Drinking Won't Get 'Out Of Hand'—Sloan

Chapel Hill Police Chief W. T. Sloan said yesterday he would not let drinking at the Carolina-State game this afternoon "get out of hand". The stadium ticket officer earlier, announced that there would be no drinking at the game.

Chief Sloan said he received no word from stadium officials, but that police would enforce drunkenness laws.

The chief said he expected a large turnout at the game, and consequently a lot of traffic. He said the State Highway Patrol and the Chapel Hill Police Department would handle traffic going to and from the game.

Rameses & Bushy At Stadium Today

By BOB EBERLE

"I don't know how many games I've been to," said Bushy, as he threw a large metal bed frame on a pile of scrap iron. "I've missed a few, but I've been a goin' to those games ever since Justice's first year."

Bushy Cook, the caretaker of Rameses, UNC's beloved ram mascot during the football games, is a tall farmer with a beard that grows long and in all directions. Though he has become as much a tradition around Carolina as Rameses, there is actually very little known about him. It took the combined aid of GM Director Jimmy Wallace, Police Chief Sloan and the athletic department to finally learn that Bushy lives just outside Eflin, and it was later found that to reach Bushy's farm one had to take a road that makes the Northwest Passage seem like

New Pine Room Boasts Pizza, Dancing Room

By BOBBIE ZWAHLER

Hot dogs, 10c. Juicy hamburgers, 15c. And hot Pizza pie (a nine inch one at that), 75c. Sounds unbelievable, but it's true.

These prices, plus good music and a wonderful atmosphere are just a few of the things that are making the Pine Room in Lenoir Hall one of the most popular places on the campus, since it has been redecorated.

George Prillaman, manager of Lenoir Hall, has announced that the Pine Room has been completely done over.

The first thing that catches your eye will be the clever new murals done by W. B. Christman. On the wall of the snack shop is a kingsize sketch of those fabulous jitterbugs. In the dance room, which is out of this world, there are drawings of various campus scenes from the Arboretum to the Old Well. A collection of college pennants will eventually be added to the room.

In the dance room are individual tables, with lights, and a marvelous hard dance floor.

Prillaman said there would be a contest for naming the new dance room with a $5 meal book as first prize. The judges will consist of a faculty member and two student representatives.

BSU Leader Will Replace J. C. Herrin

The Rev. James Olin Cansler, of Chapel Hill, who is doing graduate work in sociology at the University, is to be the new student chaplain for the Chapel Hill Baptist Church and Baptist Student Union secretary at the University of North Carolina.

The Rev. Mr. Cansler was formally elected to the position at a meeting of the executive committee of the State Baptist Convention held in Raleigh yesterday. The election was by unanimous vote of the group.

The new official will assume his duties immediately.

The Chapel Hill Baptist Church has been without a student chaplain and BSU secretary since last March, when the Rev. J. C. Herrin was dismissed from the post by the General Board of the State Convention on the ground that he had been the source of constant friction between his BSU program and the leaders of the Chapel Hill Baptist Church.

The then State BSU secretary and the BSU director at Duke University were discharged at the same time.

The appointment of the Rev. Mr. Cansler thus brings to an end a long search for a successor to Herrin, who is now serving as pastor of a church in Scarisdale, N. Y.

Endorsement.

Mr. Cansler had the endorsement of the local church's Student Affairs Committee, which is headed by William Friday and is composed of seven regular church members and seven student representatives from the local BSU.

Dr. Samuel T. Habel, the pastor, and the board of deacons, headed by Judge L. J. Phipps, had also endorsed Mr. Cansler.

Judge Phipps, Dr. Habel and Friday said in a statement last night that "we feel very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Cansler."

Born and reared in Atlanta, Ga., Mr. Cansler received his B.S. degree in commerce from UNC in 1947, and his B.D. degree from Duke Divinity School in 1950.

Navy.

During World War II he left the University to enter the U. S. Navy, where he studied under the V-12 program and later was assigned as supply officer, with a total service term of almost four years.

Pep-Rally Broadcast Over WPTF UNC Rings With "Beat State"

By RUTH DALTON

Football officially arrived at Carolina amid loud cheering, horns, whistles, bells and complete high spirits as Head Cheerleader Jim Fountain led more than 5,000 students in the year's first giant pep rally.

