Editors Of The Daily Tar Heel To Face Recall Election This Month; New Group For Better Student Government Is Born

Nance & Reid Not Debating

E. L. (Junior) Nance, who began the circulation of the petition to recall the editors of The Daily Tar Heel, and Atty. Gen. Dave Reid have refused to participate in a debate with Daily Tar Heel Editors Louis Kraar and Ed Yoder on the editorial policies of The Daily Tar Heel.

Nance and Reid were invited to participate in a panel discussion by the newly-organized Council for Better Student Government on the question of whether or not the editorials of the student newspaper should reflect majority student opinion.

Kraar and Yoder told Council Chairman Richard Fowler they would participate in the discussion. Reid later told Fowler he would participate if Nance wanted him to.

Chairman Fowler then received a letter from Nance refusing to participate. Nance said his petition had nothing to do with student politics and he did not want his petition to have any connections with any person associated with student politics.

Nance said the suggested topic for discussion did not relate to the principal purpose of his petition. He said his contention was that the editors of The Daily Tar Heel had exceeded the limits of expression that he felt they possess in their present position. He said he believed there have been instances when a little "common sense" would have told the editors they were grossly misrepresenting the overall views of the student body. (See REFUSE, page 8.)

recall election for editors is scheduled in next two weeks

Editorial Policies Are Cited

The student body will vote "within two weeks" on whether to recall Editors Louis Kraar and Ed Yoder of The Daily Tar Heel.

President Don Fowler said the election, brought about by a petition circulated during examination period, will be held "within two weeks after return for second semester." Fowler's statement came in a letter to Yoder and Kraar, advising them of the coming election.

More reports on the recall situation appear on Page 6.

COUNCIL

Meanwhile, a newly-organized Council for Better Student Government will meet tonight in an effort to organize and make plans for the immediate future, according to Chairman Richard Fowler.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 p. m. in the Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial for representatives of campus organizations interested in the preservation of a free campus newspaper and in the deterioration of student government. Fowler said.

After the petition was circulated, it was presented to President Fowler. Fowler said he checked the 700 names on the petition and found everything in order. He then checked the validity of the petition with the Student Council, he said.

TO RUN

Editors Kraar and Yoder have announced they will both run for re-election when the election is held. No other candidates have officially entered the race as yet. It was earlier expected that Stan Shaw, Bill Formyduvall and Lewis Brumfield would enter the race for editor. Shaw was the only one who commented on the matter.

"Although I often disagree with the present editors of The Daily Tar Heel, I believe they have carried out the promises they made to the student body prior to their election last spring. In view of this fact, I can see no logical reason for replacing them," Shaw said yesterday.

TRUST IN

The newly-organized council is presently circulating a petition of trust in the present Daily Tar Heel editors. It states, "That the petition now being circulated for a recall election and the possible expulsion of The Daily Tar Heel editors is a mistake, that both students are very qualified for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel, and beneath this petition is a lack of respect for independence of thought and speech."

Chairman Richard Fowler said he did not know exactly how many names have been obtained on the petition so far. The petition can not stop the recall election, but it will enable students with

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:
Miss Nancy Jayne Kappagan-tula Lakshmi, Jerry Z. Bryson, Douglas O. Malone, William R. Ball, Phillip B. Mauldin, Gilmer White, William O. Brogden, John N. Hunt, Edward S. Kirk, Robert A. Farmer and Marvin G. Scoggin.

Candidate Seen For Paper Job

Apparently one candidate has been ruled out and one candidate has announced definite intention of running in the spring election for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel.

The candidate reportedly ruled out due to academic difficulties is Bill Formyduvall, editor of the Summer School Weekly last summer.

The candidate who has apparently announced definite intention of running is Tom Lambeth, currently Publications Board chairman.

Deconsolidation Under Inspection

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 1.—A statement by the chairman of the newly-created State Board of Higher Education today that the Consolidated University of North Carolina might be broken down into three separate institutions, each with its own president, by the 1957 General Assembly.

D. Hiden Ramsey, chairman of the board which recently named Acting University President Harris Purks as its director, said here yesterday that the organization planned to make a recommendation to the next General Assembly on whether consolidation should be continued.

Ramsey said, however, that the matter had not been discussed by the group. He added, "It is a question that will take a lot of study."

Ramsey commented that individuals and some newspapers in the state have called for an end to consolidation because many of the duties of the Consolidated University office have been taken over by the Board of Higher Education, which was created by the 1955 Legislature.

It would be wise to make a decision on deconsolidation, according to Ramsey, while the post of president of the University is still vacant. Gordon Gray resigned as president last fall.

Harris Purks was appointed acting president, but he will leave that post about March 1 to assume his new duties with the Board of Higher Education. University Secretary Bill Friday has been named to replace Purks as acting president.

Start Back With The Books

That's what Roy Peele and Miss Mary McDonald are doing. The new semester started yesterday, and students should be getting last semester's grade reports in a few days. You'd better start worrying about that first quiz. (Henley Photo.)

MISSES USUAL SLUMP:

Spring Enrollment To Remain About 6,500

Enrollment for the spring semester will not take the ordinary seasonal decline.

Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong said mid-year graduations and drop-outs may be offset by an increase in the number of new students and former students returning to Chapel Hill.

Enrollment last fall was 6,575 students.

Registration was held Monday and Tuesday, and spring semester classes began yesterday.

Director Armstrong said there will be approximately 150 new undergraduates and about 100 former undergraduates returning to the University. The normal decrease due to graduation and those departing for other reasons numbers about 250.

In the Graduate School, graduations and new enrollments will mean that total numbers of graduate students will be approximately 900, according to A. K. King, who is in charge of admissions for the graduate school.

Dr. Henry W. Clark said there will be little change in enrollment in the Division of Health Affairs, the medical, dentistry, public health and pharmacy students remaining about the same as in September—around 1,000 students.

Director of Admissions Armstrong said the deadline for registration will be Feb. 8. Students who have been accepted for admission must register by that date.
