Test Pattern Is On Now:

WUNC-TV Re-Slated For Operation Starting Jan. 8

MISS JAN SAXON & JOEL CARTER
Suzanna and Figaro in the comic opera

WUNC-TV, channel 4, with its formal opening now scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 8, has started running its test pattern every day from noon until 6:30 p. m.

Officials of the educational station say they have been highly pleased with early reports on reception in the state. Post cards and phone calls indicate that channel 4 has a wide and clear reception. One post card from Statesville, almost 100 miles away, congratulated the station on the clear reception.

Robert F. Schenckan, director of television for Consolidated University, voiced his thanks for the notes the station had received and expressed hope that others would continue to send cards to the station describing the reception.

"We would greatly appreciate hearing from the people in the State concerning the reception of WUNC-TV's test pattern," said Schenckan. "It's our best means of knowing exactly how well WUNC-TV will be received when we open on January 8."

WUNC-TV, channel 4, is one of the choice very high frequency VHF stations, which means that it can be received on regular television sets. No adaptor is needed.

Models Needed

Models are needed by Persons Hall for the art classes, according to Miss Lynette Warren, curator.

Miss Warren said that the models may be either men or women, and that they would be paid $1.

The curator said that anyone interested should contact her at 2801. She added that a model is needed for tomorrow.

Young Democrats

The Young Democrats Club recently opened an office in Graham Memorial. The second floor room is being shared with the Publications Board.

Geology Films

Two new films, "The Fossil Story" and "Photogeology—A New Look for Oil," will be shown tonight in 112 New East. The films will be presented by Sigma Gamma Epsilon, and will be open to the public.

APQ Meeting

Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the APO room of Graham Memorial.

DI Meeting

The Dialectic Senate will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Di Hall. The for election of officers. All members are required to attend.

Classics Entry

Miss Nancy Whisnant, senior from Charlotte, was selected as the Monogram Club's entry to the Dixie Classics Queen contest. The Classics were played in Raleigh at the William Neal Reynolds Memorial Coliseum on Dec. 27, 28, and 29.

Comic Opera 'Figaro' Tickets Now On Sale

Tickets are now on sale for the Music Department's presentation of The Marriage of Figaro which will be given on Jan. 17 and 18 in Hill Hall.

All seats are reserved and advance reservations may be made by phoning 3226, according to a spokesman for the Music Department.

The comic opera by Mozart will be sung in English by a cast of 11 principals, supported by a corps de ballet under Miss Martha Boyle, choreographer, and a 30-piece orchestra under the direction of Dr. Wilton Mason.

The story of The Marriage of Figaro revolves around Suzanna, played by Miss Jan Saxon, and Figaro, played by Joel Carter. Their plans to marry are halted by their master Count Almaviva, played by Edgar Vom Lehn, who desires Suzanna, and Marcellina, played by Miss May Marshbanks, who loves Figaro. Cherubino, played by Miss Martha Fouse, increases the difficulties by falling in love too often.

Charles Jeffers is stage director for The Marriage of Figaro, with costumes by Miss Suzanne Kramer, sets by Walter Creech and lighting by Lew Goldstein.

UNC Strings Play Tonight In Hill Hall

The University String Quartet will present its annual concert tonight at 8 p. m. in Hill Hall.

Margaret Grainer, violinist, will be the guest artist in Mozart's "G Minor Quintet" and Brahms' "Quintet in G Major." Quartet members are Edgar Alden, Jean Heard, first and second violinists; Dorothy Alden, violist, and Mary Gray Clarke, cellist.

The quartet will also present Bartok's "Quartet No. 3."

Mrs. Grainer, graduate in viola from Eastman School of Music, is a member of the University Symphony and instructor in strings here. Before coming to Chapel Hill in 1953, she was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic.

The Aldens have played in the Peninsula Festival Orchestra in Wisconsin and the North Carolina Symphony. Before coming to Chapel Hill, they taught in the music department at Meredith College. Mr. Alden is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music and is at present an instructor in strings and theory here.

Mrs. Heard has studied at Birmingham Conservatory of Music, University of Alabama and is a graduate of Oberlin.

Mary Gray Clarke, graduate assistant in the music department, has a master's degree from Manhattan School of Music. While in Germany after the war, she made concert tours throughout the U. S. zone of occupation. Miss Clarke is first cellist with the University Symphony and research student in musicology.