The rally started off with a car cavalcade led by the Confederate flag held on high by the still-loyal in a convertible which was followed by numerous cars filled with cheering Carolina students.

The cavalcade wove around town from Woollen Gym and then came to Emerson Field which was already packed with students. The appearance of Jim Fountain and the Confederate flag brought prolonged cheers which were a prelude of the night's general spirit.

The rally was broadcast in separate parts over WPTF, with Worth White, announcer, and Wilford Dean, engineer. Hugh Baker from State started the broadcast off at Red Diamond with seven minutes of the State side of the rally and then Jim Fountain took over here.

After several minutes of "Beat State" and jubilant cheering, UNC Chancellor R. B. House was introduced and set the crowd off completely with "I believe in my soul we're gonna beat State tomorrow."

Chancellor House gave the students a few of his memories from past years and warned that State was not "out for small potatoes." He then swung into "Roll on Boys" on the harmonica.

UNC Looking For Eighth State Defeat

By BERNIE WEISS

North Carolina's Tar Heels open their 1954 season today and also compete in the first game between two Atlantic Coast Conference teams this year, taking on the N. C. State Wolfpack at Kenan Stadium.

The Consolidated University Day contest is slated for 2 o'clock.

Carolina will be out to extend its winning streak over State to eight games and the Tar Heels, rated a 21-point favorite, may do just that. The opponents are without their star fullback and team captain, Don Langston.

Langston injured his leg Saturday against Virginia Tech and will also be minus the full-time services of the No. 1 quarterback, Eddie West, who was also injured against Tech. West, however, may see limited duty although he will not start.

Carolina is in excellent shape for the game. Backfield ace Kenny Keller's sprained ankle is coming along nicely. He worked out again yesterday and is expected to be in fit condition for the contest, though he will not be in the starting lineup. The probable starting UNC backfield will be Marshall Newman at quarterback, Larry Parker and Connie Gravitte at the halfback positions and Don Klochak at full. Klochak, a tough customer at 213 pounds, will be in his first game for the varsity.

Gravitte and Kirkman Co-Captains Gravitte and center Bill Kirkman have been named as co-captains for the game. The two seniors will lead a team which averages just a little below 195 pounds per man.

Probable Starting Lineups:

UNC	Pos.	State
Frye	LE	Kapp
Maultsby	LT	Lodge
Foti	LG	Nardone
Kirkman	C	Tonn
Koman	RG	Szuchan
Perdue	RT	Price
Starnes	RE	Brown
Newman	QB	Franklin

He Suffered With The Heat A Lot'

Rebel, 145-Pound Newfoundland, Long One Of Chapel Hill's Residents, Died In Summer

By CHUCK HAUSER

In The Chapel Hill Weekly

Rebel, the 145-pound black Newfoundland land dog, who, with his 92-pound mistress, Mrs. A. M. Jordan, was a familiar sight on the paths of the campus for many years, died during the summer at the age of 12.

The big, friendly dog died of an attack of asthma, which affected his heart. And the summer heat, Mrs. Jordan agrees, was probably a contributory cause. "He suffered with the heat a lot," she commented the other day.

Mrs. Jordan, who is treasurer of the Chapel Hill Humane Society, is interested in buying or borrowing photographs or negatives of Rebel from anyone who has photographed the dog.

"Many people stopped us from time to time and asked permission to take pictures of Rebel, especially on the campus," she said, "and I'm hoping that I can get some of the pictures to make copies of."

The Jordans were in Los Angeles this summer when Rebel died. Professor Jordan, who teaches in the School of Education, was a visiting lecturer at the University of Southern California.

Rebel was boarded for the summer at Dr. Vanderbilt's kennels on the Durham Road. Dr. Vanderbilt gave the big dog every attention, said Mrs. Jordan, but he could not save him.

"Rebel was the friend of all the children in town," she said, "and he never fought with any other dogs. If any dog started bothering him, Rebel would just lower his head, back up, and butt the dog amidst full speed right in the ribs. We never had trouble with any dog twice."

The Newfoundland had been in the Jordan family since he was six months old. He was born in Taunton, Mass., and was given to the Jordans by his father, when the son A. M. Jordan, Jr., went into the service in World War II, his wife and Rebel went to live with Dr. and Mrs. Jordan. When Rebel's master returned, the younger Jordans went to live in Florida and the dog stayed with the older generation.

