

WEATHER

Fair and continued cold today,
with expected high of 58.

The Daily Tar Heel

NEW

The University is off on a new educational venture. See p. 2.

VOLUME LVII No. 40

Complete Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1954

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES TODAY

26 Freshmen Taking Part In Advanced Class Program

By FRED POWLEDGE
Daily Tar Heel Managing Editor

Twenty-six University freshmen are enrolled in a new "college within a college" here—a special program designed for stimulating "high scholarship" in the first-year group. Announcement came yesterday through M. A. Hill Jr., associate dean of the General College.

Hill said four University instructors were teaching the freshmen courses in mathematics, philosophy, social science and English. He named Professors E. A. Cameron of the Mathematics Dept., Everett Hall of the Philosophy Dept., James E. King Jr. of the Social Science Dept. and William S. Wells of the English Dept. as the instructors.

Selected in Summer

The 26 freshmen were selected from approximately 50 during the summer. Their names were picked from applications to the University, with attention being paid to high school officials' comments and their grades. They came to Chapel Hill in the summer months and were given aptitude tests. The 50 were cut to 26, and the 26 placed in special classes.

Special Classes

The 26 started their classes this semester. According to Assistant Dean Hill, the freshmen's four instructors visit each other's classes often.

Chancellor Robert B. House, commenting on the program, termed it a "college within a college."

Hill said the special course originated when the four instructors got together and decided "that if they could get a selected group of boys together and keep them together for four courses they might stimulate high scholarship among the group." He said the four professors, who were picked for their interest in freshmen, were "very well pleased" with the program so far.

Hill added that "in this office (the General College) we are always trying to see how we can help the student go forward academically."

Professor's Opinion

Prof. Wells, from Bingham hall, depicted his special course as being similar to regular English 2 "inasmuch as each of the students has a theme a week to do," but he added, "we have our own program," including study of essays, short stories and modern poetry. He said his class of freshmen has "more reading in literature than we do in English 2."

Prof. Wells described his class as a "fine bunch of boys. I consider myself lucky to have the class," he said.

The special program, he said, "is as much a help to us who are teaching as it is to the boys."

The Freshmen

The freshmen who are enrolled in the special course, according to a list released yesterday from the Admissions Office, are as follows:

Charles Hall Ashford Jr., New Bern; William Stuart Bost Jr., Greenville; Robert Carl Britt, Lumberton; ...

FOUR UNC PROFESSORS are taking part in a special program for 26 freshmen here. The program has been described by Chancellor Robert B. House as a "college within a college." The professors, shown above, left to right, are: E. A. Cameron, of the Mathematics Dept., and William S. Wells, of the English Dept. On the right is Prof. Everett Hall, of the Philosophy Dept. Prof. James W. King, Jr., of the Social Science Dept., is not shown.

IDC & WRC Schedule List Of Dorm Parties

The Interdormitory Council and the Women's Residence Council have cooperated in setting up a schedule of parties to be held by the men's dorms and sponsored by the IDC for different girls' dorms and sororities on campus, according to spokesmen for the groups.

The first of these parties will be held Tuesday, Nov. 2, with Ruffin entertaining the girls of Smith dorm for a coffee break after the Smith championship volleyball game.

Other parties scheduled are Graham, a coffee break with Carr on Nov. 11; Winston, dance with Nurses, Nov. 12; Manley, coffee break with Pi Beta Phi's, Nov. 17; Old West, coffee break with Melver,

Nov. 18; Stacy, coffee break with Spencer, Nov. 23; Old East, dance with Spencer, Nov. 26 at Spencer; Joyner, dance with Carr and Melver, Dec. 3, and Cobb, dance with all sororities, Dec. 10.

Other dorms and the women's residences they are to have parties with are: Battle, Vance and Pettigrew, coffee break with Alderman, Steele, dance with Smith; Alexander, dance with Nurses; Aycock, coffee break with Alpha Gamma's; Everett, coffee break with Kappa D's; Grimes, coffee break with Chi Omega's; Lewis, coffee break with Alpha Delta Pi's; Man- gham, coffee break with Tri Delta's; Whitehead, dance with Alderman; and Connor, coffee break with Ken- ley, social chairman.

