Clarke To Be Guest Soloist In Concert

Mary Gray Clarke, violin celloist, will be the guest soloist with the Chapel Hill Choral Club in a program next Tuesday at 8 p.m. The Choral Club will present a program of English Renaissance and Baroque music in Hill Hall under the direction of Joel Carter.

Miss Clarke will play Christophers' "Thirteen Divisions in E minor." She will be accompanied by Mrs. Robert Weaver on the harpsichord.

A first performance in Chapel Hill of the Handel "Memorial Service" will be included in this fourth concert of the Tuesday Evening Series.

Other works on the program include "Sumer is icumen in," a chorale by Tye, motet by Tallis, madrigal by Morley, "Praise the Lord," and "Out of the Deep," both by Child and Aldrich.

At present, the Quartet's repertoire consists of every phase of music, from primitive Italian and French composers to the modernists. Not only are Scarlatti and Couperin represented, but also Schubert, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Chopin, Strauss, Debussy, Stravinsky, Prokofieff, Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Interesting is the fact that sometimes the Quartet plays in unison, sometimes with two carrying the melody and two the obligato. Again, the pianists will play three to one and at still other times each plays his own separate part.

The First Piano Quartet is the first group of four pianists to perform simultaneously at four instruments. As far as they know, there never has been another such group before theirs.

In Public, Private Colleges Gray For Support

GUILFORD COLLEGE, Nov. 10.—In what was regarded as a major policy statement, President Gordon Gray of the University of North Carolina, today declared that both public and private institutions of higher learning must seek greater corporate support if they are to keep abreast of their responsibilities in the future.

Speaking at the annual Founder's Convocation of Guilford College, which is rapidly becoming one of the state's most distinguished academic occasions, President Gray also affirmed his belief in the need for privately-supported colleges as an integral part of the educational system.

The University of North Carolina, Gray said, as the largest institution of higher learning in the state must take the responsibility and duty of serving senior partner to the smaller colleges in the job of education. President Gray said that he was convinced that for every philanthropic dollar "induced" into education at the Greater University, "there will be several dollars going into education generally." The University, he declared, is interested in education generally and not alone on its three campuses, and its general policy is to encourage support to all institutions of higher learning.

Following the initial convocation, Dr. Clyde Milner, president of Guilford College, and Mrs. Milner entertained President Gray and other guests at a luncheon at Starmount Forest Country Club.

Following the luncheon, Gray spoke briefly and informally of the need for all colleges to establish coherent development programs, preferably staffed by volunteers versed in both the various needs of each institution and business practices. The University of North Carolina, he said, had such a program and was presently learning its great value.

The second convocation session at 8 p. m. today centered around an address by Dr. Courtney C. Smith, president of Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., another Quaker college.

Morton R. Kurtz, executive secretary of the North Carolina Council of Churches, will speak during tomorrow's assembly, and the fifth annual Ward Lecture will be delivered tomorrow evening by Dr. Roland Bainton, professor of Church History at Yale University and an internationally known theological scholar.

Piano Quartet Coming

EIGHTY NIMBLE FINGERS play here Nov. 18

Piano Quartet Will Play Here November 18

The First Piano Quartet will be presented by the Student Entertainment Committee as their second concert of the year, free to students, next Thursday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Though the concert is a student sponsored attraction to which students may attend free upon presentation of their ID cards, faculty and townspeople may attend after 7:40 p.m. if seats are available, for $1. Student wives and husbands may attend the program with their spouses at any time at a cost of $1.

The First Piano Quartet, for many years heard weekly over the National Broadcasting Company's facilities, is the first musical unit of its kind in the world. The four artists who compose the group are Adam Garner, Glauco D'Attili, Frank Mittler and Edward Edson. The field of four-piano music, as well as four-piano arrangements, had been virtually unexplored until the appearance of the First Piano Quartet in 1940 under the guidance of their originator, manager and producer, Edwin Fadiman.

Little music has ever been created for four pianos. One exception was an obscure work by Bach—the Vivaldi Concerto. This piece was originally written for four violins and then arranged by Bach for four pianos.

Also, there is a Stravinsky for four pianos in "Les Noces." Consequently these four artists were forced to call on their own arranging talents for an adequate repertoire.

At present, the Quartet's repertoire consists of every phase of music, from primitive Italian and French composers to the modernists. Not only are Scarlatti and Couperin represented, but also Schubert, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Chopin, Strauss, Debussy, Stravinsky, Prokofieff, Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Interesting is the fact that sometimes the Quartet plays in unison, sometimes with two carrying the melody and two the obligato. Again, the pianists will play three to one and at still other times each plays his own separate part.

