Spanish Dancer Luisillo Was Bullfighter; Here Thursday

Luisillo, star and choreographer of the Spanish revue, "Ballet Espanol," will be presented in Memorial Hall Thursday at 8 p.m., by the Chapel Hill Concert Series. One dollar and $2 tickets are now on sale at the Graham Memorial information desk and will be on sale at the door Thursday night.

Luisillo began his performing career as a bullfighter in his native Mexico and is still an ardent fan of the sport, though he gave up the ring and switched to dancing at the age of 14. Into the finale of the Ballet Espanol he has choreographed a mock bullfight which takes place in a Flamenco Cafe.

ALIKE

Dancing and bullfighting, according to Luisillo, although rarely thought of as alike, actually tax the performer in the same way, both demanding that the artist be agile, light on his feet and have a capacity for hard physical work.

To Americans who believe bullfighting to be a dangerous and cruel sport, Luisillo says, "In Spain, it is considered more sporting to fight with an animal than to put two physically fine males against each other and watch them pummel one another into grogginess."

This and the fact that in bullfighting there is always the chance that human life is at stake are why boxing, wrestling and even football have never been as popular in Spain, adds Luisillo.

Bullfighting, according to Luisillo, is not only an art — and a tremendous one — but a Spanish sport which has been written about far back as 238 B.C. Of the "Ballet Espanol," Luisillo is a star — brilliant, but not had so good in many a season.

Miss Boyce's Musicale Slated Tomorrow Night

The fourth Petite Musicale of this semester will be presented tomorrow night in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial at 8 p.m. Miss Beth Boyce, pianist-composer from Fort Bragg, will present the program.

Miss Boyce early developed a deep interest in music and at the age of 5, played her first compositions which were in the form of impromptu fantasias on nursery rhymes. Since that time, she has written a number of musical compositions including 59 works for piano, a woodwind quartet and a modern choral piece set in the Gregorian style.

In addition to this, Miss Boyce, a high school senior, maintains an A average and teaches piano to eight students.

Her latest work, done this past summer, is written for a symphony orchestra and is called by Miss Boyce a "Finger Painting" on the spiritual cycles of man. She presented a reading of her finger painting to Messrs. Alden, Newman, and Slocum of the University Music Dept. and as a result the UNC Symphony Orchestra will read her composition this year.
