Draft Test Set Here On May 19

Qualification Test For Those Unable To Take Earlier

A Selective Service College Qualification test will be given May 19 for men who were unable to take the regularly scheduled tests in December and April. Anyone wishing to take the test should apply to the Selective Service Board at 302 Morris Street in Durham anytime Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Applications postmarked later than May 9 will not be accepted, according to an announcement yesterday.

A score of 70 on the test makes an undergraduate student eligible for deferment.

Students entering medical and dental schools must be in the upper 50 percent of their classes in the last year prior to entering those schools, or make a score of 70 on the Selective Service test. Students may secure deferment for graduate study if they are in the upper 25 percent of their classes in their last year prior to entering Graduate School, or make a score of 80 on the test.

Panty Raid At ECC Foiled

GREENVILLE, April 29 (P)—Three East Carolina College male students pleaded guilty in Recorder's Court today to charges growing out of panty raids on the college campus last night. The defendants were Robert Taylor, 19, of Selma, charged with disorderly conduct; William K. Curry, 23, of Southern Pines, and Milford P. Hill, 20, of Chocowinity, both charged with forcible trespass.

Prayer for judgement was continued for all three until next Wednesday upon payment of court costs. Meanwhile, the college's discipline committee was expected to act in the three cases. The first of last night's panty raids, joined in by visiting Guilford College baseball players, was aimed about 10 o'clock at Cotten Hall, a dormitory for freshman girls. A campus policeman arrested two of the attackers and when a crowd of several hundred gathered the officer drew his pistol and the whole crowd, including the two arrested, fled.

After midnight a crowd appeared at Slay Hall, for upperclasswomen, and there the three were arrested.

ANNUAL JUNE CRAIG GRAY

Award Monday

The Jane Craig Gray award presented by Kappa Delta sorority to the outstanding woman of the junior class will be presented Monday at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The award, which is an annual presentation, is given in memory of the late wife of Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University. Mrs. Gray was initiated as an alumna in 1950. The presentation will be given to the coed in the junior class best exemplifying scholarship, leadership and character. Last year's winner was Miss Carol Webster.

The selection committee is composed of Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael, Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs Ray Jefferies, retiring president of the student body Tom Creasy, retiring chairman of Women's Orientation Miss Luanne Thornton, retiring chairman of the Women's Honor Council Nancy Whisnant, and Miss Webster.

Presiding will be Miss Martha May, president of Kappa Delta, and Miss Babbie Dilorio, retiring president.

Mediaevalists Should Come To Earth—Keeny

Humanists in general and Mediaevalists in particular should come out of their ivory tower and present their case in an intelligent and intelligible way to the public, Brown University Dean Barnaby C. Keeny said in an address last night before the Mediaeval Academy, meeting here this weekend.

Dean Keeny, a UNC graduate of the Class of 1936, spoke at the Academy's annual dinner in the Carolina Inn.

The gathering, the 30th annual, is the first meeting of the Mediaeval Academy to be held in the South. Around 100 scholars from all parts of the nation are attending the sessions, which will continue through noon today.

Among those presenting papers yesterday afternoon were Prof. W. Thomas Marrocco, UCLA, on "The Enigma of the Canzone," Prof. Stephan Kuttner, Catholic University of America, on methodological problems of canon law, and Prof.

Harry Caplan, Cornell University, a mediaeval commentary on "The torica and Herennium."

Speakers at the Saturday session in Carroll Hall will be Prof. George L. Haskins, University of Pennsylvania, and Prof. Kemp Malone, Johns Hopkins University. A buffet luncheon for members and guests in Morehead Building Dining Room will conclude the meeting.

Speaking as a mediaevalist-turned-administrator, Dean Keeny suggested that the humanists "stop driving the students away, and stop seeking the painful martyrdom of starvation." If they cannot present their case to the public, he said, they should "stop talking about the plight of the humanities."

Decision Due Today On Junius Scales' Appeal

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Apr. 29 (P)—Federal Judge Armistead Dobie said today he will make a decision by late tomorrow whether an appeal bond will be set for Junius Scales, convicted Communist party leader in the Carolinas.

Judge Dobie heard arguments for three hours here this afternoon from David Rein, Washington attorney who represented Scales, and government attorney Edwin M. Stanley and Bernard B. McCusky.

Theta Chi's Announce 'Ugly Man' Competition

Theta Chi social fraternity will try again this year to determine which man on campus has the distinction of being the ugliest.

The "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest, held annually in connection with the University Club's Spring Carnival, is now open for contestants. Photographs of the entrants must be turned in to Fred West at the Theta Chi house by May 9, announced a fraternity spokesman yesterday.

Each organization on campus may sponsor no more than three men for competition. Individual entries are also permissible. There is no entry fee, and make up may be used on the contestant for the photograph.

The contest winner will be determined in a penny-a-vote contest in Y-Court the week of May 9 through 14. The winner will be announced at the carnival May 13.

Prizes will include one case of beer from Fowler's Food Store, two cartons of cigarettes from Andrews-Riggsbee, one carton of cigarettes from the A & P, records from the Sport Shop, five lubrication jobs from Bill Alban's Esso Station, $2 gift certificate from Knight and Campbell Hardware, two passes to the Carolina Theatre, a free meal for the winner and his date at Danziger's, a box of shaving lotion and men's cologne from Sloan's Drug Store, a loving cup and a special surprise gift, according to the spokesman.

WRC Officers Named

New officers of the Women's Residence Council were announced yesterday by Miss Sue Fink, who was elected president in spring elections.

Miss Jeannine Thompson, Mooresville, was named vice-president; Misses Anne Lassiter, Wilmington, and Ann Barwick, Clinton, will serve as secretary and treasurer respectively for the next year.