The First Piano Quartet is the first group of four pianists to perform simultaneously at four instruments. As far as they know, there never has been another such group before theirs.

Two UP, 8 SP Bills Up For Vote Tonight

Ten bills came before the Ways and Means Committee of the student Legislature late yesterday. If not held in the committee, these bills will come before Legislature tonight.

Two of the bills were introduced by the University Party last week; eight are from the Student Party deluge of bills two weeks ago.

Bev Webb's (UP) bill setting up a group to work through the administration to eliminate physical education for veterans and a resolution commending the inter-dormitory council and setting up a commission to work with the IDC in solving the lack of social facilities on the campus, introduced by Joel Fleishman (SP), will come up.

A resolution, introduced by David Reid (SP), setting up a Judicial Problems Study Commission—to study all aspects of the organization, administration, and effectiveness of the Honor System and recommend any changes which it deems necessary to the Legislature—and a resolution, introduced by Watt Huntley (UP), establishing a committee to insure the proper handling of resolutions pertaining to the University administration, will come before the legislators. This bill is introduced for the purpose of making sure the administration takes proper notice of student resolutions.

Other bills are: A bill concerning the Student Welfare Board and negotiation with the administration, introduced by Charlie Dean (SP); a bill establishing a Legislature Complaint Board, introduced by Jim Turner (SP); a resolution establishing a commission to study University housing problems, introduced by Amy Cooke (SP); a bill to set up a commission to appoint newly elected student officials with their duties, introduced by Tom Lambeth (SP) SP member Chuck May's bill which would place a legislator in charge of Victory Village problems which the Legislature could solve, and a bill changing the set-up of the Executive Committee, introduced by Jim Armstrong (SP).

The Legislature will meet at 7:30 in New East.

WC's Television Personality Will Take Part In Soph Dance

Plans were completed yesterday afternoon for the first annual Sophomore Class dance, co-sponsored by the CMAB Dance Committee and the sophomore class, which will be held Saturday at 9 p.m.

Music will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors. Composed of 14 musicians and one vocalist, the band is known for its versatile and unusual arrangements. Such prominent musicians as Les Brown, Johnny Long and Sonny Burke are included in its alumni.

During intermission, Jen Mickey, a sophomore from Women's College, will play the piano and sing. Miss Mickey has a radio and television show in New York City during the summer.

Bill Fetzer, a senior here, will be on hand with his ventriloquist's act. He has appeared several times at other functions on campus.

The girls from WC will arrive at the gym at about 8:30 Saturday night. Sophomore girls from UNC will act as hostesses during the evening.

In addition to the girls from WC, the dance-planning committee has decided to extend an invitation to all coeds here. They will be admitted without tickets. Tickets will be available for male students—other than sophomores—who have dates, at the "Y" on Thursday and Friday afternoons. Any sophomore who did not receive a ticket may get one at the "Y" or from any of the class officers.

Judges Announced For Annual Beat Dook Parade Nov. 23rd

Judges of the queen contest for the annual "Beat Dook" float parade have been announced. They are Katherine Carmichael, Dean of Women, Edwin S. Lanier, mayor of Chapel Hill, and E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina Theater.

Judging of the candidates for queen will be held at the Pi Kappa Alpha House on Thursday, Nov. 18, following a dinner in honor of the candidates and their escorts. The PiKas are sponsors of the annual parade.

Entries are coming in rapidly for the parade, and it looks like there will be more dorms participating than have been in the past, according to the parade chairman.

The parade is scheduled for the afternoon of November 23. The procession will form at 2 o'clock at Wollen Gym and get under way at three for the downtown section of Chapel Hill.

Deadline for entries will be at midnight on Nov. 18. They should be turned in to Claude Pope, float parade chairman, at the PiKa House. Pope announced that all campus organizations must enter a candidate for queen to be eligible to enter a float.

The float entries must be one moving float from each organization. No limitation has been set on cost. The entries will be judged on beauty, originality, and effectiveness of the "Beat Dook" theme.

The name of the queen will be announced on the day of the parade. She will ride on the special queen's float in the parade. The winning float will be announced at the "Beat Dook" pep rally.

Praise Still Pouring In For University's Dr. H. W. Odum

Praise for the late Dr. Howard W. Odum, noted UNC sociologist and author who died here late Monday night, continued to pour in from the University, state and nation yesterday.

