

WEATHER
...ness and cold today,
...ed high of 54. See
...er story this page.

The Daily Tar Heel

OPINION

Student opinion is considered by the editors on page 2.

NO. 43

Complete (P) Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1955

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

Legislature Approves Bill Appropriating Dorms $500 to Repair Television Sets

Meeting Attended By Only Scant Majority

By NEIL BASS

With seat after barren seat staring out at the representatives transacting business, the student Legislature passed a bill last night giving dormitories $500 to repair and maintain television sets.

The bill calling for the institution of a bi-partisan selection board to pick candidates for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel was referred back to committee.

The University Party had 10 out of 28 legislators absent and the Student Party had 5 out of 21 absent from the session. One UP seat is vacant at this time.

Speaker Jack Stevens chastized the two parties verbally for their poor representation. He acknowledged that the Yackety Yack beauty contest was probably the reason for some of the absences, but reminded the legislators that legislative meetings were supposed to take precedence over all others.

The bill setting up a contingency fund for the maintenance of dormitory television sets was passed without debate, as were measures calling for:

(1) The extension of thanks from student government to the Central Office of Records for accepting the responsibility of computing dormitory scholastic averages at the end of each year.

(2) The payment of $60 for a debt incurred by the Carolina branch of the National Student Association with the Yackety Yack for a page in last year's annual.

A bill asking the Legislature to give the Campus Recreation Coordination Council $20 evoked a slight ripple of objection. And Jim Exum (UP) amended the bill cutting the figure down to $10. It was then passed nearly unanimously.

A bill "to insure order and stability in student government finances" by making each organization receiving appropriation get the approval of the student body treasurer before spending any money, and prohibiting said organization from spending any more money than the amount originally allotted, was tabled by the body. The bill, in all probability, will come up for discussion again at next Thursday night's meeting.

The most discussion of the night was aroused by the introduction of a bill calling for the establishment of a committee to "rewrite" the student Constitution. The bill was introduced out of Ways and Means Committee by Chairman Jim Exum.

Exum said that the Constitution as it presently stands is full of "ambiguities" and bad "phrasing." "The Board of Trustees," he said "will never approve it as it is." The Constitution has never been officially sanctioned by the Board of Trustees.

Most of the legislators seemed to agree with Exum, but disagreed as to the method of revision. Jim Holmes (SP) voiced the opinion that the calling together of such a committee might not be consistent with the amendment stipulation stated in the present Constitution. The bill was then tabled after Larry McElroy, SP floorleader, amended it by striking out the word "rewrite," and adding the words "to suggest amendments" to the present Constitution.

In the only appointment approval action of the night, the Legislature okayed the naming by President Don Fowler of John Barringer to the Student Audit Board.

Fowler Says Storage Lot Is Best Answer

By JAMES NICHOLS

Don Fowler, president of the student body, said yesterday the "strongest possibility" of easing the campus parking problem is the establishment of an off-campus storage and parking lot.

His comment was in reference to a report released yesterday by Layton McCurdy, chairman of the Student Traffic Committee, which contained the committee's recommendations for facilitating student parking on campus.

The report read, "The committee is definitely opposed to any restriction of student ownership of cars. This would be a destructive blow to 'Carolina tradition.'"

The committee recommended enlarging and improving the parking lot between Venable Hall and Raleigh Road and opening the area to student cars, and building a circular driveway for parking in the

(See AUTOS, page 4)

Cooler Air Hits Town; Rise Slated

It feels as though Old Man Winter has finally decided to arrive in Chapel Hill.

The temperature has been dropping steadily for the past few days, and is supposed to reach freezing tonight, according to the weather man at the Raleigh-Durham Weather Bureau. He said the reason for the cold weather was a cold air mass that moved down from Canada.

The mass contained temperatures as low as 9 degrees, but gradually warmed up as it moved across land, he said.

According to the weather man, the temperature in the mountains is expected to reach the low 20s and in the Piedmont the low 30s tonight. The weather bureau predicts, along with all the cold weather, that temperatures will rise Saturday, and will continue to rise through Sunday.

For students going to Norfolk to the Oyster Bowl, the weather prediction is for warmer and clearing weather.

The weather last year this time was very much the same as for this year, except it is a day behind, according to the weather bureau. The weather for Nov. 3 last year was the same as the prediction for Nov. 4 of this year.

UNC Drill Team To Leave For Norfolk Game

The UNC Navy ROTC crack drill team will fly to Norfolk, Va., today for Oyster Bowl ceremonies.

During the stay in Norfolk, the drill team will march in the Oyster Bowl Parade, participate in pre-game ceremonies and perform between halves of the UNC-USC football game. The group will return to Chapel Hill Sunday Morning.

Capt. G.F. Good III USMC drill team adviser, and MSgt. W.H. Lanier USMC, assistant adviser, will accompany the group to Norfolk.

