Covering The Campus

'Big Story'

Sam Hood, UNC journalism alumnus and native of Raleigh, will be featured on a nationwide "Big Story" program over an 89-station television hook-up tonight at 8 o'clock.

The "Big Story" for which Hood has received the $500 Pall Mall journalism award, is from the pages of The Pittsburgh Press, where Hood has been a reporter since 1945. The program may be received over WTVD, Durham.

Class rings will be on sale in Y court from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Monday. This will be the last opportunity for students to order rings this year.

Jim Exum, new Grail class ring chairman, can be contacted at the Sigma Nu house for information about ordering rings.

Frank Porter Graham Chapter of Future Teachers of America will hold its final meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the library of Peabody Hall.

The Cosmopolitan Club will join the Duke International Club on a picnic Sunday. There will be group singing and swimming.

Participants should sign up in the YMCA office and pay 50 cents today. The group will leave from Y court at 2:15 p.m. Sunday.

There will be a discussion on "Integration in the Local School System" tonight at 8 o'clock at Watts Street Baptist Church in Durham. The meeting is sponsored by the Intercollegiate Fellowship and will be open to the public.

There will be a training session of all men counselors Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Carroll Hall Auditorium.

All students interested in working with the Orientation Committee should go to the student government office, second floor of GM, any weekday afternoon.

NORTH CAROLINA'S ORCHESTRA:

Symphony Plays Tonight

Tosky Spivakovsky, Russian violinist who has appeared as guest artist with many American orchestras, will be soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra when it appears in concert at Memorial Hall tonight at 8:30.

Spivakovsky has played his 1721 Stradivarius in all 48 states, Canada, South America, Europe, the Middle East and Hawaii, and in less than a decade has established himself as "among the choicest violinists before the public today," according to The New York Times.

He first attracted attention in this country when he was guest artist with the Cleveland and Pittsburgh symphony orchestras in 1943.

A native of southern Russia, Spivakovsky was taken to Berlin before he was two years old. At the age of 10 he made his concert debut and grew to musical maturity in Berlin between the two world wars. Just before the outbreak of World War II, Spivakovsky went to Australia on a concert tour. He never returned to Germany. The violinist now makes his home in Connecticut.

For his solo with the North Carolina Symphony, Spivakovsky will play Sibelius' "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 47."

Student membership in the North Carolina Symphony Society for $1, which entitles holders to attend the concert, will be available.

Les Brown & Bob Hope—Brown's Coming Here Tomorrow

Bandleader Les Brown (right) is shown above with comedian Bob Hope. Brown's band has played for many years with Hope's radio show. The popular bandmaster will bring his aggregation here tomorrow for a concert and dance, both sponsored by the Carolina Germans Club. Concert is slated for 4 p.m. in Memorial Hall, and dance will be held in Woollen Gym Saturday night.

To Complete Book

Dr. George L. Simpson Jr., UNC sociologist, has been granted a Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship which will enable him to complete a book started by the late Dr. Howard W. Odum, for many years head of the UNC Sociology Department.

Holder of three degrees from UNC, Dr. Simpson is associate professor of sociology and research associate in the Institute for Research in Social Science.

Two Junior Recitals Scheduled For Sunday

Junior recitals by two students in the UNC Music Dept. have been scheduled for Sunday in Hill Hall at 4:30 p.m.

Miss Nancy Eversman, pianist from Flat Rock, and Miss Beatrice Allston, soprano from Miami, Fla., will present the recitals, a traditional event for junior-year music majors.

Miss Eversman, student of Dr. W. S. Newman, will play prelude and Fugue in F from Bach's Well-

Tempered Clavier; Sonata, op. 47, no. 2 by Clementi; the first movement from Shumann's Concerto in A Minor with Byron Freeman, Raleigh, playing the orchestral part at the second piano.

Miss Allston, student of Prof. Joel Carter, will sing a group of songs in Italian by Monteverdi and Handel; German Lieder by Schubert and Schumann; works by Gretchaninoff and Rachmaninoff.

Pianist Eversman transferred to the University in September from St. Mary's College in Raleigh. She studied piano with Mary Ruth Haig, and gave a recital at St. Mary's last year. She was an accompanist for the Glee Club, sang in the choir, and was assistant organist in the chapel.

For the past five summers she has been organist at St. John's Episcopal Church in Flat Rock. Here at the University, Miss Eversman studies organ, viola and is accompanist for the Women's Glee Club.

Legislature Passes Measure To Permit Students Reading Day Prior To Examinations

Complete Approval Accorded

By NEIL BASS

The student Legislature last night passed a resolution calling for the "establishment of a reading day prior to final examinations."

The one day break, if the administration gives it the go sign, will be taken from the period allotted to the actual taking of examinations.

The resolution, introduced by the Student Party, was run through without opposition.

The legislature also passed:

- 1) A bill giving the student body president power to appoint a committee to select a student government executive secretary, and;

- 2) A resolution making it mandatory for a legal authority to review all student government contracts of over $100 before they are approved.

"BLOW TO ROMANCE?"

"I am not trying to deal a death blow to romance," Jack Hudson (SP) said about a measure he wanted passed. The resolution in question concerned the lighting of a path from the nurse's dormitory to the University Library.

