

ATHER
oday, with expected

The Daily Tar Heel

CHANGES
The editors look at the President turnover. See page 2.

NO. 74

Complete (P) Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1956

Offices In Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

es. Fowler Says Speaker's Job Expedite Bills

NEIL BASS
Don Fowler had some yesterday for Legisla- Jack Stevens.

board to endorse candidates for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel. (2) A bill creating a constitutional revisional commission "to suggest amendments" to the present Constitution.

OBJECTIONS

Fowler's primary objection to the bipartisan board bill was that it "takes the selection out of the student body's hands."

His objection to the Constitution revision bill was that it "contained no date stipulation."

The two bills were passed by the student Legislature on Nov. 10. Fowler contended that Stevens didn't put the bills on his desk until Nov. 21, one day later than the time limit stipulated in the student Constitution for presidential veto action.

When Fowler said he considered his veto good until ruled otherwise, the case was referred to the Student Council. The council then ruled Fowler's veto "null and void" because he declared it one day later than the Constitution's 10-day limit.

Fowler didn't blame the council for its action, however. He said: "It was the law. They (the council) had to do what they did."

Regarding Stevens' delivery delay of the bills, Fowler said: "I think I should have as much as eight or nine days to look over the measures to find out facts not understood."

In connection with the whole business, Fowler had a suggestion which he said might establish more correlation between the executive and legislative branches of student government.

"I think it would be an excellent idea for the executive to have a representative who might attend Legislature and committee meetings and inform the president of actions so as to help him formulate opinions on the various bills."

He said the whole veto controversy might not have arisen if such an idea had been proposed earlier.

ard Jones Talk On Middle East

Shepard Jones, Burton professor in the Political Science, will speak at the Middle East luncheon meeting of the Club at the Carolina on Tuesday.

Jones recently spent two weeks in the American Embassy in Jordan and extensively in the Middle East previously he was a lecturer at Harvard University and the School of Law and

er, Rock tonight's Movie

body Seen My Gal?" free movie, sponsored by the Memorial Activstars Piper Laurie and on, and is a comedy in the Roaring Twenties. The movie will be shown in Car-day night, "Up Front," movie of the fall season. The movie "Ewell, who was feathe Broadway produc- Mr. Roberts" and "Tea-

the August Moon."

New Acting President At Work

William C. Friday, the Consolidated University's brand new acting president, was at work as usual yesterday. He won't take over the acting president's duties until Dr. J. Harris Purks, presently in that office, leaves the University to become director of the State Board of Higher Education. Wednesday Dr. Purks resigned from the University position and was appointed to the new job. Friday was chosen by the UNC Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees as acting president. (Henley Photo)

Career Ready For Senior Males Today

Free copies of Career, an annual guide to business opportunities, will be distributed to senior men in arts and sciences, business administration and journalism today in 211 Gardner Hall.

Career is a detailed presentation of career opportunities for college-trained men. It features material on top companies, advice on employment and editorial by well-known persons.

The largest part of Career is devoted to short write-ups introducing each company and listing contacts for students wanting to learn more about each company. The companies listed are in the fields of aviation, banking and finance, chemistry and pharmaceuticals, commercial services, communications, electricity and electronics, general manufacturing, heavy manufacturing, heating and ventilation, insurance, merchandising and research development.

Career will be distributed to 1956 graduates of some 600 colleges and to placement directors. It is published annually by Career Publications Inc.

Foreign Students Are Feted Over Holidays

Foreign students who remained on the campus during the Christmas holidays were entertained in the homes of Chapel Hill residents.

There are approximately 60 foreign students attending the University. Many of them are from far away countries and were not able to return home for Christmas. But a few fortunate ones did make the trip.

The foreign students who remained were widely scattered. Some visited friends and relatives throughout the United States. In New York, California and Florida.

Of the 60 foreign students attending the University, 12 stayed in Chapel Hill during the holidays. They were given a supper Wednesday night before Christmas by Mrs. Kirsten Milbrath at her home. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Riebel, Oakwood Dr., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Hayman, Oakwood Dr., each had several of the foreign students at their homes for Christmas dinner.

Other festivities held for those who remained for Christmas were given by individual faculty members of the departments in which the foreign students are enrolled.

Two foreign students, along with American UNC students, attended the Christian mission conference at Athens, Ohio, during the Christmas holidays.

