Liberties Under Pat Malin Speaks Tomorrow

Murphy Malin, executive director of the American Liberties Union, will speak on "The Present State of Liberties" at the Parish House of the Chapel Hill Episcopal Church at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The meeting is sponsored by the Chapel Hill Ministerial Assn. The Rev. Maurice Kidder, president of the Assn., will preside.

Following the public meeting, persons interested in the formation of a North Carolina Unit of the ACLU will be invited to remain to discuss the question with Malin.

Malin, who was born in Joplin, Mo., in 1903, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1924 with a B.S. degree in Economics. He has done graduate work at Columbia University in the field of economics.

For 20 years Malin was a member of the Economics Dept. at Swarthmore College, near Philadelphia. He was on leave from 1940 until 1947, serving most of the time as vice-director of the Inter-governmental Committee on Refugees, with headquarters in London.

In 1950 he became the executive director of the ACLU, with headquarters in New York City.

FRIENDS
Malin was vice-chairman of the American Friends Service Committee from 1936 until 1938, and president of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education from 1939 until 1943.

He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, a member of the Board of the American Branch of the International Social Service, and treasurer of the American Friends of Toynbee Hall (the Universities' Settlement in East London).

He is a member of the Garrick Club in London, and, as a voter, he says he is an independent Democrat.

Malin is co-editor of America's Recovery Program and author of "The Refugee."

In the summer of 1954, Malin spent two months in England, Scotland, and Wales, lecturing on American civil liberties to business, labor, educational and professional groups. His trip was made at the invitation of Oxford University and the English-Speaking Union.

Tryouts Slated Monday
Tryouts for "Toast of the Cam-pus" will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Playmakers' Theatre.

Luther Hodges Jr. and Bob Garner, officers of CU Day festivities, and Bob Hicks, chairman of the GMAB Dance Committee have extended an invitation to all who wish to tryout.

Part of Symposium:
Gen. Carlos Romulo's Talks Planned On U.S. Citizenship

Two addresses in the general area of "American Citizenship" will be given by Charles P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States, March 15 and 16.

Dr. Alexander Heard, chairman of the Committee on Established Lectures, said Gen. Romulo's speeches will be incorporated with the Carolina Symposium on Public Affairs, a week-long "open forum on critical problems of our times."

The speeches Gen. Romulo will deliver are the Weil Lectures. During the symposium week, an "open forum on critical problems of our times," international, national and regional topics will be discussed by outstanding figures from such fields as education, labor, politics and foreign relations.

AFROTC Grads Get Commissions
Eight midyear graduates have received commissions in the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Program here. One of them, Kenneth M. Pruitt of Winston-Salem, is shown getting officer's bars from his wife, the former Miss Callie Mitchell. Commission ceremonies were held here this week.

N. C. Asks Nine States To Join On UNC Case

RALEIGH, Feb. 3—Nine other southern states have been asked to join North Carolina in an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court to reverse its segregation decision which let three Negroes enter UNC.

State Atty. Gen. William B. Rodman revealed he has asked attorneys general of Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Texas to seek to intervene as friends of the court. Only Florida has replied. That state said it will not be able to take part because the attorney general is preparing an appeal from a similar case in Florida.

AFFIRM
Attorneys for the three students in the action have asked the Supreme Court to affirm the lower court decision without hearing arguments on the appeal.

Thursday Governor Hodges announced North Carolina's next general assembly may be asked to adopt a resolution of "strong resentment" over the U. S. Supreme Court's "unjustified usurpation of power" by its school segregation decisions.

FINALE
Saturday's finale, "The Moor's Pavane," is expected to be one of the highlights of the program. The ballet, with choreography by Limon, won the Dance Magazine award for outstanding creation in the field of American modern dance.

The dance takes its theme from the basic plot of "Othello," which is completely within the form of the dance.

Other dances to be offered by Limon and his troupe include "Symphony for Strings," "The Antagonists," "Interlude for Angelica" and "Night Spell."

