LEGISLATIVE ROUNDUP:

After 2 Long Meets, Solons Approved '55-'56 Budget

Yack Cut Along With The DTH

By NEIL BASS

The student Legislature finally got the budget approved.

It took two long, nerve-racking sessions and a false alarm meeting to do it, but the 1955-56 student government budget has been passed.

The false alarm meeting came after Martin Jordan, Legislature speaker, called a special session Friday afternoon to wrap up the budget and complete revamping and cutting; but not enough of the legislators showed up to have a voting quorum. Thus the meeting was put off until Friday night.

Some of the organizations on campus don't like the budget, and some student government organizations have reason to make a joyful sound about it.

The Independent Women's Council and the Debate Council should like the budget because they were allocated more than was anticipated.

The Debate Council got $300 more than it requested so that the "30 members" can all go to different schools and compete for oratorical prizes.

The IWC appropriation was completely deleted from the budget by the Finance Committee; but some "emotion" by Manning Muntzing and a talk by Marilyn Zager, head of the council, got the independent women back all they originally asked for.

YACK EDITOR SALARY CUT

In accordance with a motion by Muntzing, the Yackety - Yack editor's salary was cut $100 from the sum the Finance Committee recommended.

So with the slash in The Daily Tar Heel's allocation and Yack cut, appearance is that the two campus publications got the heaviest blow from the money — cutting axe.

After a suggestion by Graham Memorial's director, Jimmy Wallace, according to Muntzing, the GM appropriation was moved down approximately $1,800. This was made so GM will get 95 per cent of the total estimated real income, the same percentage all student government organizations get.

Scales Trial Re-Opens Tomorrow After Recess

The trial of Junius Scales, accused Communist leader and former UNC student being tried under the Smith Act, will open again tomorrow after a weekend recess.

The schedule for tomorrow's session in Greensboro will include the return of Ralph Clontz Jr., former FBI under cover spy.

In the Friday session Clontz repeated during cross-examination by David Rein, Scales' attorney, his earlier testimony that Prof. Douglas B. Maggs of Duke University Law School offered legal assistance six years ago to Scales.

Junius Scales was believed to have spent yesterday afternoon in Chapel Hill. A man resembling him was seen, in company of three others, in the University Restaurant last night.

The same quartet was seen in Graham Memorial's main lounge yesterday afternoon.

Clontz said he visited the professor in his Duke office during December of 1949, telling Maggs that

Prose Poet To Give Address Wednesday

Anais Nin, prose poet who has been described as "a new voice in feminine writing," will speak here Wednesday in connection with the public showing of three experimental films, one of them based on Miss Nin's work, "The Bells of Atlantis."

The films, which are the creation of Ian Hugo, artist-engraver, emphasizing the use of electronics, will be sponsored by the Departments of Art, English, Music, Physics and Radio-Television-Motion Pictures.

Kenneth Ness, acting Art Department chairman, said Miss Nin will speak at the showing, set for 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in Carroll Hall, on "The Poetic Film."

Joan Brown Wins

Miss Joan Brown, University art major, last night walked away with top honors in the Miss Chapel Hill beauty contest.

Miss Jerry Lynn Rainwater, creative writing major, took the runner-up spot.

Miss Brown, slated to give a modern dance interpretation, injured her leg and was forced to model two of her own dress designs as her part in the talent portion of the contest.

Miss Rainwater gave "Gathering at Chapel Hill High School," a monologue.

Bobbie Lee Moretz, rendering a dramatic reading, and Margaret Underwood, singing a folk song with guitar accompaniment rounded out the competitors for the contest.

NEW SOUND & FURY:

Hailed As Big Improvement

By CHAL SCHLEY

"Satan's Saints," the new Sound and Fury production, is moving into its third week of rehearsals, and it's looking good, according to Miss Bo Bernardin. Miss Bernardin wrote the show and is now its director and one of its principal actresses.

Several rehearsal-watchers who were in no way connected with the production said they thought this new show was a big improvement over previous Sound and Fury musicals.

One watcher liked it because the plot, an original one by Miss Bernardin, "leads somewhere and is funny as hell."

