

Yankees Confident After Tying Series

Tar Heels Show Punch

Byrne To Hurl In Series Final

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—"We're home and we're confident," boomed Casey Stengel today, throwing down the gauntlet to the Brooklyn Dodgers for the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

"We'll pitch Tommy Byrne," the wrinkled Yankee pilot added over the din of a celebrant dressing room. "After all, he pitched the best game for us here."

"Better than Whitey Ford?" somebody corrected. "I didn't say that," Casey put in tartly. "I can't go with Ford tomorrow. I mean Byrne has pitched the best of anybody up to date."

Ford, finishing his first World Series game in five starts, set the Dodgers down with four hits to knot the series at three games each.

"I thought he pitched beautiful ball," Casey said. "He had his curve working well and he was throwing in that fast ball at just the right time."

"He didn't have any scary moments but I wasn't taking any chances. We decided to win this game if we had to throw every pitcher on our roster at them."

"That hit by Skowron in the first inning (Bill Skowron's three-run homer) was just what the doctor ordered. But we had no intention of losing that lead."

Stengel said he kept Bob Turley, Don Larsen and Tom Morgan throwing in the bullpen, just in case Ford would falter.

Stengel said the only time he became uneasy was in the seventh when the Dodgers got Sandy Amoros and Junior Gilliam on base with two out.

"Then Joe Collins made a fine play to force Gilliam at second," Casey added. "It was a big out for us."

Stengel said he probably would not make too many changes in his lineup with the Dodgers pitching Johnny Podres.

"I think our lefthanders can hit him as well as our righthanders," he added. "I'll use Hank Bauer again if he feels okay, probably Bob Cerv in center and Elston Howard in left. I may have Bill Skowron at first base."

The cotton-topped Ford was the center of attraction in the Yankee's cocky dressing room. "This is the first game I've ina boring, drab affair, said he did not know what kind of a pitch he smote.

"You know me," he added. "I just wound up and took a wild swing."

Bauer, who started the game, said he was able to run pretty well on his injured thigh but that he felt something snap again.

"But I'll be okay," he said. "Don't worry. I'll be in there tomorrow."

Billy Martin, the Yankees controversial second baseman, said the Dodgers were lost in Yankee Stadium.

"They don't look like the same ball club in Yankee Stadium, a real ball park," Billy said. "They have to have those short leftfield fences for their righthand batting power. 'I think we've got 'em on the run.'"

Stengel was asked if he thought the Dodgers, now even and without their ace outfielder and away from home, looked as if they might be getting panicky.

"It didn't come soon enough," replied Casey wryly. "That guy stayed healthy too long."

SATURDAY'S GAME:

Coach George Barclay's Tar Heels showed a fine offensive ground attack Saturday afternoon in Raleigh as they won their first game of the 1955 football season. The Tar Heels moved the ball through the middle of the North Carolina State line, and around the ends throughout the game.

The Tar Heels picked up 284 yards rushing during the game. Ken Keller, Don Lear, Ed Sutton, Dave Reed, and Buddy Sasser cut the biggest chunks out of the State line in the 25-16 Carolina win.

The Tar Heels were expected to pass a lot during the game, but they went to the air only twice. Both were thrown in the first half and both were incomplete. State, however, took full use of its talented chunkers and passed the Carolina defense dizzy during the last half.

State had the Tar Heels on the ropes for a while, but then Carolina came back to score the clinching touchdown during the final period. State found a definite weakness in Carolina's pass defense, and exploited it to the best advantage. Quarterback Ed West was firing passes with machine-like precision.

GEORGIA IS PASSING TEAM

Georgia, the Tar Heel opponent for next Saturday, is primarily a passing team with quarterback Jimmy Harper the strong-armed tosser. Harper was rated one of the Southeastern conference's top signal-callers during the pre-season ratings, and has verified this rating in the Georgia games to date.

The Bulldogs ran into a hot Clemson team last Saturday and were thoroughly thrashed 26-7. Clemson was really up for the game, however, since they had not defeated Georgia in 25 years. It's a cinch that Wally Butts' squad will be fired up for the Tar Heels and ready to throw the ball around.

ODDS AND ENDS

Will Frye certainly has solved any punting problems the Tar Heels might have had at the beginning of the year. The senior end punted for a 37.5 average against Oklahoma and booted the ball at an average of 41.4 yards per punt against State Saturday. Frye set up the first Tar Heel score against State with a punt that rolled dead on the two yard line. On the first play from there Jack Maulsby blocked a State punt and Frye fell on the ball in the end zone.

The Carolina fullbacks finally got a chance to run the ball against State. Against Oklahoma the power backs moved the ball one time for three yards. Against State big Don Lear was a big gun, ripping up fifty-one yards in six carries. Giles Gace, another fullback, picked up seven yards in two carries.

Long runs brought a lot of thrills during Saturday's contest. Reed gave the crowd the biggest thrill with his 83 yard jaunt for a touchdown on a punt return. Sophomore Howard Williams broke away for a 45 yard burst over tackle on one of his two opportunities. Sasser worked a beautiful option play for forty yards in the first quarter. Keller went for nineteen yards once, and Lear broke loose for 14 and 15 yard carries. State moved the ball around the Carolina ends effectively, with Christy and Hunter picking up good yardage.

Carolina stopped the Wolfpack through the middle of the line. Almost every time the Pack tried to go through the Tar Heel center, either Bill Koman, Don Lear, or Jim Jones was there to stop the play.

Snider Hurts Knee

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Yankees took the role of killjoys for the day. They not only ruined the afternoon for the Dodgers, but for the 64,022 fans who came hoping to see a contest. After the first inning the only doubt was when the game would end, not how.

The Yankees really won by foul means. In the first inning they must have set a record for fouling off pitches until they either walked or found one they really liked, then—being Karl Spooner's control was either bad, or too good.

It's obvious now both teams are homers, and can't win except in their own parks. They should play the seventh game on a neutral field to give both an even chance. As it is, the Yankees seem to be a cinch.

The only thing that popped for the Dodgers all afternoon was Duke Snider's left knee. On the basis of his first appearance at the plate he seemed due for a futile day. Whitey Ford had him chasing pitches all over the place.

Yogi Berra's hit scoring the first Yankee run was a ground creeper which had Spooner and second baseman Junior Gilliam waving at it like it was a limited passing through a tank town. Looked like it might have been had, as they say.

Fencing Team Meets

The UNC fencing team will hold its first meeting and practice session this afternoon from 3:30 until 5:30 at the fencing strip outside Woollen Gym.

Coach Barrow appeals to all interested persons, experienced or otherwise, to attend. Several positions are open in all three weapons—foil, epee and sabre.

Barrow, who is presently drawing up the fall schedule, urges everyone with an interest in fencing to attend the session.

Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, the nation's most important institution for the development of atomic weapons, is interested in interviewing young graduate engineers and scientists—particularly those wanting to help in the development of the atomic age.

In addition to its continuing and ever expanding achievement in nuclear weapons research, the Laboratory is now pioneering in the fascinating fields of nuclear power and nuclear propulsion.

At the Laboratory, staff members have the opportunity of associating with leaders in research and experimentation... of working with some of the Western World's finest equipment and facilities... of winning recognition... of achieving advancement commensurate with ability.

If you would like more information about the Laboratory's career opportunities which are not still scarce... about the delightful climate and area in which Los Alamos is located,