"I have heard rumor that some of the nurses didn't want it lighted," he continued. Hudson insisted, however, that the path should be illuminated for the safety of the nurses using it.

"Nurses should be discouraged from using the path," Jim Exum, University Party, said in opposition to the resolution. He brought out the point that the nurses were not supposed to use the path anyway.

In spite of a strong argument by Hudson that the nurses could travel in pairs for safety, if they used the path, and that those who were opposed to the lighting could detour from the regular lane of travel if they desired less light, the resolution was tabled temporarily.

Debate Tomorrow

RALIEGH, May 6 (AP) — The Senate today considered beginning debate on the 640 million dollar appropriations bill passed by the House yesterday. It later decided to carry the money measure over until tomorrow.

Mark Antony

Donald Treat, above, will play Mark Antony in the Carolina Playmakers outdoor production of Julius Caesar, which opens tonight for a three-day run. Treat, a graduate student in the Dept. of Dramatic Art, is assistant technical director of the Playmakers. Productions are slated for 8:30 each night. No seats will be reserved, and rained-out performances will be re-scheduled.

Purks Speaks On Degree Requirements

Dr. J. Harris Purks, UNS provost, this week told faculty members that one of the most important and respected responsibilities of the faculty is the establishment of requirements for degrees, which should not be left to students.

Addressing the weekly Faculty Club Luncheon, the University provost explained that persons are permitted to register at the University should be willing to become students, "which in turn, means that the student should be willing to study."

"Having made a move toward the restoration of study to its place in the sun, it seems to me that we are obligated to provide students with places where study is possible, and with dedicated teachers who will assist the student in the learning process," the educator added, "by exposition, by explanation, by appraisal, by the requirement of attempts to solve problems and, if necessary, by drill."

'Miss Modern Venus' Will Highlight Derby

The selection of "Miss Modern Venus" for 1955 will highlight the 11th annual Sigma Chi Derby to be held here this afternoon.

The beauty competition among some 30 coeds for the "Miss Venus" title will climax the afternoon celebration.

The yearly event, known as the "Battle of the Coeds," will begin with a parade at 2 p.m. The parade will form on East Franklin St. in front of Spencer Dormitory and will go through the business district and the campus.

The Derby will feature competition between representatives of campus women's groups, sororities, residence halls and the Nurses' Dormitory.

Heading Derby arrangements for sponsoring Sigma Chi fraternity are Hosca E. Wilson and Mickey Chamblee.

After the parade contestants will meet in Kenan Stadium for the Grand National Relay Race, a pie-throwing contest called "Hit the Geek," original skits, and a number of secret events, Chamblee said.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners of each event, as well as to the winning group.

The Chapel Hill Merchants Association has donated some 50 door prizes, which will be distributed during the Derby program.

Ex-Student Arrested On Forgery Complaint

By JACKIE GOODMAN

Charles Herman Caudle, ex-freshman in the School of Pharmacy here, was put under arrest by the Chapel Hill Police yesterday and has been charged with forgery.

According to Police Capt. W. D. Blake, Caudle, who is from Peachland, has been charged with cashing four forged checks at the Bank of Chapel Hill. The checks were made out in the amounts of $25, $35, $45 and $50, said Captain Blake. He added that Caudle attempted to cash another forged check for $50 Wednesday morning.

The police captain said Caudle had signed fictitious names to the checks and had given local addresses, such as Cobb and Mangum. He said a preliminary investigation has not turned up any checks forged by Caudle on other banks here.

Caudle was released yesterday on $300 bail, according to Blake. He said bond was posted by two brothers of the student.

Caudle will probably be tried Tuesday in Recorder's Court, according to Blake.

APO Initiates 13

Alpha Phi Omega, Carolina's service fraternity, yesterday announced 13 new pledges.

Spring pledges, according to APO President John Molter, are John Bridger, Thomas Bolkan, Clayton Eubanks Jr., Franklin Farmer, Thomas Gable.

Fred Ginn, Ulysses Daughtridge, Milton Barden, Richard Phillips, William Jones.

Billy Oakley, George Bryce and Ben Williams. Eight of the pledges are freshmen, said Molter, two are sophomores and three are juniors.

Stogner Elected Chief

Miss Martha Carolyn Stogner, junior from Charlotte, has been elected president of the Independent Women's Council for the year 1955-56.

All women students who are not affiliated with a sorority are members of the Independent Women's Council. Purpose of the organization is to promote active dormitory programs, stimulate interest in extra-curricular activities, further scholarship and promote cooperation between independent and sorority women.

Other officers of the council are Miss Ellen Brauer, vice-president, and Miss Barbara Bright, secretary-treasurer, both of Chapel Hill.

In addition to being vice-president of the Independent Women's Council this year, Miss Stogner was active in YWCA work, Future Teachers of America, and was a majorette for the University Band. She is one of six members of the Women's Leadership Council, and will be responsible for planning and directing one day of orientation for women students next fall.

Miss Stogner is a junior in the School of Education, having transferred from Charlotte College where she held several offices and made the dean's list for six quarters.
