House Passes Bill Giving Trustees Power To Float Bonds For Building Dorms

Ideas To Be Given On Dorms

Jack Hudson, chairman of the Interdormitory Council's Dorm Improvements Committee and member of the student Legislature, will go before the Council on Student Affairs today to present student ideas and suggestions concerning new dormitories.

Hudson has been gathering students' ideas and opinions on the possible type and facilities of the dorms which would be built if the North Carolina General Assembly passes the bill now before it authorizing the Board of Trustees to issue bonds to raise money for new dorms.

Among the possibilities which Hudson has mentioned concerning the new dorms are a men's dorm in the area of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, another large men's dorm like Cobb, a women's dorm built in the area between McIver and Alderman, a women's dorm in Battle Park and a permanent residence for married students built behind Victory Village.

Soundproof rooms, floors made of rubber or asphalt tile, fluorescent lighting, built-in desks and social rooms for the individual floors of a new men's dorm were among the suggestions Hudson has mentioned concerning the facilities of the new dorms.

Yacks Ready

1955 Yackety Yacks will be distributed today from 1 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Students may pick the annuals up at the rear outside window of the Rendezvous Room in Graham Memorial — down the steps behind the student union building.

According to Editors Jackie Park and Cornell Wright, no Yacks will be distributed after tonight.

Covering The Campus

Dr. Roland Cross, former education worker in Peking, China, and recently of the Far Eastern Committee of the National Council of Churches, will speak on "The Situation in the Far East as it Confronts the Christian Movement There" tomorrow at 12:45 p.m. in the front dining room on the second floor of Lenoir Hall.

Students have been invited to go through the line and take their trays to the second floor of Lenoir to hear Dr. Cross speak at the luncheon meeting.

Dr. Cross is speaking under the auspices of the China colleges. Local arrangements have been made by Rev. Richard Jackson and Rev. R. J. McMullen.

Professor Alfred T. Brauer will speak on "Solved and Unsolved" (See COVERING, page 4)

Mangum Award Winner

Charles Kuralt, winner of the Mangum Award in oratory in annual contest here, is shown above, both cameras swinging. Kuralt, immediate past editor of The Daily Tar Heel, spoke at Mangum Award competition on "The Sonic Solution." Kuralt, who was a national winner in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest while he was in high school, started broadcasting long before. While at UNC he has been a member of the Golden Fleece, Order of the Grail, and Order of the Old Well. The Mangum Award, a gold medal, is awarded to the member of the senior class judged best orator. It is the University's oldest award, founded in 1878 by Misses Martha Person and Mary Mangum in memory of their father, Willie P. Mangum, member of the class of 1815. The contest is annually sponsored by the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Assembly—Powledge Photo.

Rhodes Grants Applications Available Here

Elections to Rhodes Scholarships will be held in December of this year, and scholars-elect will enter the University of Oxford in October of 1956, according to Dean C. P. Spruill.

Dean Spruill said yesterday all students interested in applying for a Rhodes Scholarship should see him in 303 South Building.

The requirements for eligibility are the following: applicant must be a male citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried; applicant must be between the ages of 19 and 25 on October 1, 1956; applicant must have at least junior standing by the time of application at some recognized degree-granting college or university in the United States.

A candidate may apply either in the state in which he resides or in the state in which he may have received at least two years of his college education. Applications must be in the hands of the secretary of the state committee by November 1, 1955.

The value of a Rhodes Scholarship is 600 pounds. Scholars who qualify under the GI Bill of Rights or other military educational funds will receive the same benefits at Oxford as at an American university. Appointment to a Rhodes Scholarship is made for two years in the first instance with a possible third year if the scholar's record at Oxford and plan of study warrant such. No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar's choice of studies.

Copies of the Memorandum of Regulations and application blanks may be obtained from Dean Spruill.

Bonds Would Be Paid In Increased Rentals

RALEIGH, May 18—The House of Representatives today passed and sent to the Senate a bill allowing six state-supported colleges to finance construction of new dormitories through revenue bonds.

The bonds would be paid off through increases in dormitory rentals.

Schools which would be allowed to float bond issues include the three branches of the Consolidated University, East Carolina College, West Carolina College and Appalachian State Teachers College.