Local Banker To Speak At Law Meeting

William Cherry, Chapel Hill banker, will speak tonight at the Law School's Manning Hall in Room 306.

Pete Gernes, head of the Law School Assn. Speaker's Committee, which is sponsoring the speech, said Cherry will speak on the subject "Banking and Check Clearing." The discussion will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Yackety Yack Beauty Queen Anne Wrenn

Miss Anne Wrenn, chosen Yackety Yack beauty queen out of more than 90 coeds last night, is shown in two of the dozens of pictures taken of her. Miss Wrenn and her court will be featured in the 1956 Yackety Yack beauty section. A picture of Miss Wrenn and her court will be published tomorrow. (Henley Photos)

CHOSEN FROM 93:

Miss Anne Wrenn Chosen 1956 Yack Contest Queen

"I just can't believe it," said Miss Anne Wrenn, senior Tri-Delt from Greensboro, after she had been chosen as the 1956 Yackety Yack Beauty Contest Queen.

Miss Wrenn, sponsored by Kappa Sigma, and the 14 members of her court, were selected by Judges Bob Cox, local clothier; Dr. James E. King, University History Dept.; and Miss Lib Moore, secretary to the dean of women. Emceeding the show was Jimmy Capps, WPTF (Raleigh) disc jockey.

Members of Miss Wrenn's court are as follows:

Misses Meredith Stringfield, Sally Price, Diana Ashley, Nancy McFadden, Nancy Shuford, Joan Brown, Joan Willsey, Sylvia Tarantino, Janet Johnson, Gwen Heinen, Eleanor Riggins, Sally Edger.

ton, Dottie Wood, and Harriette Watson.

Two intermissions were held during the contest. Entertainment was provided by some UNC students. George Hamilton, guitar folk singer, and Cecil Hartzoe, pianist, entertained during the first intermission, and a St. Anthony Hall vocal group known as the "Thirsty Thirteen" entertained for the second.

SAYS WUS OFFICIAL:

Campus Chest Funds Headed Across World

A major portion of the funds raised in UNC's Campus Chest drive will go to the World University Service, an organization formed to aid students in 38 countries, according to a WUS official.

Jack Gleason, WUS regional director for the Southeast, described the work of his organization in four major categories: Student health, lodging and living, educational equipment and individual scholarships.

Gleason said "Our major objectives are in Asia right now. This is a program of mutual assistance." Gleason at Carolina yesterday to help promotional plans for the drive believes students in the United States have an excellent opportunity to learn about the problems of their fellow students in foreign countries. "This program is a tool for understanding the problems of international students," he said.

World University Service is sponsored jointly by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations at American universities, National Newman Club Federation, United States National Student Assoc., United Student Christian Council and the National Assoc. of International Relations Clubs.

"Most of the money and effort that the WUS expends goes to people who will be able to help themselves in the future as a result of the WUS aid," Gleason said in a discussion with the Campus Chest Committee yesterday.

"The WUS acts as a pump primer in getting students, universities and even laborers started in helping themselves."

blems of their fellow students in foreign countries. "This program is a tool for understanding the problems of international students," he said.

World University Service is sponsored jointly by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations at American universities, National Newman Club Federation, United States National Student Assoc., United Student Christian Council and the National Assoc. of International Relations Clubs.

"Most of the money and effort that the WUS expends goes to people who will be able to help themselves in the future as a result of the WUS aid," Gleason said in a discussion with the Campus Chest Committee yesterday.

"The WUS acts as a pump primer in getting students, universities and even laborers started in helping themselves."

TOWARDS UNIFYING CAMPUS:

Group Starts Coordination Work

By MARY ACKERMAN

The newly-formed Coordinating Committee, composed of representatives from each student government organization, met for the first time this week.

"The unification and coordination of campus organizations is the goal of the committee," Chairman Miss Joan Palmer said the group. "The purpose of this meeting is to discuss this problem and begin work on solutions to it."

Student body President Don Fowler opened the meeting by endorsing the new group. "The purpose of this Coordinating Committee is very good," he said. "To achieve any purpose in student government, there must be coordination. Through this coordinating body we hope to raise student government to a more mature and responsible level."

BIG NEED

Student union Director Jim Wallace then stated what he termed the major problem with which the committee must deal to achieve its goal. "There is a definite need for such coordination," he said. "Our student government is becoming a peripheral organization and is in grave danger of losing the central positions that it should have on campus."

"Student government and student union organizations occupy a much less than central position in the minds and lives of the average students, even though there are a larger number of students in student government and more money is being used for it than ever before," Wallace continued.

"There are two reasons for this; one is precisely the larger body of students that are to be coordinated, and second is the fact that campus organizations and groups have differentiated into component parts—into separate schools and individual groups that have little or no connections with each other."

