Over The Hill

By FRED BABSON

The Tar Heels had their chance for a winning season blown asunder last Saturday, and not necessarily by the icy North wind that blew through Knoxville's Shields-Watkins Stadium. They were counting heavily on a win over Tennessee, which would have given them a record of three wins, two losses, and a tie. With South Carolina, Notre Dame, Virginia, and Duke coming up in that order, the locals based their hopes for a successful campaign on beating Virginia and upsetting any one of the other juggernauts.

As it stands now the count is 2-3-1 for the locals. Virginia gave Army the battle of its life last Saturday, before succumbing 20 to 21, eliminating the Cavaliers as a soft touch. South Carolina was humiliated by Maryland

26-0, as insult was added to injury on Homecoming Day south of the border. As if that were not enough to rustle their feathers, the Gamecocks saw their Orange Bowl aspirations fly the coop. In short: The Palmetto State mob, early-season victors over vaunted Army, stand to be mean and raucous in their quest for vengeance this coming Saturday. They are always hungry for Tar Heel meet, anyhow (having won only six out of 29 contests with UNC); and when they find out it's Homecoming Day in Chapel Hill, they may be ready to carve Rameses up for dessert.

That leaves Notre Dame and Duke to be considered. Anybody who plans to whip the Irish in South Bend either has the "fix" on, or his players are carrying concealed weapons. As for Duke: The Blue Devils have a pretty fair country ball team, and they have all their games in the country.

With four such formidable opponents facing the Tar Heels, their chances of compiling a winning record for the season are slim. They must beat South Carolina, Virginia, (both in the realm of possibility) and either Notre Dame or Duke. We prefer to hope for the best in the first three encounters and pray fervently in the last.

Ken Keller played a whale of a game at halfback against Tennessee. Said Keller, "I felt right for the first time this year." Hampered for the first month of the season by a severe ankle sprain incurred in a pre-season practice game, the scrappy 5'10" 185-pound halfback was well on the way to recovery when he received a shoulder separation on the last play of the Maryland fracas.

The Raleigh and Durham papers slipped up on their reports of the Vol-Tar Heel tilt, crediting Connie Gravitate as the leading Carolina ground gainer with 47 yards in nine tries. Actually, Keller, with 64 yards in 10 efforts, was the pace setter for the Blue and White.

Speaking of Blue and White: A Knoxville sports writer commented on the new shade of Carolina blue, wanting to know what happened to the baby blue of old days. A couple of alumni, Law School graduates of last year now making their bread in Raleigh, observed that the new Carolina blue is just a shade shy of Duke blue.

Charlotte Observer sports writer Dick Pierce, covering the UNC-Vol tilt, wrote: "As for blocking, the boys in baby blue wouldn't have made much of a stir at an old ladies tea." Describing Tennessee tailback Bobby Bringle's 80-yard punt return, Pierce wrote: "Behind that patented Tennessee blocking, he was clear on the 35 and went the rest of the way waving to friends in the stands."

Pierce makes it sound like a picnic.

Mat Contests Limit Cagers Opening Drills

By BERNIE WEISS

Carolina's basketball drills got off to a slow start last night in the Woolfen Gym.

Coach Frank McGuire, who had expressed a desire for closed practices, could do nothing more than stand by and put his charges thru a brief ball-handling drill because of intramural wrestling activities which were also taking place on the main floor.

Practice sessions, which will be held nightly, were to be closed to outsiders.

McGuire said he would get down to serious business as soon as the wrestling tourney is over.

Despite the occasional bedlam, however, the Tar Heels were able to get in about half an hour of limbering up motions, followed by some "intricate weaving" patterns designed to develop ball-handling.

The drill was preceded by a brief organizational meeting.

About 15 players turned out for the initial practice.

Beatty Sparks Pacers In Win

Jim Beatty, Carolina's amazing sophomore distance runner, continued his all-winning ways in leading the Tar Heels to a 22 to 38 cross-country victory over the University of Tennessee trotters in Knoxville, Saturday.