"He was named Rebel as a joke," Mrs. Jordan explained. "My daughter-in-law said she would name him after my son, and she called him Rebel. That was his full name—just Rebel."

Most people around Chapel Hill had never seen a Newfoundland before, and Rebel attracted quite a bit of attention when he came here to live. He was still attracting attention as the only animal of his type in these parts right up to the time of his death.

Rebel had not been in good health since an attack of encephalitis—sleeping sickness—several years ago. Since then he had become susceptible to bouts with pneumonia and other maladies.

Reception

At 5 p.m. following the game a reception will be held in front of Graham Memorial with refreshments, music and fun for all. Members of the CU delegation will act as hosts and hand out tickets to couples for the Varsity and Carolina theaters.

Refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Carol Dupper and music will be furnished by Scotty Hester's combo. Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will have information booths set up and will give out maps and programs.

Rocket.

At 6 p.m. a special showing of "Rocket to Mars" will be held in the Planetarium at a special student price of 40 cents.

The Order of the Grail will sponsor a dance in Woollen Gym from 8:30 to 11:30 with music by Jimmy Johnson and his orchestra. Tickets will be $1 for stags, 75 cents for couples and no admission will be charged for unescortedadies.

After the dance is over and spirits are still gay but feet are tired, the WC buses will leave at midnight for Greensboro.

Fair, Warm Weather Is On Schedule

"Looks like you ought to have fair and warm weather."

That's the forecast made by Aviation Forecaster Bryan Stone, at the Raleigh-Durham Airport, for Chapel Hill and vicinity.

Stone forecast temperatures in the middle 80's along about the time the Carolina-State game begins, with dry air all through Kenan Stadium.

Would the day be good "football weather?"

"I reckon it would be good," he allowed. "A little warm but not too much so. . . like last Saturday."

Stone forecast a clear and warm day for the rest of the state, with an expected high of from 80 to 88.

Sunday should be partly cloudy and warm, with widely scattered showers likely, he said.

MRS. A. M. JORDAN and her huge Newfoundland companion, Rebel, are shown in front of the Jordan home. Rebel died during the past summer of asthma, which caused a heart attack. Tiny Mrs. Jordan, who weighs 92 pounds, strolled with the 145-pound dog over Chapel Hill paths regularly before his death.

Dorm Elections Scheduled

At a meeting of Dormitory Advisors last Thursday afternoon, President of the Inter-Dormitory Council Manning Muntzing announced that elections in the dormitories would be held Oct. 5, and that nominations were to be held at dormitory meetings next Wednesday. "At these elections", Muntzing said, "the offices of dormitory president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, I.D.C. representative, Interdormitory manager and University Club representative are to be filled. Muntzing also stated that the Elections Board has granted permission to use the board's ballot boxes for elections, and they could be secured at the housing office. He also announced that there would be a compulsory meeting of all dormitory candidates at Gerrard Hall at 7 p.m. Thursday.

State will put a patched group of gridders on the Kenan turf. In addition to Langston and West the Pack is also without a key guard, Al D'Angelo. The invaders are pinning their hopes on sophomore flash George Marinokov, a 165-pound speed demon who tallied twice against Tech.

Soph Billy Franklin will start at quarterback in place of West, while Harrison MacKeever, also a soph, will take over for Langston.

UNC Ahead In Rivalry

Carolina holds a wide margin over State in the history of the intra-school rivalry. Since 1894, UNC has won 32 games while dropping only five. Six of the games have been ties.

State is operating this year under Coach Earle Edwards, formerly with Michigan State, who succeeds Horace Hendrickson. Edwards has brought with him the Spartans' "multiple offense" type of attack, which operates from an unbalanced line using the basic T-formation with both single and double wing variations. Edwards is determined to better State's 53 record of 1-9 and would like nothing better than to get on the winning track at Carolina's expense.

Pre-game estimates late yesterday placed the attendance figure at 20,000 to 25,000. The game will be broadcast over the 50-station Tobacco Sports Network by WRAL, Raleigh, with Ray Reeve doing the play-by-play.

Officials for the game are: Referee, David Kaufman, (Johns Hopkins); Umpire, Harwood Smith (Duke); Linesman, M. E.