Graduates' Paintings Now On Exhibit

An exhibit of drawings by John Rembert and paintings by Miss Jane Bolmeier and David Buntley, two 1955 graduate students here who are receiving their Master of Arts in creative arts, opened in Person Hall Art Gallery last Sunday and will continue until Jan. 16.

Rembert has taught art here and in Meredith College in Raleigh. He won a first award in the North Carolina State Exhibition in Raleigh in 1948. His work has been acquired by the Beloit College Art Museum, Beloit, Wis., and the North Carolina State Art Gallery in Raleigh.

Miss Bolmeier, who took here A. B. degree at Duke in 1952, is now teaching in the Charlotte City Schools. She is a native of Durham.

Her work has been exhibited in various galleries, including the North Carolina Artists' Annuals in 1953 and 1954. One of her pictures was awarded first prizes for oil painting at the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs Exhibition in Asheville in 1954.

Dorm Reservations To Be Filed By Tomorrow

Reservation notices for dormitory rooms for the spring semester must be returned to rooms of respective dormitory managers by tomorrow or students will not be assigned a room next session, according to a statement made by the Housing Office.

J. E. Wadsworth, director of housing for the University, also announced that the rooms on the first three floors for Manly, Mangum, Ruffin and Grimes will be converted to their normal two-occupant status beginning with the spring semester. The rent for the rooms will be $50.75 per occupant for the semester.

Anyone wishing a room change should contact the Housing Office after noon of next Friday, according to the housing director.

Wadsworth also announced that law students will be given preference for the rooms on the first two floors of Grimes.

Arranged by the department of anthropology and archaeology, the exhibit is a part of the 187 lamp collection made by R. Bogue, a graduate student here.

Bogue, a Mississippi native, is now on leave from the World Health Education division of the United Nations. He is here working on his masters degree in public health.

The lamps on display in the Planetarium are the types used for illumination in Egypt and Jerusalem at the time of Christ's birth. They are, says Bogue, the Roman type lamp which used principally olive oil for fuel.

His collection dates from early Egypt to the time of the Crusades in the year 1186, making all of the lamps on exhibit more than 750 years old and some as old as 2,000 years.

Mademoiselle Art Contest Is Underway

Mademoiselle magazine will award $500 and publication of art work to two young women artists in its new Art Contest, it was announced by Renee Pickel, of the magazine.

The contest, which is underway now and will end midnight, Mar. 1, is open to all women under 26 who are enrolled either in a college or an art school. Competition will be on the grounds of originality and not technicality and should therefore offer equal chance to both college and art school students.

A maximum of five samples may be submitted, either drawn especially for the contests or work previously done. Work drawn for the contest should be illustrations of fiction in issues of Mademoiselle which came out during the past year.

The original work may be submitted.

4 Tar Heels At Bible Meet Over Holidays

Don Cox, Challie Iralu, Wayne Thompson, Clyde Smith and Miss Marjorie Wayne were delegates from UNC to the recent Fourth Student Missionary Convention at Urbana, Ill. The convention lasted from Dec. 27 to Jan. 1.

The Carolina students were among more than 1,800 collegians who crowded all available facilities of the University of Illinois campus to get a closer look at world missions. They came during their Christmas holidays from universities, colleges, Bible institutes and seminaries in all parts of the United States and Canada. More than 150 of them were from over 40 foreign countries.

The Missionary convention was the fourth of such student gatherings sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and its affiliated groups, Student Foreign Missions Fellowship and Nurses' Christian Fellowship.

But It Won't Last Long...

It's Just Like Spring

Anyone who didn't know better would think spring had come to Chapel Hill. Instead of the usual post-holiday slump there's an unseasonable gaiety in the air, and everyone has taken to running around without wraps, and sunning between classes.

Raleigh-Durham Airport Weather Bureau, though, says not to waste your time planning beach parties for the weekend. The present temperature, averaging in the middle 60's, will probably last two or three days, and then the area will be in for a rainy spell, forecasters say.

The cause of this unseasonable warmth, according to the weather bureau, is a high pressure center which is moving slowly eastward. The whole southeastern part of the country is being affected.

Incidentally, the plants seem to be taking it all a lot more sensibly than the humans. Even the Soulang magnolia, which has been known to bloom when snow is on the ground, isn't showing any signs of life, apparently aware that a winter that started as late as this one couldn't possibly be over already.