The revenue bill would allow University trustees "at one time or from time to time" to issue "Revenue bonds of the board for the purpose of acquiring or constructing any project or projects."

"Projects" refers to one or more dormitories, with or without dining facilities, and "enlargements or improvements thereof or additions thereto . . . together with the necessary land and equipment."

Bonds for the University at Chapel Hill, according to the bill, may not exceed two million dollars.

If the bill is passed, it will allow the Board of Trustees to "increase the rentals for the facilities furnished by any existing dormitories . . . to provide, to the extent necessary, additional funds to liquidate in full any revenue bonds issued under this act."

Legislature May Get Negro Bill

Will the student Legislature get a resolution tonight calling for the admittance of Negroes as undergraduates?

This is a question for which there was no answer yesterday. Various rumors have been associated with the resolution, but there have been no concrete details given.

According to Jim Holmes, Student Party member who was reported to be the introducer, the measure will "probably" be put on the floor. But Holmes would not pinpoint his answer to a yes or a no.

He did say the resolution had the support of "several people," and that those people were members of the SP.

After the hint from Holmes that the proposal would have the backing of most of the SP members, another source high in the party was consulted.

This member, who requested that he remain unidentified, but that his statement be attributed to a "highly informed source," said he was completely "opposed" to the measure.

"The SP support will not be altogether united on this matter," he went on to add in loud tones. Another member, Bob Harrington, was just as outspoken in his opposition to the proposed introduction.

"I feel this resolution, although it has great worth, would in the long run prove to be detrimental to the best interests of UNC," said Harrington, because it "might have bad effect on this University's dealings with the state Legislature . . . in relation to financial matters."

According to Harrington, he is going to do all in his "power" to keep the resolution from being put up to a vote.

If the measure does hit the legislative agenda, the question of passage will lie in the hands of the University Party.

bonds issued under this act."

A University official said yesterday he felt the bill would cause a small raise in dormitory rents. Dorm rent raise recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission, however, would amount to much more than these under the present bill.

Phi Kap Combo Jazzes Up Carnival

A combo from Phi Kappa social fraternity, above, livened up the University Club's annual Spring Carnival, held this week, with its music. They played at the bingo booth sponsored by the Phi Kaps and Chi Omega. The booth entered by Chi Phi and Pi Beta Phi won the award for the best display for the Carnival. The display, entitled "Flush-Flush," consisted of participants "flushing" a coed down a slide by ringing a "plumber's friend" with cardboard toilet seats. The winner of the Theta Chi "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest was announced at the Carnival as Oscar Eckhoff, senior from Charlotte.—Henley Photo.

Reading Day Unlikely Before Spring Exams

It appeared unlikely yesterday that the student Legislature's resolution calling for a reading day before examinations will be considered by the University administration before next September.

Charles Bernard, assistant director of admissions and chairman of the University Calendar Committee, said yesterday that the committee, to which the Legislature's resolution would be referred, will have no more regular meetings before the end of school. He added that if a special committee meeting were to be called to discuss certain matters pertaining to the calendar the group would certainly consider the resolution.

Bernard said a special committee meeting is unlikely due to the fact that the members, the deans of all University schools, are very busy at this time.

Jack Stevens, vice-president of the student body and speaker of the Legislature, yesterday said he has discussed the matter with Bernard and would present the resolution to the Calendar Committee if a special meeting is held.

According to Bernard, the Calendar Committee considered the idea of a reading day last year. He said the members decided at that time that an additional day for examinations would be more profitable than a reading day.

Bierck, Long, Mason Get Ford Foundation Grants

Three University faculty members have received Ford Foundation Fellowship Grants for the coming school year. They are Harold A. Bierck Jr., associate professor of Latin American history; Eugene R. Long, associate professor of psychology; and Wilton Mason, associate professor of music.

Prof. Bierck has been granted a faculty fellowship by the Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Foundation and will begin his year's leave next September.

For the first three months he will remain here to examine through reading and consultation the validity of applying the methodologies of the social sciences to the teaching of Latin-American history.

