Holsten, Sloan Disagree On What South Building Did In Panty Raid Case

An administrative dean and the local police chief disagreed yesterday on just what part the University administration had in the prosecution of student panty-raiders in Recorder's Court Tuesday.

A statement attributed to Chapel Hill Police Chief W. T. Sloan that "the big men in South Building" decided that nine student panty-raiders had to be tried in civil court was termed "absolutely wrong" by Dean of Student Activities Roy Holsten.

"It is not the policy of the University to interfere with civil action," Dean Holsten told a reporter. "However," he added, "we always ask the police not to make arbitrary arrests in these things."

Local Police Captain William Blake, when questioned about the arrest of the nine, declared yesterday: "In past panty raids, we didn't make any arrests. We used to turn the whole business over to South Building. This time we made arrests. This panty raid business is something that has been continuing for several years. And we realized that a stop must be put to it."

Captain Blake said that police arrested "only the agitators and students who were in front of the crowd making the most noise." He said that with a police force of only 14 to 16 men, it would have been impossible to arrest all offenders. "We arrested those being particularly disorderly," he said.

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS

The conflicting statements between Police Chief Sloan and Dean Holsten arose over a statement by student government leaders Joel Fleishman and Gordon Forester.

According to Forester and Fleishman, Chief Sloan said he would have been "happy" for the nine offenders to be tried in student courts, but South Building officials asked that civil suits be pressed.

Dean Holsten, in answering this charge he called "absolutely wrong," referred to a meeting called at the request of students. This meeting, according to Holsten, included student leaders, Chief Sloan, Captain Blake, Sergeant Coy Durham and Ray Jefferies. Fleishman and Forester were not present, but Manning Munzing, Lewis Brumfield, Don Fowler, Herb Browne and Tom Creasy attended.

"We decided at this meeting," explained Dean Holsten, "that student government would handle the whole affair, but that we would not interfere with what the police had already done."

Forester and Fleishman have charged the administration "intended to bypass the student courts initially in order that the action of the Recorder's Court might deter future panty raids."

Dean Holsten said this was not true, emphasizing that the University has no control over the local civil police.

Fifth Annual Parents Day Set For Sunday

The fifth annual Parents Day will be held next Sunday, sponsored by the University's service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega.

Letters of invitation to students' parents have been sent out by fraternity President John Molter, Charlotte, and Chancellor Robert B. House, encouraging the families of students to see the campus and participate in the day-long activities.

A late afternoon address by President Gordon Gray will climax the day, which will include church services, a picnic lunch, campus tours and a faculty reception.

The University Band, directed by Earl Slocum, will give a concert on the lawn near Davie Poplar following President Gray's talk at 4:30.

Special shows and exhibits are being arranged for the early afternoon by the Morehead Planetarium, as well as by the science and art departments.

A number of professors, instructors and members of the University administration will meet the parents at the reception in Graham Memorial from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

In case of rain President Gray's address and the band concert will be held in Hill Hall, Molter said.

WAYS & MEANS PARES DOWN LEGISLATION:

UP-Run Legislature Starts Work Tonight

By NEIL BASS

The 19th UNC legislative assembly will decide on a number of measures for the first time tonight.

Last week, at the first meeting, five resolutions and two bills were introduced before the Legislature.

Tonight, the first sample of what the 29-21 University Party plurality plans to do for the students will come out as part of the measures are voted on.

Of the total seven measures that were put before the Legislature last week, only two will be considered tonight.

The reason that most of the measures will not be voted upon tonight lies in the Ways and Means Committee.

One of the resolutions, however, was decided on last week. The Legislature suspended the rules to pass it.

OUT-OF-STATE HIKE?

The idea the Legislature was so eager to pass, even to the point of kicking aside usual parliamentary procedure, was a resolution opposing the proposed hike in out-of-state student tuitions.

The state Legislature is contemplating taking part of its subsidy — to the tune of $140 — away from students who cross state borders to get their education at Carolina.

Sound & Fury Production Starts Two-Day Run Tonight

"Satan's Saints," the Sound and Fury production for which the cast and technical staff have been working steadily for the past three weeks, will have its first showing tonight.

Tickets for the show, which will begin at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow in Memorial Hall, may be purchased for 50 cents. Seniors will be admitted free tonight. They may obtain their tickets in Y-Court. Others may obtain tickets for either production in Y-Court, Kemp's, Town and Campus and the Graham Memorial information desk.

The cast of the production includes many of the students who appeared in Sound and Fury's first presentation earlier during the school year. These are Misses Bo Bernardin, Ulysses Lancaster, Patti Andrews, Jane Edwards and Blynn Durning.

Some of the student talent to be presented for the first time in "Satan's Saints" includes Bill Hayes, David Reed, John Devogt, Tom Gill, Miss Frances Bennett, Bob Hichs, Sue Fryer, Jim Sims, Milton Cooke, Elizabeth Huckabee, John Steed and Gary Nichols. Lewis Brumfield, Geri Turner and Johnnie McClaren are "the main laugh-getters in the show," according to a Sound and Fury spokesman.

Among the musical numbers are "Two Ladies in the Shade of the Banna Tree" and "Won't You Charleston With Me?"

Emerson Stadium—Parking?

Phi Suggests Auto Solution

By PAT MCBANE

A bill suggesting an appropriate solution to the student-owned car dilemma was passed by the Philanthropic Literary Society at its regular weekly assembly Tuesday night in Phi Hall.

The bill stated, "We feel that officials of the University will welcome and seriously consider suggestions of the students as to feasible programs for the enactment of the car regulations."