BSU Retreat Is Planned For Weekend
The Baptist Student Union will hold its annual Winter Retreat at Camp New Hope this weekend, according to President Daniel Vann.

The retreat will be devoted mainly to an evaluation of BSU activities. Also on the program will be a study group under the direction of Rev. James O. Cansler. Dr. Preston Epps, Kenan Professor of Greek, will be the speaker Sunday afternoon.

Cars will leave from the Baptist Church at 1 p.m. today. Students who wish to attend and have not made the necessary arrangements should contact the BSU office at the Baptist Church immediately, said Vann.

Art Forum Production Is Tonight

GREENSBORO, Feb. 3—"Theater in the Dance," a dance production staged by Jose Limon and starring Pauline Koner, will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in Ayeock Auditorium on the Woman's College campus.

The program, open to members of the Lecture Entertainment Series, will be held in conjunction with the Arts Festival held each year by Woman's College students.

Candidate Appears; Bob Ratcliff Is Said To Be 'Interested' In Job

Bob Ratcliff, a junior from Reidsville, is "definitely interested in running for editor of The Daily Tar Heel against the present editors, Louis Kraar and Ed Yoder, in the recall election to be held Feb. 14.

Ratcliff's possible candidacy was announced yesterday after a meeting of "some 20 leaders from both political parties and many students who heretofore have taken no active part in campus government" who met to urge Ratcliff to run for editor.

The names of the persons at the meeting were not disclosed.

Ratcliff, a veteran, is majoring in comparative literature and returned to the University this year from service in Korea where he edited an Army newspaper, The Police Action.

Ratcliff, who says he has never taken an active part in any campus political party, has not definitely announced his candidacy for editor, but he is "definitely interested," according to persons who attended the meeting.

Fowler And Reid Level On Hauser

By CHARLIE JOHNSON
President Don Fowler and Atty. Gen. Dave Reid lashed back at Chuck Hauser yesterday in a reply to a statement made by Hauser that they were trying to gain control of The Daily Tar Heel.

Hauser, a special student in arts and sciences who has seen service both as co-editor and as managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel, made his statement at a meeting of the Council for Better Student Government held Thursday. Hauser lashed back, in turn, at Fowler's and Reid's statements by saying their claim to neutrality in the recall election is "ridiculous."

FOWLER
Fowler's statement said: "As regards to the charges made by Chuck Hauser at the meeting last night, I feel I should make my position known once again.

"The petitions for the recall of the editors of The Daily Tar Heel were handed to me by E. L. (Junior) Nance Wednesday, Jan. 18. Under the provisions of the student Constitution, I had no alternative but to examine the petitions and determine if they were in good order.

"Since, to my knowledge, these are the first petitions of this kind ever to be circulated, I requested the Student Council to rule on the validity of the petitions. The Student Council found them to be in good order.

"With this ruling the matter has been taken out of my hands, and there is no alternative other than to honor the petitions and call for the elections to be held. I did not sign the petitions myself, or encourage anyone else to either sign or refuse to do so.

"In four years as a Carolina student, I have never seen such irresponsible and misinformed editorials published in The Daily Tar Heel. However, since these objections have been clouded by the issue of freedom of the press, and the bitter attacks upon Coach Tatum, any action that the students would take to oust the editors would be interpreted only to the Tatum attacks, and not to the real issues involved.

"The attack upon Coach Tatum is only one of many objections the student body has to the editors. Since this picture has been so clouded and distorted, I think that in the best interest of the University's reputation in the state and nation, the editors should be retained in office. After all, their term will be up in less than three months."

REID
Atty. Gen. Reid said: "It is indeed unfortunate that the editors have allowed outsiders such as the local newspaperman, Mr. Hauser, to lead their campaign to be retained in office.

"This election is a student matter that has already been misrepresented and misunderstood by outsiders such as Mr. Hauser who can only view the issues of this election from a distance.

"These insidious accusations of Hauser, aimed at the President and me, are typical of the muck-raking tactics of which apparent-Mr. Hauser is a past master.