In January he and Mrs. Bierck and their two sons will go to the University of Texas in Austin where he will pursue a further course of study to prepare a draft outline for an analytical-narrative course in Latin-American history. (See FORD, page 4)

Naval ROTC Unit Awards Sixteen Medals, Trophies

Sixteen medals and trophies have been awarded by the Naval ROTC unit here for excellence in the various fields of military study, drill and leadership for this academic year.

The awards were presented by Colonel R. C. Burns, USMC, commanding officer of the UNC unit.

Awards were presented to the following midshipmen: Professor of Naval Science Award was given to Stephen A. Trimble, Washington, D. C., for contributing most to the welfare of the unit.

Karl L. Barkley, Raleigh, received the Best Drilled Company Award for company leadership in inter-company drill competition.

Samuel H. Helms, Charlotte, was given the Best Drilled Platoon Award for platoon leadership in inter-platoon competition.

James R. Turner, Winston-Salem, received the Cutter Award for contributions toward the printing of the unit newspaper, The Carolina Cutter.

Stephen A. Trimble, Washington, D. C., was given the Drill Team Medal for outstanding service and leadership as commander of the unit's Crack Drill Team.

Loren A. Brandt, Charleston, S. C., received the Rifle Marksman Medal for the highest average score with the rifle in competition.

The John Bishop Marksman Medal was awarded to Gordon B. Hall Jr., Syracuse, N. Y., for the highest average score with the rifle in competition as a third classman.

Philip I. Goodman, New Orleans, La., received the Pistol Marksman Medal for the highest average score with the pistol in competition.

The Navigation Medal was awarded to Freeman A. Grant Jr., Bethesda, Md., for the highest academic average in the navigation course.

The Supply Corps Medal was awarded to Gerald R. Daughtridge, Rocky Mount, for the highest academic average in the supply corps course.

Loren A. Brandt, Charleston, S. C. received the Marine Science Medal for the highest academic average in the marine science course.

Facilities Lacking At Howell Hall

GREENSBORO, May 18 (AP) — Due to the lack of physical facilities, only two out of every five students applying to enter the School of Pharmacy at the University of North Carolina can be admitted, according to school Dean E. A. Brecht.

"This is true despite the fact that an acute shortage of Pharmacists continues throughout the state," he told the 75th annual convention of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Assn. here.

"It was a keen disappointment that the General Assembly again found it impossible to appropriate funds for a larger building for the school," he said.

The association ended its Diamond Jubilee Convention last night with a floor show and dance. New officers were elected and installed during the final business session yesterday.

Last One Saturday

Saturday morning's issue of The Daily Tar Heel will be the last for this academic year.

Deadline for the Saturday edition, like all other days, will be at 2:30 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

Harris Wins Key In B.A.

Harvey Max Harris, senior in the School of Business Administration from Garysburg, was awarded the annual scholarship key presented by the Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, at its awards night dinner held last night.

Harris has made the highest scholastic average in the School of Business Administration during his four years of undergraduate study. An accounting major, he is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and will receive his BS degree in June.

Dr. Claude S. George of the Business Administration faculty, advisor to Delta Sigma Pi, made the scholarship presentation.

Fraternity awards were also presented to Louie Bonardi, Durham, for being the most active member; Earl Haynes, Salisbury, for showing the most improvement during the past year; and Charles Hyatt, Waynesville, for excellence as professional committee chairman.

The Ordnance and Gunnery Medal was awarded to Gordon B. Hall Jr., Syracuse, N. Y., for the highest academic average in the ordnance and gunnery course.

The Best All-Round Freshman Medal was awarded to Henry J. Sommer Jr., Aberdeen, Md., for outstanding academic, leadership and service qualities demonstrated as a freshman.

Alfred L. Purrington II, Raleigh, received the Regular U. S. Naval Institute Award for having demonstrated exceptional interest in professional, literary and scientific knowledge in the Navy.

The Associate U. S. Naval Institute Award was awarded to Edwin O. Ayscye Jr., Monroe, for having demonstrated exceptional interest in professional, literary and scientific knowledge in the Navy.

McLendon G. Morris, Oxford, was awarded Marine Corps Assn. Award for having demonstrated outstanding leadership and scholastic achievement in marine science.
