Attempt Made To Cripple Young's Campaign' Declares Chairman Norwood Bryan

CHARLIE SLOAN
 attempt was made Monday to "cripple" the campaign of the Student Party presidential candidate, according to SP Chairman Norwood Bryan. Bryan said the attempt came in the form of a "Vote for Bob Young, All American Boy," which was signed by the "Communist Party."

"I would just like to see that my campaign had absolutely nothing to do with this publicity. It was posted without my knowledge."

Bryan said that he would like to see that my campaign had absolutely nothing to do with this publicity. It was posted without my knowledge."

"I hope that all students who have come in contact with this will completely disregard it and vote on the basis of everything else that has been presented thus far," he said.

EXUM
 Jim Exum, University Party nominee, said Young's statement also expressed his part in the matter, adding that he urges everybody to forget it.

According to Exum and his campaign manager, John Curtis, the poster was a joke, and the only thing the students circulating the posters did not do to make the joke complete was to issue another poster saying, "Vote For Exum; A Dynamic Leader."

Exum And Young Vie For Prexy

Today is the day for Carolina gentlemen and coeds to decide. The biggest election of the school year is today and the decision to be made is whether Jim Exum, UP candidate, or Bob Young, SP nominee, will take over the reins of student government as next year's student body president.

In the campaign Young has said his "basic concern is to stimulate interest in student activities and to work with the administration in gaining any possible benefits for the student body."

Exum says if he is elected he plans "to regain the lost faith in student government by showing that with dynamic leadership, student government can be effective and successful in solving the major problems of the campus."

Daily Tar Heel Editorial Race Is Change From 1955's Election

Today will climax a busy week of campaigning for editorial candidates Tom Lambeth and Fred Powledge.

This year's election is a great change from the race last spring when the ballot carried only the names of co-editors Louis Kraar and Ed Yoder.

If comparisons must be drawn, the closest in current Daily Tar Heel history would be the election of two years ago, when Charlie Kuralt, a new-comer to the staff, beat veteran staffer Tom Peacock in what has been called the hottest race for the editorship in the paper's history.

The Kuralt-Peacock race followed another unopposed victory. Kuralt's predecessor, Rolfe Neill, had had no opposition.

Going back one more generation, to the spring elections of 1952, three candidates struggled for the editorship. In a hard-fought battle between, "staff endorsed and Student Party nominated" David Buckner, Barry Farber, "DTH columnist who is running as an independent," and Miss Beverley Baylor, "UP, a junior in the journalism school and associate editor of the paper," Farber won by an overwhelming majority.

Rolfe Neill, then Managing Editor, wrote in an elections wrap-up story, "Zany Barry Farber... swamped both his opponents." It was the first time in three years a candidate had won without a run-off. Neill also pointed out it was the third consecutive time that an independent had won the spring elections.

But these campaigns and editors are ancient history for The Daily Tar Heel. Who will be the next chief of the staff is a big question mark due for an answer when the votes are tallied tonight.

Regardless of the outcome, it will not be anything new and un- if at the last minute something new and unusual occurs.

In addition to Young, the Student Party slate of student body officer candidates includes Sonny Evans of Durham for vice president, Miss Jackie Aldridge of Winston-Salem for secretary and Andy Burnam of Cordele, Ga. for treasurer.

Exum's running mates include Jim Monteith of Sylva for vice president, Miss Sue Walker of Wilmington for secretary and John Kerr of Warrenton for treasurer.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISIONS: Vote For Amendments Will Change Judiciary

By NEIL BASS

Students who vote for constitutional amendments today will approve primarily a change in the judiciary branch of student government.

STUDENT-FACULTY COUNCIL
 The change calls for the creation of a new Student-Faculty Council which would have all appellate jurisdiction. That is to say, the present Student Council would only retain original jurisdiction in cases involving "constitutionality" of legislative and executive action and all cases involving a violation of the Campus Code.

All appellate jurisdiction, or jurisdiction over cases that have been appealed, would become the sole priority of the Student-Faculty Council.

The Council would be composed of the chairmen of the Men and Women's Honor Councils, the Student council chairman and three faculty members, one to serve as chairman.

Concurrent with the approval of the new judiciary changes, all specific rights of appeal would be stricken from the Constitution.

EXECUTIVE
 The only other change that approval of the amendments would make in the Constitution involves the executive branch.

It would make it imperative for the Legislature speaker to forward legislative acts to the student body president within three days after passage.

Then the president would be given ten days to deliberate on the act before vetoing or signing it.

COMMISSION
 The constitutional amendments came out of the Constitutional Revisional Commission, set-up by an act of the student Legislature.

The Legislature approved the amendments unanimously, and also signed a manifesto recommending them to the student body.

If the student body approves the amendments, the entire Constitution, as amended, will then be submitted to the Board of Trustees for official University sanction.

Final approval has been given to a scholarship to be given to the freshman self-help student with the highest academic average.

The scholarship, amounting to $200, will be awarded by student government, according to provisions of a bill passed by the student Legislature.

The bill, introduced by Larry McElroy, cites the need for "recognition" of outstanding academic achievement.

Noted Organist To Appear Today In Anniversary Rites

Alexander Schreiner, noted organist of the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, will be the guest performer today at a commemorative concert at 8 p.m. in Hill Music Hall.

The Schreiner concert will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of Hill Hall and the Reuter four-manual organ, which will be used in the performance.

With funds provided in 1930, the Andrew Carnegie Library, now Hill Hall, was remodeled, enlarged by the addition of the auditorium and equipped with the four-manual Reuter pipe organ for the use of the Dept. of Music.

Dr. Louis Round Wilson, long-time University leader, said that

"Through a constant series of recitals and concerts made possible by Hill Music Hall and the Dept. of Music, the University has brought the community and the state under the enriching and refining influence of music for the past quarter of a century."

"Consequently through the wise benefaction of Mr. and Mrs. Hill," Wilson said, "the University and the state possess better understanding and finer appreciation of music than they did a generation ago; and their cultural life," he said, "has experienced the deepening and enrichment which grow out of such understanding and appreciation." he said.

Either Way The Ball Bounces; 'Minister' Will Lead Students

However the political ball bounces in today's elections it's a sure bet that the campus next year will be in the "good hands of a minister."

Both of the candidates are thinking seriously of becoming ministers. Bob Young, candidate of the Student Party, is planning to be a Methodist minister, and Jim Exum, University Party candidate plans either to go into the Episcopal ministry or be a lawyer, but at present favors the ministry.

Exum was the organist in the St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Snow Hill before entering UNC, and Young was president of his Sunday School class and also a teacher in the Elkwood Methodist church in Asheville.
