UP FOR VOTE TUESDAY:

Amendment Deals With Interdormitory Council

Four amendments to the student Constitution will be presented to the student body for a vote in Tuesday's election. One proposed amendment, to give student government Attorney General specific powers, was published yesterday. Two others are printed today. The first, below, deals with Interdormitory Council. The second, on page four, concerns student nurses.

A BILL TO AMEND THE OFFICIAL STUDENT CONSTITUTION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Whereas: Through practice, Interdormitory representatives, elected by the individual dormitories, have taken the place of advisors appointed by the University as members of the Interdormitory Council; and

Whereas: Interdormitory Council officers elected in the spring automatically hold over and eliminate the necessity for any other hold-over members; and

Whereas: A social program in the residences, as directed by the Interdormitory Council, for the residents of the dormitories has proven very effective; and

Whereas: A chairman and clerk of the Interdormitory Council Court eliminate the necessity of a hold-over member of the Court;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ENACTED BY THE STUDENT LEGISLATURE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, THAT

Article I. The official student Constitution of the University of North Carolina shall be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Article I, Section 10. Men's Interdormitory Council. The Men's Interdormitory Council shall be composed of the presidents of the men's dormitories and the IDC representatives elected by the dormitories. The Men's Interdormitory Council shall choose its own officers in the spring to serve until the following spring. The officers of the Interdormitory Council shall have the power to authorize and carry out dormitory elections, and no election shall be valid without their authorization. The Men's Interdormitory Council shall have power to

- make rules affecting conduct of men in dormitories.
- represent dormitory men in dealings with the university.
- promote social activities in the dormitory for the residents.
- provide for continuation and operation of the Council and Court during summer school.

Section 2. Article I, Section 11. Men's Dormitory Executive Committee. The Men's Dormitory Executive Committee shall be composed of the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and IDC representative. The Executive Committee shall have power to make such special rules concerning conduct in the respective men's dormitories as shall not conflict with the rulings of the student Legislature and Men's Interdormitory Council; and each Dormitory Executive Committee shall have power to plan and propose all activities of the respective dormitories.

Section 3. Article II, Section 2, Sub-section F. Men's Interdormitory Council Court. The Men's Interdormitory Council Court shall have original jurisdiction in all cases involving infraction of dormitory rules of conduct as outlined in the by-laws of the Men's Interdormitory Council, and as stipulated on each individual door, and in all cases involving damage to dormitory property.

Section 4. Article II, Section 3, Subsection F. Men's Interdormitory Council Court. The Men's Interdormitory Council Court shall be composed of five members elected by and from the Interdormitory Council in the fall and a chairman and clerk of the Interdormitory Council Court elected by the preceding Men's Interdormitory Council in the spring.

Article II. These amendments upon passage by the student Legislature shall be put to the student body for approval in the next special or regular election authorized by the student Legislature.

GEN. MATTHEW RIDGWAY
...speaks Monday

Ridgway To Speak Monday

General Matthew Ridgway will speak at the first spring program of the Carolina Forum Monday at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Following the speech there will be a reception for the speaker in the GM Lounge. The general will attend the reception and then leave immediately for Washington.

Graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, April 29, 1917, Ridgway has led an illustrious military life. In 1942 he was promoted to brigadier general and in 1951 he became a full general. It was at this time that he was serving as commander-in-chief of the United Nations Command in the Far East. In 1952 he was named Supreme Commander, Allied Powers in Europe, succeeding Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Archibald Henderson's Wife Dies In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, March 25 (AP)—Mrs. Archibald Henderson, wife of George Bernard Shaw's official biographer, died last night at a nursing home here after a long illness.

Her husband retired several years ago as head of the University of North Carolina mathematics department.

The funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Fletcher.

TUESDAY'S THE DAY...

Prexy Candidates Make Last Talks Before Elections

Student body presidential candidates made their last statements yesterday before Tuesday's election.

Candidates Ed McCurry (University Party), Manning Muntzing (Student Party) and Don Fowler (Independent) made statements.

Muntzing Wants Thinking Board

"I should like to see established what I would call a student thinking board, composed of students from every segment of the University," said the Student Party's presidential candidate yesterday.

Manning Muntzing said he proposes such a board due to the fact that the student government of ten acts on matters which are vital to the whole student body

"only when it is too late." He said Saturday classes, new cut system and present possibility of an increase in tuition and dorm rents are examples of matters on which student government has acted too late.

"This board would see that student government is not caught napping, but would look to the

Fowler Outlines Plans

"Every stand that I have taken has been one which I believe in, and one which can, by hard work, be effected in the coming year," said Don Fowler, independent presidential candidate, yesterday.

