

Y Confab Set For Weekend

The annual YMCA-YWCA State Conference will be held today through Sunday at Quaker Lake.

The theme for the conference is "Christianity, The Wholeness of Life." Dr. Warren Ashby, professor of philosophy at Woman's College, will be the platform speaker. The platform topics will include "Wholeness In Relation To Personal Life," "Student Activities" and "Entire Temporal Life."

Claude Shotts, general secretary of the University YMCA, will be a resource leader for a study group on "Campus-Community Relations." Bob Hyatt will lead a study group on "Service."

University students who are attending the conference include Eddie Crutchfield, Rube Hines, Hugh Hinton, Bob Hyatt, Ed Hennessee.

Gerry Mayo, Bill Oakley, Roy Taylor, Miss Anna Windley, John Bielefeld, Ken Yang and Graham Rights.

The Quaker Lake Conference will begin with supper at 6 o'clock tonight and will close after lunch on Sunday.

Speeding was the principle violation in the state's 880 fatal motor accidents last year, according to a summary by the Motor Vehicles Department. There were 337 fatal smashes due to "exceeding the stated speed limit."

FOUR CAROLINA COEDS are vying for the title of Miss Chapel Hill at this weekend's Jaycee variety show at the Chapel Hill High School auditorium Friday and Saturday nights. Miss Joan Brown, inset, was not included in the attractive group picture above because it was feared earlier this week that an illness might prevent her from competing. It now appears she will. The beautiful contestants above left to right are Miss Margaret Underwood, Miss Bobbie Lee Moretz and Miss Jerry Lynn Rainwater.

Judge W. H. Bobbitt To Tap At Fleece Tap Ceremonies

Judge William H. Bobbitt of Raleigh will speak at a private banquet following the tapping ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Fleece Monday evening.

The banquet will be given in honor of the men tapped for membership at the ceremonies to be held at 7:15 in Memorial Hall.

Judge Bobbitt is a member of the graduating class of 1921 of the University and is a Fleece member himself. He has served on the University's Board of Trustees and is the present head of the Alumni Association. He has been an Associate Justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court since last year.

The doors of the auditorium will be closed promptly at the beginning of the tapping ceremonies in order to preserve the solemnity of the ritual. The event will be open to the public, and is the only one held by the order during the year.

After the reading of the myth of Jason and his quest for the Golden Fleece, black-robed figures will stalk the darkened auditorium, seeking the men who are to be honored. After the tapping, the Fleece will disclose the names of its officers for the first time during the year.

There is no limit to the number of men who may be tapped since the current roster of Fleece members selects its own successors on the basis of the percentage of men students on campus deemed qualified for membership in the university's highest men's organization.

The list of Fleece members includes O. Max Gardner, J. Ehringhaus, William B. Unruh, all former governors of North Carolina, and Luther Hodges, present governor of the state. Pastors Frank P. Graham, Robert House and Gordon Gray are among the members.

Following the Fleece ceremonies, the annual Valkyrie will be held.

Covering The Campus

Kicked Out

According to a spontaneous ruling by Norwood Bryan, chairman of the Legislature Finance Committee, a reporter for The Daily Tar Heel was bodily removed from a Finance Committee meeting yesterday.

"We are in the middle of voting and we have to be discussing things," Bryan explained.

After David Reid, member of the committee, had been appointed sergeant-at-arms by Bryan and had removed the reporter, Reid explained, "It has been a precedent not to allow a member of an organization that's appropriation is being considered to be present at the committee meetings."

This University" which it respects. "We also realize the responsibility of the Editor to interpret events fairly and accurately to the student body. Regrettably, this responsibility has too often been forgotten," said the report. The committee recommended that the paper take occasional surveys of student opinion concerning the columns run on the editorial page, and that more effort to publish student and faculty writing be made.

"The committee received and verified many instances of inaccurate reporting of campus events, statements of campus leaders and misleading headlines," said the report. "The committee regrets that the true circumstances of the calling of this investigation have never been reported by The Daily Tar Heel." The report added that "irresponsible" statements made by the Speaker and the body (Legislature). It recommended "a determined effort and a constant effort be made to keep the facts straight, statements reported truthfully and that quotes out of context be avoided."

It also recommended that a "continued investigation" be made of The Daily Tar Heel by the Publications Board.