Beatty broke the tape at 20:38.5, turning in the third fastest time ever recorded on the Vol course, despite the sudden cold wave blown into Knoxville by an icy north wind.

Dependable Bob Barden, always finishing in the money, wound up a close third, finishing 20 seconds behind Tennessee's George Ogles, who captured second place with a 21:19 mark.

It was a nip-and-tuck affair between Beatty, Ogles and Barden for the first two miles; but Beatty the only undefeated runner in the Atlantic Coast Conference, forged ahead at the halfway mark and maintained his supremacy for the remaining two miles.

Volunteer Ed Murphy finished fourth at 21:41, but Tar Heels Glenn Nannay (21:44), Tony Houghton (22:38), Don Wright (22:42) and Boyd Newman (22:58) captured the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth spots, respectively. The only other Carolinian finishing was Scotty Hester, taking eleventh place at 23:20.

71st Collegiate Net Meet Set For June 20-25 Here

Southland — Site For National Championships — First Since '42

The seventy-first National Collegiate Tennis Championships will be played here at the University next June 20-25, Tar Heel tennis coach John Kenfield announced today.

Kenfield, a member of the NCAA tennis committee, yesterday received word from Chairman Paul Bennett of Northwestern University that North Carolina's invitation to hold the nationals has been accepted. Other members of the committee, which awarded the championships, are William Ackerman, UCLA; Norman B. Bramall, Haverford College; Dr. D. A. Penick, University of Texas; and Harry J. Schmidt, Iowa State College.

Last year's championships were held at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash. Hamilton Richardson of Tulane won the singles title for the second year in a row, with Ron Livingston and Bob Perry of UCLA taking the doubles. The National Collegiate Tennis

Meet has not been held in the South since 1942, when Tulane University of New Orleans was host.

The University of North Carolina is a tennis-conscious school, and with Kenfield as coach, has turned out many great teams and individual stars. It has never produced a national college champion, although Wilmer Hines of the Tar Heels was singles runner-up in 1933 and Vic Seixas was runner-up in both 1947 and 1948. Seixas, a former Wimbledon champion, is currently a member of the Davis Cup team.

Tar Heel Soccer Squad Host To State Wolfpack In AC Conference Match

Carolina's soccer team will seek to even its record in Atlantic Coast Conference play this afternoon when it takes on the N. C. State Wolfpack at Fetzer Field.

The match is scheduled for 3 o'clock. The Tar Heels have a 1-2 record in Conference play. In their last outing the team edged Duke, 2-1.

State has also downed Duke by the same score.

UCLANS Surge To No. 1 Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Power UCLA, which has averaged nearly a point a minute in sweeping through seven straight games, shot into No. 1 place today and became the third leader in three weeks in the Associated Press football poll.

Red Sanders' single-wing Pleans, who have rolled up 292 points for a 41.7 average, replaced Ohio State which had wrested top place from Oklahoma the week before.

Still unbeaten and untied but unimpressive in last Saturday's victories, Ohio State fell to second place and Oklahoma to third as UCLA climbed up from the No. 3 rung in the closest balloting of the campaign.

CHESS TEAM TRIUMPHS

The UNC chess team extended its undefeated string to 24 this past weekend by defeating Raleigh, 5½-2½, and Duke, 5-1. The Tar Heel team consisted of: Kit Crittenden, Doug Kahn, Pete Henderson, Robert Hubbard, Mioslav Vaskill, Jack McQueen, Dr. John Wilson and Dr. Bowers; Bowers and Wilson did not play against Duke. The most notable event in the matches was Tar Heel captain Kit Crittenden's victory over Dan Burdick of Duke, Burdick is the state champion of West Virginia.

Gridders Take Light Workout

The Tar Heels, returning home to Navy Field after last Saturday's disheartening loss to Tennessee, went through a light practice session yesterday afternoon.

Carolina ran through dummy scrimmage, squeezed in pass offense and defense, and closed out the afternoon with a review of tackling fundamentals and wind sprints.

Trainer Doc White, reporting the damages suffered in the Tennessee encounter, announced that starting fullback Marshall Newman would definitely be out of action for next