Committee Chairman Announced

Bob Young, Vic Sydnor and Miss Anne Wrenn have been chosen as president, vice-president and secretary respectively of the 1955-56 Graham Memorial Activities Board.

Young is a rising junior from Asheville. Sydnor, a rising junior, is from Durham. Miss Wrenn, a rising senior, is from Greensboro.

"We of the new Activities Board for 1955-56 feel that we have both an obligation and an opportunity during the coming year," said Young yesterday. The new GMAB president said the board members feel their obligation to themselves is "to continue and expand the growing work of the Activities Board." He added that they feel they have an "opportunity to give our services to the entire student body." Young said that GMAB work will be extended to any "part of the campus where we feel that we are needed and can be of service."

"Our philosophy for the coming year will be 'little things done are better than big things planned,' and our program will be for all students," said Young. "We have the passion for sacrifice. With these three P's we feel our program will not fail," he concluded. The new officers have recently completed interviews for new committee chairmen. They have submitted the names of their choices to the Board of Directors for approval.

Miss Laura Ervin, junior from Morganton, Polls Committee; Miss

Committee Offers Proposals For UNC's Honor System

By FRED POWLEDGE

A president's committee investigating possible improvements in UNC's Honor System yesterday released a three-point recommendation aimed at making the system run smoother and improve its effectiveness.

The committee, appointed by former student body President Tom Creasy, spent two months on its report and came out with three main groupings of suggestions for improvement:

(1) Reminders during and after all orientation.

(2) Mechanics within the Honor System and

(3) Rehabilitation.

Scotty Hester chaired the committee. Other members included Walt Joyner, Miss Kendrick Townsend, Ogburn Yates, Charlie Kattenstein, Luther Hodges Jr. and Bill Calvert. Yates was elected chairman of the Men's Honor Council this week.

The committee recommended an informative manual on judicial procedures, orientation of faculty members to University Honor System, more thorough judicial orientation in the fall, printing of the Campus Code and Honor Code on identification cards, clarification of faculty policy during quizzes and appointment of the Attorney General to position of prosecuting attorney in Honor Council trials.

Hester's group reported rehabilitation "is now being handled in an effective manner for the most part," that the five penalties now in use are "satisfactory for most cases" and that "since there were so few rules for the women already," most coed cases "should still go to the Women's Council."

The committee suggested spring meetings of "a group composed of the chairmen of each court" to "evaluate the progress and effectiveness of the year's work."

REMINDERS

Under the topic of "Reminders," the committee proposed a manual "prepared for all members of the various courts" which would include "all portions of the student Constitution relating to the judicial branch of student government," newly-passed Constitution amendments and "other such pertinent information relative to judicial bodies . . . to define precedents and general court procedure."

"The bylaws of the various courts could also be included so that courts like the Men's and Women's Councils could be more familiar with the workings of the courts," said the report. "The Student Council would have a complete list of all the bylaws of the lower courts in case a problem arose concerning practices not specifically enumerated in the Constitution."

The committee recommended that council members visit new faculty members to explain workings of Carolina's Honor System, that "the heads of various departments should orient their professors and instructors" and that current faculty members should be refreshed in Honor System procedures.

ORIENTATION

Fall orientation was a major consideration of the investigating committee. Hester's group recommended "comprehensive tests" on honor procedure for orientation counselors, a written test and greater explanation of plagiarism and of methods of running for Honor Council seats, and extension of the present Honor Code pledge to read "I have neither given nor received any aid on this quiz, and I have not seen anyone else violate the Honor Code."

The committee proposed that

Campus and Honor Codes be printed on backs of identification cards in order to "help to remind us that we are expected to live by this, the Carolina Way of Life."

The committee urged professors and instructors to "respect the honesty of their students by leaving the classroom during quizzes as is recommended by the Honor System policy."

"Should the instructor feel that his presence is necessary in order to answer questions about the quiz," the report said, "he may use his discretion, but he should mention his policy to his students at the beginning of each course and just before the first quiz for those who missed the briefing in the rush of 'Drop-Add.'"

Hester's group recommended that signs, stating "Your Honor Is Our System," "It Does Make a Difference — Our Honor System" and "It's Your Honor System — Keep It," might be "useful in helping a normally honest person who was on the verge of cheating remember that honesty is the expected code of behavior at Carolina and that it's far better to even fail an exam than to cheat."

MECHANICS

Under the topic of "Mechanics," the committee recommended that student government Attorney General serve as prosecuting attorney in Honor Council cases, if "a person outside the pertinent council could represent the accused as defense attorney."

It was concluded that if someone other than a council member served in this capacity for a defendant, it would be necessary to have someone outside the court as a prosecuting attorney," the committee found.

Other mechanical recommendations included the proposal that "before a person goes on trial, we feel that he should not only be informed of all his constitutional rights, but also given a written copy of all these rights as well as all other information in the Constitution concerned with the Honor System. Offenders should understand in particular the new grounds for appeal to the Student Council," said the report.

REHABILITATION

The committee reported that the current plan of rehabilitation "is now being handled in an effective manner." Rehabilitation the committee said, now requires that "when a person comes back after being suspended from school, he is put on probation for a period of at least one semester, during which time he may not represent the University in any way."

"During this period," the report said, "no one council member necessarily visits this student who is trying to clear his record again. We feel that this is good, because otherwise a student would feel that the council was spying on him." The committee suggested that a council member "should serve, as requested by the student, as his connecting link with the council and he prepared to answer questions and help him readjust in every way possible."

"Intermediate penalties" were discussed by the group, "but it was generally felt that the five penalties in use now are satisfactory for most cases." The committee listed current penalties as unofficial reprimand, official reprimand, probation, suspension and suspension with recommendation that the convicted student "never be allowed to re-enter the University."