DAVIS, TV DIRECTOR AT WC, AND STATION MANAGER GAINES KELLEY OF WFMV-TV, WHO PRESENTED EQUIPMENT

ation of operational for WUNC-TV's W-

16 mm TV film projectors, one multiplexer, a mixing console and 19 tubes for the iconoscope chain were included in the gift. One projector will be placed in WUNC-TV's central projection room, located in the channel transmitter building on Terrace Mountain in Chatham County, 10 miles southwest of Chapel Hill. The rest of the equipment will be installed in the Greensboro studios of WUNC-TV, on the Woman's College campus. David M. Davis, director of TV at Woman's College, accepted the equipment from WFMV-TV Manager Gaines Kelley at a brief ceremony. Davis said the gift will help iron out operational problems, make for more continuity in programs and provide protection in case present equipment breaks down. The projectors and iconoscope camera chain, (See TV, page 4.)

On New State Board: Purks Pledges His Dedication To Job

By FRED POWLEDGE

Dr. J. Harris Purks has pledged "to the people of North Carolina a dedication to the business which is expected" of him as director of the State Board of Higher Education.

Dr. Purks Wednesday resigned as acting president of the Consolidated University to accept the $16,000-a-year position with the board of higher education.

Pointing out "I was happier, in my position as provost, than I have ever been in any administrative position in higher education," Dr. Purks indicated that he may be more pleased than ever with the new job.

FOCUS

"In many respects, the position I shall shortly assume is similar in nature to the specifications of provost," he said. "In particular, this is so because of its focus upon educational planning and development, without the accompanying constraints of management of a wide variety of operations which are only remotely related to education."

Dr. Purks, a 54-year-old Georgian, was University provost before President Gordon Gray left to become an assistant secretary of defense last summer and Purks was named acting president.

"Education is my business," Dr. Purks said. "It is, I think, a business that the people of this state want to be promoted. I pledge to the people of North Carolina a dedication to the business which is expected of me."

He will assume the new position near the first of March. Named by the University Trustees' Executive Committee to replace Purks as acting president was William C. (Bill) Friday, 35, presently secretary of the Consolidated University. Friday will serve until the Board of Trustees selects a new president.

Dr. Purks paid high tribute to former President Gray and new Acting President Friday.

Of Gray, he said: "My own personal and professional loyalty to Gordon Gray persists, and will do so throughout the years."

"He is, in my opinion, one of those rare individuals whose sense of dedication takes precedence over all personal objectives."

FRIDAY

Dr. Purks paid high tribute to "has the respect and confidence of the people of North Carolina and that he will ably interpret to the people of this state the ideals, the tradition and the essence of the mission of the University."

He said "I look forward with pleasure to a close association with Dr. Charles Carroll, who is in my opinion, one of the ablest superintendents of public instruction in the nation."

Dr. Purks termed the Consolidated University, whose operation—along with operations of the state's other institutions of higher learning—he will supervise as part of his new job, as "one of the distinguished universities of the nation."

"Its strength throughout two or three decades has derived from a distinguished faculty and from a traditional belief of the people of this state in the efficacy of higher education at its best."

"North Carolina has built up, throughout the years," he said, "a reputation for leadership in things educational. I have no doubt that in the difficult years immediately ahead, North Carolina, on the state-wide basis, will once again provide unmistakable evidence of its traditional commitment, and that no transient constraints will sway this state from its position in the sun with respect to education."

BY DUKE PROFESSOR:

Zionist Support Held 'Tragedy'

A Duke University divinity professor said last night America's "support of Zionists and a Zionist state has resulted in a political tragedy for the United States."

Such support, said Dr. W. F. Stinespring, has lost for the U.S. "the friendship and support of 40 million Arabs, who formerly admired us above all nations."

"Worse still," he declared, "this policy is about to deliver the Arab world into the arms of the Communist, and this will be a worse tragedy than the loss of China, because Arab territory is closer and the Arabs have a large portion of the world's supply of oil."

Dr. Stinespring spoke here on the Arab-Israeli dispute under sponsorship of the International Relations Council. He gave a "Christian scholar's interpretation" of the events and conflicts between Arab and Israeli forces in the Middle East—conflicts which may lead to another war between the two areas.

