Behind South Building Desk:

Smiling Mrs. Harrer Finds Job Exciting

By JOAN McLEAN

If you've been to South Building since you came to Carolina and needed any information while you were there, then you've met Mrs. Gustave Harrer, the cheerful, gray-haired woman behind the lobby desk.

Mrs. Harrer is qualified for her job as Information Secretary - she came to Chapel Hill in 1915 from Princeton, N. J., and has held her position in South Building for the past 10 years. She says she removed the "Information" sign on her desk recently. "It was silly to have one because people are bound to know that's why I'm sitting

When asked her greatest thrill, Mrs. Harrer replied, "When you've lived as long as I have, you've had lots of them. It's hard to pick one out, but I do remember 15 months my husband and I spent in Europe during the scholastic year 1922-23." The late Mr. Harrer, former chairman of the Classics Dept., was there on a Kenan professorship. "Now I have four grandchildren. When they appear, it's always a thrill."

Mrs. Harrer has two sons and two daughters, who live in Chpel Hill. Marcella is assistant director of the Placement Office; Tish, the other daughter, is a junior transfer here from Woman's College.

Between the hurricanes last summer, Mrs. Harrer vacationed at Holmes Beach, Now, back home again, she enjoys "all sorts of handwork, such as hooking rugs, knitting, crocheting and puttering around in my garden." In her younger days, Mrs. Harrer liked to sing, as an amateur.
