Powledge

(Continued from page 1.) Tar Heel. 3. Making sure that the newspaper could be offered to the students at a price lower than the amount they now pay in student fees. 4. Asking the students' opinion on the matter, not in a rapidly-conducted poll, but in a campus referendum. "My stand on this issue has been misrepresented several times by other persons. However, the above statements comprise my total feelings about putting the newspaper on a subscription basis," Powledge said. "I would and could do nothing without the consent and approval of the student body and of student government. I merely want to investigate the situation and to report to the students on my findings," he said.

(Continued from page 1.) and enjoyed the privilege of an automobile. I would propose a restriction on the entering freshman class next fall," he said. AGAINST DESIRES "This is against my personal feelings and desires," Young stated, "but I feel that this may be most beneficial to the entire student body. Unless we use some foresight and present a concrete proposal," he said, "the Trustees have implied that they will restrict all General College students, which would penalize this year's freshmen."

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Salaries paid North Carolina teachers from State funds are in accordance with a uniform standard schedule based largely upon training and experience. Training is evidenced by the kind of State certificate the employee holds. Certificates, in turn are issued on the basis of credits earned in institutions of higher learning. Average salary paid classroom teachers from State funds was $3,114.07 in 1954-55. On a nine months basis, this was $346 per month. On a twelve months basis, the average monthly salary would be $259.50. Principals received an average annual salary of $5,041.06 from State funds.—State School Facts.

of Social Work. She taught at Alabama Woman's College immediately before coming to WC.

Seven previous award winners since 1949 have been Louise Brevarg Alexander, Woman's College; Robert Erwin Coker, Chapel Hill; Donald Benton Anderson, State College; Albert Coates, Chapel Hill; Howard Odum, Chapel Hill; Franklin H. McNutt, Woman's College; and Zeno Payne Metcalf, State College.

Among the special guests at last night's dinner were Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. O. Max Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gardner, all of Shelby.

In addition to the award ceremony, another feature of the dinner was presentation of a report on the Fourth State of the University Conference, of which Dr. Lyda Gordon Shivers of WC, was chairman. The report summarized the general conference findings under the general theme "Faculty Responsibility in Undergraduate Education."

Separate faculty sessions were held Wednesday on the campuses of the three University branches, and yesterday the faculty committees held a combined conference on matters of common concern. Summaries of the Wednesday sessions were made last night by C. Hugh Holman of UNC, Warren Ashby of WC, and Addison Hickman of State College.

Music for the dinner was by the UNC Men's Glee Club, directed by Joel Carter, and the WC College Choir, directed by Robert Morris.