REAL PURPOSE

"Unaware of the real purposes of the student union and the student government, the student doesn't realize the benefits provided for him by them," Wallace said. "The central problem lies in the failure of getting to the students the real knowledge of what the union is doing for them. It is the problem of communicating successfully with the student," he added.

Report from each organization representative stating the purpose and officers of the organization followed.

Miss Palmer opened a discussion on organizational coordination with a statement outlining the two major problems. "A new student union building, one located in the center of the campus, and large enough to provide adequately for the needs of the growing body, is needed," she said.

"How to successfully communicate with the students and promote their interest and enthusiasm in the student union constitutes the second problem," Chairman Palmer said.

SUBSTITUTION

Comments and suggestion from committee members followed. According to Jerry Martin, National Student Assn. representative, students have substituted other things for primary consideration in place of student union activities without realizing it. "Such things as the Cobb Dorm social room, the Monogram Club and the fraternities and sororities tend to let students forget the purpose and potentialities of the student union," he said.

In connection with communicating with the students, Louis Brumfield said, "The presence of a Daily Tar Heel staff member at all meetings of all organizations to which the reporter was regularly assigned would do much to promote communication."

Miss Palmer said she hoped each representative would discuss the problems with his organization and bring further suggestions and plans to the next meeting. "We realize what is to be done," she said. "Now we must find a way to do it."

The Coordinating Committee will meet monthly in GM.

NROTC Rifle Team Defeated By Duke Men

UNC's National NROTC champion Rifle Team was edged out by 882 to 878 in a match Wednesday with Duke University on the rifle range in the UNC Naval Armory.

The UNC team was leading by one point going into the final round when Duke's team captain, Mid'n Bob Burnham, fired match high individual score of 184 out of a possible 200. Mid'n Don Kentopp and Mid'n D. C. Johnson tied for top honors for the UNC team, with scores of 177.

The match was the first shoulder-to-shoulder match for both teams in the 1955-56 season.

The UNC team won the Secretary of the Navy Trophy in 1953 and 1955. This trophy is awarded annually to the top rifle team in the 52 NROTC units across the country.

Wednesday's match was under the direction of MSgt. W. H. Lanier, UNC coach, with Duke Coach TSgt. D. E. Brodigan assisting.

JOHN MOTLEY MOREHEAD AND HIS PLANETARIUM

...going to work until he's 95

ON THE JOB:

John Motley Morehead 85th Anniversary

FRED POWLEDGE

John Motley Morehead, the city's controversial friend, celebrated his 85th birthday yesterday.

Man who built the Morehead planetarium, gives Morehead scholarships and is now giving a massive sundial for the city, was reached by telephone yesterday.

Morehead said he and close friends planned a party at his home last night to celebrate his birthday. "I've been feeling pretty good," he said.

Morehead said he plans to taper off his activities now that he's 85, and replied:

"I'm going to stay on the job as long as I can." Many of these old men, he said, "they take up too much of my time, and don't want to do with their work."

On the job and you'll hear," he advised. Morehead said he plans to visit to Chapel Hill sometime between now and Christmas.

Morehead created the John Motley Morehead Foundation four years later gave the planetarium to the University. The planetarium is actually located in the Planetarium Building, and part galleries in addition to the planetarium.

One of his great love for the planetarium, says a biographer of Morehead, "he is proud of himself, his good friends and his friends everywhere to make this University the best university in the world."

Morehead created the John Motley Morehead Foundation four years later gave the planetarium to the University. The planetarium is actually located in the Planetarium Building, and part galleries in addition to the planetarium.

One of his great love for the planetarium, says a biographer of Morehead, "he is proud of himself, his good friends and his friends everywhere to make this University the best university in the world."

Morehead created the John Motley Morehead Foundation four years later gave the planetarium to the University. The planetarium is actually located in the Planetarium Building, and part galleries in addition to the planetarium.

One of his great love for the planetarium, says a biographer of Morehead, "he is proud of himself, his good friends and his friends everywhere to make this University the best university in the world."

IDC Talks Election, Tie Racks, Socials

Three items came up for discussion at the Interdormitory Council meeting Wednesday night. The first was the matter of post-game social functions sponsored by the council after all home games.

President Lewis Brumfield termed the dance held last Saturday afternoon in Cobb dorm's basement as highly "successful," and announced that a similar social had been planned after the Notre Dame game.

Brumfield announced as the second item for discussion the acquisition of tie racks and towel racks for each dormitory. The council had been working on the project since last year. Now according to an announcement from J.S. Bennett, director of operations, the racks will be installed in the near future.

ELECTION DAY

The third item which was talked over at the meeting was the forthcoming election day. Bill McLean, Election Board chairman, told the dormitory presidents and IDC representatives it would be their responsibility to conduct balloting in their respective dormitories.

The council will meet again Wednesday night, Nov. 16. The council's Executive Committee will meet next Wednesday night in the IDC office in New East Annex.