

CHANCELLOR HOUSE SAYS:

Need More Study and Less Teaching

Chancellor Robert B. House advised "less teaching and more study" at a meeting of the Faculty and Undergraduate Education at a meeting of the State of the University Conference held here here.

One of the tasks of the University is to "preserve the Graduate school," the chancellor said. "It is the apple of the faculty eye and the seed bed of additional teachers we need" and "it is an inspiration to the freshmen to be in a place where wonderful things are going on," he continued.

House also said the field of free elective courses and the right of the "professor to operate with freedom" should be preserved by the University. Larger classes at good hours should also be provided to the freshmen and sophomore so they can take advantage of the "great lecturers" here at the University.

Chancellor House evaluates the present faculty as "one of the truly distinguished faculties in the university world." "It is the most distinguished faculty we are likely to have in the next few years because of the absolute national shortage of trained faculty personnel and the relatively declining resources in money," House said.

Chancellor House feels that the University worth its salt is

Village Day Care Center To Be Ready In 30 Days

The Victory Village Day Care and Community Center, gutted by a $10,000 fire last week, will be completely restored and may be ready for occupancy within 30 days.

Pete Gerns, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Victory Village Day Care Center, said State Fire Insurance Commission representatives came to Chapel Hill to survey the damage. They reported to Victory Village Manager P. L. Burch that rebuilding of the one-story frame building could be started as soon as the construction contracts can be approved. All of the building damage and most of the furnishings were covered by insurance.

Mr. Burch said he hoped the original contractor for the three-year old T-shaped structure would be able to do the job and start work by next week. "Quite possibly," he said, "the building will be ready for use within 30 days."

When rebuilt, the furnace room will be constructed as a separate structure apart from the main building. The blaze is known to have stemmed from the oil-fired automatic furnace, as did another fire in the building about two years ago.

Meanwhile, the nursery is being quartered in the University Methodist Church and Director Mrs. Guy M. Phillips and her staff have been tending approximately 40 pre-school age children there since the fire.

Students joined with the Fire Department in dousing the flames which were brought under control in about 20 minutes. Despite the choking smoke that filled the building, most of the furnishings in the front section were saved.

Mrs. Phillips praised the Fire Department and fast-working students who assisted in these operations.

Gerns said he wanted to thank everyone who helped. "Without their help, many students would not have been able to go back to school since many of the wives would have to stay home and mind the children instead of attending classes," he said.

Gerns said Chancellor Robert House has been most cooperative by granting him an interview to see what the University could do to help.

Students Are Helping In Church Expansion

Presbyterian students here are now participating in a final week's campaign to raise funds for expansion of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church.

The expansion, for which plans have been prepared, will cost an estimated $400,000. Two-thirds of the cost will be provided by the Synod of North Carolina and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States. Over half of the remainder has been raised by church members and friends here.

The students participating in the drive have been grouped into two dozen teams. They will call upon fellow Presbyterian students and ask them to buy "shares" in the new plans for the church.

The "shares" in which students will be asked to invest will represent $36. This amount represents a $1 a month payment for three years.

The student division of the fund workers held a "kick off" dinner last night at the Carolina Inn. Report meetings, which will be held in conjunction with the teams of church members, are scheduled for tonight and Friday night at 9:30 in the church.

Tom Ray is the student chairman of the work. Miss Diana Ashley, J. B. Howes, Dr. Dan A. Martin, B. M. Sessoms and Don A. Wells are the five division leaders of the students.

The teams' captains are, Miss Jane Cocks, Miss Sally Folger, Miss Susan Merrick, Miss Eleanor Rodgers, William Acker, Bob Olsen, Roland Perdue, Allan Vance, Robert Andrews, Dewey Dorsett, J. C. Morrow, George Ramseur, John Rogers, Clyde Alexander, Larry McIver, Sandy Moffett, Bill Moore, Bill Pender, Tom Cantieri, Holland McSwain, Gerry Mayo, Dan Southerland and Charles Stevens.

Expansion plans include a student wing for the church. The wing will contain a lounge with an adjacent music listening room, a library, a council room for study groups, a workshop and storeroom and small prayer room.

A large fellowship hall with adjoining kitchen and rooms for young adult classes and student suppers are also included in the plans.