Article II provided for the conversion of Emerson Stadium into a parking lot reserved for cars belonging to the faculty and University employees. Proponents of the measure explained that when the new Student Union would be built, there would be even more need for a parking lot in this location.

The bill further explained that the baseball field would be moved to Navy Field.

Article III provided for the setting aside of the space beside South Building and a section from the Memorial Hall parking lot for cars belonging to administration and personnel having offices in South Building. Spaces within lots nearest their respective classes would be reserved for the physically handicapped.

All other parking areas on campus would be open for student parking.

The bill also suggested that Chapel Hill police place a parking limit on Fraternity Row, since two lots near the fraternities would be available to the students. This measure was brought forth in answer to complaints of Chapel Hillians."

Speaking for the bill were Representative Matthews, who introduced the bill from the Ways and Means Committee, and Reps. Clay and Duval. Negative speakers included Reps. Downing and Glass. Speaker Frank Warren announced that the Phi will hold elections for fall semester officers at its meeting next week. All prospective members and guests are urged to attend.

The Phi meets on Tuesday nights at 8 o'clock on the fourth floor of New East.

Manners, Rectitude, Duty & Faith Help

By ED YODER

The annual Leadership Training Program ended last night with a banquet address by President Gordon Gray of the Consolidated University.

President Gray, introduced by Chancellor Robert House, spoke on leadership and outlined a four-point program for leaders, including:

- (1) Good manners.
- (2) Devotion to duty.
- (3) Rectitude.
- (4) Faith.

"Good manners," President Gray said, "are essential to smooth and successful functioning of the society . . . or school. It can be demonstrated that all law is society's demand for expression of good manners."

Good manners, he emphasized "are the sum total of respect for others . . . the insistence on individual rights, tolerance, firmness, courage, stability and dependability." He admonished the student leaders to develop good manners in their work.

Devotion to duty, "a continuous follow-through," the President said, moving to the second of his four points, makes the difference between fine and mediocre leadership.

Rectitude is another demand in good leadership, he told the hallful of student leaders, faculty members and administrative officials. "Its pursuit is sometimes a very lonely objective," he said, but in his own personal experience in public service he most regrets "those times when I have failed to embrace rectitude due to various pressures."

Faith, his final demand, is required, he concluded, to implement the other qualities. He spoke of "faith in fellow man, in our country and its institutions, in the future and in oneself." The great faith, he said, is faith in God and "the hardest choice. But it is better to reject God than to make no choice at all . . . God requires choice, the essence of freedom."

Earlier in the program, Chairman Marilyn Zager extended welcome and Student Body President Don Fowler introduced the officers of student government and activities for the coming year.

A choral group from St. Anthony Hall, winner of the Valkyrie Sing in the fraternity division, and Chancellor House on his famous harmonica provided music for the banquet. Chancellor House played "Turkey In The Straw" and "Stairway To Heaven."

Frosh Camp Training Meet Sessions End

The second and last training session for next year's Freshman Camp counselors will be held tonight at 7 o'clock on the second floor of Phillips Hall Annex.

Mrs. Ida Friday will be the instructor.

Joe Clapp, publicity chairman, said a camp director will probably be selected tonight. He added that it is imperative that all prospective counselors be present regardless of whether or not they have attended the previous session.

Anyone interested in helping with the planning or in being a counselor may either attend the meeting tonight or contact John Riebel at the YMCA, said Clapp.

He said that, although the planning for the camp is in full swing, there is still time for anyone who wishes to work on the camp planning to do so.

Brumfield Starts Off Meetings

By PEGGY WARD

Lewis Brumfield opened the second session of the Leadership Training Program yesterday afternoon with a one-man meeting of the Amphotothen Society in which he acted as chairman, secretary and members.

The Interdormitory Council president demonstrated procedures and rules for conducting a business meeting of almost any organization or group.

Miss Marilyn Zager, chairman of the Leadership Training Program, introduced Tom Creasy, outgoing president of student government, who in turn introduced student government officers and leaders of various campus organizations for the coming year. Creasy explained the part that each organization and leader fits into the whole of the campus.

The meeting then divided according to the jobs to be performed by its members next year and discussed the differences between a leader and a pseudo-leader.

In discussion, the members in one group pointed out that the person's worth and ability in relation to others is illustrated by leaders who are equal to others in the group and who show consideration for the group, but pseudo-leaders feel inferior and must have constant proof of worth through power and prestige.

Leaders enjoy sense of communion and common feelings in a group and feel at ease, but a pseudo-leader has a constant need for attracting attention, said the group. A true leader feels that a large group is capable of governing themselves and has faith in the large group. A pseudo-leader feels that "the masses will be duped by someone, so why not me?" they said.

The leader has to show enthusiasm herself and should keep the group informed of what is going on, they decided, adding that leaders should be careful to present facts and not try to push over their own ideas, and that the tendency to try to influence the group should be curbed.

The pseudo-leader tends to choose the fellow workers who are weak and can be easily dominated and pushed around. Delegation of work is the main duty of a leader so the feeling that to have the job well done he must do it himself, must be avoided, said the group members.

Spring Carnival Plans To Be Discussed Tonight

The annual Spring Carnival will be the main item under consideration tonight at the University Club meeting at 7:30 in Roland Parker 2.

Everyone interested in entering a booth in the carnival, which is to be held May 13, is urged to send a representative to tonight's meeting, according to Joe Clapp, vice-president of the University Club.

Anyone who wishes to obtain an application for a carnival booth may get one by contacting Miss Annette Niven in 211 Smith.
