sunday and Monday evening there will be dinner parties where the rushee really decides preferential list.

Tuesday between 9:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. the rushees sign the preferential list in the Dean of Women's office. Each girl will receive only one bid to either the first, second or third sorority of her choice.

Inter-Fraternity Council Announces Rushing Slate

The Inter-Fraternity Council yesterday announced its rushing schedule for the fall semester.

According to Rush Chairman Ed McCurry, rushees will pick up their invitations to visit fraternities on Oct. 6 and 7, and must visit all fraternities to which they are invited either on Sunday afternoon or Monday night, Oct. 10 or 11.

"After visiting once the fraternities the rushee is asked to," said McCurry, "then he may visit the ones he is reasked to visit and the one he likes for the remainder of the week. No fraternities may ask a rushee to join until Wednesday night (Oct. 13)."

"The rushee must not make commitments to the fraternity until Monday, Oct 18, the last day of her rust period, and those making such commitments shall be ineligible for pledging at that time."

Added McCurry: "There are rules and regulations for rushing, and it is absolutely necessary that they be carefully observed to insure fairness above all to the individual rushee, but also to the individual fraternity."

"We are currently in a period of strict silence between new students, freshmen and transfers, and fraternity men. This means there is to be no conversation on or off campus between these men other than salutations, and this is to be interpreted literally—just salutations. Strict silence is to continue until Oct 10, when rushing proper will begin."

One Out-Of-Starter Is On Medical School Rosters

Only one out-of-state student is included in the 1954 freshman class of 66 men and women enrolled in the Medical School, according to enrollment figures.

Dean W. Reece Berryhill of the Medical School yesterday released the names of the almost 100 per cent Tar Heel group which has completed its orientation and begun the first of four years' study of medicine.

The group, which includes three women, will be the fifth four-year medical class at the University.

Annual Space

All organizations and societies desiring space in the 1955 Yackety-Yack should send a representative to the Yack office in the basement of Graham Memorial between 2 and 5 p. m. throughout the week, said Yack Business Manager Tom Spain yesterday. Spain said those failing to make contracts will receive no coverage.

Creed And Kuralt Asked To Leave Fraternity Meeting

The Inter-Fraternity Council last night barred The Daily Tar Heel from covering its meetings.

Charles Kuralt, editor of the paper, and this reporter were voted out after Kuralt had given reasons why he thought the meetings should be open and reported to the student body.

"The IFC is a vital organization and certainly has nothing to hide," he said.

During a question-answer period between Kuralt and IFC members, one member said that in the past The Daily Tar Heel had given the IFC a "bad deal" and that he did not "trust the Daily Tar Heel."

Got Reports

Kuralt answered that in the past the paper had not covered the meetings but got reports from the IFC prepared by members.

One member asked why it would not be suitable to the paper to have the IFC give a written report of its meetings to a reporter or to have a member of the IFC write the story of what happens in each meeting.

Said Kuralt, "We would not know whether we were printing the news." Such an arrangement would be an "unhealthy situation," he said.

Tremendous Secret?

"If the IFC doesn't have a tremendous secret," said Kuralt, "what is the objection to having a reporter cover the meetings?"

"The Daily Tar Heel has nothing against fraternities and will not have as long as I am editor," he said. "It is our responsibility to cover all branches of student government," he continued.

He pointed out that the paper covers meetings of the Intra-Dormitory Council and the Panhellenic Society: He said that the reason for their being informed in the hall that the council had voted negative.

Negative

After the discussion, IFC President Henry Isaacson asked both Daily Tar Heel representatives to leave the room while the council voted on whether to allow coverage of the further proceedings. They were informed in the hall that the council had voted negative.

A written report of the proceedings was later brought to The Daily Tar Heel office by an IFC representative.

All organizations and societies desiring space in the 1955 Yackety-Yack should send a representative to the Yack office in the basement of Graham Memorial between 2 and 5 p. m. throughout the week, said Yack Business Manager Tom Spain yesterday.
