Thirteen Student Leaders Ask Trustees To Consider Seriously Admitting Negroes

By FRED POWLEDGE

Over a dozen student leaders yesterday came to the aid of three Negro students who want to enter the University as undergraduates.

The leaders, among them YMCA and YWCA presidents and a former and present editors of The Daily Tar Heel, asked the Board of Trustees to give the three students "their most earnest consideration" and asked them to "approve if at all possible the admission of these students."

The three Negroes, all from Durham, are being backed in their plans to enter UNC by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Attorney C. O. Pearson, Durham lawyer, is legal counsel for the students and the NAACP.

The students have been turned down by the University Admissions Office. Pearson has said he plans to take his case to Consolidated University President Gordon Gray "sometime next week." If the administration does not allow the students to enter, said Pearson, he will take the case to the trustees. If trustees refuse, he said, he will seek a federal court order.

University policy is to allow Negroes in graduate or professional school when the state does not provide such schools for Negroes.

Signers of the statement released yesterday said they "believe that admission of Negroes at the present time will serve the best educational interests of both races, and will set a precedent for the rest of the state and the South as a whole."

The statement termed the school's decision "one of the most momentous decisions in the history of the University. That decision, whether or not to admit qualified Negro students to the undergraduate schools next fall, will not be an easy one to make; and the results of a decision either way will be far-reaching."

Integration, said the statement, will sooner or later "become a reality," and it "can become one now at the college level."

"The University of North Carolina," said the statement, "if it accepts this challenge to leadership, has an opportunity to preserve and make clear its position as a great liberal institution. Therefore, we urge the Board of Trustees and the administration to give this matter their most earnest consideration; and in the light of the Supreme Court decision, the tradition of the University and the implications of the Christian faith, to approve if at all possible the admission of these students. The ideal of human equality and freedom of association is one that can no longer be relegated to some future time."

The statement was agreed to by Owen Norment, Asheville, this week recognized for service to the University YMCA; Bob Hyatt, Cherokee, outgoing YMCA president; Bill Lefquist, Asheville, also recognized for service; Charles Kuralt, Charlotte, this year's editor of The Daily Tar Heel; Chal Schley, Eccleston, Md., National Student Assn. Coordinator; Bob Young, Asheville, new president of Graham Memorial Activities Board; Don Geiger, Tampa, Fla., unsuccessful candidate for this year's student body presidency and this year's chairman of the Student Party; Graham Rights, Winston-Salem, incoming president of the University YMCA; Miss Sally Folger, incoming YWCA president;

Ed Yoder, Mehane, and Louis Kraar, Charlotte, present editors of The Daily Tar Heel; Miss Ruth Jones, Charlotte, this year's chairman of the Women's Residence Council, and Martin Jordan, Concord, this year's student body vice-president.

Legislature May Get Negro Bill

A highly informed but unnamed source yesterday said a resolution will be introduced in student Legislature calling for administration and trustee help in admitting three Negro undergraduates to the University next fall.

The source, himself a member of student government, said a petition, signed by 15 student legislators, has been presented for the purpose of holding a special session sometime during the coming week. Original purpose of the special session, said the source, was to consider money legislation left over from this week's meeting.

But, said the source, a resolution is in the process of being drafted. It would, according to the source, ask student government leaders to help the three students, all graduating seniors at a Durham high school. Speaker pro-tem Jim Monteith, questioned yesterday, said a petition for a special session had been signed and given to him.

Other officers elected by the group are David Ashford, Scotland Neck, senior warden; Sam Penege, Monroe, junior warden; Bill Horner, Burlington, scribe; Nelson Benyunes, Danville, Va., chancellor; Larry Hinson, Monroe, historian, and Lonnie Sides, Charlotte, treasurer.

Want A Ride, Buddy? Call Graham Memorial

Graham Memorial is now offering a "ride-home service" for all students who wish to find rides home at the end of the semester and for all students who have cars and are able to offer rides to other students, according to a GM spokesman.

The service will require two-way cooperation between car owners and riders, with the Graham Memorial information office acting as a "middleman," said the spokesman.

He explained the setup as follows. A car owner who desires to carry riders should call the information office (5611) and give information concerning when he plans to leave, his destination, how many riders he is willing to carry and the cost to each rider. A student who desires a ride should call the office and ask for information concerning any available rides. GM will tell him the name and phone number of a driver who is going his way.

Both events will be presented in the Morehead Planetarium Faculty Lounge and will be open to the public without charge.

Some Were Confused On Vote Meaning

Apparently there was some confusion among the 1,183 voters in this week's referendum on the proposed hike in student fees.

According to some ballots which were found lying in the office of The Daily Tar Heel yesterday, the voters could not understand the ballots.

Here are some of the remarks which were written on the ballots: "You 'verbos' politicians, how can I understand you?" On the same ballot the confused voter had written, "Which way do I vote to leave things as they are?"

Another befuddled voter gave up in his attempt to check the ballot "for" or "against" and wrote, "I do not want fees raised—you figure out how I should check."

A third voter who was also apparently confused remarked on his ballot that the phrasing of the changes was "very poor" and added that such phrasing "is perhaps clearly meant to pull wool over the student body's eyes!"

Patterson Wins Grant In Religion

Bobby Joe Patterson, senior from Amarillo, Tex., has been awarded a Danforth Foundation Fellowship for next year, according to an announcement by Dr. Bernard Boyd, chairman of the Religion Dept.

The Danforth Fellowships are given to outstanding academic ability who plan to prepare themselves for college teaching and who evidence a broad, deep religious faith in their sectors of Christian tradition. The amount of such a fellowship depends upon the needs of the student and the fellowship is renewable until the holder shall have completed his formal training.

Coed 'Responsibility'

The Women's Honor Council in a statement yesterday called the attention of every woman student to "her responsibility to uphold the Campus Code."

"Behavior such as that which was reported during the recent raid on women's dormitories—yelling from dorm windows, etc.—is definitely regarded as 'unladylike behavior,'" said the statement, added that similar behavior will be considered a failure to "adhere to the Campus Code, and violators will be dealt with accordingly" in the future.

Forum Plans 'Bipartisan' For 1956

The Carolina Forum will strive toward a more "bipartisan" representation next year, said newly elected Vice-Chairman David Reid yesterday.

"Unfortunately the Forum has had many more Democrats (all but two) this year," Reid said. Reid indicated that complaints about unfair representation have been received.

Explanation of the seemingly Democratic tendencies of the Forum lies in the fact that although more invitations were sent to Republicans, more Democrats responded favorably, according to Reid.

Reid said he hoped the Forum would regain the importance it once had. "Important speeches" used to be made here and the new Forum would "like to recreate that" atmosphere, said Reid.

The Forum hopes to get a more varied slate of speakers next year, Reid said. "We hope to get some writers, educators and historians," he said. He also said the Forum would avoid "bottlenecks where two or more speakers are scheduled for the same month." Also, no late spring speakers will be scheduled, he added.