Next Thursday night, at 7:30 in the Library Assembly Room, Zionist organizer and Rabbi Louis Tuchman of Durham will speak on the other side of the question. The public has been invited to the discussion.

Dr. Stinespring said "the establishment of the Zionist state is a tragedy for the Zionists themselves and for all Jews—a tragedy for the Zionists because they have earned the undying hatred of 40 million surrounding Arabs."

"This hatred will probably go on for generations and in the end result in the destruction of the Zionist state and the expulsion of the Zionists," he said, "in a way similar to what happened to the Crusaders."

He declared Zionism "is a tragedy for the Arab natives of Palestine and for the surrounding Arab nations" because of the "nearly a million" Arab refugees "living under unbelievable conditions of misery and squalor."

Hodges Sees No Move To Deconsolidate

HALEIGH, Jan. 5 (AP) — Gov. Hodges said today that changes approved yesterday in top positions of the University of North Carolina had "nothing to do with" possible deconsolidation of the University's three branches.

Dr. J. Harris Purks, acting president, was elected Wednesday as director of the State Board of Higher Education. William C. Friday, University secretary, was named acting president while the search continues for a new president.

Hodges said the appointment of a director of higher education "could, theoretically, reduce the size of the job" of University president. However, he added, "I don't think for some time to come it would make any difference in the duties of the president."

Last Of Series This Semester:

William Newman To Present Piano Recital Next Tuesday

Dr. William S. Newman, chairman of piano instruction of the University Music Dept. will give a piano recital Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall.

The public has been invited to attend the recital, which is the final program of the Tuesday evening Concert Series for the fall semester.

Dr. Newman, now in his tenth year as a member of the UNC music faculty, has appeared frequently in Chapel Hill in solo recitals and as guest soloist with the University Symphony Orchestra. He has given concerts throughout the southeastern United States, and his tours have included most of the major cities in the nation. Included in Tuesday's recital will be Bach's "Second Partita in C Minor," Schumann's "Phantasic in C Major, op. 17," Ravel's three pieces entitled "Gaspard de la nuit," and a sonata by William Klenz.

Klenz, well-known as a cellist on the Duke Faculty, composer and conductor of chamber groups, is currently completing his doctoral studies at UNC. Dr. Newman will also give recitals during January in Greensboro, Elkin and Fayetteville. He will repeat the same program in engagements in other states in April.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

- Miss Emily L. Robeson, Miss Eugenia A. Melvin, Miss Harriet J. Horne, Miss Elizabeth J. Porter, Albert R. Cowan, Walter K. Griffin, Richard P. Pierce, William R. Cooper, William H. Holmes, Robert K. Yawell, Walter G. Fulcher, Dana E. A. Quade, Jackie R. Lineberger, Kenneth A. Studstill, Cecil F. Garrett, Donald C. Dowdy, Quinn A. Berger, Joseph L. Hardegger, Nolan D. Baird, Ethan C. Tolman, Thomas L. Hutchins, Leroy B. Attaway Jr., Douglas O. Malone, Robert B. Midgette, Ted G. West and Jerry E. Smith.

Van Hecke Prexy Of Law Group

M. T. Van Hecke, Kenan Professor of law in the UNC Law School, has been named as president of the Assn. of American Law Schools for 1956 at the close of the assn.'s annual three-day meeting.

During the past year, he has served as president-elect and also as a member of the executiv committee.

Van Hecke received his education from Beloit College and the University of Chicago and first became a member of the UNC law faculty in 1921. He left two years later and returned in 1928. He served as dean of the Law School from 1931-41.

Van Hecke, in addition to having taught at several colleges including Yale, the University of Chicago, and Northwestern, has also served three periods of government service. From 1941-44 he was a member of the U.S. board of Legal Examiners; from 1942-45 he served as chairman of the Southern Regional War Labor Board, and as chairman of the President's Commission on Migratory Labor during 1950-51.

In 1922 he helped establish the North Carolina Law Review by serving as its faculty editor and has been a frequent contributor to it and other legal periodicals.

Lotsa Colds, But No Facts

There is apparently a slight over-prevalence of the common cold on campus since the holidays.

Students are sniffing all over the campus community, and the Infirmity list is a trifling large. A University infirmity doctor refused to comment, however on the number of students who have been treated since the end of the Christmas holidays. He said he couldn't release any information without putting it through channels, and getting the approval of the infirmity director.