Prof stopping class to yell at a cutting student.

Student carrying musket to Y-Court.

Center of Morehead parking lot . . . ATO playground.

Ram's Back & Alexander's Got Him

The Ram is back again, this time in the form of a weekly newspaper, put out by the students of Alexander Dorm.

"The Ram" is printed on a standard-size mimeographed sheet on both sides with a Gothic-lettered title on the top of the front page, printed in dark blue characters. The rest of the paper, however, is printed in regular black ink.

Editor of the paper is Richard Thiele, also Daily Tar Heel news-writer. The Ram's staff includes Joe Wimberley, George North, Charles Cook and Steve Leiper. Bill Farrell is the artist and cartoonist for the paper, which comes out weekly, on Friday.

Student Party Closes Books

Tomorrow night the Student Party will conclude nominations for the fall elections in its regular meeting, which will begin at 8 o'clock in the Roland Parker Lounge, GM.

The party will nominate for Town Men's Legislative Districts 1, 11, 111, Town Women's Legislative District, the officers of the junior class and the secretary of the freshman class.

In its meeting last Monday night, the SP heard a short speech by Gene Cook, past chairman, and veteran party leader, and also closed nominations for dorm men's districts and dorm women's districts.

Following are the final Student Party nominations for the dorm men's districts, dorm women's districts, and freshman class officers: Dorm Men's 1, Louis Brumfield and David Reid; Dorm Men's 2, Bob Harrington and Keith Snyder; Dorm Men's 3, Bob Elder, Jack Hudson and Bill Maready; Dorm Men's 4, Jim Armstrong and Bob Young; Dorm Men's 5, Bill Baum, Charlie May and Jim Turner.

The Dorm Women's district, Misses Ruth Jones, Amy Cooke and Marianne Keeter.

Miss Sue Fink was nominated to fill a six month's vacancy in the Legislature.

Freshman class officers nominations were: Sonny Evans, president; Jerry Mayo, vice-president; Jim Dixon, treasurer, and Gwen Lemley, social chairman.

Vols Down UNC 26-20 In Wild, Free-Scoring Game

Student Spirit In Knoxville Was 'Credit'

By BOB EBERLE
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 30—Along with the rain and cold, the first wave of Carolina students arrived in Knoxville Friday night.

To all outward appearances the infiltration of Carolina students was unnoticeable but as game time approached the Tar Heel spirit gained momentum. Though the number of students interested enough to make the journey was small, their spirit was a credit to the University.

During the pre-game activities the Tennessee band, along with the eight shapely majorettes, aided in the presentation of the Air Force ROTC sponsors with the formation of the letters, R-O-T-C.

At half time the Tennessee band staged its initial costume performance of the season. The program was a "Western Revue" with the band dressed in western outfits. The band marched on the field playing, "I'm an Old Cowhand," followed by the forming of a boot and the playing of "Spurs that Jingle, Jangle, Jingle." Next, the band formed a covered wagon and played "Wagon Wheels," followed by the formation of a rocking horse that rocked to the tune of the "Theme from the William Tell Overture."

Not all of the students who went to the game had an easy time of it. One UNC student, George Johnson, ran into ice on Newfound Gap and had to take a detour that brought him into Knoxville 11 hours after he left Chapel Hill. Other students were slowed to a walk as rain made mountain travel slow and hazardous.

After the game, students made their way to various parties as rain dampened the streets but not the spirits. This morning the Tar Heel students started the long trek home.

AF Officials Will Visit Campus Soon

Officials from Headquarters AF-ROTC in Montgomery, Alabama, will visit the UNC air science unit this week, it was announced by Colonel George J. Smith, Professor of Air Science, yesterday.

Brigadier General M. K. Deichelman, Headquarters Commandant, will inspect the AF unit Friday and Saturday, Nov. 5 and 6.

New Deadline

The Daily Tar Heel will have a new news deadline starting tomorrow.