The plot deals with two groups — boys from a boys school and girls from a girls' school — who are about to take a trip into the mountains, with chaperones, of course. The story of what happens to the kids and the chaperones are hired as entertainers in a hotel comprises the plot.

Another watcher liked the music best. The melodies were borrowed from five Broadway shows: Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, The Boy Friend, The Girl in Pink Tights, House of Flowers and Pal Joey. All words have been changed.

Miss Bernardin was asked to comment on any outstanding members of the cast and she said she couldn't. "Every one of 'em's outstanding as far as I'm concerned," she said.

Director Bernardin's enthusiasm for the cast is apparently equalled by the cast's high regard for her. "She's tops," said one actor. "When she graduates, they'll need at least a couple of people to take her place."

On the technical side, the production will include original sets and costumes, designed by Miss Bernardin.

The GMAB Dance Committee will foot the bill for this.

Preregistration

Students should report to 308 South Building between April 18 and April 30 to sign up for preregistration appointments, according to an administration spokesman.

Deadline Tomorrow For Orientation Applicants

Applications for positions as men's orientation counselors must be filled out and turned in to the information office of Graham Memorial or the YMCA by noon tomorrow.

The forms are now available at Graham Memorial, Lenoir Hall and also may be obtained from all dormitory and fraternity presidents.

Interviews of applicants will be held in the Rendezvous Room of GM Tuesday through Friday nights, plus afternoons if need be, according to Burt Veazy, orientation chairman. The applicants will be notified of their interview appointments by campus mail. Interviews will be by appointment only.

Veazy urged that all men students interested in being an orientation counselor fill out applications and turn them in. He said being a counselor "is a gratifying experience and a great service to the University."

TRACK MEET

As of press time late last night, there was no word concerning the Carolina-Maryland track meet scheduled yesterday afternoon in College Park, Maryland.

April 20 Slated As Last Day To Reserve Dormitory Rooms

Students now in school have until April 20 to sign up for rooms for next fall and this summer, according to an announcement from the Housing Office yesterday. Those who wish to stay in their present rooms will have priority.

To reserve a room, a student should go by the University cashier's office, not the Housing Office, said the announcement.

Since summer school comes before the next academic year, summer room assignments will go out first—sometime during May. Fall room assignments will be sent out during June, the announcement said.

Bobbitt To Speak To Initiates

An undisclosed number of campus men will be tapped by the Order of the Golden Fleece tomorrow night at 7:15 in Memorial Hall.

The ceremony will be open to the public, although doors of the auditorium will be closed promptly at 7:15 to preserve the impressive ritual, and will be followed by the annual Valkyrie Sing.

The men who are chosen by the highest men's honorary organization of the University are selected for their leadership, integrity and service. Their names are kept completely secret until the actual tapping.

The officers of the Order for 1954-55 will be revealed for the first time during the ceremony. Following the ceremony, Judge William Bobbitt will speak to the new initiates at a private banquet in the Carolina Inn.

The active members of the 53-year-old organization, which is the second oldest in the nation honoring outstanding campus men, are Herbert Browne, Tom Creasy, Walt Gurley, Russel Jordan, Charles Kuralt.

Jim Lamm, Paul Likins, Jim McIntyre, Roy Moose, Horace Stacy, Jim Wallace, Ed Washington and Bill Wolf.

The Valkyries, the highest women's honorary campus organization, will present the annual sing immediately following the Fleece ceremonies. Fraternities, sororities and dormitories will compete vocally with one another in the event.

Old Legislature Met For Last Time

The "old" student Legislature met for the last time, but it didn't end with a whimper but a bang, passing massive student budget. Spring And Students Came Back To Chapel Hill

The wall in front of Battle Dormitory came back into use, as did the bench behind said wall. The boys from Battle and other Carolina Gentlemen succumbed to the warmth and outblossoming coeds and stretched their legs on said wall. Students came back from spring recess, many of them sunburned. Spring was evidenced by appearance of full cotton dresses, walking shorts and a Russian flag which somehow found its way to the top of Carolina's flagpole.—Henley photo.