"The charge that the executive branch of student government seeks to 'take over' The Daily Tar Heel is so obviously ridiculous that it is not worthy of dignifying with a denial. I sincerely hope this is the last instance of such ungentlemanly 'mud-slinging.'

"The student body deserves the right to decide this issue solely on the merits of the editors' past performance. Let's not allow the truth to be obscured by the vindictive imagination of those overly zealous partisans on either side.

"I personally intend to maintain as neutral a position as possible. (See LASH, page 4.)

Lambeth Not Candidate In Recall

Tom Lambeth, chairman of the Publications Board, said yesterday he is not a candidate for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel in the special recall election to be held Feb. 14.

He said "due to several speculative articles in The Daily Tar Heel in recent weeks, people have gained the impression that I will be a candidate to oppose the present editors of The Daily Tar Heel in the approaching recall election."

"(There was one speculative article in the newspaper concerning the possible candidates. The story said Lambeth had 'announced definite intention of running in the spring election for editorship...')

"I certainly will not be a candidate in the recall election," said Lambeth. "I have fortunately not been involved with either side in the present controversy. My position as chairman of the Publications Board, in which I should always represent the students as a whole and never any small group, indeed demands that I not be involved.

"As to any intention of being a candidate in the regular election in the spring," said Lambeth, "I feel that the time for such announcements is certainly many weeks away."

NOW AT PERSON HALL:
Institute Of Architects Show Features Interesting, New Ideas

By PEG HUMPHREY
Gracing the walls of Person Hall art gallery are photographs of 20th century buildings that would raise the eyebrows of Gothic and Classic devotees.

The annual North Carolina Chapter of the American Institute of Architects exhibit includes examples of business concerns, public buildings and residences.

A low, L-shaped home in Charlotte, which boasts a Merit Award, screams spaciousness although it actually covers a relatively small area. Exposed beams within, uncluttered lines and many picture windows aid in achieving this effect.

The roof is flat, and the simple compact home basks snugly within a woody setting. Butterfly chairs deck the terrace of concrete slabs. Furnishings within are low slung and dazzle in the rich simplicity.

An attempt to let nature come inside is strikingly obvious in the photographs of a house in Raleigh, the plans for which received a Merit Award and, also a gold seal of special commendation.

The shell-like roof resembles an airplane with a dent in the center.

The shell's double curved warped surface is composed of three layers of laminated wood which spans diagonally for 97 feet with a constant thickness of 2 1/4 inches. Another amazing feature of the structure is that it is only supported in two places.

Steel frame construction was used in the Williston Senior High School in Wilmington whose exterior walls are of red brick and cast stone. The window and door sashes gleam of aluminum.

The bold, sleek structure is topped by pre-cast concrete frames and poured-in-place gypsum.

Pictures of the Charlotte Auditorium and Coliseum colorfully emphasize the blue ceramic tile which glazes the roof of the Coliseum dome.

Beneath the tile, steel beams support the dome under which 10,000 spectators may view ice shows, athletic contests and other Charlotte attractions. The design of the auditorium resembles that of the United Nations Building, boasting huge picture windows and cantilevered staircases.

Contemporary innovations run rampant in a cafeteria and elementary unit in Jamestown, N.C. Exposed brick walls within classrooms, asphalt tiling, projected aluminum doors, metal exterior doors and a white finish on metal lath base ceilings are some of the features which coordinate effectively in the tidy educational institution.

IN THE INFIRMARY
Students in the infirmary yesterday included:
Mrs. Elizabeth A. Shoulers, Miss Vivian E. Arant, Miss Nancy Jayne, Miss Frances C. Alexander, Miss Sarah E. Guffey, Miss Kappagantula Lakshmi, Douglas O. Malone, Frederick E. Van Horn, William O. Brogden Jr., Talmace L. Jones, Jr., Robert L. West, William D. Ackerman III, Andrew J. Pollard, Russell C. Link, Raphael J. Salmon, Edward S. Jefferies Jr., Robert A. Farmer and Marvin G. Scoggins.