Deadline for non-staff contributions will be 3:30 on week day afternoons, and 11 o'clock on Saturday mornings.

Managing Editor Fred Powledge, in announcing the change, noted that it would facilitate publication and help toward an earlier newspaper for the students each morning.

Job Hunting? See Library

By MAY DAVIS HILL
General College Librarian

If you're hoping to hold down a good job when you leave college, the literature about jobs in the General College Library is something you ought to see.

Found there, on the shelves right under the magazines and The New York Times, are books and pamphlets on various types

'The Bomb' Breaks Tar Heel Line With Touchdown Sprints

By FRED BABSON
DTH Sports Editor

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 30—Vol Fullback Tom Tracy struck twice like lightning here today with sudden touchdown scampers of 43 and 71 yards, the last of which provided the margin of victory as revived Tennessee outscored an otherwise superior North Carolina team, 26-20. Only 14,500 fans paid to see the thrilling contest, highlighted by scoring in all periods, as Carolina doggedly refused to be routed, despite the devastating suddenness of the Tennessee scoring strikes.

Tailback Bobby Brengle conformed to the Vol scoring pattern with an 80-yard paydirt sprint in the second quarter. The other tally by the victors was in the form of a 16-yard pass from Tailback Cloar to Halfback Sweeney.

In the face of defeat, Tar Heel Halfback Ken Keller and Quarterback Albert Long played brilliantly. Keller, hampered all year by injuries, operated under a full head of steam for the first time this season. The shifty Pennsylvanian made an amazing catch of Long's 32-yard aerial in the second quarter for Carolina's first touchdown.

Two Tennessee defenders were left grabbing air, as Keller, on the dead run, went up between them and snatched the oval from their grasps. Keller scored North Carolina's second touchdown with a nine-yard scamper around right end, culminating an 83-yard drive which he initiated with a pass interception.

Long, second-string signal-caller, came into his own, establishing himself as a definite passing threat with two perfect paydirt pitches. The slender Durhamite threaded the needle on both occasions, his first being for 32 yards to Keller, and the second for 20 yards to end Larry Muschamp, who was well-covered on the play and made a spectacular catch before going out of bounds just as he crossed the goal line.

Carolina's second team stole the spotlight from the starting team. All of the Tennessee scores were made against Coach George Barclay's No. 1 eleven, while all the Tar Heels' tallies were executed by the No. 2 aggregation.

Keller carried ten times for 64 yards to pace Carolina. Tracy carried 14 times for a phenomenal 192 yards to pace Tennessee. Halfback Connie Gravitt picked up 47 yards in nine tries, and his understudy, sophomore Ed Sutton, made 38 yards in eight trips. Sutton played an outstanding defensive game, along with guards George Foti and Bill Koman. Marshall Newman, fullback, received a serious knee injury and may be out for awhile. Don Lear, Newman's substitute, shone brightly on defense. He carried the ball once, picking up six yards in the Tar Heels' last touchdown drive.

The Library maintains its collection of occupational literature in connection with the program of the University's Placement Service. When you're ready to start job hunting, the Placement Service is the place to go. Joe Galloway, its director, recommends that seniors and graduate students register there at the beginning of their final year. There is a roomful of ideal material and

(See LIBRARY, page 4) (See VOLS, page 3)

MRS. MAY DAVIS HILL, who wrote a story on job selection for today's Daily Tar Heel, is shown above advising UNC sophomore Jim Harrison on books he can read for occupational guidance.

Friday Night Was A Lively One In Carolina's Dormitory Social Rooms

PHOTOGRAPHER CORNELL WRIGHT FIRST WENT TO THE NURSES' RESIDENCE . . . and saw Galen Quinn, Bob Baker, Frances Pyle, Ann Teague, Sarah Jean Allison and Pat Russell . . .

. . . THEN OVER TO SMITH DORMITORY . . . where they were playing 'Pit' in Bermudas . . .

. . . AND FINALLY TO COBB DORM'S BASEMENT SOCIAL ROOM . . . where the Country Club Boys entertained Melver and Carr women's dorms . . .