The varsity and freshman basketball teams will conclude spring practice Wednesday night at 7:30 by playing a benefit game sponsored by the Pan-Hellenic Council. The proceeds of the pre-season contest will go to the Foster Parent Plan and to the Chapel Hill Community Center.

The first meeting of the Senior Life Saving course will be held Monday at 4 p.m. in 304 Woollen Gym.

According to Dick Jamerson, professor of physical education, all students interested in taking this course should be present at this meeting. Also, all water safety instructors who wish to assist in teaching this course should be at Monday's meeting.

The monthly motion picture awards selected by the Carolina Film Critics were announced recently by a member of the group. The Bridges of Toko Ri was selected by the group as the best picture.

It's Spring Again!

Birds are yelling their silly little heads off, dogs are barking, bees and butterflies are doing whatever bees and butterflies do in their helpful way. Even old Joe Grouch cracked his iron face to smirk at a charming bit of She back in the old book section yesterday. The doors of the old book barn are wide open to the balmy air, and to tell the truth, we're a bit balmy ourselves as we gift-wrap garden books and love poems, and watch the twosomes browsing. Hot Dog! It's wonderful, pal. Come join the fun.

Jaycees Benefit Show Set Tonight, Saturday

"Cork And Corn Of 1955," the second annual Jaycee minstrel variety show, will open this evening at 8:30 p.m. in the Chapel Hill High School auditorium. The performance will be repeated on Saturday evening, with the crowning of Miss Chapel Hill of 1955 as the climax to the program.

Tickets to the two-hour show are on sale through civic clubs for a dollar or may be purchased at the door. Profits from the affair will go to the Chapel Hill High School band.

William M. Alexander, co-director of the show, said the minstrel would be "in the finest American folklore tradition," featuring a circle of 16 Jaycees with Charlie Stancell, Collier Cobb III, Monk Jennings, and Pokey Alexander as end men.

Perennial favorite routines and songs—such as "Red Hot Henry Brown" and "Death Where Is Thy Sting?"—will be rendered by the performers and a choir from the high school, directed by Milton Bliss, will support the minstrel circle. Among other participants in the minstrel will be a vocal trio from the high school, and a Charleston routine by Kay Proctor and Sharon Sullivan—"The Dancing Jessies." Ed Potter, blind student at the University, will be pianist.

The variety show will be topped by the talent presentations of the four entrants for Miss Chapel Hill—Jona Brown, Bobbie Lee Moretz, Jerry Lynn Rainwater, and Mike Underwood, all Carolina coeds. Miss Brown, who had planned to give an exhibition of modern dance, had to change her talent because of an illness, but will give a dramatic reading, as will Miss Moretz. Miss Rainwater will present an example of her own creative writing and Miss Underwood will play the guitar and accompany herself.

The four will appear both evenings and will be judged by Mrs. Marian Fitz-Simons, Mrs. Kay Kysler, and Norman Cordon. The reigning Miss Chapel Hill, Barbara Ann Stone, will crown her successor at the end of the show on Saturday, and the new queen will represent the community in the state finals of the Miss America Pageant in Wilmington this summer.

Also on the variety show program will be a dance routine by a group of 10 high school girls, directed by Mrs. Barbara Bounds; a novelty dance by Mrs. Bounds and Clint Lindley, and a dance specialty by Anita Kattsoff.

-Report-

port said that a contract calling for door to door delivery to the men's dormitories was found to exist, and that it is "not being fulfilled." Among the recommendations made by the committee concerning the paper's circulation were "that the circulation contract be fulfilled" and that "the Editor-in-Chief should read and be familiar with all contracts.

"The committee found, in open hearing, that many areas in campus life are not being adequately covered," said the report, which stated five "outstanding examples" of the paper's inadequate coverage. The committee recommended "That The Daily Tar Heel work out an arrangement with every department, school, club, organization and dormitory wishing coverage whereby a person responsible to that area is appointed to supply news."

"The committee found that there is definitely a need for a larger staff. This is especially true in the News Department and the Sports Department," said the report. It added that it found "there was NO BASIS for a charge that the attitude of the Managing Editor cut down the size of the staff." It recommended that a "Personnel Coordinator be appointed" to obtain staff members.

The committee reported that concerning the editorial page, that it "realizes that there is a great tradition of editorial freedom at
