Earl Bostic To Play Here In Winter Germans Concert

EARL BOSTIC
here Feb. 12

Frank Roddey, president of the German Club, has announced the signing of Earl Bostic and his orchestra to play for the Winter Germans concert on the afternoon of Feb. 12.

Bostic, who has recently completed a stay at Basin Street in New York City, is acclaimed by many as the "king of the alto sax."

After being at first associated with Hot Lips Page and then with Lionel Hampton, Bostic formed his own band in 1938. Following World War II, during which he played for Uncle Sam, Bostic returned to the music world.

In the most recent Down Beat poll, he was found to be the leading band personality in the rhythm and blues section.

Bostic's many recordings include "Flamingo," "Mambolito," "Wrap It Up" and "Jungle Drums."

Dr. W. Richardson, Assistant Dean for Continuation Education, UNC School of Medicine, explains that "Dr. Shands has a special interest interpreting the common emotional and psychiatric problems seen in medical practice in a way which is understandable and helpful to the non-psychiatrist."

Dr. Jones received his M. D. from Liverpool University, England. His experience before coming to Chapel Hill includes work at the Royal Infirmary, Liverpool, 1945-46, where he was First Assistant to the Professional Unit, and at Maida Vale Hospital for Nervous Diseases in London, where he was senior registrar.

State Senator C. S. Weeks Polls Teachers

RALEIGH, Jan. 18 (AP) — Edgecombe's Sen. Cameron S. Weeks said today he is polling urban and rural school teachers, both white and Negro, in his county on whether they prefer "adequate but separate public schools."

At Sen. Weeks' behest, Edgecombe school Supt. E. D. Johnson sent out letters to the county teachers of both races sometime ago. The letter asked teachers to signify how they felt about the issue.

Sen. Weeks said his poll was "incomplete" and returns are not yet available. He added he has extended it to cover white and Negro teachers in city units as well as those in the county. Originally, only Negroes were polled.

The letter from Johnson's office said names did not have to be signed to the questionnaires, and it was not "intended to embarrass anyone or put you on the spot." It also gave the purpose of the poll:

"In order that as a representative of the people, I may better be able to carry out my duties as such with special reference to the question of the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision respecting segregation in our public schools, I would like for you to submit the following question to your Negro teachers and principals in Edgecombe county..."

The question asked that a preference be indicated.

Winter Wonderland Arrives On Campus During The Night

Classes Continue But Absences Excused; Woolens Donned And Snowballs Thrown

Carolina students awoke yesterday morning to a real winter wonderland.

The campus was already covered heavily with snow at 7 a.m., and a continuing fall promised even more reason to bring out boots and heavy clothes to keep warm.

University classes were held yesterday in spite of the snowfall, however, Chancellor Robert B. House said that excusals would be granted for all absences. According to a spokesman from Chapel Hill High School, classes in all Orange County public schools were called off yesterday due to the storm.

Consequently, students from grammar school to college age were seen dressed in their warmest clothes having snowball fights all the way from the streets of Chapel Hill to Y-Court.

According to the Weather Bureau at the Raleigh Durham Airport, the cause of the snow started way down south near the coast of Louisiana. An employee of the Bureau said yesterday that it was caused by a low pressure storm which moved northeast from the Louisiana coast through Georgia and South Carolina, reaching this area late Tuesday night.

While the storm was passing over Georgia and South Carolina, according to the Weather Bureau spokesman, it was causing only rain. However, it met with cold air coming from the north, and when it reached North Carolina the precipitation changed first to sleet and then to snow about half an hour after it hit the area.

The Bureau employee said that yesterday the storm was off of the North Carolina coast and was moving northeast. According to him, the snowfall here was due to diminish yesterday afternoon, with perhaps a few flurries continuing until last night.

The total snowfall expected yesterday by the Weather Bureau was eight to 10 inches with 7 inches having already fallen by noon yesterday.

The temperature during the snowfall yesterday rose from 28 degrees in the early morning to 30 around noon and was not expected to go above 32 degrees all day by the Bureau. The Bureau spokesman forecast colder temperatures for last night and today.

Most of the rest of North Carolina received snow from the storm also, according to the Bureau. The spokesman said that the fall was light in the western part of the state and heaviest in the area from Chapel Hill, Durham and Raleigh northward to Elizabeth City.

Sorry!

If you didn't get your Daily Tar Heel yesterday it was because the paper's truck got marooned in a snow bank near Cobb Dorm while making its early morning rounds.

The paper circulation staff, when they couldn't get the truck out, took several large piles of Wednesday's issue to Lenoir Hall and other central points on campus where they hoped you would find them.

And if the paper seems to be lacking its customary zing, it's because Managing Editor Fred Powledge, who handles page one layout, has cracked under the strain and is bedded down at the University Infirmary with flu. City Editor Jerry Reece and News Editor Jackie Goodman have filled in on yesterdays and today's newspaper.

The University's tractor (bottom) was kept pretty busy yesterday clearing the campus walks of snow which had covered them completely.

South Building Besieged

Snowbound

RALEIGH, Jan. 19 (AP) — Four-foot Billy Arthur, former newspaper publisher who now resides in Chapel Hill, commutes to Raleigh daily to assume his duties as Reading Clerk for the House of Representatives.

Med School Candidates Should Take May Test

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1956 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, 1955, which was announced by the Educational Testing Service which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 7, 1955, or on Monday, Oct. 31, 1955, at administrative to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1956 take the May test.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern science and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

March Of Dimes Campaign Will Continue After Exams

The annual March of Dimes drive on the campus will not reach its peak until after examinations, according to E. C. Smith, director of the drive in Orange County. Then the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will canvas the dormitories and fraternity houses, and the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will bring Louis Armstrong and his All-Stars to the campus for a concert, with all profits going to the March of Dimes.

The Pikas have postponed their campus drive until early February so that there will be no interference with study for the final exams. Plans aren't complete yet, but it is expected that the Pikas will conduct a door-to-door drive in most of the men's dormitories and fraternities.

The Louis Armstrong jazz concert will be in Memorial Hall on Thursday night, February 10, from 8 to 10 o'clock. Tickets are on sale for $1.50 each at the Graham Memorial, the Carolina Theatre, Town and Campus, the Carolina Sport Shop, the Y-Court, and at the A.T.O. house. Noel Sullivan is chairman of the A.T.O. concert committee.

The goal in Orange County this year is $12,000. Mr. Smith says that the goal can be reached if everyone on the campus will join in as much as he or she possibly can to aid in the fight against polio.

Four polio cases were reported in Orange County last summer, and one of those was a student. None of the cases were serious.