Dr. Odum died in N. C. Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient for several weeks. His funeral was held yesterday at 11 a. m., at the graveside in Chapel Hill Cemetery, with the Revs. Henry G. Ruark and Charles Hubbard officiating.

Dr. Frank Mourns 2 Deaths

In the passing of Governor William B. Umstead and Dr. Howard W. Odum "our University, State and country has suffered losses of regional and national magnitude," Dr. Frank P. Graham said in a statement here yesterday.

Dr. Graham, who is special mediator for the United Nations, former president of the University, and former U. S. Senator, flew from New York to attend the two funerals.

"From his student days William Umstead had the will for dedicated public service," Dr. Graham said. "As Congressman and member of the Naval Affairs Committee he was one of the builders of the modern American Navy. As political manager and leader he had a decisive part in carrying forward the development of the North Carolina Good Health, Hospital and Medical Center Program.

"He led our people in calm consideration of the Supreme Court's decision regarding the integration of the public schools. He served bravely in war and died valiantly in the unassuming service of the people he loved."

Dr. Graham said that Howard Odum became at Chapel Hill "one of the foremost American sociologists and the founder not only of a great department and a pioneering institute of social research but also the father of studies in regionalism which have given a new direction and impetus to geographic-economic-social-political-cultural studies in the South and the nation.

D.A. Grad Is Rising On Stage

Nancy Rose Green, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Sylvester Green of Chapel Hill, who starred with the Carolina Playmakers while at UNC and who has played a number of roles with the Barter Theater of Virginia, is currently reaching new heights in the field of dramatics.

As professor of dramatics and speech at Belmont College she will direct the fall production of "Bell, Book and Candle." Also, she will play the female lead in Clifford Odet's "The Country Girl," which will open in the Circle Theatre in Nashville on Nov. 22.

In addition to acting, Miss Green has established herself as a dancer with 10 years of formal study in ballet, tap, toe and modern dancing. She has appeared as a singer in four shows. She has also had wide experience in costuming, scenery construction, make-up, stage and sound engineer work and publicity.

A native Tar Heel, Miss Green played her first important role while still at Durham High School. She was Mrs. Sandow in "One Foot in Heaven."

After a year at Westhampton College in Richmond, Va., she transferred to UNC and immediately began her major study in dramatics and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in dramatics in 1953.

Miss Green's summers have not been spent idly. In 1951 she had her first experience in outdoor drama in "Unto These Hills." In the summer of 1952 she was with the Little Theater of the Rockies in Greeley, Colo., and this past summer she was given excellent press notices for her latest role in "Horn in the West."

Telegram Going To Indiana

Tomorrow the University Club will send a night-letter telegram to the Carolina football team in South Bend. The telegram is to consist of a 50-word body, followed by the signatures of all the students who contribute to the wire.

Collections for the wire will be taken in Y-court and at various places around the campus, and all students interested in having their name on the telegram can do so by donating a dime. The Western Union office here will have an open wire to South Bend Friday night for sending the wire.

A University Club representative said, "We want this to be the longest wire ever sent to the team, and we are hoping that the whole student body will come through to make this the best yet."

"The longest wire ever sent the team," the U. C. representative added, "was the one sent to New York in 1950 when we played Notre Dame there, and that one was 90 feet long. I'm hoping that this wire will beat that one."

UNC-Duke Meet

Student leaders of both Duke and Carolina will meet tonight at Duke University to discuss plans to prevent vandalism on the campuses of the two schools. Holsten announced plans for the meeting in a letter addressed to several student leaders, including Tom Creasy, Herb Browne, Manning Muntzing, Jim Fountain, Henry Isaacson, Charles Kuralt and Bob Litaker. The meeting will be held at 6 tonight and the group will leave South Building at 5:15.

Baptists Vote To Endorse Court Decision

SALISBURY, Nov. 10.—The 25th annual convention of the North Carolina Baptist Student Union Saturday endorsed the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools.

Between 400 and 500 delegates attended the convention at the First Baptist Church here. About 12 people remained seated when the standing vote on the issue was taken.

"The group resolved to 'exercise the utmost Christianity in Christian love and understanding in accomplishing this principle of brotherhood as a reality within ourselves and our society.' The resolution also urged the Baptist State Convention to implement the principle in all North Carolina Baptist institutions with 'all haste commensurate with sound Christian love.'"
