UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA'S STRING GROUP:

Quartet Used Precision & Unity

Tuesday night the Alabama University String Quartet combined perfect precision and unity with fine individual playing to make its performance in Hill Hall a memorable one. The quartet performed the fourth concert of the Tuesday Evening Series, sponsored by the UNC Music Dept.

The quartet's splendid performance was enthusiastically applauded. Members of the quartet are Director Ottokar Cadek, first violin; Miss Jerrie Cadek, second violin; Henry Barrett, viola, and Miss Margaret Cristy, violoncello. The program of chamber music included three classic selections of marked contrast and beauty.

Mozart's romantic and graceful "Quartet in G Major" opened the concert. The quartet performed each of its four movements, "Allegro," "Minuetto: Allegro," "Adante Cantabile" and "Molto Allegro" with superb shading of expression and well-balanced blending of tone.

What's In A Name? Ask Hare

Robert Phillip Hare IV, who lives at the Phi Gam house, was upset yesterday.

It seems that Robert Phillip Hare IV got a ribbing from professors and friends when The Daily Tar Heel reported that Robert Phillip Hare, 20, had been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Robert Phillip Hare IV didn't want people to think he had been arrested, because he hadn't.

So: Robert Phillip Hare, 20, was arrested, according to local police.

Robert Phillip Hare IV was not arrested. He just got caught by a trick of coincidence.

Teress and Luisillo, stars and co-directors of the show, formed the company in Paris five years ago. They have since toured the capital cities of the world.

The program will include 10 numbers, each with sets depicting a dramatic scene or tableau. The grand finale of the production is set in a Flamenco cafe and features a mock bullfight. Luisillo, who executes the dance, began his career as a bullfighter.
