

Author Of 'A Man Called Peter' To Speak Here

Mrs. Peter Marshall, author of A Man Called Peter, will be presented here by the YWCA as its Centennial speaker on March 14 and 15.

Mrs. Marshall will give a public address on March 14 in Hill Hall at 8 p.m. on the topic "Nothing Can Defeat You."

The daughter of a Presbyterian minister, Mrs. Marshall was born in Johnson City, Tenn., in 1914 while her parents were doing home mission work in the great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina.

Upon entering Agnes Scott College, the interest which she had developed in writing turned to poetry particularly. She was also a member of the intercollegiate debating team. During her college years she met the Rev. Peter Marshall, then pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. They became engaged in June of 1936 and were married in November of the same year.

The following year, the couple went to Washington when Rev. Marshall accepted the pastorate of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. In 1940, a son, Peter John Marshall, was born.

During the next years Mrs. Marshall and her husband collaborated on writings for the Board of Christian Education for the Presbyterian Church, including a Bible study entitled The Mystery of the Ages and several issues of the devotional magazine Today.

In 1947 Rev. Marshall became Chaplain of the Senate and remained in that position until his death in 1949.

Mrs. Marshall's biography of her husband, A Man Called Peter, was published by McGraw-Hill in October of 1951. It became a best-seller and has been made into a movie. A second book by her entitled God Loves You is soon to be published by the juvenile book division of McGraw-Hill. It contains stories and prayers which the Marshalls and their son enjoyed.

One of Rev. Marshall's most well-known sermons, Let's Keep Christmas, was published in book form in 1953, and a collection of pastoral and Senate prayers entitled The Prayers of Peter Marshall was published in 1954.

The movie version of A Man Called Peter, recently produced by Twentieth Century Fox Studios is to be released across the country on Easter weekend. According to the YWCA office, the movie will play here at the Carolina Theatre sometime during April.

The events planned for Mrs. Marshall's visit here include lunch at the Monogram Club with YWCA officers, a banquet at the Carolina Inn, her address in Hill Hall followed by a reception in Graham Memorial and a Centennial luncheon at the Episcopal Chapel of the Cross Parish House. Mrs. Marshall will speak on "Blueprint for Creative Living" at the Centennial luncheon, which will be open to all women students, YWCA board members and the house-mothers.

Miss America Visited UNC During Week

Although few people here were aware of it, the beautiful Miss America was a visitor in Chapel Hill this week. The lovely brunette, Miss Lee Ann Meriwether of California, drove to Chapel Hill from Raleigh where she is making her headquarters while spending about a week in North Carolina.

No word was given of Miss America's visit while she was in town. But the fact came out in a radio interview in Durham, when WSSB's Paul Mason was preparing a program for use there and over WCFL. Miss Meriwether said she was especially impressed by the beauty of Chapel Hill.

Her trip included a look at such conventional points as the Bell Tower, and she commented on the splendid-looking fraternity and sorority houses. Miss Meriwether's visit was too brief, to allow for a stop at the Playmakers.

The tall California beauty would have enjoyed this, because her principal interest is in dramatics. She plans to study dramatics with the $5,000 scholarship which she was awarded when she won the Miss America award. She has already done a role on a nationwide TV dramatic program.

"I've always wanted to be an actress since I was a child," Miss America told Mason. "I guess most children feel this way at some time or other. But I never grew out of it." She said, however, that she isn't particular about what medium she uses for her talents—whether it's TV, the stage or the movies.

She also had some advice when a cameraman noticed that she always seemed to have a smile. "Why, I don't believe at all in getting angry," she smiled. "It's just a way to get ulcers."

Musical Director Mason & Dramatist Selden ... going over Show Boat's Score

Mason On Playmakers Staff Now

Prof. Samuel Selden, chairman of the UNC Department of Dramatic Art and director of the Carolina Playmakers, has announced that Dr. Wilton Mason, associate professor in the University Music Department, has been made an official member of the staff of the Carolina Playmakers.

Dr. Mason will act as composer and general musical director and advisor for the Playmakers. In the past, Dr. Mason has been associated with the Playmakers both as a student and as a music director.

Professor Selden said "Dr. Mason has given us help in many ways and we feel that we are now simply making formal what has existed informally for some time. We are glad to have his talents as a composer and general music director and advisor in our group, and we are proud to have his name on our programs."

The new staff member began working with the Playmakers as a student in music at the University. He acted and participated in the work of the playwriting class and while a graduate student in 1937, was awarded the Playmakers Mask Award.

His first musical work with the group was on the production Spring For Sure, an original production with book by Catherine MacDonald for which he composed the music. The show was presented in Chapel Hill on two occasions and in 1952 was taken on a state-wide tour. It has now had approximately 28 productions by other groups and is currently being done in Greenville.

Dr. Mason was also musical director for Princess Ida, last year's Kiss Me Kate, and he is currently busy with the Playmakers' spring musical Show Boat.

For the last three years he has been composer and supervisor of music for the outdoor drama Horn in the West at Boone.

He is now collaborating with

Green Lauds Washington

Dr. Fletcher M. Green, Kenan Professor of History and Research Professor in the Institute for Research in Social Science, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Davie Poplar Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution this week.

Dr. Green spoke on George Washington, "his achievements as a leader and builder of the American nation."

Hostesses were Mrs. F. C. Shepard, in whose home the group met; Mrs. J. B. Linker, Mrs. S. S. Voorhis, and Mrs. H. J. Shore. A tea course was served at the conclusion of the program.

Kai Jurgensen, also of the Playmaker staff, on another original musical production entitled Whoa, Nellie. The play deals with the life of Nell Gwynn and the reign of Charles II and will be finished and ready for production next year, Dr. Mason said.

Seniors Offered Aids Valued Over $1,200

Seniors who will receive their A.B. degree this June are being offered fellowships grants valued at $1,200 a year plus college fees.

The fellowships are being given to those students interested in public affairs and public service careers. The fellowships may be used at three universities.

Beginning after graduation fellows will serve with a public agency such as TVA or a department in a city or state government. In the school session of 1955-56, the fellows will be enrolled in graduate courses at the Universities of Alabama, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

A certificate in public administration will be awarded those fellows completing the twelve months training period. A Masters Degree may be awarded to fellows who complete a thesis and pass the required examinations.

Further information concerning eligibility and other requirements may be secured by writing to the Educational Director, Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, University, Alabama, March 10 is the deadline for submitting applications.

Stengel Says Yank Line-Up Almost Set

A flat statement by Casey Stengel that the New York Yankees' lineup is set except for one position and hint of a Chicago White Sox-Washington trade highlighted activities yesterday in the major league training camps.

The Devils of Loudun

By Aldous Huxley

A convent of nuns possessed by devils, a priest accused of witchcraft, churchly politics and superstition combine to make lively reading of this fine work. Published at $4.00.