Fowler said throughout his campaign he has been urged to make promises to many groups on campus which "have ranged from promising the vets a clubhouse to planning the Victory Village Center on the Graham Memorial. All of these I have been forced to refuse."

The presidential aspirant said he did not feel that he could make promises "for the sake of soliciting votes," adding that some of the promises he was asked to make were ones which "no candidate,

McCurry Names 4 Projects

Four "small but practical projects" were enumerated by University Party presidential candidate Ed McCurry yesterday as things which he will do his "best" to obtain for the students.

McCurry said the projects have been brought to his attention while carrying on his campaign by visiting students. He lists them as follows:

(1) "Pavement of the parking area behind Cobb, and painting parking lines there and behind Connor so that parking will be more orderly and thus accommodate at least a few more cars.

(2) "Penel sharpeners in the dorms.

(3) "Making the Planatorium parking area available to students

Homesley Calls For Support

"We've got to have more support for our teams, and I promise to do my utmost to achieve this," said T. C. (Country) Homesley, who is campaigning for a write-in vote as head cheerleader, yesterday.

"I am for more student participation through a greater variety of yells, more comical yells and using gimmicks to arouse interest during tax periods," he added.

According to Howard Fogleman, Homesley's campaign manager, "T. C. for UNC is sweeping the campus on a cheering bandwagon of enthusiasm." He added, "T. C. is going all over the campus and his extraordinary personality is really shining."

Joan Palmer Asks Turnout

Joan Palmer, Student Party nominee for secretary of the student body, yesterday delivered her first statement of the campaign.

"It is my earnest desire," she said, "that each student will acquaint himself with all candidates. In past elections we have fallen low in exercising our democratic right to vote. Records show this to be true."

"I would like to thank those people who have helped me with my campaign," said the SP candidate, "and at the same time urged all students to go to the polls and vote for the candidate of their choice."

the Ballot Box

Presidential hopeful Ed McCurry dropped by yesterday and confirmed something.

Asked if he was going to win on the University Party ticket Tuesday, McCurry said: "I'm still hopeful."

Ballot Boxscore stood like this as of yesterday:

Don Fowler, Independent presidential candidate, has made six statements so far. He has said he is for leaving fraternity affairs to the Interfraternity council; he favors a student Constitution amendment reconstructing the Student Council; wants a "junior partnership" between students and administration; is in favor of a "spirit of unity" between campus political parties. He disagreed with Student Party Candidate Manning Muntzing that a student traffic court should be set up.

On segregation, Candidate Fowler gave (like the other candidates) a very weak statement. He (like the other candidates) had to be asked for a statement concerning the Supreme Court's ruling. "As American citizens," said Fowler, "we must take cognizance of" the fact that "the Supreme Court has abolished segregation." Fowler called for a "great deal of consideration" and asked students to "strive for a solution which will benefit all citizens of North Carolina."

Fowler entered the campaign as an independent March 14. His campaign is being managed by Gordon Forester.

FOUR DAYS UNTIL ELECTION

University Party Candidate Ed McCurry, who became a candidate March 7, has seven statements to his credit.

McCurry wants to give students 25 percent of campus store profits; he wants changes in the cut system; closer liaison between students and student government; a sub-Graham Memorial in the old Vets' Club building; high school student government workshop; closer work with dormitory residents.

Like the other candidates, McCurry had nothing to say on segregation. He admitted it, though.

On March 7, the Student Party named Manning Muntzing its candidate for president. Muntzing chose Sam (Buddy) Wells his campaign manager. Muntzing has seven statements beside his name.

The SP candidate wants a student traffic court; a study day at the ends of semesters (like WC); return on dormitory vending machine profits; he's "aware" of the UNC Band's situation; he doesn't like the high cost of tickets for students dates at athletic events; he has made what he called a statement on segregation—"I hope that the student body and student government will work together to meet the situation"—and he wants weekend social facilities to be extended.

All presidential candidates have lifted items from each other's programs. They have not been ashamed because they lifted items.

They need not be ashamed. None of the items mentioned so far has been controversial enough to worry about.—F. P.

News Of The Week In Review In Pictures

YMCA Picked Its Officers

Gray Ate With Student Leaders

Consolidated University President Gordon Gray ate upstairs in Lenoir Hall with heads of campus organizations. Eating with him, left to right, are Rollie Tillman, head of Orientation Committee; Gray; Tom Creasy, student body president, and Joel Fleishman, Carolina Forum president. President Gray also went to the University of California at Los Angeles yesterday to make a speech.

Brumfield Elected

Lewis Brumfield, formerly running for position of head cheerleader, was elected president of the IDC.

Political Punch Was Served

Politicians got a spot of political punch, served by Independent Women's Council. Affair was a general get-together of folks running for campus offices.
